AUTO LIGHTS LAW, RECENTLY ENACTED, BRIEFLY EXPLAINED

Many motorists have misinterpreted the wording of the recent law enacted with reference to automotive lighting.

The new law permits the use of two spotlights two roadway lights, two side light, as well as headlights, courtesy lights and stop signals.

The law reads as follows:

Motor vehicles may be equipped with not to exceed two fixed or movable auxiliary lights, mounted below the level of the centers of the headlamps and between or attached to the springhorns.

"Motor vehicles may also be equipped with two side lights, but no more or less.

"Motor vehicles may be equipped with not to exceed two spotlights. Spotlights shall not be used in substitution of headlights."

You will note that this new ruling permits the use of all approved lighting units now so popular on automobiles. The Kay Bee Manufacturing company, one of the old line manufacturers of automotive lighting and signaling equipment, has the approval of the division of motor vehicles on all of their lights and signals, and, is assisting materially in bringing the lighting equipment on automobiles into a state of perfection never heretofore attained.

A Miracle of Cohesion

BY: OSCAR H. FERNBACH

When on the road, my peace it jars
To see the antiquated cars,
Held by some superhuman aids
From breaking then and there in two—
An extra wobble would disperse
Their parts throughout the universe;
But on the highway still they skim,
A menace to our life and limb!

Let's clear these relics from the track!
They have alone our nerves to wrack,
And here the day of doom and wrath
By going to pieces in our path—
They're much like many folks today
Who of all progress block the way,
Whose patent state (they plainly show it)
Is that they're dead but do not know it!

Senior—What will it cost me to have my car fixed?

Garage Man—What's the matter with it?

Senior—I don't know.

Garage Man—Fifty-two dollars and sixty cents.

Tom—What's your ambition in life?

Harry—To be so rich I can afford to walk.

NEW TRAFFIC LAWS PLANNED

Plans for the widening of Washington street, to create a great traffic artery from the east side industrial district to the beaches, were advanced when the referees appointed to fix damage awards for the widening of the street from Figueroa to Alameda street filed their report.

Under the Major Traffic Street Plan of the Traffic Commission, Washington street is to be widened to 100 feet from Figueroa street to connection with Mines avenue and Lorena street, on the east side of the river. The Los Angeles River will be crossed on a new bridge authorized under the 1926 bridge bond issue.

With this new artery in commission, traffic from the east side will be able to by-pass the downtown district, thus eliminating congestion and cutting the running time materially.

The cost of the section between Figueroa and Alameda streets will cost approximately $1,400,00 the referees reported. Dow Keith, deputy city attorney, who handled the proceedings, said the interlocutory decree should be filed in about two months.

As this project was initiated before the Major Traffic Street Plan was adopted, no funds were available for the payment of the land which will be done through assessments. The city, however has allocated money to help pay for the paving and construction, one of the major traffic bond issues.

Separate proceedings are under way for the section between Alameda street and Mines avenue. Estimated to cost $1,621,900, the city will pay, as its share, $241,908 out of the major traffic fund.

ACCURATE ESTIMATING

Keep Your Car In Mechanical Trim

Importance of the mechanical condition of cars operated on the street and highways was stressed in a recent address by S. J. Williams, Director of the Public Safety Division of the National Safety Council, according to the National Automobile Club. Ten points are enumerated by Williams for the reduction of accidents. They are:

1. Good mechinical condition of the car.
2. Good mechanical condition of other cars operated on the street
3. Streets in good condition.
4. Proper traffic control, signal lights, officers, signs, etc.
5. Proper traffic laws and regulations.
6. A driver's license law.
7. Education of drivers.
8. Education of the general public.
9. Law enforcement.
10. Accurate information on numbers, causes and location of accidents.

"Keep your car in good condition," declared Williams. "That means periodic inspection of the brakes, steering gear, tires and other vital points in the equipment. Drive safely at all times and obey the regulations.

"Many of the essentials for safety are primarily up to the City government. This includes keeping the streets in good condition, providing an up-to-date system of reporting and analyzing all street accidents."

Driving an automobile through water or mud so as to splash it on pedestrians is a common pastime with some motorists who have peculiar ideas of what constitutes a joke. It is a dangerous joke for the driver, who may have to pay some cleaning bills, and for the pedestrian, whose discomfiture may cause an accident. Avoid racing through mud puddles when pedestrians are near.

PATROLMAN ON THE JOB

It was early Sunday morning that one of Los Angeles' prominent colored citizens with a party of friends breezed through a boulevard stop at Washington and Vermont, unconsciously. Suddenly he heard the familiar whistle of a policeman and looking in the direction of the sound saw a handsome-looking uniformed officer beckon him to stop in a business like manner, which of course, he did.

Vision of a sixty-day sentence and a five hundred dollar fine appeared before the violator's mind as the officer politely inquired of the driver why he did not obey the boulevard sign to stop, and at the same time asked for the driver's operator's license, which was hastily produced.

"What about your license not in front?"

"Lost it," was the reply, "but have applied for another."

"Where is the receipt?"

"Murder! Let me see the registration card."

"That's home too."

"Well, I am sorry, but I guess I have to place all these charges on the ticket."

Finally, recovering from the unusual sight of being stopped by an officer, the driver started in to tell his side of a serious situation. The officer listened attentively. He carefully weighed the well-balanced argument and plea of the frightened driver and decided with a sharp reprimand that had more effect on the guilty than a ten-day jail sentence to let him go upon the promise that he would sin no more. Thanks, H. D. A.

DON'T ADJUST BRAKES WITH CAR ON JACKS

The practice of adjusting the brakes while the rear of the car is supported on jacks should be avoided as the car is not in its general running position. This condition is especially bad should one side of the car be jacked up higher than the other. The best method is to adjust the brakes on the road, with the car running under the most severe operating conditions which may be encountered.

CARE OF YOUR MOTOR LUBRICATION

The following information as regards motor lubrication is advanced by Albert L. Clough and is here printed for its value to the general motoring public.

Thanks to Harry Lavette on behalf of the auto public for steering the editor unto this valuable bit of news.

ADAPTING LUBRICATION TO WARM WEATHER

Heavier Bodied Lubricants Are Required Than in Winter

Motorists who own cars for whom their manufacturers recommend a change of lighter grade of engine oil during cold weather, should not neglect to "switch" back to the heavier grade as soon as freezing weather ceases. The recommendation to use light engine oil in winter is not made because it is inherently a better lubricant than medium (or in some instances) heavy oil, but rather because its use lessens cold weather starting difficulties and reduces the danger of lubrication shortcomings arising from the failure of very cold, thick oil to flow properly. The grade of oil recommended for summer or ordinary use is the grade regarded by the manufacturer as the most advantageous. Every car that has been kept in service during the winter, especially if its garage is unheated, has necessarily had to have the lubricant in its rear-axle and transmission housings sufficiently thinned so as to be capable of flowing and distributing properly over bearings and gears at the very low temperatures then prevailing. The addition of a suitable proportion of thin oil to the steam cylinder oil or gear compound in the housings s the usual method. With the advent of warm weather, this specially mixed lubricant becomes too thin to fully cushion gear action and to give the quickest operation and minimum rate of wear and moreover, its unnecessary fluidity causes it to escape rapidly from any slight leaks there may be around shafts or through joints in housings. At the end of cold weather this lubricant should be completely drawn off from transmission and rear-axle, their housin gsupplied with kerosine to the usual level, the car run with a jacked-up rear wheel for a minute or two to wash off stale lubricant and particles of solid matter, the kerosene completely drained off and the housings filled to the recommended level with steam cylinder oil or whatever grade or brand of lubricant the car manufacturer recommends. With a housing having no drain opening at its lowest point, but only a filling opening partway up the side, an oil gun with a curved suction tube is required. Service stations have powerful devices for this purpose and can do this work very speedily.

16 STATES GIVE GAS TAX BOOST

Sixteen states have increased their gasoline taxes since January this year, in amounts from one-half to two cents. It is estimated that the increased revenue will amount to approximately $38,000,000 as a result.

New Jersey voted a gasoline tax for the first time, starting with two cents. Illinois, New York and Massachusetts are the only states which do not have gas taxes at the present time.

COLORED CHAMPIONSHIP AUTO RACE

(By: A. N. P.)

Windsor, Ontario, June 10.—The Wolverine Speedway Association held its first International Colored Championship Auto Race at Devonshire Speedway here Monday. Rain the previous day prevented the track being in perfect condition through the remarkably fast time of 59 seconds flat for circling the 1¼ miles track was made by Cannonball Jones of Kansas City, Kansas, while qualifying according to the announcer. The fastest time made in the actual race was made by Barney Anderson driving a Kissel car whose time was 1 minute, 4 seconds.

A number of entries were listed, but only six cars qualified. Cars from Atlanta and Chicago arrived too late. Among the well-known drivers in the race were James Brooks, Detroit, president and organizer of the Wolverine Speedway Association; Jimmie Yost, Tulsa, Okla.; Will Carson, Chicago; Jack Jackson, Columbus; Cannonball Jones Kansas City, Kan.; Ted and Barney Anderson, Detroit..

Yosh's car crashed through a fence and was put out of commission after nine laps, driver escaping unhurt.

Barney Anderson was declared winner by the judges after 64 laps had been made, finishing four laps ahead of Brooks who won second money. Jackson finished third.

BLACK AMERICANS RIDE SANTA FE CHIEF

Always out for the best that money can buy, Black Americans making the trip across the continent, have been patronizing the Santa Fe's De Luxe excess fare train, the "Chief." They have been riding it heavy for the past two months; the Ten Dollars excess fare is like a match to those who ride, and they use the "Chief" like one would a street car. It is the same old story, "What's good for the Goose is Good for the Gander."

CHICAGO SPEEDS TRAFFIC

California motorists would be lost in the shuffle, if they undertook to drive their lizzies down Michigan Blvd. as slowly as they drive here. The traffic department in the Windy City requires one to step on the gas at the rate of 35 miles per hour. And they hardly ever fall under 40. You seldom hear of an accident on account of the increased speed. If you are going too slow, and a traffic cop gets behind you, he will most certainly tell you to shake a leg. Some speed!

SEGREGATION ON THE WEST SIDE

The many futile attempts of the white residents to keep the residential district bounded on the West by Arlington Ave., the South by 31st, the East by Western Ave. and the North by West Adams St., a pure lily white, continues to be an issue with the Race occupying homes in that vicinity. The grounds on which the different cases have been threshed out in court, so far have not been able to hold water, thanks to the able braths of one of our leading attorneys, Willis O. Tyler.

Just why the few white people should object to respectable Colored residents living in this neighborhood, has long been a puzzle to the writer. In as much as there are other races of a darker hue already located there, such as the Japanese, Spanish, Mexicans, Chinese, in fact any one of the different nationalities are far worse off than any of their colored neighbors. The Spanish families, many of them living in the garages in the rear of houses, poor as church mice. So far as the white residents are concerned, they are living in a hand-to-mouth condition, and would have sold out long ago if some get-rich-quick real estate agents had not told them that they could get at least three times the value of their homes by keeping the district lily white. The homes in this district are of a high class type. The lawns are well kept up and the general appearance of the neighborhood is such that the poor whites who are making their last stand are reluctant to give it up to the Black Americans. But the progressive Negro of today wants a decent place to live, and the motto he follows is, "What's good for the goose, is good for the gander!"

WHY PORTERS ON SANTA FE CAN GIVE GOOD SERVICE

This has long been a topic when under discussion that brings forth much argument pro and con—Can a hungry porter give good service? The answer is NO! The porter operating on the Union Pacific has to pay from 65 to 75 cents for his meals. The porters on the Golden State or the Southern Pacific transcontinental trains have to pay the same. The meals they receive for this cost are seldom got enough as they were here. Therefore he is naturally hungry, mean and sceptable—that's human nature. He cannot give the very best service that is in him, and the public deserves him. It is an abuse that enters the most under these circumstances, but in the long run (the corporation) must pay the bill by dissatisfied patrons. The motto of all railroads carrying the greatest business should be: "Feed the Porter for Good Service! The Santa Fe has long ago found that out, and their sleepers are always full, their patrons never have any complaint to make about the porters service, the Pullman Porters are the Road's Biggest Boosters. Ask the and see for yourself. I have heard porters state that they would rather deadhead on the Santa Fe than run in like the other roads. This should be up to the presidents of others roads. The Santa Fe feeds its Porters for 35 cents just about all they can eat. In the Harvey eating houses they are served in courses the same as the guests, with the second helping if asked for, ice cream for dessert—AND IT PAYS. Somebody needs to wake up. A HUNGRY PORTER CANNOT GIVE GOOD SERVICE!

There seems to be an epidemic at this particular time on the Commissary platform as to insurance agents soliciting business. There seems to be no reason why any of the boys should not get in on this as it is very much needed. School Board Blocked in Effort to Discriminate

Detroit, Mich., June 14.—Because of discriminatory tactics about to be employed by the officials of the High School of Commerce here in regards to a pleasure outing which was to have been given for the graduating class of that school the attention of the local branch of the N. A. A. C. P., known as the "trouble board," was called and the very prompt action of this organization halted proceedings forthwith.

It is said that all students were requested to put up $1.00 for the outing, which was done by the colored students as well as the others. A few days prior to the outing, one of the school officials is reported to have informed the colored students that they could not hope to go and that seventy-five cents of their money would be returned to them and they could remain at home. The students accepted the rebuff very graciously but reported immediately to Rev. R. L. Bradby, the fighting, efficient president of the local branch of the N. A. A. C. P., who got in touch with the principal of the school.

When told in plain words by Bradby that the colored students themselves did not refuse to go on the outing and that if there was any objection on the part of anyone else, the colored students would go just the same, and it would then become the duty of the school officials to let the object parties remain at home. The whole affair was called off, and the Negroes feel victorious.

On Thursday Mrs. Rascoe and Mrs. Carrol were guests in Whittier with Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Henderson.

EASTSIDE CITIZENS CALL CRIME HALT

CHINESE LOTTERY CROOKS ROUTED

The swiftness and dispatch in which Eastside citizens went after the brazen Orientals who had the temerity to seek to re-establish the nefarious Chinese Lottery in this section sent the Chinese to the tall timbers and it is to be hoped they will remain there for all time to come.

As chronicled in this paper, the lottery joints opened up in full blast on last Saturday, in even a more brazen manner than ever before. The Chinese writers would stand before their rendezvous and openly solicit passers by for the purchase of tickets to the drawing. On last Sunday on East Washington Street, Chinese peddlers of tickets were going from door to door seeking purchasers of their tickets.

Every vacant space on Central was sought for with fancy rents by the Chinese gamblers, for it is evident somebody had promised them they could go forth unmolested.

FORCES GET BUSY

Their dream for the unstitching of the dimes and nickels from the unsophisticated and credulous was, however, short lived, for the law abiding citizens rose up in righteous indignation, and sought out solutions for this evil.

BETTER SUFFRAGE LEAGUE STARTS BALL ROLLING

The Better Suffrage League in regular meting assembled on Monday night, appointed a committee to wait upon the law enforcement heads at once. This committee, composed of Dr. H. C. Hudson, Dr. Geo. Taylor, Titus Alexander, J. H. Bass, and Dr. J. A. Somerville, the president of the League. As good as they felt about it, they went direct before the Police Commission itself, presented their case and had a hearing, the situation was freely discussed and whether it bore results can but be attested from the fact that the joints complained of are now closed as tight as an air proof vault.

BACK UP BETTER SUFFRAGE LEAGUE

The Federated Clubs organizations, whose secretary, R. G. Lamar joined in with the protest to the Police Commission, held a special meeting Tuesday afternoon, passed resolutions condemning this latest effort to revive this insidious Chinese Lottery game. They also passed resolutions commending the Better Suffrage League for its splendid and prompt action and the Marlowe Detective Agency for its very splendid cooperation.

The following resolution was passed:

Whereas: This organization stands at all time for law and order to the highest degree;

Whereas: It comes tothe knowledge of the Federated Clubs here assembled that the menace of the nefarious Chinese lottery has been foisted in our midst:

Whereas: These Orientals are even now plying their work of conducting unlawful gambling dens, putting solicitors on the streets in the section of our city known as the Eastside;

Whereas: This insidious and kindred forms of gambling takes from circulation in legitimate channels of trade thousands of dollars and business suffers accordingly:

Therefore Be It Resolved: That we look upon this situation as unlawful, unfair and unjust:

Be it further Resolved: That we call upon all law enforcement agencies of our city government for a diligent enforcement of the law to the end that this menace which is inimical to the morals and economic status of the citizenship shall be wiped out.

Be it further resolved: That a copy of these resolutions be sent to the mayor, chief of police, police commissioners and to the public press for publication.

Federation Of The Clubs And Organizations

The above movement to via temporary organization is making a conscientious effort that every legitimate organization, may have a voice in all movements for the benefit of our group at large.

There is no room for those who have selfish motives in the premises, but if you are earnestly interested in real race achievement, there is much for you to do. Come into this organization bereft of big "I", and little "you" and accomplish something. Coming in does not interfere with your particular organization in the slightest degree.

We want all organizations, religious, fraternal and civic, or industrial to send your representative to the Federation. The organization is but temporarily organized, therefore you will be in on the making.

We meet Friday night, June 24th, at Eagle Hall, 823 Central Avenue.

No letter has been sent out to anybody with anybody's name signed thereto. We stand for public weal and invite your cooperation in this public way.

J. T. BASS, acting president.

Sheffield and Randolph On Trial For Murder Next Wednesday

Next Wednesday 10:00 A. M., in Judge Elliot Craw's department of the Superior Court, the much discussed case of the People vs Sheffield and Randolph, will take place and a jury of their peers will hear all the evidence on behalf of the state and the defense and render its verdict.

The latest grape vine news is that the Officers Brown and Buly, have reinstated their previous testimony before the grand jury and from this on it is thought sensational disclosures will possibly be made involving higher ups. Brown and Buly are reported out on a nominal bail requiring them to report the same day that the trial of Sheffield and Randolph comes up.

MUCH CONCERN

The case is sure to draw a record crowd of curiosity and we predict seats at a premium when the case is called. Down in the sections where Sheffield and Randolph were wont to perform, the sadness thereof never tire of talking about their spectacular raids and roamances thereto.

One favorite word of Sheffield, they say was, when he would make a raid and quite a few would be present, he would exclaim "Every Dub" meaning each man or woman for themselves. In remembrance of this situation, some of poets have written this verse:

"Sheffield and Randolph are both in the can;
They are now where they put many a man.
Men's lives with sorrow these men did bedim;
'Every tub on its bottom,' their days are dim.

Another verse:

"Oh how they have beaten and put men in jail;
Falsely for nothing a man they would maul,
Just for a pastime they made men their prey;
Sheffield and Randolph in prison do lay."

"OUT OF THE PAST"

"Out of the Past" to be presented by Los Angeles Colored Folk—500 participants will take part in the great Historical Negro Pageant.

Mrs. Lillian J. Craw, author and director of "Out of the Past," is the wife of the late Rev. James Logan Craw, former pastor of 8th and Towne A. M. E. Church.

Mrs. Craw arrived in the city Friday, June 17th, accompanied by her son, Floyd C. Covington, who is Business Manager of the Pageant.

Los Angeles has already indicated its enthusiasm to take part in this great Negro drama as was demonstrated by the 150 persons who met Mrs. Craw in her first meeting last Monday night, at 8th and Towne Ave. Church. These 150 persons pledged their support and loyalty to the Pageant.

Mrs. LILLIAN J. CRAW
Author of "Out of the Past"

A very inspiring evening was enjoyed by this charter group who are to be the participants in "Out of the Past." After the introductory remarks by Mrs. Craw, her son, Mr. Covington, gave the object, history and purpose of the Pageant, following this the able director, Mr. Bartlett had the entire group to sing the spiritual Spirituals of the Negro which will be one of the great features of the Pageant.

The Pageant "Out of the Past" has been successfully staged in the East. It is a gripping, soul-stirring story of the struggles, achievements and hopes of the Negro Race covering a period of history of more than 3000 years. It has been enthusiastically received by the leading whites and Negroes in the cities where it was given.

The following is a statement by the Topeka State Journal, Topeka, Kansas, after the Pageant was presented there last April:

FLOYD COVINGTON

"Mrs. Lillian J. Craw should write another Pageant, one as good as 'Out of the Past,' presented in the City Auditorium, Thursday night to 3,000 persons and send it to all Western Producer. Surely he would accept and stage it.

"The spectacle was well written and given in an excellent manner. The history of the Colored Race was traced from the time it was the dominant one in Egypt, through the migration of America, the enslavement, and emancipation up to the Utopia, of the great dream of life in which all races shall love and unite."

Mrs. Craw is asking for 500 participants—old and young, big and, little—to take part in Los Angeles' great historical Pageant. All those interested in becoming characters meet the author Sunday afternoon, June 26, at 3 P. M. at First A. M. E. Church, 8th and Towne Ave. The Pageant will be staged August 2nd and 3rd. Place and admission will be announced next week.

Capt. Jas. P. Bratton Banquetted by Foresters Drill Team

Uniform Ranks of Court Solomon, No. 8677, gave a surprise banquet on Thursday, June 23, 1927 at Christian's Tavern, honoring their much beloved Captain James P. Bratton.

Promptly at 8 P. M. the Drill Team in full uniform marched into the beautifully decorated banquet hall. Past Lieutenant, Chas. R. Isum, as Master of Ceremonies, made the address of the occasion after which he introduced the father of the Drill Team, Mr. Paul E. Alexander, who presented a token of appreciation to Captain Bratton. Captain Bratton expressed his surprise and pleasure most distinctly. The wives and honored guests were then served a delicious repast by Mrs. Christian.

Among those present were: Mrs. James P. Bratton; Mr. and Mrs. Paul E. Alexander; Mr. and Mrs. Chas. R. Isum; Mr. and Mrs. T. Curtis Smith and Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Whisenant.

CAPT. JAS. P. BRATTON

Capt. L. L. McClary Back Back At Newton Other Transfers

Many transfers have been made the present week in the Police Department. Of chief interest is the return to Newton Station of Capt. L. L. McClary. Capt. McClary has the full confidence of the citizens of this district and announces that he will enforce the law in his (own) manly, fair, and impartial way to all regardless of color or creed. He will do all he can he says to counteract the belief by some that crime is winked at on the East side. He has begun a drive already on the Chinese Lottery joints and slot machines.

Other transfers are Capt. Daudell to Lincoln Heights; Sgt. Casselbury will be in charge of the vice squad; Patrolman Russell Scott at University will be acting Sergeant at Newton. The new Georgia Street Station will open July 21st with Capt. Hodson in charge and a personnel of 148 officers. It will extend from 7th Street south to Adams, San Pedro East to Vermont. It will have a branch receiving hospital where all cases in this district will be treated.

MISSOURI BUSBY MASTERLY WOMAN

BY LOUIS MICHEL

Upon her lone sturdy shoulders fell the noble task to win most coveted honor for the whole race through her glorious and successful graduation.

No race woman anywhere today, can be happier than Missouri Busby of 2102 Amy Street. Her luckiest day since her birth, a good many years ago, came last Friday, June 17th when she, in a class of 70 people, reaching in ages from 17 to 53 years, graduated with high honors at the Polytechnic High School, this city. She was the lone star member and the only representative of the Ethiopian race to attain this coveted distinction.

For fully two years by day and night, Missouri Busby had wended her steps to this great institution, never missing a day, utilising every hour for her characteristic earnestness, no graduate withheld from her either his or her esteem and all the teachers and faculty were one sound united chorus in praising and in honoring this remarkable and distinguished girl-woman. Since last September, this brave heroine had studied doubly hard and twice as long and today she is a smiling victor, a beaming pioneer race woman, for like air-hero Lindbergh, she was the first and only race pathfinder in this city in her line to reach this glorious stage of wisdom, originality and success.

She pointed with modest pride toward the west section of her own private room in her well-appointed, cleanly-kept, commodious family homestead, where more than 20 presents were stored up, given her by both white and dark aspiring friends and admirers this womin of thought, mental vigour, unexcelled and self-restraint, and genuine Negro quality. Never before in the history of the school did teachers bestow so many presents.

In an interview this scribbler early told this writer: "I achieved this work because I liked the task to study. Of the many different nationalities and races represented, the color line was never drawn, the years slightly all kind, loyal and considerate friends. I always tried to conduct myself in such a manner so as to hold the good esteem of all it was to do justly that I toiled in mid vain and, by the grace that it be the good, thoughtful work that counts, and the character and achievements of the person that brighten up the world".

And as she spoke, she tenderly and caressingly took from the carefully kept enfoldment her graduation certificate which she treasures as much as Colonel Lindbergh treasures his "Spirit of St. Louis" and as much as this nation now treasures, or should treasure, the immortal speech by Abraham Lincoln, delivered at Gettysburgh.

American Delegation in Europe

The many friends of Dr. D. Madison Miller and Mrs. Miller of Kansas City, Mo., who sailed for Europe June 3rd on the S. S. Olympic, may be pleased to learn that they arrived safe and are now in London, England.

The ocean trip was made without incident and they and the entire party are reported to be having a wonderful time.

The tour was sponsored by Dr. A. Wilberforce Williams of Chicago and the itinerary includes a general European tour returning the latter part of September.

The entire party consisted of the following:

Dr. D. Madison Miller and Mrs. Miller and Dr. and Mrs. Gideon Brown of Kansas City, Mo.; Dr. A. Wilberforce Williams, Chicago; Mrs. Mary McLeod Bethune, Daytonia, Fla.; Mrs. Cora Duncan, New York City; Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Webb, Hot Springs, Ark.; Dr. Thomas A. Kay and Dr. and Mrs. Tedley, Chattancoga, Tenn; Dr. G. W. Huffman, Richmond, Ind.; W. A. Mitchell, Chicago.

This information was just received from London, England by Mr. John B. Frierson 9719 Pace Ave., brother of Mrs. Miller.

COMMENCEMENT EXERCISES

We are duly proud concerning our educational progress when we look about us at this time.

On last Wednesday evening, when Jefferson High threw open her portals to the public in her graduation exercises, in the line of march there were 26 dark faces and the intellectual light shown as brilliant on these faces as any who composed a part of the parade.

Among whom were: Misses Dorothea McCollough, well-known local songbird, Ruth Robinson, Harriet Brown, Dorothy Armstrong and Messrs. Leon Perdue and others.

ROBERT V. EDWARDS

Among these honor students who occupied the first row and appeared on the program was Miss Robert V. Edwards, eminent pianist. Miss Ed. Edwards, popular pianist. Miss Edison High School because of the record she has made in the music department, but also in the city of Los Angeles where she was reared. She is destined to be one of the best pianists of our race as she has already made an enviable record for herself.

Poly High—There are four colored graduates from Polytechnic High this term. Beatrice Hazelwood who will enter either Pasadena, Grace Comeaux who will enter U. S. C., Mary Prideaux who will enter U. C. L. A. and Mamie Johnson.

There are other graduates of our group from other Los Angeles high schools, and we are sorry that we are unable to give a full account of each.

FLASH! Official Notice has been received that the National Lodge of I. B. P. O. E. of W. will convene in Cleveland instead of New York.

By Order Grand Exalted Ruler,
J. FINLEY WILSON.

IN TOPEKA

BY: C. A. S.

On the evening of March 10, as we sat upright in a sleeping coach that whirred out of St. Louis—then and not until then, did we fully realize that the six months' vacation, granted us by our company was coming to a close, and the time was nearing when we should again roll back our sleeves and occupy our former place in the establishment known as "The California Eagle Publishing Co."

The trip from St. Louis to Kansas City was under the cover of night, hence nothing particularly interesting transpired.

We reached Kansas City, Mo., at 7 A. M., March 11th. Having only thirty minutes we did not leave our car; only looked out from the open window and noted that the smoke stacks of the great packing houses of this industrial center were puffing away at the same rapid rate.

Our attention was centred on Topeka, Kans., and it was not many hours before a very pleading colored porter appeared demonstrating a set of pearl white teeth, as he, in his mellow-toned voice yelled, "Topeka! Topeka Kansas, next stop!"—And when our train puffed in it was 10:30 A. M.

We had no trouble recognizing this historic little Kansas City for with the exception of a new railroad station few changes had been made since 1917, when we made our first visit there.

We were cordially received by Mrs. Nick Childs at the "Topeka Plaindealer" office and royally entertained the one day spent in Topeka at the Childs' mansion, next door to the Governor's palatial residence on Buchanan Ave.

The Negro population of Topeka is about three thousand—they own one small, rather dingy movie house. We observed two or three small barber shops, a few little lunch rooms and some grocery concerns of small dimention.

The lower grade schools of Topeka are segregated, and there are about thirty or forty Negro school teachers of a rather high educational type in the city.

In the market places our attention was attracted to groups of Negroes discussing farms and farm products. They seemed to understand market prices, and were interested in getting the best prices for their goods, yet in the making.

The day spent in Topeka was indeed one among the most pleasant on our "back to home" crusade.

A trip such as ours was one of many emotions. The rapid changing scenes at intervals filled our heart with hope and despair. However, all along we encountered two distinctive groups within our group, and from New York to San Francisco they struggle side by side.

The one group is made up of those who want for themselves and their posterity a solid foundation—financially, morally and socially—upon which to stand and to build a race. And they are willing to struggle for the same, but there is a little wheel within this wheel, for within this first group we find an element willing to build, but from an artificial standpoint. They wish to make a show, to be imitators. They hold themselves apart from the others, under the caption of "Social Elite," and whenever there is contact it is with the intention of slipping the financial honey from the human bees of their own hive, and again relegating themselves into their own social seclusion.

Then, there is that other group made up of the underworld strata and the illiterate poor; the one feeding on the other.

Out of this second class we get most of our political bosses, and as a rule they are neither poor nor ignorant, but selfish, and the poor among or under them schooled in vice are the ones that suffer, and they constitute the "masses."

After looking the situation in the face, reviewing its merits and demerits, we soliloquized—IS GOD JUST?

At midnight on the evening of March 11 we left Topeka on our last leg for home—"Be it ever so humble, there is no place like home."

We went out over the Santa Fe and came in over the U. P.

As our train of twenty-one coaches rumbled through that region of towering, whispering mountains, we said "NO! GOD IS NOT DEAD, He lived yesterday and He lives today!

The Groner-Harris nuptials were solemnized at the First A. M. E. Church on last Saturday night with the Rev. J. M. Brown officiating. The Church was very beautifully decorated by Mrs. Daisy Barrett who has proven herself quite an artist in this line. This wedding ceremony was one of the most brilliant affairs that has happened in Pasadena for years. The church was crowded to capacity to witness the occasion. After the ceremony a reception was given at the home of the brides parents on South Oak Knoll avenue. Long before the evening had been well spent the young couple was forcibly spirited away and when last heard of was on their way to San Diego to spend a brief honeymoon.

Grant Brothers Branch Out

The Grant Brothers, who have made their influence felt are again in the limelight with a contemplated move to venture into the hog-raising business in Alhambra. The senior member of the firm, Russell, was a pioneer in the rubbish hauling business which increased to such proportions as to necessitate the help of the brother Earl, who was then a chef on N. Y. Central railroad. He immediately resigned that position to join his brother in the hauling business, which is yet on the increase. Having made it possible to get food stuffs to feed his hogs which have hitherto been sold to the city, they will now use the same for their own benefit. These boys are to be congratulated and we further learn there is another of the boys who is to join the firm, which will greatly strengthen their financial standing.

The color scheme of pink and white was carried out very beautifully in the dining rooms. After the luncheon, quite a few of the ladies remained for the evenings affair when a large group gathered to listen to an exceptional musical program featuring Mrs. Jackson. Quite a lovely time was spent in various ways until a late hour when all departed declaring Mesdames Caviness and Johnson ideal hostesses.

El Centro News

Press and public have been loud in their praises of the work done by the teachers of East Side School and have commended highly the exceptionally fine series of closing exercises. But throughout it all there was a tinge of sadness. Parents as well as pupils reacted to the parting with two of the teachers who have so faithfully and efficiently served the school and community.

After two years as eight grade teacher, and two years as teacher in the high school, Mrs. Ruth Prince McGregor resigned her work here to make her home in Los Angeles. In addition to her excellent work as class room teacher, Mrs. McGregor was most active in her work with the Girl Reserves. The girls have profitted much through the work of this organization. Not only have they imbibed the Girl Reserves' spirit, but they have been taught executive ability and dependableness in duties.

Mrs. Mattie S. Nelson after a service of six years resigned to accept the position of Executive Secretary of the Twelfth Street Center, Los Angeles. Her departure makes a distinct loss in the faculty. During the past three years she has acted as Vice-Principal; she has served on the County Board of the Y. W. C. A. and has most acceptably represented the race in this capacity. She has been advisor to the High School Girl Reserves and to the Blue Triangle. Affable, capable, and openly loyal to the cause she champions, she has proved a most splendid teacher.

Both ladies carry with them the best wishes of a grateful community who very much appreciate their services. City Superintendent Gruwell, openly commends the teachers and insisted that instead of resigning, they take a leave of absence for one year.

Numerous parties, receptions and kindred entertainments were extended Mesdames McGregor and Nelson by the pupils and parents.

The Southern Pacific Magazine for June carries a picture and description of the beautiful home recently erected by Mr. and Mrs. R. P. Augustus. Under the caption "Rolling out a home," the article tells how Augustus came to El Centro in 1918 and by faithful performance with the Southern Pacific Company and the assistance of a thrifty wife he has been enabled to "roll out" the cozy home. The picture of Mr. and Mrs. Augustus appear in the magazine. At this beautiful home a public reception was given commencement week, honoring teachers, graduates and Dr. S. M. Beane.

EASTSIDE SCHOOL GRADUATES GIVE FINE PROGRAM
Exercises Show High Degree of Work By Faculty and Pupils

In the presence of a crowd of friends which taxed the capacity of the school auditorium, a splendid program for the fourth annual commencement of the East Side branch, Central Union High School and Junior College was carried out last night in a manner that deeply impressed all who were fortunate enough to be present. The audience included many from the west side of the city.

The program, under the supervision of Professor W. A. Payne, principal of the school, was an excellent demonstration of the work which he and his staff are doing to promote the education and welfare of the residents of the East Side.

Featuring the program was an exceptionally well delivered address by Dr. S. M. Beane of Los Angeles on the subject: "The Secret of the Tomorrow," in which the speaker emphasized the need of unselfish service by individuals and nations.

Aside from Dr. Beane's address, the entire program was conducted by students and faculty of the school.

Dr. Beane prefaced his address with a well deserved tribute to Professor Payne for the splendid work which he is doing on the East Side as the leader of the educational work among his people, for the inspiration he gives them by his devotion to their interests and his loyal performance of the duties entrusted to him by the community in which he lives.

Well last night was our first visit to the fight and what we mean we were sure tickled to death. What with three good brown scrappers (2 Filipinos and THE Baby Joe Gans) giving the rush act to their opponents, we forgot our resolution to sit quietly and act in a ladylike manner, and hollered, whooped and bo-hoed with the rest of the madly excited crowd.

Piano Recital of Lorenza Jordan Cole Masterly

BY: LOUIS MICHEL

This Piano genius is one of the best that can be heard. A gratified audience showed their approval. Emma Smith is a good local singer. The concert was splendid and well patronized.

Being a charmed and a convinced listener to the excellent Piono discourse on Tuesday, June 7, 9:00 P. M. at the First A. M. E. Church, of Lorenza Jordan Cole, with Rev. W. D. Miller, the pastor, and Elmer C. Bartlett, the director, as principal artistic backers, the whole audience must have felt, when hearing the unusual and entirely originally-artistic playing of this artist that a new Piano star has risen in the midst of an admiring soul-inspired host of auditors.

Her Beethoven Sonata, Op. 53 was deep, powerful and beyond the ordinary performer's deliverance—it was really classical and sublime in the whole length of its rendition. The player showed the rarest skill in playing this heavy and difficult piece. Her Chopin numbers were alluringly pretty and so different from the performances of less gifted Pianists. Cachmaninoff, Coleridge Taylor in Negro melodies and other renowned classical composers were finely represented and never in the history of this city has a race artist of the Piano made a finer, grander and more lasting impression upon a gratified and stimulated audience than Lorenza Jordan Cole.

Of her can be truly said that she pleases at all times and never, unless a big audience—and, indeed, her audience was big, enthusiastic and refined. No one can foretell how great and popular this artist will grow yet. It looks as if the zenith of her greatest career is yet to be reached. Perhaps, in a broader field, in Canada, in Australia and in Europe, she may blossom to larger fruition than here in America, where her opportunities are more limited.

There is a pathos and a power and a commanding superiority in her heavier bars of Pianistic skill that make her playing filled with naturalness and realism; she thunders her thunderous effects, she howls with the storm, she shrieks with the demons, she runs with the fleeing imps as she. In her more brilliant and lighter work, dances with the elfs, lullabies with the motherless child's sympathizer, caresses with the lover, and cries with the mournful, wretched loser in life. All the emotions of the human actor, all the life, the fury and the havor of the raging elements are in Lorenza Jordan Cole's playing, there is no guess work, no uncertainty about her conception of art, realism and idealism, in every phase of her work she is a grand and ripe and glorious artist and she deserves and is big enough to play in the largest concert halls in this and any country. Doubtless if Lorenza Jordan Cole comes to this city again, she may play to even a much larger audience than she had this last time, for her fame, like good old wine, is securely estabiished, and no one, including our very best Pianists in this city, can withhold the honor laurels from this worthy and still greater growing genius.

She was very fittingly and at times, so needfully, on account of her physical intensity and consequential bodily strata, assisted by Mrs. Emma Smith, who is a most delightful as well as powerful soprano singer, perhaps more of a dramatic type than anything else, judging by her moving inward force that she injects in her solos. Mrs. Smith must have done some larger work somewhere in the world, because she bears the earmarks of the popular professional singer in all of her vocal and dramatic exertions. As a local star singer, she is very good—she is entirely good enough to sing before audiences that expect nice and pleasing things and she was not unworthy to be assistant artist on the program.

The crowd was splendidly handled by neatly gowned ushers and the affair was very invigorating.

FLOOD DISTRICT FACES AFTERMATH

(By: A. N. P.)

Natchez, Miss., June 20.—The crest of the great Mississippi flood has passed. Almost as rapidly as it came the all enveloping avalanche of muddy water which terrifyingly and irresistably engulfed 650,000 people, driving them from their homes, for the most part penniless and without food and shelter, is disappearing toward the gulf as the land becomes "unwatered." Now they face the aftermath.

Of the 580,000 refuges cared for by the Red Cross 525,000 of them were in three southern states, Arkansas, Mississippi and Louisiana, and 80 per cent of these were Negroes. Half a million colored people today tremble on the brink of ruin as they bravely turn back from the concentration camps and face the desolation, the mud and slime, as well as the discouraging outlook surrounding what they once called "home."

Why were so many Negroes affected by the flood? So that those not familiar with the immense delta region held in the grip of the rampaging Mississippi River may understand, the 20,000 square miles which the flood put under water and the territory immediately abutting it "is the blackest spot in all America." Not alone because of the plantation, share cropper system, whose unfair, uneconomic and unsound methods make a great dark splotch on the map of America's vaunted commercal and agricultural progress; but also because, except for the cities and villages, where the whites always outnumber the blacks, the Negroes in the back country and plantations outnumber the whites who control them, six and eight to one. One may ride for miles through this country, back from the railroads and civilization without ever once seeing a white face peer out of the "shot gun" cabins which are the usual shelter.

The white people having more money were largely able to flee to other sections when the flood threatened. Only the miserably poor whites had to live upon charity and share the refugee camps with their black brothers. But the Negroes dependent upon their farming and the "advances" in food and supplies made by the planter, saw their all held in bondage when the water closed in upon their homes. Even their advances are gone, for except in rare instances the planter was unable or unwilling to make further provision for his tenants. The crop on which he had gambled already was swept away and whatever amount he had already extended he must count as a loss unless the tenant returned.

What are these people to do? Experts on the ground who talked with members of the Colored Advisory Commission on the Mississippi Flood Disaster, freely admitted that only a few in the northern sections, would be able to make a crop this year. Cotton is doomed to boll weevil and worms unless planted before the middle of June. Some attempt could be made at diversification with other crops. The outlook of their getting a foothold in other sections of the country with unemployment widespread from coast to coast is not bright. Therefore Secretary Herbert Hoover, the Red Cross and the rehabilitation committees, which are taking the place of the relief committees, are ndeavoring to find a way to support these hundreds of thousands of Negroes and the relatively fewer whites, until next year when a new crop can be made.

For the first time the flood situation has been recognized as a national problem. The Red Cross is mapping out a comprehensive program, with the balance of fourteen million dollars a generous public contributed, to start the job. When congress convenes it is expected that additional provision will be made. Secretary Hoover and Director Fieser have already started an extensive campaign through the Red Cross with public health doctors and nurses and special workers to cover every swamp and bit of open water in the flood district, exterminating mosquitos, to inspect and purify the water in every well and to conduct a campaign of health education so well begun in a few of the camps so that no epidemic of disease or pestilence may occur.

It is estimated that 2,000 horses and cattle, 20,000 hogs and 250,000 chicken were drowned. A start to replace these animals and fowls will be made. Food will have to be provided for an entire year for the small landowner, the cropper, or tenant who has not sufficient credit to secure a loan. Under the plan outlined the plantation owner is not to be helped. His land is collateral enough for whatever money he needs for himself and his tenants and he can secure it from the special finance corporations being formed to loan money for a long term at a low rate. If these plans are carried into effect, it is probable that there will be no pronounced migration, for despite the small return for their labor, the plantation system, the three months school term, the oppressive conditions under which they live, with poor whites endeavoring to set up an aristocracy over them practically all of the farmers declare their intention of "going back home when the water goes down."

Leave It To Madame Sul-Te-Wan

BY: HELLEN KENLIN

Leave it to Madame to put something over for the director that is pleasing to him and all others concerned. But Madame, unlike other stars, doesn't care for much publicity and she is not aired in te papers every day, but when you read about her, it is something worth while and true.

Sunday, June 12, 1927, on the Universal lot, where she is doing some wonderful work for Director Harry Pollard (for he says so), she had just been introduced to Mr. Williams and the Captain of the 10th Cavalry Band by Dr. Somerville and wife, and found out that Mr. Williams had know her years ago when she was in her prime and had a company of her own, when Mr. Pollard called for her. She was to act in the picture, "Uncle Tom's Cabin" and she had to run out with the rest of the past.

She was to kneel down in front of the horses and pray, but a horse ran wild and ran over her left leg taking her shoe completely off her foot. Her sons started running to her and just as the drove of horses came down upon her, a gallant young colored boy, by the name of Jack, also in the picture, ran in and grabbed her and saved her life.

This bit of hear tragedy was portrayed accidentally, but the cameraman never stopped grinding and the director came off the stand and said that he did not want anyone in the picture hurt, but of all people he could not stand it when it came to Madame. He also said that that scene was worth $500 to the picture and he could not have gotten it any other way for it would have been too dangerous.

Madame is a real actress and we hope that some day she will really get something worth while to do. On any set you find her there is always someone to say that she is a D. W. Griffith find and the only Ethiopian he found and put before the public that we all know. Madame and D. W. have nothing to regret by making this little black actress good. She is proud when you call her black.

Madame was going to sell her Hollywood home. But her neighbors won't let her. She is the only one of her type on Beverly Boulevard.

New York Elks Protest Ban on Convention

(By: A. N. P.)

New York City, June 22.—More than ten thousand Elks and members of the women's auxiliary staged a mammoth parade protesting the ban placed upon the national convention of the order which was supposed to have been held in New York City, but which J. Finley Wilson, exalted ruler of the order declared could not be held unless the Grattan Law which prohibits Negro Elks from using the regalia of the organization was repealed by June 15, and the injunction voided.

Following the parade which wound its way through Harlem and ended up at the 369th Armory, a protest meeting was held and prominent Elks from Connecticut, Massachusetts, New Jersey and New York spoke.

Lower California

For the past ten or fifteen days rumors have come to us quite frequently that Hugh E. Macbeth had been exhonerated of all the charges that we had preferred or tried to prefer against him before the District Attorney, the L. A. County Grand Jury, and the Bar Association, and that Hugh E. Macbeth had started or would start soon a suit against us for slander. It is our presumption that this rumor is being circulated by Macbeth himself or some of his admirers. The purpose can only be to divert our activities in the publication of these articles. If this be the case, we can only inform the big fat attorney and his admirers that their purposes are all in vain and loudly rattles in emptiness. "We are from Missouri, Brother, and you will have to show us".

When the charges were heard at the Bar Association, we were told by those gentlemen that it would be thirty days or more before their decision would be rendered. If Macbeth has been exonerated by them, we have had no notification from them of the same. The L. A. County Grand Jury that was investigating the case against Macbeth was discharged in the midst of its investigations and if Macbeth or anyone else for that matter tries to tell you that he was exonerated by that jury, he only adds another milstone to his neck to help drag himself down into that bottomless pit of complete destruction and oblivion to meet and abide forever with his worthy friend, Brother Annanias.

We admit openly and without equivocation, that so far, we have not been able to do anything at the District Attorney's office, but we would deem it as an esteemed favor if Macbeth would enter suit against us, for then the mater would be placed in the courts and we would be given the chance to let the District Attorney and the public know just who broke the lock on the hen house door.

It is not envy, malice or jealousy, that prompts our actions, but for the sake of clean, upright dealings with our fellow men that we cry aloud. This stockselling proposition from its very beginning does not make too much of a good impression on our minds. Macbeth was mostly its organizer and promoter. In the first application for a permit to sell stock, he asked the State Corporation Commission to grant that 100,000 shares of stock at $1.00 per share be granted him and a few others without the payment of one dime for the same. 20,000 shares of this amount was to go to him alone; 10,000 of this 100,000 shares was offered to one of the writers of these articles, and he told Macbeth that he did not want them. How could the poor people who were investing their little savings ever hope to realize a profit, if 20,000 shares of this amount was to be given gratis to one big, incompetent lawyer, as Macbeth, has proven to be in handling this affair?

In another application he told the commission that we had spent $36,000 or thereabouts of actual cash in improvements upon the ranch building houses and buying cattle. He told the truth when he said the money was spent but when he stated the purpose for which it had been spent the statement was as void of truth as a Mexican poodle is of hair.

Yes, we are fighting against such rot and fight and fight and fight we mean to continue to do until this matter is adjusted or we are stopped by the law.

Sues "Holy Jumpers" For $1,000

(By: A. N. P.)

Brockton, Mass., June 21.—Troubles of the Holy Jumpers, a religious cult composed of white and colored worshippers seem never to cease.

Mrs. Maria Castano, proprietor of a store under the cult's place of worship, brought civil action in the sum of $1,900 against them.

The plaintiff claims that recent notoriety brought by disturbance charges against the members of the Holy Jumpers, 19 of whom were fined $10 each on the charge, has meant loss of trade for her. She further claims that the jumping and dancing of members of the cult caused a radiator to leak through into her store, damaging goods in the store.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to acknowledge with sincere thanks the messages and tokens of sympathy received from our numerous friends in our recent bereavement.

SPECIAL OFFERING

BUILDING FUND
St. Paul Baptist Church
Blythe, California
Rev. E. HAYWOOD, Pastor

COST OF BUILDING $3,000.

We NEED $1000 to complete building. YOUR offering will help. How much will YOU give?

OUR appliance adjusters can be identified by their badges, which bear their numbers and the L.A. Service emblem shown at the top of this "box". Protect yourself against imposters.

The Appliance Makes a Difference

FIRST-CLASS gas service should not be expected from inferior appliances. Very often the gas gets the blame for poor gas service that really is caused by poor gas appliances.

Good appliances may cost more than poor ones, but the fact that they use less gas, need less adjustment, and give more satisfactory service generally, makes them really cheaper in the long run.

An extensive free display where the public can examine and secure information about practically every type of up-to-date gas and electric appliance, is located on the 8th floor of our main office, 810 South Flower Street, Los Angeles. There is an attendant in charge to answer questions, but nothing is for sale.

It is economy to be sure that gas appliances are good ones to begin with and then kept in first-class condition and adjustment.

Los Angeles Gas and Electric Corporation wants its patrons to have the best possible gas service, and is assisting, so far as possible, by a free house-to-house inspection and adjustment of the gas appliances of every consumer on its lines.

WARNING!

If your gas range was built with a "grid" or open top, it is unwise and unsafe to equip it with so-called "solid tops", "gas savers" or "gas conservers." Adjust your burners if they need adjustment, but beware of devices sold by persons of doubtful reliability. A range manufactured with a solid top, however, is a different matter; it was designed for such operation.

LAW AND ORDER

No better example of unity of action can be demonstrated than the prompt action this week by our working forces. It brought immediate examples. Your newspapers sounded the alarm, our organizations immediately set about the business for which they are created and results were forthcoming.

FOR THE CONSTITUTION

We join in with the movement as presented by the "Better Suffrage League" and the Federated Clubs in circulating petitions to the Mayor against the re-appointment of Dr. Ryland or any other person who will not recognize the Constitution of the United States nor the State in which he resides. In other words California and Los Angeles are too great and grand to be "Jim Crow" centers and this situation is what Dr. Ryland stands for. Every man and woman should, who stands for law, justice and fair play, not only sign up one of the petitions but get out and work that all may do likewise.

WHITE COSSACKS

It just seems that the policy of the present Chief of Police for so great a city as Los Angeles will not fit in. Not his hurtling black Cossacks, Sheffield and Randolph in carrying out the Chief's edict are now behind the bars. Now there comes on the scene the white Cossacks, headed by Sweetman and his cohorts and they are on their way browbeating and Cossack-like sweeping in a ruthless manner on the Eastside in order to make a showing.

Just how crime on the Eastside is of any more consequence than on any other side is an enigma to us. It is said there is a program for this situation and these officers are the only ones to fit in the picture.

Standing firm for law and order and that all law violators are subject to arrest and to pay the penalty thereof, we strongly condemn unlawful and bulldozing tactics employed by either the black or white Cossacks.

CRIME WAVE

We are against all sorts of crime and staunch defenders of law and order. It makes no difference to us as to the race or color of a crook. To us he or she is but simply one more crook.

If perchance they have transgressed the law they merit whatever punishment the law may provide. Be it remembered when sifted right down and ferreting out the wrong doers in our modern day civilization, it will be far-fetched indeed. Especially is this so when we note with sadness and chagrin the alacrity displayed by some of our so-called big preachers to cover up rascals and known renegades in their own ranks.

In this situation we find the answer particularly so as to the per cent of crime in our own group. The crime wave can only be overcome by smoking out this contingent until they will join in and stand straight up for law and order.

A TOWN'S BEST BOOSTER

A writer in a current magazine observes "if the newspaper is just a little better than its town, the latter is the gainer thereby."

Towns and their newspapers usually lag or lead together. Progressive journalism is the unfailing tonic of the lethargic community, but it is equally true that lifeless newspaper can seriously retard the development of its community.

There is no better community asset than a home newspaper equal to the needs of the community. While a poor newspaper is better than none to the individual reader, that does not hold true for the town.

What can a good newspaper do for its community? It can serve as the town's messenger to the outside world. It must take the leadership in all community projects if they are to be successful. It is the infallible line of communication between local government and citizen. It is to the newspaper that all organizations turn for assistance in public welfare movements and without that assistance they face failure.

The newspaper reaps the reward of its initiative by sharing in the general improvement of business and community affairs it has been instrumental in bringing about. The good newspaper deems it a pleasure to serve its community and its readers and is fully aware that it is only through giving a full measure of service that it can progress and prosper.

HOW DO YOU READ?

"Tell me what you eat, and I will tell you what you are," has cried a publicist so often that he has coined a household axiom. Well might another say: "Tell me what you read and I will tell you what you are!"

The mind is the house in which we live more truly than is the body. If we furnish the mind garishly we must live in a garish house. If we furnish the mind carelessly, we must live in a slovenly house. If we take our mental furniture only from the past, we shall live in the past alone. If we take it only from the faddish notions of the present we shall live amid fads and foibles, which vanish ere we know them.

But if, on the other hand, our mental diet is balanced, comprised of the foods tested by time and sauced and spiced by the piquancy of the present, we may live a balanced, ordered life.

We can with impunity pour poisons and dark, wild, disordered thoughts into our minds no more than we can day after day find strength and health from spurious foods, hastily prepared, indigestible.

To read well, read discriminatingly, widely, thoroughly. What we read becomes part and parcel of us.

GOOD OLD SUMMER

What is the best season of the year? Summer, to most people—though the other seasons, especially spring, have their charms. And the older you get, the more you will like summer, the more you will dread winter.

Spring corresponds to our babyhood. It is the sprouting season, full of hope, dreams, uncertainty, danger of frost.

Autumn is like the waning years of life, when we harvest as we have sown, when we suffer for our negligence and mistakes and are rewarded for our effort. Most of us, when we look backward in the autumn of life, say: "If I only had my life to live over again....."

Winter, of course, corresponds to human death, the hibernating of old growth until new growth is ready to sprout and bud.

All three of these seasons are preparatory to or the aftermath of summer. And summer is the period of LIFE—of accomplishment—symbolic of the lives we are living. Lucky are you who have survived the frosts of life's springtime. Your crop of success is started. Toil and weed, for autumn of life will be upon you before you are aware. For results, it's now or never.

PROVINCE OF A NEWSPAPER

It would be comical, were it not somewhat pathetic, the way newspaper offices are besieged every day by their friends, urging them to "roast" this and that; to "see to it" that this and that is corrected; to have his and that done in the city or county; to start this and that kind of movement to correct evils in the state government. These friends actually appear to believe hat it is the newspaper's business to handle all these affairs.

But a self-respecting newspaper, though ready and willing to carry all reasonable responsibility, must remind its readers that they—the people—are the authority upon whom rests the responsibility for the present state of affairs local, state and national.

A self-respecting newspaper tries to report the news of what actually happens, not what it might wish had happened. The relation of a self-respecting newspaper to the general public is not only always understood. It is the duty of a newspaper to be in a position to support any good act and criticize any bad act of public policy.

This relationship cannot exist where favors are asked and granted. Honesty is the only policy for a newspaper.

If objectors don't like the way things are going, they should qualify as voters, and then raise cain about it.

GREATER ZION HILL BAPTIST CHURCH

Sunday, June 12th at 3 o'clock, friends and visitors of the Zion Hill Church rejoiced with the pastor, Rev. N. H. Jones and members in the dedicatory and mortgage services and we feel very grateful to God, as we issue this writeup, for his wonderful work.

An appropriate and interesting program was rendered under the auspices of the Ministerial Alliance. At the appointed time, the newly recognised choir of fifty-six voices with the directress, Mrs. G. L. Thropay, in their beautiful robes of blue and white, marched in at the tune of the four-piece orchestra with Mrs. S. B. Rawls, the organist, at the piano. Mrs. Rawls is a student of the Conservatory of Music of Chicago. The special music which had been carefully prepared by the directress was beautifully rendered and demonstrated again the quaint beauty and the lasting hold that jubilee music has on the hearts of the people.

Rev. W. R. Rozier, pastor of the Pleasant Hill Baptist Church, preached the dedicatory sermon. His text was very impressive and everyone present was inspired to attempt greater things in life for the race and humanity in the name of Jesus Christ who strengthens us. Such was the determinations after hearing this God-sent man.

Mrs. O. M. Swanigan read the history of the church, giving its origin, program and achievements. The mortgage ceremony was conducted by the pastor, Deacon Rile James and little Dewaine Richardson, the two oldest and youngest members of the church. They held the mortgage as the pastor spoke in a most eloquent way on "Procrastination, Discouragements, Dissolution and Confusion." Deacon Hammond set fire to the old mortgage and we are now celebrating "The Greater Zion Hill Baptist Church" under the leadership of the new pastor, Rev. N. H. Jones.

Rev. Jones was called to the pastorate of the Zion Hill Church last October and has caused a new day to dawn in the church which now challenges the respect and recognition of approval and disapproval as seen by friends and opponents of Zion Hill. Heaven regards honest motives, purposes and aims. An entirely new and efficient system has been instituted and success has been assured.

It is very gratifying indeed to note the progress both spiritually, financially, and numerically, that has been and is now being made by the church since the time he entered upon the duties assigned him by the Holy Spirit, as pastor.

During these several months of Rev. Jones' pastorate, in his first financial drive $1,319.42 was raised and $2,251.86 raised in current, mission and charity. He has paid off the indebtedness of the church amounting to $1,180.00 which we celebrated in the mortgage burning. He has taken in 206 members and the church has experienced a wonderful change under his leadership. Words are inadequate to express the deep sense of joy, comfort, and peace that swells up in our souls of such an efficient pastor as Rev. Jones and upon the efforts put forth by him to make the success of the church what it is today, for the chief object of his soul is the success of Greater Zion Hill.

There is no pleasure that compares with doing one's duty well—that is, doing it the best one can. The members are in a state of feverish activity and the pastor is becoming known as a great leader in his work as pastor. He has not fallen beneath his recommendation as argiant in religious activities, in spite of the many destructive battles that have been staged against him and the church.

He has visited homes among the members, showing them their relation to Christ and to the church. Many who had become negligent, were aroused to their duty through his powerful sermons.

AUXILIARIES

The Sunday School under the leadership of Rev. B. F. Franklin, is progressing by leaps and bounds with a large attendance and teachers that are well prepared to teach those who are so desirous of knowing.

The B. Y. P. U., with Mr. T. C. Swanigan as president has been awakened to the full sense of its mission and has adopted the slogan, "Young People Can Be Saved." The union is doing a great work each Sunday in putting over the training for service.

The Woman's Home-Foreign Missionary Society, Mrs. J. C. O'Connor, president, has put her soul into the work. This auxiliary is putting over a great program.

The Usher Board is a group composed of 24 young men and women, under the leadership of Mrs. P. B. Wiggins. It is one of Zion Hill's strongest auxiliaries. On last Sunday, each member was present in their spring uniform which made a picture of beauty. The ladies' uniform, a one-piece pongee silk dress, black tie and white shoes. The men's uniform, blue serge coat, white shirt and white flannel trousers.

Sunday was a glorious day in Zion Hill and we wish to express our hearty thank to each minister present and the business men of the city and friends for their wonderful co-operation in our financial drive.

REV. N. H. JONES, Pastor
MRS. O. M. SWANIGAN, Secy.

Randolph Speaks at Northfield Students Conference

New York, June 17.—"Go to the masses" was the text sounded by A. Philip Randolph, editor of the Messenger and General Organizer of the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters, at the Kings Mountain (colored) in North Carolina and Northfield (white) in Massachusetts Students Conferences.

Beside every shortfall of superficial, supercilious intellectual aloofness from the toiling masses, black and white, and carry them training, courage and honesty to aid in the solution of the economic, political and social problems of this troubled world.

In the Kings Mountain Conference which embraces the Negro students of the Southern Negro Colleges, Mr. Randolph discussed World Problems and the New Social Order; at the Northfield Conference which embraces the students of the New England Colleges and Universities, he spoke on and led in discussion groups, the subject of Race and Labor, with special reference to the movement to organize the Pullman porters.

Mr. Murphy just put on a large show in Maywood for the American Legion Post, No. 223 of Maywood and the loyal Order of Moose, No. 675. The big tent was a complete sell-out and was visited by 17000 people.

Mr. Murphy will make his headquarters at the Ellsworth-Spikes Music Co., 1203 Central Ave.; Phone, MEtropolitan 5611.

The Convocation of Scottish Rite Masons

The Annual Session of the Most Worshipful Hiram of Tyre Grand Lodge, A. F. & A. M. Scottish Rite, Inc., was held June 20th, 21st and 22d. Prior to the opening, one of the grandest fraternal parades that has been recorded to the honor of Los Angeles, formed at Alpine Hall, A. F. & A. M. Scottish Rite, 4414½ Central Ave. The parade was headed by a detachment of the Los Angeles Police Dept., Willis' Band of Watts, Cal., and the Grand Officers and followed in line by members of the local lodges. The parade was estimated to be a mile long. The line of march was from Alpine Hall down Central Avenue to New Hope Baptist Church, 1623 Paloma Avenue, where the Annual Sermon was delivered by Rev. A. Lively, pastor. A fine program was rendered, the master of ceremonies being Rev. L. B. Brown of Beth Eden Temple.

New Hopes edifice was taxed to its utmost seating capacity. Many prominent speakers discoursed. Then after several eulogies and the benediction, the full parade marched back to Alpine Hall and was dismissed by the Grand Master, L. P. Lee of Los Angeles.

Coffeyville, Kansas Whites Owe Apology To The Blacks

BY: WILLIAM PICKENS
(For the Associated Negro Press)

But it will not be paid: for mobs are no such good sports as that. In March they tried to lynch colored men and to burn the colored people's homes because two white high school girls said that three Negroes had broken in and raped them.

But in June, after a little ordinary detective work, they find out, to their great chagrin, that the men were white, and that the "raping" was done by pre-arrangement with one of the girls, who wanted to be "raped" and who agreed to bring along two other girls, so that the other two men could rape them. Of course, the other two girls, not being in the trick, were to get an honest-to-goodness raping. Fortunately the mother of one of the other girls refused to let her daughter go "spend the night" with Julia Mooney, —and the upshot was that there were only two girls for the three men.

After it was all over, the two girls went to a neighbor's house, shouting "Niggers!" and told their story.

Coffeyville became an armed camp of white savages,—colored people were insulted,—several thousand men broke into the jail to lynch a Negro "suspect," who was deserted by the officers and saved himself by hiding. And one of the daily papers justified the violence in editorials,—demanded of the colored people that they should "ferret out" and deliver the criminals,—and took the usual fool position that innocent colored citizens can be held responsible for the acts of criminals who happen to be of the same color. Colored men had to fight to defend their homes and shops from nitroglycerine and mobs brought in from Oklahoma, and now some of these colored defenders are under indictment for "rioting," while not a single member of the attacking mob has been held.

But Julia Mooney and Ira Kennedy, the planners and principals of the little "raping party," and the white people of Coffeyville are looking "sheepish" out of the corners of their eyes when they meet a colored citizen.

Julia Mooney, about 19 years old, and Ira Kennedy, 20 years old with a wife and children, are both from Oklahoma. They know how it is done down there: just go in and have a good time and then shout "Niggers!" and everything will be fixed up all right. We are really sorry for the innocent Asbare girl, 17 years old, who was led into this trap by the Oklahomans.

If the people and papers of Coffeyville have courage, they will apologize to their colored citizens.

COMMENTS

Well! At last! California, or at least a part of California, has succeeded in placing herself in ranks of intolerant states. The Y. W. C. A. has been compelled to cancel its convention date because the city of Oakland refused to entertain impartially the delegates. That is: the hotels and cafes of Oakland drew the color line. There is considerable work cut out for the "Better Relation" organizations of that city and with the coming influx of Dixians it will be very strenuous work to disillusion them of the prejudiced ideas they have brought with them.

Saw a letter the other day from a Georgian who was making inquiry concerning the possibilities of the San Juaquin Valley. He stated that he was a farmer; a tenant farmer, that the conditions down there were getting deplorable. The niggers wanted wages for working and were becoming "sassy." But first he wanted to know if it was true that the "niggers" and whites attended the same schools? For a long while that ilk was attracted by the word "Southern" and did not get north of the Tehatchipi. He followed Sam and Eliza. But when the latter found out that the fog was not deadly, and drifted this way, John "Peck" followed.

The Convention goes to Portland, Oregon, which, a few years ago was a rabid den of racial intollerance. What a change! California has openly boasted of her freedom from racial hatreds. And now, what a change! What has brought about this change of racial view in Portland? It has not been accomplished by any militant effort. The mass and indignation meetings hve been few. This change of feeling has been wrought by bringing the different races together in an understanding relationship which has slowly, but surely, permeated its citizenry. Too much credit cannot be given the Associate Editor of the Portland Advocate for her part in bringing about this changed racial feeling.

The Governor has returned from his vacation, and all are on the quive to see what his action will be in the Anita Whitney case. By the time that this is read his decision will have been given the public. Whether the splendid woman whose sympathy for the "under dog" led her into the meshes of the Syndicalism Law, and a sentence to prison, shall serve that sentence or receive executive clemency. Opinion is divided. The Governor is, himself, in a dilema. Should he extend clemency to Miss Whitney, pressure will be brought to bear for the pardon of those serving terms for the infraction of that act. Should he withhold clemency the sentimentalist will have their inning. There are a lot of the latter.

There is quite a lot of politics going on under the Dome. Reorganization of the State Government; Reappointment of Legislative Representation; State Official Appointments—Oh! ever so many things are occupying the spotlight. There will be a big fight on reapportionment. It will go to a Referendum. We have our own ideas concerning that measure, and at the proper time, will state them. It has to be studied thoroughly to find the motive and whether the motive impelling it is sinister or not.

We were among the millions who listened in when the President made his lanatory speech and decorated Col. Lindburgh. We heard the applause and the cheers. He landed the daring aviator as the carrier of friendships to the nations of the world, as ambassador for world amity. Down on the crumbling levees of the Mississippi River there were hundreds of black refugees of the floods. Sick with fever and undernourished because the food was denied them; unclothed, because the funds which were publicly subscribed, were otherwise appropriated; tagged like cattle; numbered so that any white man could pick them out for peonage; all of these and greater atrocities were at that minute being committed. Did not the President know of those things? If he does not know, why is it that those who are so close to him, who have his ear, his appointees, acquaint him with the facts?

Senator Shortridge has indorsed Judge Harold Louderback for the Federal Judgeship. Senator Hiram Johnson indorses Judge Frank Griffin for the Federal bench; Mrs. Wilderhurst has been set aside, but there are several other candidates, among whom are Welch, San Jose; Weynard, Colusa.

The Civil War was brought vividly to mind with the death of Henry Farley who fired the first Confederate shot at Fort Sumpter. He was 88 years old and died in New York on June 4th.

The only time that a poor white man of the South will wince a sympathetic feeling toward a black man is when both are in imminent danger and the white person depends on the black one for his safety. When the recent floods were at their apex, carrying destruction and death in their wake, there was no color line. Black and white alike clung to the frail supports which were the dividing lines for security. Then when assured of safety the old virus began to permeate and color hatred vied with the water moccasin in its deadliness. They were treated with less consideration than the drowned cattle. Denied the remedial relief which a philanthropic public had sent to lessen the suffering and ward off the threatened pestilence.

A great to-do has been made because the Soviet, Russian Government stood twenty agitators, who criticised the actions of the officials, up against the wall and shot them. Shame! cries the nations, and Uncle Sam leads the chorus. Now, let us turn Uncle's face toward the South of his own habitat. To date over four thousand men, women and children have entered eternity by the way of the mob. They were people of African descent who for some trivial accusation, being impertinent, asking for the wages due, in dispute over a hog or mule, were shot, hanged or burned to death.

President Coolidge on his way to a summer vacation in the Black Hills, South Dakota, stopped over in Indiana to dedicate a War Memorial. It was the usual thing: generalities and platitudes. We did hope that the President would have the courage to voice his antagonism to certain violations of National Law which is being exposed. Peonage in its vilest form was brought to national notice even when the flood waters of the Mississippi were taking their toll of property and life. Men and women were tagged like cattle and forbidden to move from a certain area until claimed by some white man. All of this has been brought to national notice, and rigid investigation made. Wrongs righted and violators of the law punished. Not because the victims of the act were black people, but because they are American citizens and are due the protective power of the government.

Some people argue, and say, "Why do they stay there? Why don't they come North?" It's a century or more since Attucks was slain on Boston Commons. His blood fertilized the soil in which was sown the seed of our national freedom. Added to this is the years of unrequitted toil and the tears that watered the earth of the South and made the Southland blossom and bloom. The black people of the South are as entitled to the protection of the Federal government in the environs of the South as in the North and it is a travesty on our form ministration of its laws, when we look at it otherwise.

But the protests of our "leaders" can be easily hushed to a whisper of government, especially in the adwhen they are called in off the Capitol steps and promised "something." If we had one or more Race representatives, or representations of the Race, in the legislative halls of the nation; if we could conjure up leaders who could and would subordinate their personal political ambitions to the benefit of the mass; if we could induce them to vacate the steps of the Capitol waiting for that appointment as "Minister to Dahomey" or some other crumb; if we could get it into their heads that one elected office is worth forty appointments, as far as the political progress of the Race is concerned, maybe we will be learning worthwhile politics.

WOMEN ENTICE MAN BEHIND SIGN BOARD; BEAT AND ROB HIM

Tony Calisgas was walking down San Pedro Street when he met Mary Alexander, 1423 E. 20th and her companion Margaret Nettie. They solicited him and he followed them behind a bill-board where one held him while the other hit him over the head with an iron bar. During the melee the other one cut him under the eye with a pocket knife. He was badly bruised and beaten but managed to hold one till the officers arrived but the other fled with $100.00 they had taken from him. Officers Clark and Bradford made the arrests.

SAILOR HOFFMAN VS. ERNIE OWENS TUESDAY, JUNE 27th

Godfrey vs. Clisby, July 5th, Olympic

Sailor Eddie Huffman, one of the best light-heavies in the boxing game is matched against Ernie Owen on next Tuesday's card at the Olympic Auditorium. Huffman is the hard-socking battler who gave Tiger Flowers such a great battle before a surprised crowd last July at Ascot Park. Ernie Owen is one of the stars in Dutch Meyer's great stable, a mere boy who by a string of sensational wins has advanced to the top ranks on the Coast and is figured to add a victory over Huffman to his already long string.

The rest of the supporting card is up to the usual Olympic standard. Staying over for one more fight Geo. Godfrey boxes Neil Clisby on July 5th in the same arena, and Tom Jones, his wise manager claims the fast-stepping San Berdoo boy is the only one who can take big George.

For there are plenty of those kind of managers and they do hurt the game. When they are colored they hurt it for the race as boxing is the only game in which a colored man gets a real chance to gain fame, fortune and respect.

But as to the remark in "Fisticuffs Row" about Tom Tisdale losing Thompson it was not meant that he lost the contract; he has the contract and the full power that goes with it. But with no disrespect meant toward Mr. Sielski, we explained this, that by "losing him" we meant he has, through some way that he can probably explain best, lost the influence he had over the boy when guiding him into the good bouts that made him one of the biggest drawing cards in the country. I have always felt friendly towards them both and regret any differences that may have occurred between them, but at one time he had the whole ear and attention of Jack and then is when he should have held his advantage.

Weaver Fishing Party Says, "Now You Tell One"

Mr. James Weaver and Mr. Roy Bailey are leaders of a little band of faithful fishermen and women who angle every Sunday in the pacific waters of the Pacific.

On Sunday last they returned with a wonderful tale from Santa Monica. One of the party in pulling up his line found that a mackerel had taken the hook, a lone had straightened him, a halibut had copped the lone and a big barracuda had gotten up the whirlpool—so the surprised fisherman pulled in all at once. Whether there was any mistake or not in the tale, the tell of many a mackerel caught dotting in the bunkers of the party who arrived with a large number. All the above agreed that the "mackerel" swung through a large circle in the water. Fishing is keen at present, halibut and yellow tail are here at present.

Two Good Little Men Kept Their Word

JIMMY MURRAY SUBSTITUTED BILLY EVANS IN GREAT CARD THURSDAY, JUNE 16

Jimmy Murray is a great little square shooter promoter at the Culver City Stadium. Billy Evans is a great little sharp-shooter in the ring. Billy, a wonderful featherweight, has, thru lack of proper management, been unable to secure a showing before the local fans, but promised that once given the chance he would prove that he is really worth while and can fight.

Jimmy Murray promised the Soaring Eagle who interceded for Billy that at the first opportunity he would give him a chance. And the chance came when Caballero was ruled off the card for boxing at a picnic previously, and when the second match was made, Daugherty had to pull out because of sickness. This left Billy a chance at Manhattan Joe Rivers in the main go and Jimmy kept his word.

Thrown into the ring against a tough, hard-hitting Mexican, who tore in all the time, Billy, with just a few hours' notice put up a wonderful battle. He met Rivers' rushes with a lightning straight left that drove him to cover in the 3rd round, but the game Ohio feather kept right on him, beating him out of his shell until at the start of the 4th a hard left to the solar plexus droped the Mexican for more than the count, so Billy had kept his word too.

The crowd was well pleased and gave the attorney a big hand. He is now signed up for several bout at Fresno San Diego and other clubs.

Young Harry Wills Has New Addition to Name

For originality in ring names, they have picked a world beater for Young Harry Wills, colored knock-out sensation from San Diego whom Tom Scott expects to take East next month for a campaign around Cleveland, Chicago, and other points on the other side of the Rockies where the ring game thrives.

Here on the Coast, boxing scribes have christened Young Harry Wills "The San Diego Sandman."

Wills is regarded as another rare fistic edition which comes out of the mould about once in ten years.

His fighting is remindful of that of Stanley Ketchell, George K. O. Chaney, and Frankie Neil in as much as the audience never knows when Young Harry will let go with his lightning bolt and the evening's entertainment will be over with.

Until the last round has passed, an opponent is never quite sure whether he will remain on his feet in a fight with Wills, or be put away.

Taking the case of "Jimmy Duffy," the classy Oakland welterweight Duffy, who had beaten "Pinkey" Mitchell and other top-notchers, was matched with the young colored boy from San Diego who was expected to prove a set-up.

For four rounds Duffy was winning nicely from Young Harry Wills. But in that fourth stanza a blackie flat flew out like a bolt out of a clear sky.

Duffy went down with a thud and physicians had a difficult time reviving him.

To prove that his right hand is a real dream producer, Wills stepped out and knocked a string of others to sleep, including Billy Murphy, Argie Walker, and Pat Mills. He knocked these three men up silly street in one round with his right hand sleep producer.

A famous sports critic of the Pacific, who nicknamed Wills as the "San Diego Sandman" declared that Wills has that "it" which Eleanor Glynn writing about. But instead of "sex appeal" Wills has the well-known "Socks Appeal."

Young Harry Wills is a former San Diego high school football star who was an all-around athlete while attending the institution.

He is one of the very few fistic sensations to survive the aged fadey of a hod-carrying occupation which the Cinders Kids, Senior (Smith & Wills' real name) was working at in order to support a large family.

Wills appears in the classy welterweight championship ranks and many times have Manager Tom Scott and his pet pugilist Champion Joe Dundee in the ring with the "San Diego Sandman" when sensational knockout punches by the latter have put Champion Joe to the mat.

Chief Bendy Best Light-Heavy Prospect On Pacific Coast

Ernest (Chief) Bendy, a mere school boy with only three or four fights under his belt has been named as one of the best prospects on the Coast by experts in the boxing game. He is more than half Cherokee Indian, his father being chief of a tribe in Oklahoma and his mother with a broad stripe of the Cherokee blood. The boy has a wonderful future before him.

WALK MILLER MAY MAY SUE KEARNS

In a letter which dropped out of the mail pickle on to the old desk this A. M., Walk Miller, one of the finest, smartest, most considerate managers in the fight game writes the following:

New York.

MR. HARRY LEVETTE,
Sports Editor, California Eagle,
Los Angeles, Cal.

Dear Friend LEVETTE: I, as well as the boys under my direction appreciate fully all the co-operation you have given us and send best regards. I am in hopes of getting Flowers and Walker in the ring again this year and getting the title back. This will depend largely on Kearns, and if I don't get him to go through with his contract, shall enter suit for damages as soon as he violates same by fighting Milligan in Maynard Smith, with many thanks for past favors and kindest wishes for myself and the boys.

I am,
Sincerely,
WALK MILLER.

The above should help discredit any rumors which have from time to time been attempted that the Flowers-Walker fight was "on the fritz" and was a put-over on the part of Flowers. There is no better proof of sincerity on the part of both boys than the above letter from Miller, and rather than see them lose a chance at a championship, I am sure they will agree to a return match.

Colored Kids Excited Over Mutt Dog Show

At last the boy with a long-tailed, lop-eared, splay-footed dog of various colors and various breeds has come into his own and all in the vicinity of Central avenue, Boyle Heights, the Furlong Tract, Watts and the West Side, the colored boys are grooming up their respective "best friends" ready to lead them proudly before the public.

Five hundred dollars to the winner of the first prize at the first annual mutt dog show of Southern California is the bait that is attracting hundreds of boys and girls to the big event scheduled for Ascot Speedway, July 9th, while several hundred other cash prizes also have proved attractive. More than 500 entries have already been received and it is believed that close to 10,000 dogs will be entered by the time the show opens.

Officials of the show announce that the office at Ascot Speedway will be open at all times now and telephone requests for application blanks, and information is available by calling ANgeles 8253.

Hundreds of kids and their dogs visited the speedway Saturday to enter their pets and obtain information concerning the show. Everybody of them is enthusiastic and few of them will admit that they have any chance to cop other than the $500 first prize.

Officials have again issued a request to the kids of Southern California to get their entries in as early as possible because of the huge amount of work involved in having all the entries listed correctly. Announcement of the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce, Hartman Robeson, superintendent of the Humane Animal Commission and other civic organizations, has been given and scores of business and professional men have interested themselves in the event through memories of their own boyhood with their canine pals.

Among the prominent spectators of the event will be Rin Tin Tin and his wife, besides many other dogs, fowls and animals famous in Movieland.

Fight or Get Out at the Main Street A. C.

That's the word the boxers hear Saturday nights at the busy fight factory on Main Street when the matchmaker gives his last warning; and that is the word the referees yell all during the battles especially when the firing begins to lull. That is why the cash customers get to go home early for there are always plenty of knock-outs.

Saturday Night's Bill

HE SHOOTS A MEAN POOL CUE

O. J. Mills, champion pool and billiard fancy-shot expert who has been on exhibition Wednesday and Thursday at the Abyssinia Pool Hall, claims the world's championship in this game of skill. He came to town offering to play any of the best local players 50 or no points. He has a program of 250 fancy shots, plays Chinese pool, Finger billiards and all the standard games to perfection.

TENNIS CHATTER

A BIG RE-ORGANIZATION MEETING WILL BE HELD AT "Y" SATURDAY, JUNE 25

BY: WILLIAM MILLS WATSON
1040 Desert St., Phone 3746

Well folks, finally the Tennis Insurrection is upon us here in Los Angeles. A meeting well attended and consisting of tennis members have submitted a request for the East 12th Street Y. W. C. A. Saturday 1 P. M. has been granted all club members and others (who really have the good of tennis and are interested in its future advancement locally) is hereby requested to be present.

This writer is going out with a number of the others in the north part of town (and I don't mean Pasadena) and I am sure that we will be able to get a large number of the tennis players in the north part of town to attend. Let's all get together and see what we can do to help the game along.

Now, just whether the Federation is vitally necessary to the future of tennis in the West might be discussed at the meeting as well as a book of other things. So there it is, all around and come loaded.

HONG TOM HAWKINS TO MEET MACK HOUSE AT PASADENA

Next week the bout between Mack House and Long Tom Hawkins, were each has landed in a ring on a boat in Alaska, Long Tom Hawkins and his managers from Africa have been clamoring for a Pasadena. They claimed the boys there will get only international but get no decision and also that the referee there was overseas. And as one of the managers (I forget which) they say they are willing to take a chance on the referee. Both boys are in fine shape and will go at it hammer and tongs.

GIRL-ETICS

by:
GLADYS MATHONICAN

One of the most interesting baseball games of the year was played by two girls teams. The games were at Snyder Field, 35th and Compton avenue and was played last Saturday afternoon.

The 12th Street Center Girl Reserves proved themselves to be better baseball players than basketball players by being victorious in their first baseball game.

The members of the Golden Poppy Girl Reserve team, each and every one deserves congratulations on the wonderful game they played.

At the end of the second inning, the score was 15-9 in favor of the Golden Poppies. The 12th Street Center G. R.s got busy then and held them down to 20 points at the end of the last inning, being themselves up to 24.

This was considered a thriller by all who attended and anyone who misses the next one will miss even more than a thrill. So be sure to watch this column for the date and place of the next game.

Newly decorated foyer, new seats and general repairs will soon make this one of the most beautiful family theatres in the West].

ing or doing anything, and lack of co-operation in tennis generally during recent years has caused considerable unrest among ambitious and active-minded net game supporters. They have button holded one and another along the curbstones at different times and this meeting is the result.

Their goal is one real Tennis Club in Los Angeles that will behave and act like a tennis club, also to have that Real Club get a hold on a piece of earth and construct something to tennis on or about. All of which may sound very lovely, but there is also another little angle to this thing which might be interesting to mention in passing. The Western Federation of Tennis Clubs which governs tennis West of the Rockies, under the supervision of the American Tennis Association which body governs all tennis played by our group can only exist so long as it maintains six clubs according to the By-Laws of the parent body, if the six local clubs were absorbed by one club or even two clubs, the Federation would officially cease to exist.

Now, just whether the Federation is vitally necessary to the future of tennis in the West might be discussed at the meeting as well as a book of other things. So there it is, all around and come loaded.

BABY JOE GANS KNOCKS OUT TOMMY O'BRIEN IN TWO MINUTES

The King is dead, long live the King! or words to that effect welled from the throats of nearly 12,000 yelling, screaming white and colored fans when "Killer" Tommy O'Brien fell like a beef before a vicious right uppercut that zipped up his chest to the point of his jaw from the hand of Baby Joe Gans. The big arena was tense all up to the climax as this was one of the most important bouts of the season and marked Baby Gans' new rise to popularity after his loss to O'Brien by a decision in the same arena a month ago. The fact that Gans was fouled repeatedly and the unjust kidney punch was used by O'Brien in the first fight made the fans all agog to see the "Young Master" get revenge with these blows guarded against and ruled out.

A deafening roar met the gentlemanly Gans as he entered the ring while a mixture of cheers and boos met O'Brien as he climbed through the ropes.

Seemingly "rearin'" to go, O'Brien never returned to his corner after the instructions in the center of the ring, but at the bell rushed Gans, shooting a terrific right. Gans had been training to lead to him as well as his famous counter punching, so met him with all guns, ducking the right and wading in with a blow to the body. Both seemed determined and after two short clinches Gans ducked another hard right, caught the "Killer" coming in and smashed in his uppercut. O'Brien rolled over while referee Lee tolled the count; he tried to rise, then fell back and lay while the fatal "ten" sounded the end of one of the most feared lightweights on the Coast.

O'Brien weighed 140 pounds, Gans 137 pounds. This settles for once and all the mastery of the Coast lightweight ranks and places Baby Gans in line for bouts at New York.

New England Pays Tribute to Mrs. Malone And Poro

(By: A. N. P.)

Boston, Mass., June 20.—Riding triumphantly on the wings of her recent victory in the courts of St. Louis, where the destiny of the Negro's richest business institution hung in the balance and of which columns of newspaper copy was spread on Negro weeklies the length and breadth of the country, Mrs. Anna Pope Turnbo-Malone came to Boston Monday.

She received a tribute from the people of New England, the like of which no Negro since the days of the immortal Booker T. Washington has enjoyed. The ecstatic welcome was not alone because of the contributions of Poro College to Negro industry, but because of the contributions of Poro College to Negro industry, but because of the efficacy of its founder's business genius as well, it seemed.

At the A. M. E. Zion Church, Monday evening, 2,000 people climaxed the full day's program with their cheers as the revelations of Poro were unfolded through moving pictures of the institution, the twenty-four piece girls' orchestra of the school, and the fervent speech of Mrs. Malone herself.

"We have come personally to thank you for your prayers, your support, and for your faith in Poro College during its darkest hours," Mrs. Malone said.

"It was through the loyalty and service of the Negro Press-Nation wide, that Poro was saved to the race. The institution is yours. Come and enjoy it, but don't abuse it. The work is my contribution to the race—a realization of my life's dream. White women of the world spend thousands to beautify themselves. They are honored and respected because of their good appearance.

"Before we began to cultivate beauty we were called 'Aunty,' 'Mammy,' 'Eve' and 'Jane.' Now we are addressed 'Miss' and 'Mistress,' as we assume dignity, poise and grace. This physical appearance leads to modesty, thrift, culture, and the acquiring of homes—healthful and attractive.

"The time for Negroes' complaints about not having a chance in life has past. You cannot use obstacles as excuse for failures. We have young men and women fully equipped for life's work, but they are too easily discouraged. Prepare yourselves for the ordeal and success will come. Color is no bar, you cannot succeed, however, if your early days are spent seeking pleasure and amusement alone. Get all the education possible and use it to full advantage," Mrs. Malone concluded.

Diplomas were issued to Mrs. Sadie Lumpkin, Lillian Bussey, Virginia Gladen, and Margaret B. Simril, four graduates of the Boston Branch of Poro College.

Oddly enough, Mrs. Malone's trip here afforded an occasion for the formal opening of the Boston sub-station—a beauty parlor in charge of Mrs. J. E. Lewis, said to be second to none in equipment and attractiveness in New England.

Aside from the music of the Poro Girls' Orchestra directed by James Harris, and the singing of Mrs. Ethel Hardy-Smith, lyric soprano, short speeches were delivered by Rev. W. H. Jones, Samuel A. Allen, Rev. B. W. Swain, John W. Youngblood, Mrs. Marie King and Mrs. John B. Hall.

Mrs. Malone and her party of forty people, who are touring the East, left on a midnight train for Philadelphia.

UNIFORM AUTO LAW SHOWING GAIN

"A movement toward making the streets and highways of California safe for both motorist and pedestrian was definitely launched last week at the California Public Safety Conference held in Berkeley," was the statement of Clarence R. Snethen, executive secretary of the Los Angeles Traffic Commission, who has just returned.

"For the first time, safety agencies' efforts," he continued, "are to be coordinated along a definite line for the reduction of traffic accidents. This co-ordination is made possible by the adoption of a program which will be used by every safety group in the State. This program is divided into three activities:

"First, the education of juveniles through the medium of the schools. At the safety conference there were a large number of school officials, local, county and State, all of whom agreed to use the juvenile program as developed at this meeting. The Automobile Club of Southern California has been highly successful in its school work, carried on under the direction of its safety manager, Mr. E. B. Lefferts, and the State program is planned along similar lines, thus assuring its success.

UNIFORM ORDINANCE

"Second, to secure the adoption by every municipality in the State, of the unform traffic ordinance, which is based upon the Los Angeles ordinance. This will make it unnecessary for motorists to learn more than one traffic ordinance in the entire State, and will unquestionably make it easier for everyone. This particular activity has in the past been handled by the Automobile Club of Southern California, and the Californa State Automobile Association, who have succeeded in securing its adoption in some fifty-five California cities to date. They expect to carry on the work during the coming year, with the assistance of the groups represented at the California Public Safety Conference.

"The third question is that of educating adults, both motorists and pedestrians, through a State-wide publicity program to be handled through every group interested in public safety. The purpose of this program is to effect the reduction of death, injury and damage through traffic accidents, the reduction of insurance premiums, taxes, cost of automobile maintenance, cost of street-car and railroad operation, to provide smoother, safer and faster flowing traffic, and finally, to secure a better understanding of respect for and compliance with traffic laws and regulations.

GAS TAX REFERENDUM

San Francisco, June 20.—Circulation of referendum petitions directed against the State bill boosting the gasoline-tax rate an additional 1 cent per gallon and its companion measure, the highway fund allocation bill, is scheduled to begin here tomorrow.

As the petitions go into circulation one of Gov. Young's strongest henchmen, Maj. Charles L. Tilden, president of the Harbor Board, and one of the leading figures in the Draymen's Association, will find himself in an embarrassing position with the State executive, a position giving rise to much comment by politicians.

CRUX OF SITUATION

The situation, politically, revolves indirectly around the Wagy truck-tax bill, which Gov. Young signed, and which provides for a graduated weight tax on trucks in place of the present 5 per cent gross receipts tax. Referendum petitions already are in circulation against that measure.

Maj. Tilden's organization is in the field with petitions directed against the Wagy bill, but his associates, who threatened Gov. Young with a referendum of the gas-tax measure if the weight-tax bill was signed, have gone ahead despite Maj. Tilden's position and made good on their threat to institute a referendum on the gas tax. Inasmuchas a referendum on that bill would be incomplete without similar action against the allocation of funds, the two are companion propositions in the petitions.

DELAY IN SIGHT

The gas tax passed the Legislature as Senate Bill No. 3. It provides for a tax of an additional cent on each gallon of gasoline sold to the consumer, thus providing the State revenue on gasoline of 3 cents per gallon.

The allocation Bill, which was Senate Bill No. 826, provides for the distribution of the revenue raised by the gasoline tax. It divides the highway system into two divisions, known as primary and secondary systems, and specifies what sums of money shall be expended on each of the systems.

BIG TAX PAID BY U.S. CAR OWNERS

Automobile owners of the United States paid $564,605,783 in taxes to the Federal and State Governments in the last year, according to the National Automobile Club. This figure does not include personal property taxes.

Registration fees are $288,233,352; the gasoline tax amounted to $187,603,231 and the internal revenue $88,929,180.

The United States Bureau of Public Roads estimates the total amount expended for construction and maintenance of rural highways in the last year at $1,038,356,943. The various State Highway Commissions expended $598,560,943 and municipalities spent $431,696,000.

Motor cars consumed 7,885,259,566 gallons of gasoline on which there was an average tax of 2.38c per gallon. California led all other states in the total of its gasoline levy with a two cent tax. The amount was $16,603,123.

Estimating an average of 15 miles to the gallon, the total mileage of cars in the United States last year was 118,239,078,400 miles.

Applicant for Credit—No.

Know Engine Number On Your Automobile

Be sure you know the engine number on your car as well as your license number. Often, a motorist is at a loss to identify his car when stolen or wrecked because he has no record to check up on the machine.

Note the engine number and license number of your car in some secure place so that you can refer to it at any time. Knowing the engine number of your car is a protection against theft, according to the National Automobile Club and it is astonishing to know how few motorists have ever checked up on this important item.

In checking the motor number, do not take for granted the motor number on your registration slip but investigate for yourself and see that the car which you drive is the car described on your license certificate.

VACATION PLANS

BY: DOROTHY GLASS

VACATION time is comin', and I want want to go a-runnin',
Where the fishing's good and plenty,
Way up close to nature's heart.
Where there ain't no need for shavin',
And clean shirts and social slavin',
And a chap don't have to wonder if his clothes are really smart.

WHAY I want's two weeks of campin',
Clear away from city's crampin',
Where a lyin' pen's a kitchen and the daylight reigns supreme.
Where old breeches and a sweater form your costume—nothing better
For a tent ten miles from nowhere, close beside a mountain stream.

BUT the Madam, she says 'No Sir,' for she wants her outing closer
To the modern type of plumbing, with the water cold and hot.
'Not for me the wild outdoors with mud carpets on the floors.
And an ice-cold creek for bathtub,' she remarked, 'No sirry cot.'

So my mind's in bitter quandary, and I've dug the old rifle rusted,
Shone the moth balls off last summer, and forgotten rod and hook,
And despite my earnest pleading letter ads we're nightly reading.
Wonder why my wife hates camping? Maybe she doesn't like to cook!

If only the host and his car were mean pested.

For the sideline of whiskey-runners plan but little gain in their daily grind for overbowling sewer cleaners.

CARE OF YOUR AUTO

NOISY BRAKES

Don't get the idea that noisy brakes are merely objectionable to the ear and that the cause of the noise can do no harm. The brakes may be just as effective, but if they scream when pressure is brought to bear on the drum, it is a sign that they are not properly adjusted, or that there is foreign matter between the band and the drum. Either of these causes will result in excessive wear on the lining and gradually reduce the thickness of the drum.

The band upon which the lining is riveted should not be sprung so that any part of the lining will come in contact with the drum when the brakes are off. If both the drum and the band are true, there should be no great amount of noise, even if grit works into the lining.

A soft lining is more effective and is never noisy. When a lining becomes glazed it will begin to scream and cannot get a good compression. Gasoline will soften linings unless they are gone too far.

Brakes work better in damp weather. Moisture softens them and at the same time causes the fabric to expand. For this reason brakes should be adjusted when dry, unless you intend to moisten the lining occasionally. Holding a brake lining over a jet of live steam under it while on the drum will increase its effectiveness and life.

A brake band that drags will cause loss of power and burn out the lining. If the band is properly adjusted, the drum will not get hot if the brakes are not applied too often. Test for drags by running a few block on a level street and then touching a candle to the drum. If it leaves even a slight spot on the drum you have located a thief of power.

All linings may look something alike, but that is one thing you cannot afford to economize on. Buy the best quality.

GOLD COAST LIMITED UP FOR BID

At last the great suspence is over with, and the boys can take a full breath once more, as it has been decided to give the Gold Coast Limited, crack transcontinental train to Chicago to the Los Angeles district permanently. This is good news for some and bad news for others. By that I mean it is good news for those who are able to hold it, and bad news for those whose seniority is somewhat lacking in security. Chicago is a great town as many of the porters who have been operating on the Gold Coast can testify. On account of the present condition of the extra board it is thought that this train will bring forth some strong bidding.

SUPERINTENDENT HOLDS SERVICE MEETING

T. A. Sims Makes Strong Appeal for Employees Plan

A service meeting was held last week in the Southern Pacific Yards in which service matters were discussed by porters and officials. Many things were brought to light which have heretofore been in the dark., Mr. T. A. Simms, noted orator of the Los Angeles District, made an urgent appeal to the porters in the interest of the E. R. Plan, stating that the Plan would function to the porters' interest if given another trial. Mr. L. A. Coffin also gave a short talk on the same subject, also Mr. Arthur, Dist. Supt. Mr. Calvin W. Murdock, Los Angeles' last representative was present but had very little to say maintaining an attitude that a still tongue makes a wise head; something unusual for a lawyer. The writer spoke on the valor of porter E. A. Thompson, recent Los Angeles District hero. The chief speakers of the meeting were District Supt. J. L. Arthur, Mr. L. A. Coffin and T. A. Simms, and the Chief subject was the Plan. A fair crowd was in attendance.

LOS ANGELES HAS TOO MANY PORTERS

Why all these extra porters? Los Angeles has about 65 Porters on the list running extra when about 30 could handle the work. Who is responsible for this overflow? and why so many men? Mr. Coffin should get busy if it is in his power and do some more shipping to other districts. Porters now on the extra board are barely able to make a good living, something should be done and done at once to relieve this condition.

Armstrong who is well acquainted with the gentleman and who asked for a word with the big butter and egg man, but he gave him the high hat. Now, what we want to know, G. W. is, How Come? James A. Gray, President Red Caps Association, Makes Correction to No Error Week Statement

A statement published in this column giving credit to the head porter of the arcade station and several others for a 100 per cent showing during No Error week has been signed wrong by President James A. Gray of the Red Caps and Janitors Association. Mr. Gray states that the first two weeks of the month of May were set aside by the executive committee of the Red Cross Association as No Error week and out of 43 men there were three errors made; whereupon they have averaged one daily. He attributes this fact to lack of co-operation in the Association. While they have a membership will at a 75¢ per cent in reality they find it a hard matter to muster up over a 25 per cent attendance. The following porters are responsible for their creditable showing a credit by the association: James A. Gray, W. H. Bacon, J. Armstrong, S. Scott, H. J. Hendrey and S. W. Thornton.

1879 CALIFORNIA EAGLE 1927

VOLUME 41 LOS ANGELES, CALIFORNIA, FRIDAY, JULY 1, 1927 No. 4

ATTY. CLINTON ROSS HEARD FROM IN HONOLULU

Honolulu, T. H.,
June 11th, 1927.

DEAR MR. BASS:

I am ashamed of my delay in not writing you a letter sooner. However, I shall never forget the kindness of yourself and Mrs. Bass toward me. I came to Honolulu January 1st, 1927 and find it a very beautiful and interesting place to live. My trip has been amply rewarded by the education of it. I am admitted to the Bar here now. I get the "California Eagle" from Prof. Beinke, who was much with me when I first arrived.

I was very glad to hear of Mr. Nick Childs of Topeka, who is an old friend of mine and one whom everyone from the West feels indebted to for the great work of the "Plaindealer."

It is my hope that some day when I return to Los Angeles, it will have improved in many ways. I am sure that the California Eagle will play the leading part for I perceive you are opening your columns to the public. A better leader of the race is bound to spring up than any who has appeared so far.

Thomas Johnson, Noted Baritone In Benefit Recital

Thomas Johnson, the "golden-voiced Negro baritone of the West" will favor the Los Angeles music-loving public with another of his popular recitals on the evening of July 14, in the auditorium of the Second Baptist Church, 24th and Griffith, at 8 P. M.

Mr. Johnson has for years held the reputation of being the outstanding Race vocalist in the West. He has the unique distinction of being the only soloist to have sung continuously at the Sunday services of Aimee Semple McPherson's great Angelus Temple over a three-year period. Mr. Johnson has been under contract there for that length of time and his tremendous popularity has shown no indication of waning. He has also proven a popular radio entertainer throughout the Southland, and his spiritual numbers are in great demand.

With characteristic bigness of heart Mr. Johnson is setting aside a number of important engagements and is donating his talent and the entire proceeds of the recital to the "Bunche Scholarship Fund" sponsored by the Iroquois Friday Morning Club. He will be assisted by Mrs. Lavenia Harper Patterson, accompanist, and Miss Nelle Johnson, soprano, who are also contributing their services gratis.

All seats will be popularly priced at 50 cents.

MISS ALBRITTON SAYS "GOOD-BYE"

Of course she can sing "Good-Bye" until you feel the tear-drops start but on Sunday afternoon at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. N. Albritton of Council St., she said "Good-bye" to a host of her friends.

More than 200 persons called at the Albrittons during the hours of 4 and 7. Those who stayed to the last hour enjoyed an excellent program. Miss Albritton very generously tried to sing nearly all they asked of her. Others taking part on the program were Mrs. Mrs. E. Hollins, reading; Miss Lilian G. Hart, piano selection and Mrs. Idell Hateman, reading.

Miss Albritton departed for her home in Cleveland on Wednesday following.

Disappointing an audience which packed Judge Elliot Craig's court room to every inch of space with 2000 on the outside the Sheffield and Randolph case was continued until next Tuesday, July 5th, at 10:00 A. M.

As announced in our last issue Attorney Towson S. Grasty, formally withdrew as counsel for Sheffield and was substituted by Judge Thomas P. White. The case will surely go on trial next Tuesday. Watch these columns for the latest developments in this, which promises to be one sensation after another.

Official Head Scottish Rite Masons Re-elected Recent Session Held In This City

L. P. LEA
M. W. G. M. Scottish Rite Masons

The above is the likeness of L. P. Lea, 33rd degree, Grand Master of the Most Worshipful Hiram of Tyre Lodge, Scottish Rite, Ancient Free and Accepted Masons, Inc., for the State of California. Mr. Lea has been active in Masonic Work for the past three years. He has held the office of Grand Master for three years. In these years he has had quite a struggle but due to his untiring energy and aggressiveness, he has succeeded in bringing the Most Worshipful Hiram of Tyre Grand Lodge from a place of obscurity to a substantial standing.

Among the things he has accomplished is the amalgamation of the M. W. Alpha Grand Lodge and the M. W. Hiram of Tyre G. L. The M. W. Hiram of Tyre G. L. is chartered and incorporated under the laws of the State of California and has ten lodges in its jurisdiction. Some of which are in Fresno, Calif., Oakland, Calif., San Pedro, Calif.; and Los Angeles, boasting a membership of more than 250 good men.

Mr. Lea, like all enterprising men with a definite purpose in view and starting at the bottom did not have it easy these past years. He has met with rebuffs and has been disappointed in many of his pleas but his tenacity has finally won for him success which is greatly appreciated by his members as well as the general public. He made

Reports of Committee on Interracial Relationships

To the Northern Baptist Convention:

Progress toward a better understanding between races is a slow growth. Narrowness of sympathy and the feeling that "I and mine are little better than he and his," or even "than you and yours," seem ingrained in human nature, especially in Nordic nature, unless indeed it is equally strong in Chinese and Indian, and their nature where any one of these races

BOYS AND GIRLS DAY AT INDEPENDENT

No page or pages in the history will shine as brightly as those two which stand for the result of Boys Day, June 19 and Girls' Day, June 26th at the Independent Church.

The boys, under the supervision of Clayton Russell, had a most successful day. A Boys' chorus of 57 voices was the first attempt at anything of that kind in the State. Much credit is due to Gilbert Allen, the director of the chorus and Clayton Rusell, the supervisor and master of ceremonies. These two boys together, worked constantly to put over this unsurpassable program.

Boys Officers and Other Participants on Program at Boys' Day at Independent Church: Clayton Russell, Supervisor; Gilbert Allen, Director of Program and Music; John Porter, Master of Finance; Victor Nickerson, Reading Clerk.

The program consisted of such wonderful talent as Bernard Jefferson, Lawrence Lassiter, Harold Grant, John Porter, the Master of Finance, Victor Nickerson, Reading Clerk, Samuel Brown, the Organist and who performed his job wonderfully. Mr. LeRoy S. Hart, a brilliant young man who is a graduate of William, Lincoln, and U. S. C. and who is a Master of Arts, was the boys' speaker for the morning. His sermon consisted of logical facts that can be applied to every day life. The subject was, "The Boys' Business."

The evening program featured the picture "Boy O' Mine" and Bernard Jefferson who delivered his oration that won him fame in the National Oratorical Contest. The boys really did themselves justice. The playlet entitled "Boys will be Boys," written for the occasion by Gilbert Allen, was a scream. It is very seldom that such a large group of boys is gotten together in a church, so they should be commended for their effort.

The following Sunday, June 26 was Girls' Day under the supervision of Jessie May Nickerson. The program and music was under the direction of Marguerite Robinson. These two girls were the leaders of the girls in this outstanding day.

The girls had a chorus of 55. Viola Baucom, a graduate of Roosevelt High and a winner in the Oratorical Contest, was the girls' speaker. Her subject was, "The Wages of Sin is Death." She preached a very emotional sermonette. Through her preaching and a touching solo sung by Marguerite Robinson, 17 people joined church. Six of this number were converts.

The girls worked hard to beat the boys this year, for the boys won last year. This year's contest was the closest in history. The girls won accession, attendance and finance. The boys won program, order and system. But the girls points gave them the narrow margin that made them win over the boys.

The losing side was to give a banquet for the winning side. So on last Monday evening in the Young People's Hall of Independent the boys, under the direction of Clayton Russell and Gilbert Allen, entertained the girls. In connection with the program, a three-reel picture was run.

The program consisted of a quintet; vocal solo, Marguerite Robinson. Wedding bells rang when Mr. Watts Asbestos (Gilbert Allen) and Mr. Sassafras (John Porter) were married by Clayton Russell, the minister, to Jesse May and Quincella Nickerson. Bessie and Georgia Harold were bridesmaids. This was certainly a comical playlet.

There was plenty of ice cream and cake for everyone present. These activities were presented by the Art-Rel-Titus Club of this church which meets every Tuesday evening at :30.

Some say that the signs of the time point towards moral and spiritual corruption on the part of the youth of today, but to those who so think, we advise them to use as a remedy for such a mental disease, such program as those rendered by the boys and girls of Independent Church last Sunday and the Sunday before.

Girl Officers and group participating on Girls' Day at Independent Church: Jesse May Nickerson, Supervisor; Marguerite Robinson, Director of program and music; Bessie Harold, Reading Clerk; Willie B. Nickerson, Controller of Finance.

Los Angeles Beauty Returns To City

MISS ANITA THOMPSON, CONSIDERED ONE OF LOS ANGELES' MOST BEAUTIFUL DAUGHTERS, TO SPEND VACATION WITH PARENTS

The younger social set of Los Angeles is agog with interest concerning the many social events that will be given for beautiful, vivacious Anita Thompson, who returned to the city a few days ago after an absence of more than four years.

Accompanied by her mother, Mrs. Beatrice S. Thompson, Miss Thompson left Los Angeles July of 1923 joint delegate to the Annual N. A. A. C. P. Convention at Kansas City, and from there to Chicago, where she visited relatives.

From Chicago she went next to New York, where she was bridesmaid in the spectacular Robinson-Jackson wedding which claimed world attention. The impression made by this charming little Western beauty and her brilliant mother was lasting, and New York even now is looking towards the advent of their second coming.

While in New York Miss Thompson was a student at Columbia University. In connection with work she visited such cities as Philadelphia and Baltimore paying especial attention to art exhibits in these cities.

In 1924, still a student at Columbia, Miss Thompson became a member of Miller & Lyles "Runnin' Wild" Company. In this connection Miss Thompson hoped to realize her fondest ambition in the development of her artistic trend from the standpoint of the theatre; but "experience is the best teacher" always. So her fond hopes from this angle soon waned. She immediately left the stage, but continued to study.

In the fall of 1925 she returned to Baltimore to visit an aunt, and while there with her eyes, and mind always open for educational advancement, she discovered that here was an opportunity if properly graped, and was willing to take time and lay the foundation hence she entered the Baltimore Normal and in the meantime continued her work at Columbia thru the medium of the extension classes.

In the Spring of 1926 she was graduated from the Normal, and immediately took professional examinations for elementary and junior high school English and art teaching positions, and for art supervision.

But not yet satisfied with her preparation in the Summer of 1926 she went in for further training at the Chicago Art Institute where she specialized in sculpture, in which line she had already attracted attention, having been represented by busts of prominent Baltimore educators and Negro heads in Eastern Art exhibits.

In the Fall of 1926, Miss Thompson had the distinction of making highest marks in examinations taken for a position in the Baltimore Schools and is now art supervisor in the public schools of that city.

In an interview Miss Thompson says that she has enjoyed a very pleasant year's work, and while here on a Summer vacation, will study at the University of California.

Help Ralph Bunche On To Harvard, Then To Oxford

In view of the fact that Mr. Ralph Bunche has, through self-help and perseverance, attained the highest honor in the gift of the University of California, Southern Branch, that of valedictorian of his class, thereby receiving a scholarship to Harvard, and since the faculty by vote has recommended this young man to represent the University in competing for the Cecil Rhodes Scholarship which would entitle him to a course in law at Oxford College, London, England, we, the members of "The Iroquois Friday Morning Civic and Social Club," believing that every true and loyal citizen of our race will be glad to help this worthy young man financially, that he may be unhampered in his first year at Harvard and will be free to utilize all his energy in competing for the Cecil Rhodes Scholarship, are sponsoring "The Ralph Bunche Scholarship Fund of $1,500." Therefore we are appealing to you to contribute to this fund.

ON THE SIDEWALK

BY C. A. B.

Henceforth this column will be dedcated to happenings seen and heard n the sidewalk from time to time.

Last Sunday we would love to have een more people and automobiles in the LeBlanc Boys' Band demonstration.

Prof. LeBlanc, in his effort to organize these boys is deserving of every upport. There are many places and many amusements for boys of this day and time that stand for less in mental nd moral development than this training offered by the ardent and never iring Prof. LeBlanc.

Prof. Wm. T. Wilkins, as far as we are concerned, as a musician and teacher of the piano, is a unique character. We have known Prof. Wilkins, possibly much longer than the person who criticised him in these columns and in the columns of our worthy contemporary and we certainly entertain the greatest respect and highest esteem for his genius as an interpreter of the piano.

We also feel keenly the pangs of bitter criticism for like Prof. Wilkins, we too, have labored long and hard to achieve what little we claim in the way of success.

So we say, "Cheer up, Prof., continue on your 'Path of Destiny' until things that high praise and respect that is due you."

WHAT'S THE MATTER WITH BRUCE'S BEACH?

For some little tme, a gang of white terrorists, in the name of the law, have infested the surrounding territory of Bruce Beach threatening to arrest Negroes who dared to take a plunge in the ocean, but Sunday they encountered a little Waterloo when they ran into Walter Gordon, Sr.

It seems that these petty officials, after running some forty or fifty persons away last Sunday, encountered Walter Godron, Sr., who upon being invited out of the ocean and threatened with arrest and lodgment in jail, gave these same officials some fine points of law and they, after listening with some emotion, beat a hasty retreat.

REPORT ON INTERNATIONAL RELATIONSHIPS

nearly filled the horizon of the people's vision. Unfortunately those who make loudest profession of religion, and who have the strongest faith that their religion is the only religion, are often the least tolerant and least regardful of the feelings and rights of others. But the life of Christ shows the compatibility of unquestioning faith with love for other races and classes. The Christian Church has hardly begun to learn the lesson of human brotherhood. Witness the exploitation of weaker nations by the so-called Christian nations, the Ku Klux Klan, and the attitude of Americans toward the dark races, and toward the many foreigners.

Yet progress is made not only by centuries as shown by the abolition of slavery, the diminishing frequency of war, and at least the widespread attempt to establish a World Court and a League of Nations; but also by decades as indicated by the decrease of lynchings from over 100 annually in the United States thirty years ago to an average of forty-six the last ten years, and thirty-one the last five years. New laws have ben passed against lynching in the South, and the activities of the Commission on the Church and Race Relations of the Federal Council of Churches have brought about a far better understanding and feeling between large sections of the two races. Much, however, remains to be done. The number of lynchings almost doubled in 1926 those of the preceding year, rising from seventeen to thirty. The danger of race friction is not confined to any angle part of the country. Of the thirty-three attempts at lynching thwarted by officers of the law, four were in Northern States. In many respects Negroes in the North suffer hardships resulting from race feeling as severe as in the South.

We believe that the only agent which can bring into the world the spirit of universal brotherhood is the church, and that it can do it only by proclaiming the gospel of Christ, which is the gospel of love, and by furthering knowledge and acquaintance between the races. Little knowledge of another race is knowledge of externals, in which race differ. More intimate acquaintance brings recognition of deeper characteristics in which all races are alike. It reveals something capable, sensitive, admirable, divine in the members of every race.

The Interracial Commissions—North and South—are doing a great service in bringing together in hundreds of cities the better representatives of the two races for better understanding and acquaintance. Remarkable results in good-will and sympathy and in actual diminution of friction have come from these meetings. In view of these facts your committee would recommend the adoption of the following resolutions:

RESOLVED, That, we endorse most heartily the work of the Commission on the Church and Race Relations of the Federal Council of Churches of North America, and the work of the Commission on Interracial Cooperation; that we commend the Church Women's Committee of the Commission on Church and Race Relations of the Federal Council in promoting local conferences of white and colored women, and we urge the hearty co-operation of our women in these efforts; that we commend the growing practice of exchange of pulpits and choirs between the races of Race Relations Sunday, and the securing of Negro speakers at home-mission meetings in the white churches.

RESOLVED, That, recognizing the far-reaching injury to foreign mission work resulting from lynching in this professedly Christian land, the utter inconsistency of this practise with the teaching of Christ, its violation of every ideal of the church and of the foundations of our government, and the duty of the Christian Church to do everything possible to prevent this evil, we would commend to the churches every effort to make this a lynchless land, and would urge pastors and people to support officers who fail to use means in their power to protect prisoners and uphold the law, and to promote legislation for the strengthening of law enforcement.

CHURCH CAMPAIGN

CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH ENTERS UPON CAMPAIGN TO RAISE FUNDS WITH WHICH TO PURCHASE LARGER PLANT

The Lincoln Memorial Congregational Church of 34th Street and Central Avenue, is entering upon a Campaign

Rev. E. E. Lightner
Who is leading his Congregation in an Effort to secure a more adequate Church Plant to raise funds with which to purchase the Vernon Avenue Congregational Church and property located at the corner of Vernon and Hooper Avenues. The present building in which the congregation has been worshipping almost from the beginning, is very inadequate for carrying on the work of the church, since it consists of only two rooms including main auditorium. The officers and members of the church feel that the time has come to enter upon a larger service to the growing community, and realizing the inadequacy of the present plant, have joined themselves to the task of making a simultaneous appeal to the general public to aid in this enterprise.

The pastor, Rev. E. E. Lightner, presented the matter to the Interdenominational Ministers' Alliance last Monday and received their hearty endorsement of the proposed campaign. Every person to whose attention this appeal is called is urged to do all he or she can that this worthy church may have a suitable building in which to do its work.

LeBlanc's Boys' Band Stages Big Parade

LeBlanc's famous boys' band enlivened the atmosphere on last Sunday by a most creditable parade and playing of military airs on dress parade from 8th and Central to Adams, returning to 21st Street to Compton.

The band was escorted by a detail of police and headed by the official guide and press car of the California Eagle.

The parade was to demonstrate the efficiency of the boys and to advertise the band concert which was given at the Central and Washington Avenue Hall, Tuesday night.

The Eagle is highly appreciative of the wonderful service which Prof. T. R. LeBlanc has rendered the community and he will continue to receive our hearty support in his endeavors to life up and assist our youth along lines of advancement.

STEALS FROM BENEFACTORS

Police are searching for a would-be "sheik" by the name of James Freeman who stole $41 from his benefactors, Mr. and Mrs. Shank, 819 E. 28th street.

Freeman is a young brownskin fellow about 22 years of age of what is called the merino type with reddish hair, large mouth and feet.

He arrived in Los Angeles driving an ancient Cadillac several months ago and fortunately securing a job washing dishes an Owl Drug Store began a campaign of fast stepping among what new acquaintances he could make. But because of his loudness and uncouth actions while entertaining a sweetheart as a none too welcome guest at the soda fountain he was fired on the spot in the girl's presence.

The car, his clothes, ring, etc., fading away he applied to Mr. and Mrs. Shankle for board and room until he could find employment. In spite of the fact that his rent bill had run to over $20 besides his board, his benefactors still kindly gave him shelter and trusted him, even with money. But last Wednesday morning their kindness received a severe jolt. Freeman learning that Mrs. Shank was was going down town to pay some bills offered to fulfill the errand for her. She gave him $41 and the bills receiving a promise that he would return by 10:00 o'clock. He has not returned yet, not even for the few clothes he brought there in a handbag.

Thinking something had happened to him they waited nearly two days before reporting the theft to the police but checking back over his actions they recollect that he may have been one of the gangs of youthful thieves and hold-ups that the police have been rounding up and taking the alarm fied at the first opportunity. This has given a greater incentive to the search for him and his capture is expected shortly. He has a mother, Mrs. Lula Harris, 637 Paris St., Atlanta, Ga., and a brother in Philadelphia, but officers visiting both of them found they had not heard from him.

PHYS-ART-LIT-MOR CLUB

The Phys-Art-Lit-Mor Club held its secod ad last open meeting of the club year at Christian's Tavern, Friday afternoon, June 7th.

Mrs. Alice Patton, chairman of Literature, conducted the first half of the program, giving a brilliant resume of the work of her department. Mrs. Russell Hudson rendered a selection from Chopin and Mrs. Edna Steward gave a most interesting and instructive talk on "What to Read and How to Judge Literature."

Mrs. Patton then introduced Ralph Bunch and Bernard Jefferson who have achieved such recognition along scholastic lines, that the Phys-Art-Lit-Mor Club wished to show them some appreciation for their worth to the Race as clean, ambitious young manhood. On behalf of the Educational Department, Mrs. Rebecca Hill, the president, presented them with a monogramed notebook and scrapbook.

Mrs. Stella Walker, who has brought such helpful programs to the club during the last quarter dealing with Applied Psychology under Moral Philosophy, had for her numbers: Mrs. Mayme Lowe-Payne, vocal solo; Mrs. Anita Harvey, clever paper on "A Good Tonic at a Cheap Price"; Dr. Eva Young, a very beautiful review of the "Great Stone Face"; Assemblyman Roberts closed the program by explaining several of the bills introduced by him at the last session of the legislature.

After the program, one hundred members and friends enjoyed a social hour and all the visitors were lavish in their praise of the excellent being accomplished by this club.

ABOVITA CLUB

Wednesday evening was nothing but the greatest of pleasure for the Abovita Club when Mr. and Mrs. E. Johnson at 3808 Naomi street entertained them.

The meeting was called to order by the president Mr. Bill Johnson. Business was discussed. The evening was spent playing cards. Prizes were won by Mrs. Lessie Harper, first; Mr. Cecil Cathcart, second and Mrs. Wilson, taird.

New members were taken. Mrs Johnson proved herself to be an ideal hostess.

LOUISIANA STATE CLUB PLANS FIRST PICNIC

What a time Louisianans are planning to have at their first big outing. One could almost smell those delicious sandwiches and potato salad in different ones discussed the contents of their baskets.

Louisianans, if you want to live again those happy picnic days spent back at old Milneberg, be present at the next meeting to help complete arrangements.

This picnic will be the culminating event to the second membership drive which is now on.

LA FRANCE CLUB

The La France Club met with Mrs. Odessa Hudson, 3447 McKinley, Wednesday afternon. A delicious lunch was served, followed by cards, club prizes were won by Mrs. Gooch, first; Mrs. Floyd, second; and Mrs. Henry, booby.

Guests for the afternon were: Mesdames Spears, Creusot, Bieze and Worsham. Guest prizes, Mrs. Bieze, first and Mrs. Creusot, second.

ADELPHIC CLUB

A never to be forgotten affair was the party given by the Adelphic Club last past Saturday evening in Boyle Heights at the home of Mr. William Bowdan, their secretary.

The home was profusely decorated with blue and gold streamers and serpentine was in abundance. The name of the Club was very conspicuously placed on the wall in large letters of blue with a gold streak through the entire center. Refreshments were in abundance.

From the time the orchestra started playing until the small hours of the next morning when every guest had left, the gay spirits of the guests gradually increased into one riot of laughter, fun, frolic and abandon.

The increased demand for a repitition of this Adelphic party, gives indication that the next house party may have to be held at the Shriner's Temple in order to accommodate all of the Club's friends who are clamoring to be on the inside this time.

THE NATIVES OF CALIFORNIA CLUB

The Natives of California met at the residence of Amanda Asbury with Mrs. Haynes as hostess on Tuesday.

The meeting being of a business nature was a very interesting one.

If you want to have a real good time come to the Sojourner Truth Home on July 15 and enjoy a god white game with the Natives of California.

Mrs. Haynes proved to be an ideal hostess.

Kansas Club Grows

The Kansas State Club met at the Y. M. C. A. Tuesday evening and continues its onward march for new members by enrolling a goodly number. This newly organized club promises to become a great factor in the uniting together of former Kansans, and launching a constructive program for the advancement of the members. Next meeting will be held Tuesday evening at the Y. M. C. A. All former Kansans are invited to be present.

ACE FOREMAN RETURNS TO L. A.

Lacking 800 miles of his goal from L. A. to New York, Joe Foreman with his mechanic, Artt Ward, returned by rail to this city from which he started, Sunday, June 19.

All Los Angeles was much interested in his flight and prayed for his success. The reason of his failure can be summed up briefly—lack of backing.

We are satisfied that he kept in touch with the faithful few who were primarily responsible for the progress which he had made and that if he had had the backing that there would have been a different ending and that he would have reached his goal in some manner before his return.

As we all realize the great success of Lindbergh in his remarkable flight from San Diego to Paris showing rare courage, but not without unlimited backing. Personally, we think that Foreman's feat in crossing the Sierra Nevadas, the great American desert, the Rocky Mountain range, and reaching Chicago, even though by spurts, requires courage, stamina, and all of the elements which have made aviation what it is today.

We are therefore content for Foreman to relate his story for the people who read these lines, to pass judgment upon.

FOREMAN'S STORY

"I left Los Angeles, February 27th, flew to Santa Barbara where we had to spend the night because of darkness. Left for San Francisco the next morning, arivred safely. Then hopped off to Reno where we spent the second night. Left Reno Tuesday morning, arrived safely. Then hop-Tuesday night, where we were forced down because of motor trouble caused by running into a snow storm.

"After receiving money from the California Eagle, we repaired ship and flew on to Denver. From Denver we went to Kansas City and gave an exhibition there on the 27th of March. From Kansas City, we flew direct to Chicago. We would have continued to New York if the authorities had not decided that the ship we were flying was not airworthy.

"Then an exhibition was planned to raise funds to purchase a new ship to continue the flight to New York. Therefore a committee was formed, but through the attendant delay and being unable to handle the sale of tickets to advantage, the whole matter had to be dropped.

"I was disappointed in not being able to finish the flight on to New York, being so close to my goal, but I intend to make another try, however, after I have secured a ship sufficient for such a flight."

ATTORNEY CLINTON ROSS HEARD FROM IN HONOLULU

If I am any judge, or any power of observation whatsoever, I would say, that Los Angeles has more black people of educational training and talent who are trampled under foot, ignored, or relegated to the background, than any city in the U. S. Such an astounding assertion needs some 'proof,' of course. The railroad companies which terminate in Los Angeles have men of great educational training to sweep their cars and make their sleeping car berths. The public offices and corridors of Los Angeles are swept by college graduates, chauffeurs of more training along educational lines, than their white employers, dust cars, and change tires; the toilets and rest rooms of large business houses are presided over by black women of taste, refinement and education. Many of the professional men and conductors of impressive offices and stores are making less net income than menials and laborers. College trained men, heralded throughout the nation for prowess in athletes, graduate from California schools and become quickly unknown in the masses of Los Angeles. Most of these men belong to churches, lodges, legions and respectable social organizations. The almost Herculean task of reclaiming these lost and buried educated and talented black men and women is the task of the California Eagle. If education can once get the support of the masses, it can once strike off the fetters and chains of the custom that now prevails I believe it can be done.

If today it were in my power to suggest a remedy for the situation in Los Angeles, I would say that the race problem must be mixed up in Los Angeles as it has been in other places. You attend a Colored Church in Los Angeles, or a Colored social event, except in underworld circles and you see no one present but your own race of people. That is regrettable. No one is permitted to see the intelligence of your group but themselves, any man would feel a pride in inviting a member of any other race to hear Father Cleghorn's address, or Rev. N. P. Gregg, or Rev. Brown of the Baptist Church, or Rev. Miller, or many other churches and pastors. So anyone would find a pleasure in inviting a friend of some other race to a social affair to the homes of some of the school teachers, or successful business people in Los Angeles. The mixing and mingling of races among the better classes creates understanding and friendship. On Central avenue and its vicinity there are Chinese, Japanese, Mexicans, Jews and others. These people are wanting access to the Christian religion and American ideas and language. In Honolulu they have joined all Christian Churches, and are living American. Suppose a campaign was opened in Los Angeles for a get-together meeting between the Black men, Chinese and Japanese and Mexicans. Have their organizations and churches over to your meeting and go over to theirs. You will find that Negro education will get better support from those people than from their own. It will take time and patience, but once the Negro gets the friendly attitude of the Chinese, Japanese and Mexicans, his business and education will be used in preference to white education, which is now being reluctantly used by those persons. Oriental trade and Mexican trade is stretching into millions. The Negro minister is the first man to start. If he can entice those races to attend his services, Christianize them, Americanize them in language and dress and manners, he will start something in Los Angeles that would put the education of his race above its present standing and the value of his citizenship above its present value and I venture to say in five years from now the Negroes who have gone to colleges and have attainments will be in positions where their education will bring them incomes and that will in turn, relieve them of the aspersion which the untrained Negro now can truthfully cast upon him by saying to another: "There is Mrs. So and So who sent her boy and girl through college and the boy is waiting table on a dining car and the girl is down in the rest room of some large business house's toilet. The Negro will never find his way alone groping around in the dark, nor will he ever gain it by having it shown to him by the white man. If he ever gets on the right road to success and education it will be by the guidance and support of some strange people whose minds have not been Colored and prejudiced and whose interests are common with his own.

I did not mean to preach a sermon, Mr. Bass, but I did so unconsciously. If you will forgive me this time I will by next time not to be as unthoughtful. However, I spent many years in Los Angeles and there are many people there whose acquaintance forms the most pleasant pages of my memory, and whose parts and attainments I greatly admire, but whose miserable conditions in adversity have moved me to pity in considering my own perplexities, and whose hope for the success of themselves and their children I will always look forward to as having something in common with my own. You and Mrs. Bass are some of those friends, although you are among the most successful.

I will close for this time, hoping to hear from you at any time. I beg to remain as ever,

Yours sincerely,
CLINTON T. ROSS.

General Organizer of the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters Issues Statement

New York City, June 22.—The following statement was issued today by A. Philip Randolph, General Organizer of the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters:

"The policy of dismissing from the service porters suspected of being affiliated with the Brotherhood, and against which Mr. Samuel Untermyer and the other distinguished lawyers protest is a most dangerous and unwise one for the Pullman Company to pursue. It is bound to react unfavorably against the Company. Such a policy certainly will not succeed in preventing the porters and maids from exercising their legal right to organize a union of their own in preference to the union organized for them by the Pullman Company.

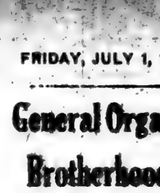
"It tends too, to impress upon the porters the belief that the Pullman Company is determined to thwart its employees' efforts lawfully to secure a living wage, shorter hours, and improved working conditions. The Brotherhood is prepared to show that this policy is being rather systematically carried out by some of the superintendents of the various districts which is bound to lower the standard of service to the public, in that old and experienced men are being replaced by new and inexperienced results.

"In the closing days of the 69th Congress, Hon. Emanuel Celler of Brooklyn introduced a resolution calling for a thorough investigation of the finances of the Pullman Company and its relations with the traveling public and its employees. The resolution was consigned to the Rules Committee of the House. It is expected that at the next Session of Congress, Mr. Celler and others will make a strenuous effort to have the resolution transferred to the Committee on Labor. The Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters is in favor of the Celler Resolution and is confident that an impartial investigation, as the resolution demands, will unearth facts which cannot hurt but strengthen the claims of the porters and maids for a living wage, shorter hours and improved working conditions."

Passing On Of A Pioneer

Firmin Frank Fortier was one of the early pioneers with a large family to come to this city, arriving in 1892.

Fortunately knowing how to make and manufacture cigars, he raised his large family and gave them an education. He had at one time, a large hog ranch which proved to be a big help in the economy of life.



His boys all understand their father's trade which they can well carry on. A son, L. C. Fortier, in this city; Allen U. Fortier at one time a hog rancher, is now a Biblical Sterioptican Lecturer of this city; two sons were brick masons and one a plasterer.

Firmin Frank Fortier was born in New Orleans, La., in 1850 and passed on June 14, 1927. He was the father of 14 children, leaves 9 living and 28 grandchildren and 4 great grandchildren.

TO DEDICATE WITHOUT ANY MORTGAGE

The beautiful New Wadsworth services Sabbath, July 2nd at the 11 which Elder P. G. Rodgers is the pastor, will begin a month of dedicatory services Sabath, July 2nd at the 11 A. M. hour.

Sunday night, July 3rd the great astronomer evangelist—Mr. Philip Knox and his church and choir from Pasadena—will take the 8 o'clock service. This is the first Sunday night service ever held in this church, which is located at 37th and Wadsworth streets, opposite the Wadsworth Public School.

Every night during the week (July 4th and Saturday night excepted) services will be held by a different city congregation and everyone of our many friends are especially invited to attend all of these interesting services.

By all means see this large church—built to accommodate over 700 persons—located easily, reached by all car lines, and absolutely without one paper against it, either ground or building. The Adventist congregation is very proud of this achievement, made possible by their own gifts and the liberal gifts of the friends of the church. Mr. C. Smith the architect and Mr. Fred Matthews the builder will be glad to escort the visiting friends through the building.

Remember the date of the dedication, Sabbath, July 2nd at 11 A. M.

GRADUATE CHAPTER INSTALLED BY ALPHA KAPPA ALPHA SORORITY

After three years of untiring effort the local chapters of the Alpha Kappa Alpha Sorority in Los Angeles have realized their dream of a graduate sorority chapter. The Alpha Kappa Alpha sorority was the first to organize in California and has steadily grown since coming to the Coast. The new graduate chapter was installed on Monday evening at the home of the retiring Basileus of the under graduate chapter, Miss Helen Wheeler.

Mrs. Neosha Bartleson who has held a national office in the organization was deputized to install the chapter by the western reginal directress Miss Ida L. Jackson of Oakland, Calif.

The new chapter makes the 55th chapter of this great organization of Negro college women, and the 4th chapter on the coast. Its name will be the Alpha Omega Alpha chapter until further word from the directorate.

Heading the organization as Basileus is Neosha Venerable Bartleson, A. B. of the University of Kansas. Mrs. Bartleson is a well known music teacher of this city and taught mathematics for several years in the Kansas City High School.

Charter members of the new chapter include: Minnie Wickliffe, Ph. B.; Marjorie Bright, A. B.; Alice Garrott, D. D. S.; Vada Somerville, D. D. S.; Corine Stovall, Ph. G.; Ursula Pruitt, Ph. G.; Coty Johnson, Ph. G.; La Verne Martin A. B.; Minnie Payne Greene, A. B.; Leola Lewis, Ph. G.; Naida McCullough, honor graduate of Music; Helen Wheeler, L. L. B.; Louise Kenner, A. B.

Los Angeles should be proud of this forward step by its women. The new chapter membership has the distinctive membership of two women dentists, Dr. Vada Somerville and Dr. Alice Garrott and the first Negro woman to receive an L. L. B. in the state of California, Helen L. Wheeler.

The chapter will also initiate soon three Alpha members—Ruth Temple, M. D.; Ruby Jefferson, A. B.; and Blythe Jones, A. B.

The work of the undergraduate chapter at the University of Southern California will be carried on by Mesdames Yolande Stovall and Hortense Cory and the Misses Willa B. Nickerson, Thelma Overton, Alice Kennedy, Anna Louise Griffin and Winona Winder.

The Gamma chapter at University of California Los Angeles will send its graduates into the new chapter, following the initiation of its pledges.

Will the N. A. A. C. P. Take These Cases?

The Negro is being intimidated at Manhattan Beach and other public places. A drive is being made against him in many sub-divisions in an effort to prevent him from entering or to force him out if he has entered said district. Nothing would give the present officers and executive committee of the association greater pleasure than to be the actual defender of the Colored man's right in these cases, but even the N. A. A. C. P. must not be expected to do the impossible.

Up to the present time less than one thousand people here have joined the Association for 1927. If the Citizens of Los Angeles expect the Association to carry on this work, they will pay their membership and have their friends join.

This is your fight. Support the association and it will not fail you.

WILL ASK DELAY

It is said that attorneys in the Sheffield case, Richardson and Geisler, will make a desperate battle for continuance of the case to be called on the 29th, to which the District Attorney's office will fight to a finish.

Grapevine dispatch also relates a rising friction in the handling of the case, that is to say that Attorney Towson S. Grasty, who has occupied the position of counsel in chief, refused to be subordinated in the premises. That is to say Grasty will not consent to be a dummy and if there is any sitting in Richardson and Geisler will simply sit in with Grasty.

Another angle from the same line is that officer Randolph offers to tell the low down on the killing and this means he would turn state's evidence for immunity. From the same source we learn the District Attorney is not too anxious for him to do so, for he avers he has a complete case. However many citizens it is said, are urging that immunity be given in the case of officer Randolph.

FOSS SHOULD GO

Police Commissioned Thomas Foss should, by all means, be one of the has beens, for the good of the service. He is a weakling and not the man by any means for a place on the Commission.

RYLAND SHOULD GO

Dr. Ryland and jim crow should walk the plank and if Mayor Cryer is wise he will see to it that no un-American policy such as put in vogue by Dr. Ryland will stand for one moment in a great city like Los Angeles.

The Swimming Pool situation as foisted on the city by Ryland is a disgrace and could compare only with the barbarians South of the Mason Dixon line who burn human bengs at the stake.

LET JUSTICE REIGN

It has been very irksome for the reporters who hail from Georgia, Mississippi, Alabama, etc., who are engaged on The Examiner and some other of the dailies, to deal with the situation, as brought about by dark hued criminals of the moron type now before the courts. They harp upon them being Negroes and that the crime committed was upon white women. If these embryo reporters had their way and allowed full sway in headlines the old town would reel prejudice drunk in a very short while.

As a matter of fact the culprits at the bar are self confessed criminals and have committed dastardly and henious crimes and there is no mitigating circumstance. They should be punished to the fullest extent of their crime, even to being hanged by the neck if the law so provides. No matter what be their complexion nor the complexion of their victim, a law has been both desecrated and violated justice should be dealt out in all of its fullness.

The attempt to make prejudice out of an unfortunate situation does not come of good grace by anybody and the newspapers should be the last ones to resort to this sort of propaganda.

It is within our memory of many heinous deeds committed in this community, and they were not all committed by Negroes by any means whatever.

INDEPENDENCE DAY

We celebrate this July Fourth the one hundred and fifty-first anniversary of the Independence of the United States, or rather the declaration of that independence, for much fighting remained to be done after the colonists proclaimed their secession from the government of Great Britain.

The United States is not an old government as age is considered, but no nation that has ever been established has made such progress in a century and a half as has this one. Ohio was practically the outpost of American civilization when the Declaration of Independence was signed.

The thing which gives the United States a distinction from other great governments is that it has never adopted practices of military aggression, and the same liberty that was demanded by the colonists has been vouchsafed to other nations. America has always been the friend of weak peoples struggling to find themselves in a broader experience of freedom.

The career of the United States, unfortunately, has not always been one of peace, but history records that this nation has never engaged in a war that was not forced upon it in defense of moral principles in the interests of humanity, or by the aggressions of other peoples.

America, aside from providing a haven for millions of oppressed peoples of other lands, has made valuable contribution in all lines of activity to the world. The products of American genius in little more than a century have enriched mankind generally, with the assurance of much benefit to generations to come.

Independence Day is almost generally celebrated as a holiday. To most persons it is an opportunity of getting away from regular employments and participating in recreations which are so common in these times. There are still many patriotic souls, however, who have a vision of America's duty in the development of the nations of the future. They remember gladly the history of the republic, and look forward in hope to the beneficent part this nation is destined to play in world affairs.

THE PROMENADE

A contemporary writer bewails the passing of the old custom of "promenading" on pleasant evenings, and wishes that it might be restored. There is a reason in his plea.

Not so long ago, the summer twilight in almost every community found groups of people—nice people—strolling quietly along the streets, stopping to chat with other groups and combining social intercourse, mild after-dinner exercise and enjoyment of the best part of the day in a fashion as inexpensive as it was charming andconducive to health and neighborliness. As the champion of the promenade points out, it is a pity that the fashion of tearing about in motor cars with little result but the exhaustion of purse and nervous energy has so completely superseded this calmer method of enjoyment. Use your legs, he urges. It is cheaper than riding and more restful of mind and body.

CLOTILE APARTMENT HOUSE—1141 E. 20th St.

A forward step of progress by members of our group is aptly illustrated in the above acquisition by Mr. and Mrs. John R. McGuire of the Clotile Apartment House located at 1151 East 20th street.

This property is one of the most beautiful, spacious and pretentious apartment houses of its size in the entire city. The race is indeed fortunate in having at its command these modern apartments.

The purchase of this property involves a monetary consideration of quite $30,000.00. It contains 16 arartments, all of which are modern to the highest degree. The apartments are being thoroughly renovated and are now available for reservations.

Mr. and Mrs. McGuire are among our young and progressive young folk whose highest ambitions are to do the things worth while. They will conduct the same in a strictly high class manner and cater to people who desire the best.

Therefore, with its all modern conveniences, such as hardwood floors, modern steam heat, running cold and hot water, and likewise modern garages, it can be truly said that our folk in Los Angeles are moving on for greater things and demonstrating their true worth as citizens worth while.

MERE BOYS STEAL LOADED TRUCKS IN DAY TIME

Officers are searching for a gang of juvenile thieves who have been stealing large trucks loaded with vegetables from market at 7th and Central avenue. The boys, all colored, are of such tender years that their practice of playing and loitering around the market has been unsuspected until it was learned that it was their mode of watching their opportunity to board a truck and casually drive off with it, where they could unload its contents and sell them to other parties leaving the truck abandoned on the street. Several trucks have been found thus emptied after disappearing from the market, the most recent being one at 6th and Hooper which formed a clue to the gang of baby bandits who had stolen it.

PURSE SNATCHERS OPERATING

Another epidemic of purse snatching which has recently terrorized women living in the colored section of the city has broken out again. Mrs. Anna Hodges, 1548 E. 23rd is a recent victim. She was walking home early in the night when near her residence a man stepped suddenly from behind a tree, and ordered her to give him her purse. When she refused he snatched it and ran North on Naomi to 22nd and into a vacant lot. She was only able to get a fleeting view of him but described him as being tall, brownskin in color, and shabbily dressed. The purse contained $7.85.

JERRY MAY BE THE "WORLD TO HIS MOTHER", BUT—

Jerry Moore, 14 year old boy, may be the world to his mother if he has one but he had certainly been a nuisance to the Newton Avenue Police District. He has really been "Jerry on the Job," being picked up by various officers of the Division but on account of his age has escaped punishment. He kept both himself and minions of the law constantly in hot water during his career of crime and as fast as released plunged into some new misdemeanor. The most recent act of this young law-breaker was to get beastly drunk and when found by officers Berger and Rosser at 1129 E. 25th St. would not tell where he had obtained the groggy beverage. He was transferred as an ultimatum to Juvenile Hall where he will be kept under close surveillance.

COMMENTS

BY W. J. WHEATON

It used to be that, when they presented a Negro with a "hemptie," or gave an excess load of lead to hasten his departure from this mundane sphere, the white press heralded the news with six-inch captions. Different now. The Dixie folks are still giving "neck-tie parties," and having target practice on Negroes but if you run across any mention of it, it will be in some obscure corner of the paper, and why? The falacy of the unmentionable crime has been exposed. There is no other propaganda which can be used effectively. The eyes of civilization the world round are focused on the United States, and it tries to hide the evidence of her unlawful and brutal crimes. Every lynching of a Negro in this country should be featured by the press of the Race.

Several caravans of Los Angelenos have come through Sacramento on the way to the rich farm lands of the Butter Basin. We did not see one dark face, other than sun-tan, among the hundred or more who made the treck. For several years we have been urging the advisability of race farmers settling on some of the rich valley lands before it was all preempted. This talk of "Lo the poor farmer," is all 'apple sauce," using a popular saying. In order to be a witness to the prosperity of the "soil tiller," just meander through the streets of some town adjacent to a farming section and watch the Saturday purchases which Mr. and Mrs. will pile into their Big "Six" and his them back home, Prosperous? Yes! spell it with a capital P. Too bad that Mr. and Mrs. Race farmer could not get in, but, oh well, guess it was too far from church.

There were a number of things of racial importance, Nationally, the past week. As a matter of fact the lynching activities, hanging, shooting and burning of Negroes, in the South, is becoming so common it ceases to be news. Mrs. Ida Wells-Barnett, Chicago started something when she called upon Secretary of Commerce, Hoover to investigate the reports of racial discrimination in the issuance of rations to the flood sufferers in the Mississippi Valley. He appointed a committee headed by Dr. Moton, Tuskegee, Alabama, and, according to Secretary Hoover's reply to Mrs. Barnett, everything was perfectly lovely. No discriminations. But what else could be expected? See where Dr. Moton lives and has his being!

The question might be asked, and rightly, Why is it that when matters of vital interest to the Race are at stake, are to be considered, that the committees are chosen from the ranks of Southern Negroes? Surely not, because of Superior fitness. Why was not Bob Abbott of the Chicago Defender, Fred Moore of the New York Age, Lester Walton of the N. Y. World, Joe Bass of the California Eagle, Beatrice Cannady of the Portland Advocate, or a hundred or more others who could be named and whose place of residence would not have determined the text of their report named with others on such an investigation? The report of the Moton Committee is the obvious answer.

Take it in politics: Your representatives in the Councils, on the National Committee of the great party of your choice are from the States which have no representation whatever in election of your candidate. Yet, they are presumed to be your leaders in the political activities of the party. The gentlemen from Mississippi, Louisiana, Georgia are delegated by the "bosses" to tell the voters of Illinois, Iowa, Ohio or California, where to "head in." Some day we will awake and discover that the potency of our voting strength lies in, at least attempting, to elect men to representative offices.

This month, June, has turned out the usual quota of grads and near-grads. Many of them with the ego that they are going to give "Old Man World" a severe jolt when they swat him with the collegiate bat. Oh well! lots of us have had the complex, but after a few swings have decided to let the old fellow swing along in his own sweet way, only adding, if possible, our quota to the sunshine. A bevy of young high school girls held a convention in California's capital city. We tried to learn the motive for the meeting. We have always had an interest in the educational activities of our young folk, and love to hear their optomistic ideas concerning life. It is refreshing: "Youth must be served," so whenever we strolled over to the place of meeting the convention had adjourned and dispersed for some social function.

The Crisis of June carries a story of which Mrs. Ethel Clark, Executive Secretary of the Booker T. Washington Community Center, San Francisco, is the author. In her work Mrs. Clark has a fine opportunity to observe psychological reactions as applied mentally. Her work is social welfare has equipped her with a store of fundamentals which will be a sourceful fountain in her literary endeavors. It is to be hoped that her prolific brain will give the reading public many of her "Thought-children."

Governor Young has placed the seal of his pardon on the document which frees Miss Aida Whitney from her prison sentence for the alleged violation of the State Syndicalism Act. In a review of the noted case Gov. Young stated his reasons for the pardon. In the while he upheld the constitutionality of the Act and let it be definitely known that he in no wise condoned acts of violence or incentives to violent acts. Indeed that was a basis on which he placed the granting of the pardon. Absence of any overt act on the part of Miss Whitney. Of course there is any amount of adverse criticism. Some even go so far as to demand the pardon of the most rabid Red that ever destroyed a wheat field. The rank and file of us breathe a relief that it is all over.

They drove up to the corner of "J" and 10th. The rig looked as if it had been driven from the Pan Handle. A covered spring wagon drawn by an antiquated nag with a burlap sack across his loins. The sun was beaming down a hundred per. They seemed a little bewildered by the honking horns and rushing traffic. After looking around a bit the man pulled out a plug and took a "chaw." That seemed to give him courage and he stepped down to the sidewalk. She reached under the seat and from somewhere produced a box and with finger and thumb conveyed the contents to her mouth and proceeded to rub vigorously. "Hi 'nigger,'" this from the man to a passing Hindu. Our car coming along at the time precluded us witnessing the rest. But that is the calibre of the element that is following in the wake. They bring it with them. BEWARE!

PROTEST DISCHARING OF PULLMAN PORTERS

SAMUEL UNTERMYER AND OTHER DISTINGUISHED LAWYERS MAKE REPRESENTATION TO PULLMAN COMPANY.

FRANK P. WALSH, AMOS PINCHOT, HENRY T. HUNT, AND ARTHUR GARFIELD HAYS JOIN WITH HIM IN LETTER TO PRESIDENT E. F. CARRY OF THE COMPANY

The Letter

"DEAR SIR:

"The undersigned are a special committee chosen by the Citizens Committee of One Hundred organized to give support and counsel to the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters. We have been advised by the officers of the Brotherhood that the management of the Pullman Company appears to have adopted a policy of discharging a number of its most efficient porters affiliated with the Brotherhood in order to prevent the porters from establishing a union controlled by them and not by the Company.

"If such a policy has been adopted, we wish to protest against it. In our opinion, it will injure the quality of the service your Company renders to the traveling public. The avenue to high morale and better service is cooperation with legitimate desires such as the formation of a union of their own and not frustrated by fear. Furthermore, the Pullman Company cannot afford to establish the fact that it is willing to deal collectively with its white employees, and unwilling to so deal with another group equally qualified for organization, who happen to be of the Negro race. Such a position is in conflict with the law of the land as well as contrary to enlightened public opinion.

"The Watson-Parker Bill which created the United States Mediation Board before which the dispute between the Pullman Company and the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters is now pending, gives the right of self-organization to your employees. Your Company was, we understand, a party to the making of that law. The policy we protest is bad faith on your part in view of your participation in the formation of this law.

"We have the names and records of the men who have been discharged and will submit this material to you if you tell us you will investigate what may be unauthorized actions by your subordinates.

"May we have a reply at your very earliest convenience."

an extensive trip thru the East last July and as the representative from the M. W. Hiram of Tyre Grand Lodge, he attended the 53rd Biennial Session of the United Supreme Council of Grand Masters, at Detroit, Mich., and was made Grand Recorder of the Knights Templars of America and Supreme Chancellor of the United Supreme Council.

He has just closed one of the most successful sessions of this Grand Lodge, this being the 17th Annual Session and was held in Los Angeles, California, June 19-22, 1927, at the New Hope Baptist Church and two grand sessions at the Beth Eden Temple.

Mr. Lea was elected again to the office of Grand Master and will, no doubt set a very high standard in Masonry throughout the Jurisdiction. His sterling worth as a man and as a leader puts him in the foremost ranks as a leader of men. It was for this reason that his brethren put him into this very high office as Grand Master. With him as leader we are sure to put the A. F. & A. M., Scottish Rite, Inc., over the top in California.

GEORGE GODFREY VS. NEIL CLISBY OLYMPIC AUDITORIUM, 18th & GRAND, TUESDAY, JULY 5

CLISBY MAY BEAT GODFREY!

Next Tuesday night, July 5th, there will be more fireworks displayed than on any 4th of July since the Declamation of Independence. This will be a flock of glove rockets and depth bombs thrown by two of the greatest heavyweights in the ring today—Geo. Godfrey and Neil Clisby. Godfrey has been for some time the leading heavyweight contender in the world and seems to have been dodged by all of the Eastern heavyweights. Out on the Coast here he has beaten all the men he has met. Stopping some of them in three or four rounds; among them Chevalier, Jack Roper, Hawkins and others. But last week something happened which put belief in the fans that the Black Shadow can be squelched. Jake Kilrain stayed 10 rounds with him down at Culver City. And now here comes Tom Jones, the wise champion maker who manages Clisby with the statement that Neil will not only beat him but stop him.

Neil is a great boy, a pride to San Bernardino from which he hails. He is stockily built but packs a wicked punch, and is fast and deadly as a tiger which he showed by knocking out Mack House in jig time. No bout of the season has aroused as much interest and speculation as this one and every one is wondering especially along Godfrey's parade ground, Central Avenue, as to whether George will top off his departure for Europe by being flopped by the mighty socking Clisby. A wonderful supporting card open the hostilities.

What a Card of Stars At Culver City Stadium!

There's history attached to the great card that Jimmy Murray has lined up for the Culver City Stadium for Thursday the last day in June. You see two weeks ago Billy Evans the great little Buckeye featherweight made a great hit with the particular fans of the near coast town by knocking out Manhattan Joe Rivers after being substituted on short notice. Billy is stacked up against a still better boxer this week in Benny Chavez. Then in last Thursday's bouts Battling Manning and Harry Bubber Johnson in the semi-final too the Godfrey-Kilrain fight stole the show by a knock-down and drag-out bar-room fight ending in a close decision for Johnson. A re-match was the natural consequence so they are thrown together again this Thursday, so just as we go to press, this is what is taking place:

Benny Chaves vs. Billy Evans, ten rounds; Battling Manning vs. Harry "Bubber" Johnson, ten rounds; Marvin Tramel vs. Manuel Vacquez, ten rounds.

ST. LOUIS SWEEPS CLEVELAND SERIES

The four victories over Cleveland has run the locals' consecutive wins to eight and the boys are fighting hard to make it at least an "even" dozen and then some. The pitchers are doing their stuff in a jam-up fashion and the whole outfit is hitting when hits mean runs.

Urban League Reports On Industry for May

Bulletin No. 15 of the Industrial Department of the National Urban League summarizes employment conditions as follows:

While reports from New Jersey, Ohio, Illinois, Missouri, Texas, Maryland, Virginia, Oregon, Michigan, Indiana, North Carolina, Pennsylvania, Arkansas, Texas, Massachusetts and New York showed little change in the employment status of Negro wage earners—a situation not unlike others experienced throughout the country—some little advance was reported for both Negro women and men. The notable improvements were reported from Cleveland, Plainfield and Boston. The continuous rainfall interferred with the usual outdoor spring activities, but did not prevent the employment of many men in parts of the middle west which had experienced a long period of unemployment.

FAVORABLE CONDITIONS

In Cleveland there was a "slow but steady increase in opportunities offered men in skilled work." Two openings in positions formerly held by other workers were reported and placements showed a decided increase over those of the previous month. In Plainfield, N. J. a concern manufacturing metal toys gave employment to 50 colored girls, and reported that their work was very satisfactory. In Boston 25 new openings were obtained in hotels, and 15 factory placements were secured in jobs that had not been filled by Negroes. From Texas word came that Negro labor was regaining many places occupied by Mexicans, and many cities report activity in the building trades.

MISCELLANEOUS

The American Federation of Musicians protested against and thereby removed discriminatory practices against Negroes in dining rooms and hotels during its annual session in Baltimore. Several years ago this same organization's insistence brought about similar results in St. Louis.

Running only three months, a local labor union of longshoremen in Newark has a membership of 1,500. The industrial problems of Negroes living in Buffalo are promised attention by the newly formed Urban League of which William L. Evans, a former Industrial Secretary of the Chicago Urban League, is the Executive Secretary. Industry in the Pittsburgh District was enhanced when A. C. Thayer, formerly of the Atlanta Urban League, took charge of the Pittsburgh League which had been without an Executive almost a year.

ADJUSTMENT NEEDED IN TODAY'S TRAFFIC

Failure of individual adjustment to modern conditions of traffic is the chief cause of the present heavy toll from automobile accidents, according to the National Automobile Club.

Every child should be taught the fundamental principles of safety and the principal rules of traffic, according to Major James S. Greene, of the National Automobile Club.

Although education will be carried on in the schools the parent should not shift his responsibility and should see that before the child is allowed to walk about without supervision it should be schooled in the principles of safety.

Out of eleven fatal accidents in a single week in Detroit, five were children. At this time of the year the number of children playing in the streets is usually larger and it behooves the motorist to exercise increased care in driving within the confines of the city.

Ignorance of the law against children driving automobiles excuses no one.

Prosperity of U. S. Reflected In Cars

The importance of the automobile industry to the prosperity of the country at large is shown by the fact that automobile manufacturers buy 83% of the plate glass of the country, 89% of the upholstery leather, 13½% of the lumber and enormous quantities of cloth, cotton goods, paint and varnish, hair, padding and hardware.

Dentist (to patient in chair): "Do you wish gas?"

Patient (an ardent motorist): Yes, fill her up and change oil in the crankcase, too.

Dangerous Machines May be Ruled Off Road

The campaign inaugurated by an eastern newspaper to get all dangerous cars off the road whether by legal enactment or by action of the industry has stirred a great deal of comment.

Many cars operated now on the highways and in the city traffic are really a hazard to life and limb and the problem before the industry at the present time is how to legally dispose of these dangerous machines and do away with a hazard which has been growing year by year.

AUTO THEFT GROWS IN IMPORT TO U. S.

The question of automobile theft has assumed a place of importance in the automotive field today. As the motor car is not only an object of considerable value but has the peculiar quality of supplying the "get-away" for the thief, it is a popular agent accessory in the carrying out of crime, according to W. E. Schoope, Superintendent of the Theft Bureau of the National Automobile Club.

In 1926 there were 95,225 cars stolen but only 10,111 were not recovered.

The Automotive industry and the organizations which are combatting the thief are getting definite results from their activities and it is becoming harder and harder for the criminal to dispose of automobile property.

More stringent legislation and the co-operation of police throughout the country, together with the education of the public on the necessity of locking their cars is making itself felt.

A tiny leak will soon drain the gas tank.

Saturation Point Is Still Far Off

Some five years ago there was a great hue and cry about the saturation point in the automotive industry. Now the average American family is turning to the purchase of one car for each of its members. This is shown in a recent analysis by the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce.

In 1920 a tabulation of registration showed that only twelve families out of each one thousand possessed more than one car. Improvement in garage facilities and reductions in the price of automobiles has led to the increase in two-car families and fifty-five per cent of the families of the country now own automobiles.

The reasons given for ideal transportation facilities for the families have been:

1. The use of one car for business and one for pleasure.
2. One for rough farm use and one for going to town.
3. One car for school use and one for the family.
4. The old car was worth more to use than to resell.
5. Good cars at low prices now make two cars available for the former price of one.
6. All adults in the family need an individual car.

TRAFFIC BUREAU TO AID ENFORCEMENT

Efforts of city officials and civic organizations, such as the Automobile Club and the Traffic Commission, to establish the Traffic Fines Bureau in Los Angeles are due to a determination to obtain a more intelligent enforcement of traffic law violations, according to Dr. Miller McClintock, traffic consultant of the Traffic Commission.

Dr. McClintock is considered in the front rank of the nation's traffic experts, acting as consultant for San Francisco, Chicago, Boston, and Philadelphia, as well as Los Angeles. He is also director of the Albert Russel Erskine Bureau of Traffic Research of Harvard University.

"Many of the larger cities of the county, including Detroit, Chicago and Kansas City," Mr. McClintock said, "have introduced the Traffic Fines Bureau to meet a modern traffic contingency.

"There has been, for some time past, a growing conviction that traffic violations should be segregated, so that each class can be handled in the most effective manner. A logical classification is to group violations against public convenience into one class, which can be handled in a clerical character which merely involves inconvenience and do not endanger the public. This group makes up 95 per cent of all traffic violations and comprises such acts as improper parking.

"The second class of offenses are those against public safety and vary in degree from such acts of carelessness as cutting buttons to acts of malice and criminal carelessness such as reckless and drunken driving."

With this classification, it is possible to obtain much more logical and certain enforcement of the law in the courts. The parking violators should be treated differently from the drunken driver. The Violations Bureau makes this possible. Technical violators of the first class may pay stipulated fines without the formality of court procedure and with a minimum of inconvenience. This will clear the courts of the great majority of the cases that now burden their time and will permit of real consideration of the more serious offenses.

Progress is being made in arrangements for the new bureau, which it is believed, will be in operation by September 1.

The only thing in the way of automobiles nowadays seems to be the pedestrian.

ASK FOR STREET WIDENINGS

Requests that petitions be authorized for two important opening and widening proceedings have been made by the city council, and referred to the city engineer for attention. Groups of property owners on Marengo street have asked that the street be widened from Mission Road to the East city limits, and several business men on Pico street have asked that Pico be widened to 100 feet between Alvarado and Crenshaw boulevard.

This latter widening would make Pico street 100 feet for its entire width as other sections are now under widening proceedings. Both projects are for streets included in the Major Traffic Street Plan of the Traffic Commission.

Timely Advice To Holidays Celebrators

As the Fourth of July draws near, members of the Police Department with their strong interest in prevention of injury to all citizens and particularly to the young children of the city, are thinking in terms of the methods of celebrating Independence Day that are dangerous. It is their desire to invite all citizens of Los Angeles to remember the annual list of maimed children and to do everything possible to discourage the use of dangerous fireworks while encouraging to the utmost all suitable and safe methods of celebration.

The Police Department asks that all bear in mind the resolution adopted by the Board of Fire Commissioners which defines the types and kinds of fireworks considered harmful and dangerous. That resolution read as follows:

WHEREAS the provisions of section 14 of Ordinance No. 19,500, as amended prohibit the sale and delivery, for use within the City of Los Angeles, of fire crackers, blank cartridges, and fireworks containing phosphorus in any form;

AND WHEREAS, the Board of Fire Commissioners is invested with authority to designate such other types or kinds of fireworks as are by it considered harmful, and dangerous to be used by the public for celebration purposes;

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED by this Board, that the following types and kinds of fireworks are hereby designated as harmful and dangerous, and their sale and delivery within the city of Los Angeles prohibited:

1st. Sky rockets, including all devices that are intended to rise into the air during discharge;

2nd. Roman Candles, including all devices discharging balls of fire into the air, after the manner of device commonly known by this name;

3rd. Chasers, including all devices that are intended to dart or travel about the surface of the ground during discharge;

4th. Snakes, Boa Constrictors and Snake Nests;

5th. All articles intended for pyrotechnic display which contain gunpowder;

6th. Articles commonly known as "Son-of-a-gun," "Devil-on-Walk," "Cracker Stick and "Automatic Torpedoes," which contain arsenic.

If all citizens work together this Fourth of July can be the happiest as well as the most harmless Los Angeles has ever had.

RENUNCIATION

BY: JAMES J. MONTAGUE

When I depart my lowly cot
And start to walk downtown,
I know that motorists are not Allowed to run me down.
I know that if I call a cop
He'll have to leave his beat—
And bid impatient drivers stop,
To let me cross the street.

I know, that being frail and slight,
If on the street I stray,
At any time, by day or night,
I have the right of way;
And if a car, a truck or dray
Should speed across my spine,
The owner would be made to pay
At least five dollars' fine.

I pay my taxes when they're due,
I'm one of the elect
And sovereign folk entitled to Considerate respect.
And though, of course, I do not rate
With the financial class—
All chauffeurs are compelled to wait
And let me safely pass.

Yet I am no cheap egotist
Like those contentious wights
Who always volubly insist
Upon their vested rights;
I never battle on the street
With dray or car or truck —
I find it is far more discreet
To run and dodge and duck!

Time saved at a crossing may be lost in the emergency ward.

One Motorist in Fifty Has Accident

One motorist in fifty will be involved in an accident in which someone will be taken to the receiving hospital during the coming year for treatment, according to a computation made by the Traffic Commission from receiving hospital statistics.

There were, at the end of 926,322,000 automobiles registered in Los Angeles city, and 6,662 persons were treated at the receiving hospital for injuries sustained in automobile accidents. This is a ratio of approximately 50 to 1, although there are many cases where more than one person are injured in the same accident.

Motorcycles are seven times as dangerous, the figures show. There were 283 persons treated for injuries in motorcycle accidents, within only 2,030 motorcycles registered in the city. This means that one motorcycle rider in seven is involved in an accident in a year wherein someone needs hospital treatment.

Figures such as these clearly show that every motorist may have a serious accident during the year, and that careful attention to driving should be observed at all times.

The only safe way is to obey the rules for driving, as a motorist, and avoid taking chances. The pedestrian, in turn, should avoid "jaywalking," and children should avoid running or in streets.

WRITER RETURNS FROM CHICAGO TO GO AGAIN

Back again and glad to get back full of coal, dirt, hot, dusty, hungry and thirsty, dead tired, California here I come. How do they do it? I mean those poor, old porters who make the trip from Los Angeles to Chicago, week in and week out. They must be a glutton for punishment. The writer promised to do some broadcasting on his eventful trip East with the Radio Kings; sorry this could not be done while I was en route to the dirty city (Chicago) but I had too much interference. By that I mean the Radio men of whom I was elected to bring across the desert were hounds for service and one cannot give service and broadcast at the same time. I am back now at my own broadcasting station—T-C-E—The California Eagle, so tune in and listen to this.

At Los Angeles, the train is in the depot, passengers are clambering up the incline. It is to be two sections, the first is composed entirely of Chicago cars. The day has the makeup of a hot one. I can feel the perspiration trickling down my back and we haven't left the depot yet. Here comes the red caps—grips, grips and then some more grips, every last one of them headed for the radio car; what's the big idea, am I the only car on this train? Why pile all this grief on me? And still they come. Well! well! at last here comes the delegation, and they haven't got ear phones on. But those hats, oh! those hats! California Mexican hats, not so bad for a good impression back East at that. Are you still listening in folks? This is Chas. L. Upton speaking, broadcasting The Railroad Clatter from radio station T-C-E, located at 9th and Central Aves., Los Angeles, Calif. We have with us this evening on board the Radio Car as our most distinguished guest, MR. KENNETH G. ORMISTON, maybe you have heard of the gentleman before; that is, if you haven't been dead. His name is being whispered around here and there, they wish to keep his identity secret, although we have no women in our party. There are many on the train who apparently have been tipped off; you cannot keep anything from the women—not bad looking at that. All a—board! We are off. My bell is ringing already, why they won't even give me a chance to put on my white coat. Everybody hollers at once—Ginger Ale, ice, and some glasses, porter! Oh well, I guess we will pull over the desert alright. Yes, Mrs. Upton is the Maid, and my drawing room gave me his tip for the trip just as the Maid walked in the car; it was a bill but if I was going to be hanged tomorrow I couldn't tell you truthfully what the denomination was, because I did not get to keep it that long, the Maid grabbed it, and folks let me tell you one thing, she's a grabbing poor soul. L. High is on the next car to me and it is his first trip away from Los Angeles and San Diego since the earthquake. He's mopped up three times and we haven't got outside the city limits yet. There is an old friend of mine waiting table in the diner, his name is Bradley. One of the old regulars from Back East, come out here to retire, but couldn't resist the rattle of the wheels, and the clatter of the dishes on the diners, so he is still a victim. Well, we are nearing Chicago, everybody is getting ready to get off, the Maid left us at Omaha, and so did all the tips I made from Los Angeles to Omaha. Watta life! Whatta life! This is the end of our program being broadcasted from T-C-E, we will now sign off.

BIG GUNS STEAL AWAY TO ELSINORE FOR WEEK-END

Nobody knew anything about it BUT the Railroad Clatter. Maybe that was enough because it is sure way to be broadcasted. Well, you see, it was this way: Five tired Pullman guns got together and decided that the best way to recover their lost energy was to steal away to Elsinore for the week-end; the five over-worked babies being J. Montgomery, J. Hill, J. Ponder, L. A. Coffin and R. Garey. Montgomery and Ponder went up first to pave the way in Ponder's Essex. "What excuse will we give our wives?" said one. "Oh, just tell 'em we're going fishing." And it worked. Now, of course, we can readily understand Mr. Hill's reasons for going, as he is an undertaker, and has had his eyes on Ponder for some time. Business comes first with Hill. We will not be surprised in the least if Ponder turns up missing, and our friend Montgomery is very much apt to pass away quietly over the expense of the trip. But, to make a long story short, if they come back without any fish, our friend, Mr. Hill is liable to get every last one of them. Watch the stock of the Angelus Funeral Parlors.

SHRINERS TRIP PROVES LOSS TO PORTERS

It was a very dissatisfied crew with the exception of one or two who returned from a gruelling eighteen day trip with the mixed Shriners Special that left Los Angeles for Atlantic City, May 7th. Nothing seemed to pan out as expected but the work, and there was plenty of that. It seems as if half of the blue blood that generally goes on a Shriners Special were electricians, only the rooms had those who looked like they might be tempted to kick loose from the almighty and they were few and far between. Some of the crew were left stranded in that wicked city Chicago; they were J. Mitchell, L. Hall and Daddy Prescott, the rest came on in to Los Angeles tired and weary from the hard trip, they were Johnny Moore, S. H. Burnette, W. E. Washington and J. Carter. The big hit of the trip was Chief Standing Bull who had his Indian friends give a war dance at several stops along the road. Next year the Shriners meet in Miami, Fla.

MAIDS NOW OPERATE TO CHICAGO ON GOLD COAST LIMITED

At last the little dears are going to operate through to the Windy City. This means that the quarters in Omaha have been given up, and new ones established in Chicago. It has been a long time since the girls have had a glimpse of State street and Grand boulevard, and everything, and from now on it will be just too bad. This arrangement will be a boom to the Maids because it will give them five days and nights at home, which is considered ample enough time to get the required rest to make the long trip; it will also give two more maids a regular job.

PILLOW SLIPS

Maid E. Johnson has transferred to the Los Angeles District and is now operating on the second section of the Gold Coast. Maid Johnson formerly operated on The California Limited from the Chicago East District.

Maid Boon has been operating on the Gold Coast, first section.

C. Smith No. 2 is planning a trip East soon. Yes, on the East-Side.

UNION PACIFIC DOPE

By: J. R.

Charles McKinney, who had the Southern Pacific as his winter quarters has returned to the U. P. seemingly only too glad to be back. "Chickens will come home to roost."

Old Stunt Revived

An old custom that passed into oblivion when Methusalum was born, was resurrected on the "Golden Coast Limited" by a waiter who attempted to drop a pigeon on a passenger for $30. The average waiter of today is striving to raise the standard of this class of employee. Let us pity out who allows himself to fall a victim to this and not censure him.

Louie De Clare is all smiles since the arrival of Mrs. DeClure and children from Denver.

Mrs. Ella (Peaches) Greer has returned from Atlantic City where she was maid on the Shrine Special.

Buffet cars on the Gold Coast Limited alternate on their trips now. One trip to Omaha and one to Salt Lake City.

Promotion Of Merit

A promotion of a meritious nature was awarded Inspector C. H. Kellar. The promotion carries the title of Chief Inspector with headquarters at Ogden. Mr. Kellar is quite a favorite with the boys and he has their good wishes for success.

Randolph Stevens has contributed his support to the California Eagle by taking out a subscription. More should follow this example.

Miss M. C. Pickens, our dainty little De Luxe maid has returned from Tennessee and Texas where she was aboard the Kiwanias Special. Miss Pickens reports having had a wonderful trip.

Mrs. Fred Lloyd and son, Albert, were passengers on the Continental Ltd., the 24th for points in Missouri, and Illinois.

Racing With the Stork

The Central Avenue Gardens Industrial Club was by a hair's breadth last Tuesday Twas one of those popular races with friend Stork in a shower to Mrs. E. Polk of 9714 Seamore. Many useful and dainty gifts were brought for the expectant one by the various ladies of the club. On Thursday a son was born to Mr. and Mrs. E. Polk. Mother and son are in good health.

The La San Patios Club met at Mrs. Sidney Dones, a very enjoyable time was had by all.

Use Approved Gas Appliances

WHEN buying a gas appliance it is advisable to make sure that it is properly designed to give the service for which it is intended.

Satisfactory service, regardless of the fuel used, depends upon thorough combustion.

Thorough combustion, in turn, depends upon properly designed appliances, properly adjusted.

Some gas appliances on the market are not properly designed to give satisfactory service.

To protect the public against improperly designed and inefficient gas appliances, the American Gas Association recently established a Laboratory for testing the design, efficiency and safety of gas appliances of every sort.

This Laboratory has the approval and support of the United States Bureau of Standards, United States Bureau of Mines, and the United States Public Health Service.

Many of these approved appliances can be seen at our free appliance display on the eighth floor of our main office, 810 South Flower Street, Los Angeles.

We have nothing to sell, but are glad to answer questions about the cost, operation, and place to buy these appliances.

WARNING!

If your gas range was built with a "grid" or open top, it is unwise and unsafe to equip it with so-called "solid tops", "gas savers" or "gas conservers". Adjust your burners if they need adjustment, but beware of devices sold by persons of doubtful reliability. A range manufactured with a solid top, however, is a different matter; it was designed for such operation.

JUDGE CRAIG'S COURT ROOM DRAMATIC SCENE AS SHEFFIELD AND RANDOLPH GO TO BIG TRIAL

Tuesday, July 5th in the courtroom of Judge Craig, a throng of people had gathered to hear the proceedings of the trial of Mose Sheffield and Frank Randolph charged with the murder of Sam Faulkner on the evening of April 24th.

The hall outside of the courtroom was packed with people trying to gain admittance to the room. A barrier was erected and heavily armed deputy sheriffs stationed around to keep the crowd away from the door, and although hundreds could not gain admittance, they stayed in the corridors waiting for the least bit of news available.

Drawing of Faulkner Premises on East 51st Street where a brief session of the Sheffield and Randolph trial was held last Wednesday morning.

The diagram shows how and where Sam Faulkner met his death on the night of April 24th, for which the two officers, Sheffield and Randolph, are being held.

Deputy District Attorney E. J. Dennison is the prosecuting attorney. Attorney Thomas F. White is the counsel for Sheffield, while Attorney Towsen S. Grasty, who was formerly in that position, is counsel for Randolph.

The jury when finally chosen, consisted of eight women and four men with two alternates.

So with Judge Craig on the bench and the courtroom crowded to every inch of its space, the trial opened with Dr. A. F. Wagner, autopsy surgeon, as the first witness.

Dr. Wagner who has held this position since 1912, give the results of his autopsy saying that bullet had entered the right side of the face, going through the brain, and lodging in the back of the head towards the left. He testified that a 38 calibre bullet killed Sam Faulkner.

Then Fred C. Cole, the deputy coroner, was called. It was then time for adjournment and Mr. Cole's testimony was deferred to Wednesday, where it would be continued at the place of the murder.

Wednesday morning, at the home of Mrs. Clara Harris, the place of the murder, no testimony was taken, but the jurors were shown the different rooms of the house including the one where the murder was committed. At 2 o'clock, the case was continued at the court with the usual crowd of spectators packing both the hall and the courtroom.

WIFE OF DECEASED SPEAKS

The first witness called was Mrs. Jake Faulkner, wife of the deceased. She broke down and sobbing when she said she found dictated statements of her husband in making her statement she said that her husband did not possess a revolver and had none on that night.

The next witness called was Mr. Faulkner, father of the deceased. After the usual taking of oath, he told of his knowledge of the case.

Q. "When were you first attracted to the noise in the front house?" There are two house on the lot—a front and rear house. Mrs. Clara Harris lived in the front, while Mr. Faulkner and family, including the deceased, lived in the rear. The murder was committed in the front house.

A. "When my son (Sam) told me

Q. "What did you do?"

A. "Both my son and I went up to her husband and son had left to go and investigate the noises in the front house, did she leave her home.

Q. "When did you first learn of the killing of your son?"

A. "When I saw my husband in the driveway and he hollered to me and said, 'Oh, they have killed son!'"

Q. "Then what did you do?"

A. "I went in the house through the kitchen door, my daughter Clara let me in, and said to her, 'Oh, Clara, they have killed son, and he is in here somewhere, help me find him.' I finally found him on the floor of one of the bedrooms and as I stooped over to lift his head in my arms, Mr. Sheffield stepped on my hand and shoved a gun in my face."

She further testified that Sheffield tried to "plant" a gun by the side of her son, but Mrs. Clara Harris, noticing the act, stopped him. After duly cross examining the witness, Mr. Gilbert Dickson of 1245 E. 48th St. was the next witness.

Mr. Dickson who had three weeks previous secured a job for Sam Faulkner, had come to see him and inquire as to how he was succeeding in his new position. On his entering the house, he saw three women and one man in the house besides Mrs. Harris. He sat down on the davenport and after having been there for about five minutes, he heard someone come up on the front porch. In a minute or two, without ringing the bell or even knocking, Sheffield and Randolph burst in the house from the front door.

Q. "What did you do then?"

A. "I ran outside, but Mr. Randolph seeing the other man and myself running, pointed a gun at us and told us to stop. I stopped, but the other man got away. I returned to the house where I was searched by Randolph and told to sit down."

Q. "Then what happened?"

A. "Sheffield went into the kitchen and Randolph stayed in the front room by the piano. Soon, Sheffield came back and started shooting; he fired at least 5 shots in the dining room and then returned to the kitchen. As soon as the shooting ceased, I left."

When asked if he had seen any razor around the house, he stated that he did not see any razor or pistol, or anything to indicate that there had

Golden State to Hold Service at Beth Eden Temple

On July 23rd, 1925 the State of California issued a license to the Golden State Guarantee Fund Insurance Company to do Life, Endowment and Health and Accident Insurance business. This marked the beginning of the first Life Insurance Company in California to be owned and controlled by our people.

During the first two years of its existence the company has made rapid strides in business building in this State. At the present time the company is paying from two to three thousand dolars per month to policy-holders, giving employment to seventy-five or more of our people. It has already $30,000.00 loaned on homes owned by Black Americans.

In celebration of this historical event and splendid progress, July has been designated Anniversary month.

The first of a series of services will be held at Beth Eden Baptist Church, Cor. 27th and Paloma street, next Sunday, July 10th at 11:00 A. M.

An excellent program has been arranged, which will include special musical selections, a short address by Mr. William Nickerson, Jr., president of the company and a special sermon by the pastor of the church. The public is cordially invited to attend.

Attorney Moves To New Quarters

After four years of most successful practice, Attorney Lewis K. Beeks takes great pleasure in announcing to his many clients and friends the removal of his office from 1400 Central Avenue, to Suites 204, 205, and 206, Wise Men of the East Building, 1324 Central Avenue, where he feels that he can be of greater service and offer more appropriate accommodation to his reputable and fast growing clientele.

LEWIS K. BEEKS

Simultaneous with the removal to his new quarters, Attorney Beeks, in appreciation for the hearty suport given, has opened a branch office in So. Los Angeles, formerly, Watts, at 10350 Wilmington Avenue, in the building owned by the progressive firm of Knox and Knox, realtors and builders, for which firm he will act as legal adviser and representative. Both of these moves have been effected by Attorney Beeks because he believes the stanch and genuine support he has received from the public, warrants the change, and in this manner he attempts to show his gratitude. In Attorney Beeks' office will be found a most efficient and capable young stenographer who has been with him and Attorney Calvin W. Murdock over two years, in the person of Miss Agnes Williams.

Some evidences to demonstrate the support received can be gleaned from the fact that Atty. Beeks is on the legal staff of the N. A. A. C. P., the U. B. F. & S. M. T., the California Eagle Progressive Mutual Benefit Association, the Friday Morning Club and other organizations.

Arrest Girl While Bathing at Manhattan Beach

Miss Elizabeth Catley of 634 E. Santa Barbara, age 19 years, and a student of the University of California, Los Angeles, was arrested by two burly officers Monday, July 4th at Manhattan Beach, because she was bathing in the ocean along with Japs, Mexicans and whites. She was kept in jail at Redondo for five hours, until a bail of $10.00 was put up. Upon leaving the water, she was hauled and jerked around by the officers and pushed into an automobile, not even given time to put on her clothes.

The following is Miss Catley's statement, as told to the California Eagle reporter:

"Roberta Lee and I were visiting the Slaughter girls, Willine and Estella and two other girls whom I cannot remember. All of us girls were at the beach, but because I dared to do what I thought was my right, I was thrown in jail and forced to remain for five hours until bail of $10 was posted for me. I wasn't even given time to put on my clothes.

Mr. Roy Hilbert, was also arrested and is out on $10 bail.

Chief Henry of Redondo protested to the Manhattan officers putting me in jail in such a manner, but they insisted. I did not go back to trial as I regarded the affair of such little importance and too, Mr. Slaughter, who put up my bail, said I should not return for trial. The real importance of the whole affair is just beginning to dawn upon me. I was the oldest girl of the bunch. There were no boys present, not even Mr. Roy Hilbert, who says he goes down every Sunday and goes in bathing. This is the first time that he has been arrested for it."

Miss Elizabeth Catley is one of the daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Catley of 634 E. Santa Barbara who have been residents of California for 24 years. Her father and brother are contractors.

Sheffield And Randolph In Court

been drinking. When the two officers came into the house, they didn't say that they were officers, neither did they show their badges.

Q. "What did you do after you left the house?"

A. "I went across the street and stayed a few minutes, then went to the corner, then returned to the house and by that time a crowd had gathered. I saw Brown, Beauly and Sheffield put Mrs. Harris in the patrol."

Mr. Dickson in making his testimony contradicted himself in telling at just what table Mrs. Harris stood when this affair was going on. There was a table in the living room and one in the dining room. He finally made it clear that she was in the Living Room.

Miss Maud Coates of 1552 E. 89th street was then called. She in company with her sister-in-law, Mrs. Coates, a friend, Mrs. Scott, and a man whom they had "picked" up on the "Avenue," went to the home of Mrs. Harris' to make a call on the evening of the murder. After being there for a while, Mr. Dickson came in and about five minutes after he came in there was a noise on the front porch.

Q. "Then what happened?"

A. "Mrs. Scott, who was standing by the door said, 'Mrs. Harris, there is someone at the door.' Then one of the persons outside said, 'Open this door.' They then entered. My sister and I ran into the kitchen, and Sheffield seeing us said, 'Don't run or I'll shoot.' He then grabbed us by the arm and brought us back."

Q. "Where was Mrs. Harris standing?"

A. "She was standing in the dining room between the fireplace and the dining room table."

At this juncture, it was time for adjournment for lunch, and the court was adjourned to continue the case this afternoon, Thursday, at 2 o'clock.

The afternoon session opened with Miss M. Coates still on the stand. She completed her testimony, telling just about the same as had those before her. The next called was her sister-in-law, Mrs. Ruth Coates.

Mrs. Coates' testimony was similar to that of her sister's. When asked if the officers said anything to Mrs. Harris, she replied:

"Randolph said to Mrs. Harris, 'You have been running this place long enough,' to which she replied, 'What do You Mean?' He did not get a chance to answer, as just about this time the shooting began."

Mrs. Coates also gave the name of the "mystery" man who accompanied them to the home of Mrs. Harris and who nobody seemed to know anything about, she gave his name as Nero Curtis and said that she met him when she waited table in one of the cafes on Central.

Mrs. Clark Harris was then called. She said that after the officers arrived, Sheffield went to the kitchen and she followed him to see what he was doing. She asked him, but he failed to reply. She then returned to the dining room and in a few minutes some shots rang out.

Q. "What did you do?"

A. "I looked around and saw that Randolph had been shot and had fallen to the floor. Randolph said, 'Shef, I have been shot and I am bleeding to death, do something for me.' I then said, 'Now, your good friend Sheffield has shot you and I certainly wish that he had killed you.' Sheffield finally found a towel with which he tied Randolph's arm."

Q. "Then what happened?"

A. "I heard a knock at the kitchen door and went to open it and found my mother. She told me that father had told her that brother had been killed. I did not know it, I had heard the shots but did not know about my brother. We finally found my brother and as mother was trying to raise his head, Sheffield tried to "plant" a small gun by his side. I told him, 'No, no, you can't do that, you brought that gun in with you and you will take it out.' He put the gun in his right pocket. A gun was show Mrs. Harris, which she testified as being the gun which Sheffield tried to "plant" by the side of her brother.

Upon entering the house, Mrs. Harris said that Sheffield had a gun in both hands and went directly to the kitchen. Sheffield took a pitcher, water glass, funnel and milk bottle out of the house to the station after arresting her to use as evidence against her.

The court adjourned with Mrs. Harris on the stand.

It was noticed that Mr. Dickson and Miss Maud Coates did not agree in their testimony as to where Mrs. Harris was standing, when the officers came in. Both testified that positively no liquor was seen or drunk and that, neither went to the house for that purpose.

Officer Sheffield, all during the trial remains calm and perfectly at ease. During a short intermission went to the rear of the courtroom, removed his coat, it being rather warm, and calmly smokes. He smiles and waves to his wife, brother and friends.

Officer Randolph appears ill at ease and a trifle nervous.

Seen in the courtroom were Mrs. Sheffield, wife of the officer on trial; Mr. Sheffield, brother of the officer and his wife. The brothers are strikingly alike.

Brilliant Wedding of Popular Couple

A lovely June wedding was that of Miss Olga Harris, beautiful daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James R. Harris of 434 Oak Knoll Ave. and James Louis Groner, son of Mr. and Mrs. Louis J. Groner, Saturday evening, June 18 at the First A. M. E. Church, Pasadena, will be remembered as one of the largest social events among our group in Pasadena.

The church decorations were attractively carried out with a profusion of summer flowers of pastel shades combined with greenery, large baskets of gladiolas and ferns adorned the altar, making it all a bower of beauty. It was technically and most beautifully arranged by Mrs. Daisy Barrett assisted by Mrs. Zephyr Groner and other friends. A huge arch was made to cover the whole bridal party and was twined with flowers and ferns. Cathedral candles burned on either side of the arch. Rev. J. M. Brown, pastor of the church, read the impressive ceremony.

The bride was attended by Mrs. Anna Taylor Tracey, as matron of honor looking very sweet in pale pink chiffon trimmed with gorgeous pink ostrich feathers carrying an open prayer book with streaming ribbons. Mrs. Tracy was followed by the bride's petite little cousin, Mildred Gray of Chicago as Maid of Honor in pink hand-painted taffeta. The bride's maids marched in lokoing very lovely in pastel shades of taceta. Miss Dorothy Brown of Los Angeles led the procession in pea green; Miss Marceline Gibson, in yellow; Miss Caroline Wickliffe of Hollywood in torquoise blue; Miss Elizabeth Perry of San Diego in lavender; Miss Esther Hogan in pale green; Miss Doris Young of Los Angeles in orchid; Miss Myrell Holland in peach shade; Miss Eunice Windsor in Apricot; little Irene Berry, cousin of the groom, as flower girl was very dainty in ruffled pea green taffeta. Master T. J. Morgan as ring bearer in black velvet. The bride's maids wore silver bands on their hair. Thomas Anderson acted as best man. The ushers were as follows: Messrs. Harold Lloyd, Oliver Chatterton, Andrew Thomas and Charles Martin of Los Angeles, Lawrence Fowler, Paul Jefferson, Napoleon Simpson and George Rowland. The ushers wore buttonhole white carnations and the bride's maids carried bouquets of varigated colored sweet peas.

It was coincident that the entire bridal party were all school mates of the bride and groom.

The bride came in on the arm of her father looking very beautiful in a handsome gown of white cut velvet and chiffon appliqued with silver lined beads and rhinestones. The gown was designed and made by Mme. Doyle Nesbitt of Los Angeles. The bride wore a coronet of orange blossoms and her mother's wedding veil. She carried a huge shower bouquet of white roses, orchids and lilies of the valley.

Lovely music preceding the ceremony was furnished by Harold Brown at the organ who also played Mendelssohn's Wedding March.

Aramis Fouche sang "At Dawning" in his soft baritone voice and just before the procession, William Stoard, in his rich tenor voice sang "Until" as he never sang before. The songs were accompanied by Miss Alice Stoard at the organ.

Following the ceremony, reception was held at the home of the bride. The house was beautifully decorated with large palms and sweet peas and ferns entertwined, forming an aborlike effect for the bridal party. Then the unusual happened, when the bride went to the head of the stairs to throw her bouquet to the girls the exciting moment came when by a prearranged plan, the best man assisted by one of the stalwart and dignified ushers picked the bride up bodily and carried her to the car where they had previously captured and carried the groom with guards surrounding the car to prevent his escape. The groom plead with them to allow the bride to go back and cut her cake but was refused. All of this happened with hundreds standing by looking on. So the bride and groom were kidnapped and whisked off to the Dreamland Cafe. The bride's maids were also in the secret, therefore the entire bridal party followed. Reservations had been made for their entertainment and as they entered the cafe, the bride entering first, the band struck up "Here Comes the Bride." The party cycled the hall amid applause. (In the beginning after they had started, the bride and groom attempted to make their get away in another car, but were prevented by the best man, who jumped in front of the car and was struck and slightly injured. Then the couple decided to go along with them). Then began a round of pleasure and jollity for several hours and the couple had to admit they enjoyed it to the fullest and in the midst of the fun, and at a given moment a taxi was called and the imprisoned couple made their escape in the wee hours of the morning, to the home of their sympathetic friend, Mrs. Sallie Richardson where they breakfasted the next morning. They left on their interrupted honeymoon trip to San Diego, the childhood home of the bride, where they were entertained most generously by her old friends during their entire stay. The bride is a recent graduate of the Los Angeles General Hospital Training School for Nursing.

The presents were many and most useful as well as beautiful.

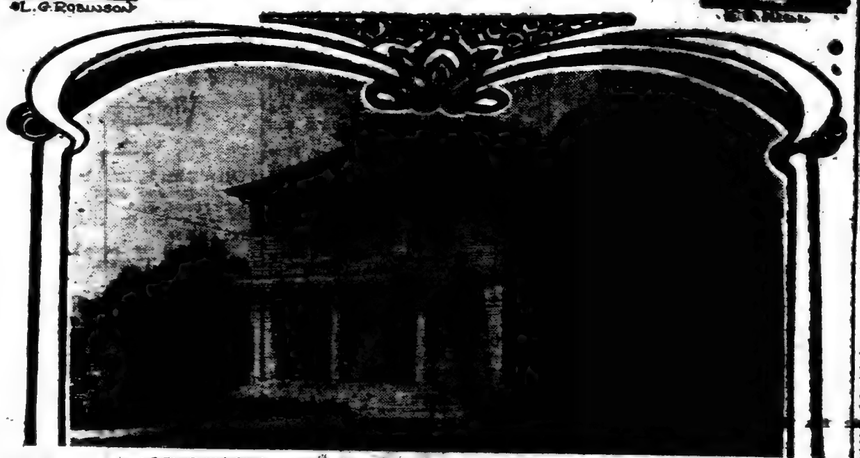
WADSWORTH SEVENTH DAY ADVENTIST CHURCH

Sunday night July 10 there will be a public baptism held in the new sanitary baptistry located in the church auditorium at 37th and Wadsworth Streets (one block west of Central Ave.) This wonderful building, plain yet beautiful was turned over to the members and friends at the dedicatory services held last Sabbath July 2nd and for the benefit of those who have not seen the church, services will be held every night in the week at 8 p.m. sharp. A different congregation worships every night and each service has been exceptionally helpful.



The main part of the Big Congregation from the "Tabernacle" will be present Monday night July 11th. Elder J. McComas of Chicago will preach—the Tabernacle choir will render the music. Come one or every night in the week. COME.

Westside Welcomes New Doctor

WONDERFUL HEALTH PROGRAM RENDERED

On last Thursday night the Westside residents gave enthusiastic evidence of their hearty welcome to the splendid doctors who have recently opened their offices among them. A warm-hearted audience greeted each speaker at the Presbyterian Church at 35th Pl. and Denker Ave. Dr. C. S. Digan spoke on the practical subject of "Constipation". Dr. E. B. Liddell gave clearly the influence of "Focal Infections." On general diseases, Dr. O. D. Sheffield discussed in a very scholarly manner various aspects of "Nervous" and Mental Diseases. Dr. Ruth Temple gave a short, pointed talk to "Mothers" which went right home to the hearts of all present. And the music! Mrs. Evelyn Turner Warren was at her best, she rendered many of Mr. Page's original compositions and the audience was filled with delight, it anchored and re-anchored. Mr. Page in his unpretentious manner accompanied Mrs. Warren and rendered wonderful instrumentals. A number of Dr. Ruth Temple's "most perfect, and most beautiful" babies graced the front row with their winsome presence.

The audience was charmed and delighted beyond measure to have such good health talks given absolutely free by these excellent physicians, each a specialist in their line. And the Westside people as a whole were greatly pleased to know that the four above named doctors together with Dr. R. S. Whittaker who was to have spoken on the diseases of the "Eye, Ear, Nose and Throat" are affiliated in their new Westside office practice. The Westside office affiliation does not in any way, change the Eastside offices of these doctors which shall continue as before.

After the meeting the doctors thanked Rev. Hawes for the use of his church and for the splendid reception given them by the very intelligent audience present.

Watch the papers for the next public Health program by these Westside doctors.

New Offices Opened

DOCTORS OPEN CO-OPERATIVE WESTSIDE OFFICES

By: A Special Contributor

This is the age of co-operative and specialized effort. Gathered together in one large automobile shop you have the mechanic, the ignition specialist, the carburetor adjustor, the fender and body workers, the "top man" and the automobile painter. All automobiles specialists are experts, but each confining himself to his special line. Because thereby he can increase his efficiency and render to his patrons better service. With this thought in mind we were glad to drop into the beautiful Westside offices of Dr. Ruth J. Temple, and find these doctors working together on the co-operative plan of the practice of medecine.

It is a known fact to many of us that these physicians together with other of our forward-loking doctors have been studying and working to prepare themselves to give special service to patients along their chosen line. In this group Dr. Chas. Diggs by special clinic work in this city and in his private practice, has prepared himself to efficiently care for Rectal and Genito-Urinary diseases. Dr. R. S. Whittaker has studied here and has also taken special post graduate work in the East to fully prepare himself for his delicate work in the diseases of the Nose, Eye, Ear, Throat and in General Surgery. For years Dr. E. B. Liddell has worked and studied to attain the high degree of efficiency which characterises his work as Internal Medecine doctor with this group of physicians. For almost four consecutive years Dr. Ruth J. Temple has been on the staff of the city Maternity Service of the Los Angeles Health Department, which service cares for from 100-120 new born babies and their mothers each month. Thus Dr. Temple has had excellent training in the school of actual experience for her special work with this co-operative group of physicians, as their physician for Maternity cases and Women's Diseases.

Not only is this group of physicians co-operating, but all of our honest physicians throughout the city are co-operating together for increased efficiency and greater service. This fact makes us very proud of all of our race physicians who are making such a large sacrifice to fully equip themselves to efficiently care for our needs.

Eastside Offices Continue As Usual

The opening of their Westside Offices as a specialist's building does not in any way effect the Eastside offices of the various doctors of the co-operative group. All of the doctors, like most other specialists, are in their Westside offices by appointment only, while their Eastside office hours and the location of their Eastside offices remain unchanged.

CARE OF THE TEETH

By Dr. J. Winniford Rout

The Teeth and Health

Many people fail to grasp the importance of a healthy mouth and because I feel that this editorial that I am quoting verbatim from the current Issue of Oral Hygiene is so timely and of such importance that no one will fail to appreciate its value.

A Lay Sermon

The whole span of life is the time between two meals—the first and the last. Birth always occurs before the first meal, death invariably follows the last meal. Into the mouth that first meal goes, and into the mouth must go all of the other meals. How can you expect health if you place all of your food into a mouth full of infected and diseased teeth? How can you expect to masticate the regular food that you will eat, from the time you graduate out of the milk business until you go into real estate, unless you do care for your teeth that you will always have a sufficient number in good working order?

The meals that nourish you are the meals that prolong life and bring contentment as well as accomplishment. If you have an ambition to be an invalid, just neglect your mouth. Keep your teeth clean. Have the mouthes filled when the cavities are small. If you have hopelessly diseased teeth, have them taken out and in due time replace them with bridges or plates.

In the first place, do not encourage mouth diseases by neglect. In the second place, do not let a sentimental attachment for a source of infection keep you from getting rid of any tooth that proper treatment cannot restore to health.

Care of the teeth is just a matter of good common sense.

EDITORIAL

LIBERIA TO THE FOREFRONT

It now comes to pass that after all the turmoil and dissent about countries paying their honest debts contracted for to this country during war times, that the little black republic of Liberia is the very first one of the whole galaxy of nations to pay its debt in full. This is indeed a bright star in the crown of little Liberia.

SHEFFIELD-RANDOLPH TRIAL

The cartoon on this page is our editorial on the pending trial of Officers Sheffield and Randolph. The same is the conception of one of our rising young race artists, and is a lesson within itself.

LINCOLN INDUSTRIAL FAIR

We want to urge the importance to the people of this community of co-operating to the utmost for a glorious success of the coming Lincoln Industrial Fair to be held in Pasadena from the 18th to the 23rd of July inclusive.

Any movement which will stimulate production by our group should have our undivided support.

This paper is committed to this program and will do our best to carry the message to the people to the end that all may benefit thereby. Los Angeles should turn out in large numbers not only as spectators but as exhibitors and we will be glad to give publicity to all legitimate businesses who will enter their wares in this history making event. Therefore in our next issue we will publish the various firms and concerns who will enter.

We especially urge upon the Business League to make a memorable showing on the program for the night which has been set apart as Los Angeles Day for the Fair. Let everybody get busy and make this year's fair the greatest ever.

FEDERATED CLUBS

Undaunted by the weights and attitude of those who would frown upon efforts to concentrate along the lines of political endeavor we cannot help but comment favorably. So upon the luncheon complimentary to the new City Council given by the Federated Clubs at the Republica Cafe tonight. It is a step in the right direction and one that in days to come will reflect with credit upon the unselfish devotion of the organizations which have seen fit to federate for greater and grander results.

SO WELL SO GOOD

Without casting any aspersions upon any of his predecessors it is indeed refreshing that we have high police officials of the calibre of Captain L. L. McClary, present Commander of Newton Street Station, who has so quickly brought order out of chaos, and everything is moving jam up, with the Chinese sharks and all attendant evils on the run.

Captain McClary has proved his worth and would most certainly fill the position of Chief of Police with dignity and high credit as the servant of all the people in which every man, woman and child would receive a fair and square deal.

MAYOR CRYER PULLS A BONER

Right off the reel is submitting the name of Dr. Ryland to succeed himself on the Playground Commission, Mayor Cryer has unhorsed himself and demonstrates a diningeniousness which would put to shame one less versed in the realm of politics.

Just licked to a frazzle on this very issue he comes hurtling back to a council elected by the people and foists upon this new council a man who caused all the misery for his leaders in the last one.

Dr. Ryland is the man who put in vogue the Black Swimming Pool on 22nd Street. Dr. Ryland is the man whose acts defeated the Bonds asked by the Playground Commission. Dr. Ryland is the man who the Mayor said he could not do anything about his acts until his term had expired at least, and now he has the temerity to reappoint him and asks the new Council to confirm him.

This paper along with many other organizations, citizens of all classes, creeds and races will ask the Council to refuse confirmation on this appointment.

We will ask it upon the ground that Dr. Ryland's acts are unconstitutional, un-American and an insult to a large and loyal group of our citizenship, and that Los Angeles is too big and too grand to be placed in the category of Jim Crow cities.

COMMENTS

BY: W. J. WHEATON

A twenty year old Divinity student preached his first sermon in the Black Hills, S. D. He had as an auditor, the President of the United States who is vacationing in that vicinity, and transacting the affairs of the nation. Away from the sweltering heat of Washington he has the time and energy to review calmly the great needs of the nation. That young man eloquently depicted the ravages of the floods which devastated great areas of farm lands, destroyed towns, took its toll of lives, and brought untold suffering to thousands of people. He dwelt upon the economic needs of the nation; its financial status with the world Powers, and lauded the nation's efforts in the cause of Universal Peace. But he failed to mention the blotch on the escutcheon of all this greatness—LYNCHING.

What an opportunity was lost! There, in that little chapel, dedicated to the service of the Lowly Nazarine, in the solemnity of the religious environment; and the serenity of that country church, the President would have the time to meditate. He would have seen the writhing wretches as the flames seared and bit away the flesh from their bones. He could have visualized the pain and anguish before the soul left the body. He could have imagined that the scent of the pine trees coming through the windows was the odor of scorching human flesh. It might be possible that visualising this horror, he would have paraphrased Abraham Lincoln, who when he saw the slave block in New Orleans, said, "If ever the opportunity comes, I will strike this monster a deadly blow.". Yes, to have mentioned the crime of lynching at that time would have been more effective than the visits of scores of delegations or thousands of petitions.

We wonder if Gov. Al Smith had ALL-MEN in mind when he made this statement: "And I believe in the common brotherhood of man under the common fatherhood of God.. In this spirit I join with fellow Americans of all creeds in a fervent prayer that never again in this land will any public servant be challenged because of the faith in which he has tried to walk humbly with his God." It is this first statement that arouses our inquisitiveness. Does the Governor bring under that category the millions of black folk in the nation? Does he really mean in that brotherhood that men should be judged as Men, and not tinged with the odium of color? These are grand words, but is the will to use them effectively as strong.

Does church going emblemise Christianity? If so, the inhabitants of Arkansas City, Arkansas, are entitled to the "Asbestos Medal." On Sunday, July 3rd, the town was under water, but that did not deter the Arkansas church goers. They went to the services of the United States. Filipinos are barred in the segregation acts. Hawaii, a territorial annex, makes it practically free for them to enter the United States. The unloading of hundreds of Filipinos on the Pacific coast would not have a beneficial effect on the labor conditions here. And we believe this is the ultimate goal.

It is too true that both the religious and fraternal bodies of the Race have become subverted. Commercialism has overthrown spirituality, and subverted the spirit of fraternal ties. We have before us as an example, the strenuous efforts of an individual to keep at the head of one of the great progressive fraternal orders of the Race. Manouvres, which are crude as well as shameful, have been adopted to retain the reins of power. We write of the I. B. P. O. E. of W. At the Grand Session at Cleveland, Ohio last August it was voted to hold the next session in the city of New York. From the platform letters from the Mayor, Chamber of Commerce, and the N. Y. Lodge, B. P. O. E. giving their assurance of a great welcome, were read. By a big vote, the delegates declared for New York. But New York did not, nor has not, endorsed the re-election of the present head, who, loathe to give up the juicy plum, raised the issue of a State law which for years has remained innocuous. The contentions of the G. E. R. are of the most ridiculous type. For instance: Immediately after his election and installation at the Grand Session held in Newark, N. J., he, with the numbers of fellow delegates were guests at a mammoth ball tendered by Imperial Lodge of N. Y. at 71st Reet. Armory. He with hundreds of other Negro Elks were in full regalia of the order. On several occasions since then he has appeared as guest of the New York Lodges, even heading parades, with no fear of invoking the so-called "Grattan Law". At the Grand Convention held in Chicago, 1924, this writer called the attention of the delegates to the danger of allowing any grumb to obtain a stranch hold on the Order which could be used for purposes of self. In Newark, N. J. we fought the repeal of the law limiting the tenure of office to one year for its titular head. But the (then) ingratiated is his desire for re-election made we not profit from past experience. A malicious selfishness, and greed of power, cost our Fraternal ship on the shoals. We were years in the salvaging. Are we going to allow a repetition, and with our eyes open?

OLIVER-BENTON NUPTIALS

The evening of June 28th afforded Los Angeles one of the most beautiful weddings ever witnessed anywhere when Miss Helen Marie Oliver, one of the sweetest and most popular girls in the younger set and Mr. Walter Joseph Benton, one of the city's most promising and ambitious young pharmacists, a recent graduate of U. S. C., were united in holy matrimony at 8:30 P. M. at Independent Church, the Rev. N. P. Gregg, officiating.

The church was elaborately decorated with an abundance of ferns, foliage and roses representing a garden scene such as no artist can depict so realistic and so splendidly did the renowned Ralph W. Porter seem to extend his capabilities in plotting this occasion.

A short musical program preceded the ceremony beginning with "Oh Promise Me," which was rendered with wonderful expression by Miss Bertha Spruill, accompanied by Mrs. Fannie Benjamin, who knows how to extract the sweetest of strains from a pipe organ. Mr. Theo. Banks followed immediately with a rendition of "Kiss Me," on his violin, making one doubt that he was not one of the "old masters" reincarnated, such style, technique and expression!

Then to wonderful strains of Mendelssohn, came, one after another, the bridesmaids—Miss Edith Smith, Miss Helen Beavers, Miss Irma Baker and Miss Verna Stratton—beautifull attired in chic frocks of pastel shades of taffeta trimmed with silver lace, each young lady wearing satin slippers and a hat to match her respecting shade of taffeta and carrying a large bouquet of La France roses. As simultaneously marched the ushers—Mr. Ben Colly, R. N. Neal, Mr. B. Grayson and Mr. Ernest Mitchell—immaculately full-dressed and button-holed with a La France butonaire each, taking their respective positions in the garden scene and adding style and dignity to the occasion.

Then came the maid of honor, Miss Willie B. Nickerson in a pretty frock of soft shade yellow with hat to match and silver slippers. She also carried a large bouquet of La Frances giving her a very chic appearance.

Directly in her wake strode the little ring bearer, Master Sanford, dressed in a Spanish costume made of black velvet. His composure and carriage were wonderful in one of such tender years. Folowing him the little Geneva Kinsey and Bobby Frazier, with their dainty ruffles of organdy lavished profusely over bonnets and dresses emphasizing the colonial period, carried baskets from which the bridal path was literally paved with roses.

Master Frank Egleson, second ring bearer also represented the colonial period as he marched in the wake of the flower girls wearing a costume of gray satin. The spirit of Washington's day seemed to salute the air when the matron of honor, Mrs. Helen D. Mitchell, exquisitely gowned in a creation of orange colored georgette and hat to match and silver slippers appeared carrying also a marvelously beautiful bouquet, and then the music heralded the coming of the bride, who, leaning upon the arm of her uncle, Mr. Edwin J. Houston, was escorted along the flower strewn isles to the altar, as candles artistically arranged at regular intervals shed their soft glow of welcome along with many hundreds of admiring friends.

The bride wore a gown of ivory satin trimmed with Princess lace and silk pearls, her train also of some material was attached at shoulders and embroidered with pearls at bottom. A spray of orange blossoms was quite distinguishing. The veil was of rose point lace and silk tulle drapped to form a lovely cap over the head, and fastened with a wreath of orange blossoms, falling gently over the shoulders.

Satin slippers and a gorgeous bouquet of roses and lilies of the valley all manifasting that little wonder Mrs. Eva Houston spared no pains as she designed and made this creation, which was really marvelous in its beauty and simplicity.

Simultaneously Mr. Walter J. Benton began the march accompanied by the best man, Mr. Alonzo Adams, both were immaculately dressed for the occasion button holed with a white flower each.

With the consent of the mother, Mrs. Lillian M. Oliver, ceremonies were duly administered.

The reception was held also at the church immediately afterwards, where congratulations and refreshments were in abundance.

The bridal party was seated at one table headed by Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Benton. After which Mr. Paul Hornsby and his band entertained the bridal party at the home of her aunt, Mrs. Houston.

Sunday marked the opening of their home at 822½ East 31st to all of their many friends. Punch and wedding cake were served, the day was quite a success.

Dempsey and Tunney Fight Again This Week At The Olympic

BY: DEAN SYNDER

Jack Dempsey and Gene Tunney will meet Friday night, July 8, at the Olympic.

Who do you like in this fight?

The forecast is that Tunney will win the decision in ten rounds.

And this is a sure thing for it is the Dempsey-Tunney fight pictures that have just had a successful run in San Francisco.

There's a lot of Dempsey in this show.

It will show him at his best back in 1921, July 2, when he knocked out Georges Carpentier.

It will show him at his best back pat's Ranch out at Ojai where he did his preliminary training for the coming Sharkey fight in New York.

This picture is the most timely thing that could come along.

What a box office magnet Dempsey has been.

Do you know that he drew 45,565,152 for his last six battles? Tabulated:

Dempsey-Tunney	$1,895,733
Dempsey-Carpentier	1,626,580
Dempsey-Firpo	1,188,822
Dempsey-Willard	452,523
Dempsey-Gibbons	191,485
Dempsey-Brennan	300,000
Dempsey-Sharkey (estimated)	1,250,000
Dempsey-Tunney (estimated)	1,000,000

That would be a total, provided Dempsey whips Sharkey and fights Tunney in September for the title, of $8,815,132.

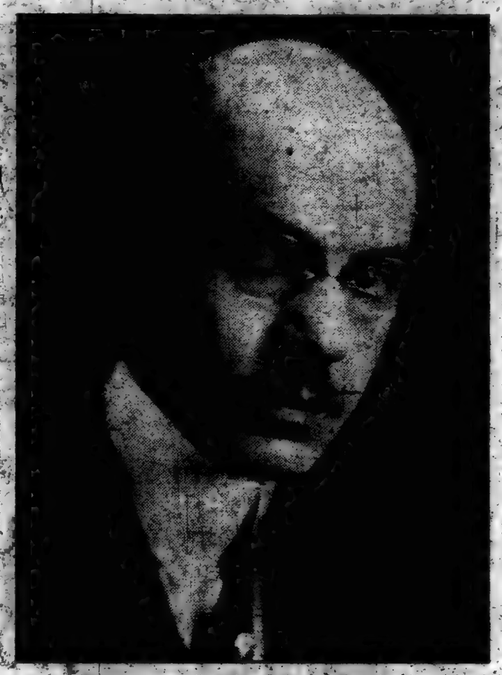
What did you call it?

Yes, over EIGHT and ONE-HALF MILLION DOLLARS.

Part of the picture is slow motion so the champion's and ex-champion's forms can be studied.

You don't have to go back East to see the BIG BATTLE.

The picture will run twice nightly for a limited time.



Main St. A. C. Scene of Many Comebacks

There is one thing about the Main St. A. C. that makes it a big factor in the lives of boxers and managers. If a fighter loses a string of fights at the other clubs and slumps to or near the bottom of the ladder, Carlo Curtis and his staff will always take a chance on him and let him start up again. This was plainly true in the case of Joe Guerrero that quit Ensco boy who ran into a lot of bad breaks during the year, but who came back see high last Saturday night.

This week's bill follows: Cicente Aquilar vs. Bud Baker, 8 rounds; Johnny Gonsales vs. Joe Abrahmson, 6 rounds; Aft Molena vs. Nash Calderon, 6 rounds; Joe Comeaux vs. Kid Veley, 4 rounds; Young Herrera vs. Joe Flores, 4 rounds.

Phillips Loses Titular Contest To Lane 11-3

Chicago, July 1. (By Associated Negro Press) Wendell Phillips lost a ten rounds to Lane Tech at Wrigley Field, Saturday afternoon and, along with that ball game went the City Championship and the chance to play New York City Champions for the real championship.

Five Boxers And Wrestler Get Commission Black-Ball

Sacramento, July 1.—Five boxers were suspended this week by the state athletic commission for periods of two months each for failing to appear at the fixed hour for their scheduled bouts, Secretary Walter A. Yarwood of the boxing commission announced. The suspended men included James L. Patterson, San Francisco, for fouling and Harry Pollit, Oakland; Edward Garcia, El Centro; Thomas McBeigh, Oakland and Charles Grenburgh, Los Angeles, for non-appearance. Leo Pardo, Los Angeles was the wrestler arousing the commission's ire.

"Smiling Jimmy" Murray Has Fireworks At Culver City Stadium

Although the glorious 4th is over Jimmy Murray is staging a glove celebration in the Culver City Stadium on this week promises equally as many fire works as any of his best cards of the summer season. Each has been a humdinger for action especially the Evans-Rivers, Godfrey Ellrain and Evans Chavez mixes, and the two Manning-Johnson scraps. This is the line up for this Thursday, Arizona Joe Rivers vs. Manuel Vasquez, ten rounds; Dick McDaniels vs. Clinton Eddy, six rounds; Sandy Garrison vs. Francisco Villa, four rounds; Sammy Rothstein vs. Joe Hernandez, four rounds; Efren Aguirre vs. Ray Billalbas.

Jake Kilrain Meets MacHouse

Mayor Cohen, the smiling mayor of the New Pendleton, has his pickets on real guard in the Jake Kilrain and Mack House go which will be staged at the Hollywood Stadium this week. Both boys are from the land that [illegible] from a slump by a knockout at the hands of Clisby by beating Hawkins. The card follows: Mack House vs. Jake Kilrain, ten rounds; Joe Clark vs. Jack Delay, six rounds; Joe Rivers vs. Tommy Cleary, four rounds.

Hollywood Stadium Has Two Saturday Battles

The handsome features of Paul De Hate will be mussed up some according to Johnny Adams, the San Fernando Mountain Lion, if he succeeds in getting the upperhand of the shifting Paul, Friday night. They see a good match and a good card supports it.

Hollywood's bill: Johnny Adams vs. Paul De Hate, 10 rounds; Benny Dotson vs. Eddie White, 6 rounds; Young Carreon vs. Yenny Magdalena, 6 rounds; two four rounders complete the card.

War Declared on Lower California Land and Development Co.

To those of you who have never been to Lower California, Mexico, and have never seen the entrancing beauty of a sunrise thousands of feet above sea level with the cool, clear mountain breezes swaying fields of golden red wheat as far as the eye can see, the series of articles which we have published from time to time, may seem "Much Ado About Nothing."

I wish it were possible for you to have taken the trip with us, Messrs. Littlejohn, Troy and Stevens, to Ensenada and from Ensenada back up into the mountains to the ranch Santa Clara. Harvest time has come and all along the way as we traveled into the interior of Lower California, the ripening stalks of wheat and barley presage the gathering of an unprecedented crop. As we topped the last rise over Vallecitas and looked down into Santa Clara valley, more than four hundred acres of planted wheat swayed in the morning breeze. Quail leaped from the side of our car in great coveys and went chirping off to the mountain side; young jack rabbits and cotton-tail jumped from cover and scurried off in the underbrush.

In the beginning daylight we drove on down to the low rambling ranch house in which the president of our company, Mr. T. W. Troy, and his wife, have lived for so many faithful years building a home forty miles from the nearest town of consequence. Hundreds of chickens were scratching and clucking about the farm and its outhouses. A couple of hundred head of fat, thoroughbred cattle were wandering off down to the lucious grasses near the spring that gives Santa Clara permanent water. Mr. Troy was already busy feeding chickens, gathering eggs, milking and caring for the thousand odds and ends of a farmer's life.

Across the way in the house Mr. L. M. Blodgett built for his farm hands similar activities are taking place and a great combined harvester and thresher is gathering and sacking the wheat and barley at the rate of 70 or 80 sacks per day, gathering the greatest crop which has ever been raised on Santa Clara. The cattle, most of the horses, and most of the wheat and barley are of Mr. Blodgett's own raising. The operations of this division of the ranch are under one of the best known and most successful practical farmers of our race, Mr. J. W. Simpson.

The few preceeding paragraphs can only give you a slight impression of what Santa Clara is; what it can be made into is almost beyond the imagination of we ourselves, although we are more familiar with Santa Clara its possibilities and all, than any others save those who make it their permanent home.

Can you see why the possibility of losing this foothold in Southern California stirs our blood and drives us forth to battle for our rights and the preservation of our dream? Through foolish, inefficient manipulations of our attorney, who either did not know what he was doing or purposely chose to misrepresent, we as a company of men have contributed thousands of dollars for the purchase of a property over which we hold no right or title. Our friends and people who believed in us and our integrity have purchased from the company small acre, or five acre tracts, land to which the company had no title and which it could not legally sell. In this efficiency on the part of an attorney-at-law? Nearly a hundred thousand dollars have been collected and squandered for purchase and development of this land and yet nothing has been accomplished. On the other hand a practical business man from our midst, having under lease hold only a part of the ranch, has already produced five times as much in crops and with the passing of the present season may well look forward to earning a neat per centage on invested capital after only two years of honest, straightforward business with Santa Clara, and the natives of Lower California.

Friends its not too late to rescue Santa Clara. We already have the moral and spiritual support of every right thinking man and woman to break up this tragedy of misrule and establish common sense and efficiency. Let every stockholder and well wisher join us and make Santa Clara what she should be.

CALIFORNIA EAGLE AUTOMOTIVE SECTION

DECREPIT CAR DANGER RECOGNIZED

Two of the leading eastern states have just officially recognized the menace of the decrepit automobile on the highways of those states and have made provisions to have them ruled off the roads, according to information given out by the National Automobile Club.

The first state to undertake the removal of this highway menace, as most motor clubs designate their ancient machines, was Massachusetts which gives the motor vehicle authorities of the state the power to regulate the operation of vehicles deemed to be unsafe.

PRECEDENT SET

That the motor vehicle is a dangerous weapon and that the state has power to enforce regulations looking toward its proper control in the interests of public safety, was the ruling of the Massachusetts Supreme Court.

The effect of the ruling may be far-reaching. It means that states may take steps to prevent the operation of motor vehicles that are so far gone mechanically that they constitute a menace to other motorists and to the general public. It means that states may take more stringent measures to regulate cars in the field of proper braking facilities, tire equipment and the like.

Many an accident is the result of neglect of the mechanical parts of the car, it is pointed out by the club. Steering knuckles that are properly lubricated seldom break; tires that are not within the danger limits of wear are not particularly susceptible to puncture; wheel bearings do not fail when they are properly attended to at regular periods. Such legislation or interpretation of the law such as this is certainly a step in the right direction.

LAW PASSED

Pennsylvania is also out after the auto cripples. Under the new code, which has just received the signature of the Governor, the superintendent of the motor vehicle department "may suspend the registration of any motor vehicle deemed unsafe or unfit to be operated if not equipped as required by law."

This regulation will clean the highways of Pennsylvania of decrepit machines that are a menace to traffic, according to the National Automobile Club. The plan for enforcement of the new code, which will go into effect on the first day of next year, includes brake inspection and the equipment of cars with a windshield wiper that insures clear vision at all times.

The new code is flexible enough to permit the use of common sense in its enforcement and it probably will not work a hardship on anyone. It is certainly in the interests of safety to exclude from the highways and the city streets all machines that constitute a menace to the traveling public.

Garage Important Element of House

The stable and the barn used to be relegated to the backyard but with the advent of the automobile the successor to the barn, the garage, forms a very important part of the house itself.

The recent announcement of the epartment of Labor that four out of every five houses built in the United States in 1926 had private garages included within their walls or erected on the adjoining property shows the trend of the time. The private garage made up thirty-seven per cent of all new buildings put up last year.

Twenty-two million motor vehicles are now in service in this country of which more than twenty million are private cars. There are twenty-seven million families in the United States. More than three-fourths of American families are provided with motor cars.

YOSEMITE HIGHWAY IN EXCELLENT SHAPE

The All-Year road into Yosemite Valley is in splendid condition, according to the Fresno District Office of the National Automobile Club. From Merced, the road is paved to Planada and 4½ miles beyond, thence excellent improved gravel road to El Portal where pavement is again encountered and continues into the Valley.

The improved section of the road between Planada and El Portal has been recently graveled in places which will require slow driving until the gravel becomes packed.

Compulsory Insurance Law Meets Snags

General dissatisfaction with the Massachusetts Compulsory Insurance Law has led to innumerable suggestions for changing the methods of working out the Law.

There are three zones at the present time and those living in Metropolitan areas pay a higher rate than those living in the country.

A new bill was introduced into the Legislature to make the insurance coverage uniform throughout the state but it was defeated. Another bill was introduced which provided for a flat charge to be turned over by every car owner to the state and provided that all damages must be paid out of this fund by the state authorities. This bill was also defeated.

Under the present conditions in Massachusetts, it seems decidedly dangerous to experiment in California with the compulsory automobile insurance law until some plan has been worked out which has some possibility of success.

STATE GAS TAXES TOTAL $187,603,231

Gasoline taxes collected by the various states last year totaled $187,603,231. The average levy per gallon was .0238. Of this amount $120,441,529 was set aside for state highway construction, $43,409,478 for county roads, $5,238,869 for interest payments on bonds and a little under ten million dollars for miscellaneous expenditures. This from the Department of Agriculture at Washington.

Only four states, Illinois, New Jersey, Massachusetts and New York are not collecting a tax on gasoline.

During the past year Kentucky increased the gasoline tax from three to five cents, Mississippi from three to four cents, North Dakota from six to two cents, and Virginia from three to four and one-half cents. Alabama raised the gas tax from two to four cents and Montana from two to three cents. Ninety-nine per cent of the gasoline receipts are used for the construction of highways, of this amount 34 states collected $10,503,182.

Stiff Sentence For Auto Thief Urged

Sentencing an automobile thief to serve one to ten years in prison, Judge W. McKaye Stillman of Detroit stated from the bench last week that he believed that the courts of the country had a responsibility in making the penalties of automobile theft severe, in view of the fact that activities of thieves have already penalted the law-abiding citizens by increasing automobile insurance rates.

Locking the car is one way the automobile owner can help to prevent theft. Strict interpretation of the law and rigorous enforcement of its provisions by the courts will go far toward reducing motor car theft, according to W. H. Schoppe, Superintendent of the Theft Bureau of the National Automobile Club.

Enough is Enough

We're getting near the welcome day
When, legalized our power,
We'll merry bowl along the way
At 40 miles an hour.
Our careful Scotch sentiment well
Ere setting pace so nifty—
But some of inch will make an ell
And promptly speed it up.

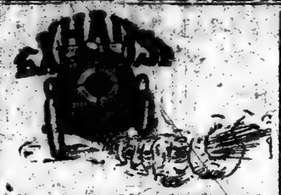
It's hard to judge the speed exact
A car can safely travel;
Comes many a contrevertive fact
Ere one the point can ravel,
But "forty per" is fast enough
Of joy to give a maw full;
So, pray, all speedier instinct slough
And stick to pace that's lawful!

COPS 'STEAL' AUTOS OF 500 MOTORISTS

Five hundred motorists in Summerdale, a suburb of Chicago, Ill., missed their cars after they had parked them in front of their homes sometime during the night. The police towed the cars to garages as they began enforcing a new ordinance against all-night parking.

CARE OF YOUR CAR

IMPORTANCE OF SPARK ADJUSTMENT



"Now listen, Doc, my engine sounds like a woodpecker working on a gas tank when it's pulling hard. The knock stops if I retard the spark. Some say that's hard on the engine. How about it?"

It is to the advantage of any motorist to have his distributor so set that the spark will occur just as near the dead center of the stroke as possible. Then the explosion will begin its "push" against the piston just as soon after it starts down on the power stroke as possible. Many drivers who have discovered the importance of this to the delivery of utmost power, run with the spark lever in such a position as to cause the explosion to occur on the exact dead center, but when the engine is on a hard pull you will notice that they always retard the spark a little just enough to keep the engine from knocking.

The knock is caused by the explosion occurring when the piston is in such a position that the force travels straight down the connecting rod and hammers it against the bearing on the shaft, or, in extreme case, let's the force of the explosion strikes the piston when it is still traveling upward on the compression stroke. These knocks are destructive to the engine and for this reason motorists do not trust your ability to detect this knock and correct it with the spark lever. They set the spark so that the car will take the average hill without developing a knock. If they set it in this manner they will tell you that it is not necessary to retard the spark, but we will tell you that your car will not develop its full horsepower under ordinary working conditions.

Carbon knocks are [illegible] when the engine is under a heavy load, the average driver is not [illegible] to tell whether the knock is due to carbon or to the timing of the [illegible] remember that a spark knock would disappear when the spark is retarded, but that a carbon knock will not. Do not allow the engine to labor [illegible] or cease. It is no disgrace to go into second gear and you will certainly save gasoline by doing this. WHITE PEOPLE SHOULD LEARN TO CO-OPERATE WITH OTHER RACES

Stanley High, a college graduate, addressed the City Club last week after a year's investigation of what is going on in other countries than our own, and make so bold as to state to his white audience, that it the white people of the earth do not learn how to co-operate with the other races, (meaning darker races) they are soon going to come in active conflict with them, and while we think we could lick anybody on earth, we may get a terrific surprise in that line.

The yellow, black and brown races far out-number the white and with what they have learned about fighting, and with their own terrible courage and determination, they probably could eventually overcome even our scientific methods of warfare.

"However, the non-white races don't want to fight with us any more than they want to mingle with us.

"They don't want to bow and scrape to the white people, and the day is fast coming when THEY WON'T DO IT."

Well spoken, Mr. Stanley High, and may the writer add to your little address that that day is already here staring you in the face. The bow and scrape method was done in the days of ignorance, and slavery. It may still exist in remote spots of the world, but in America it has vanished, never to return again.

A GOOD SYSTEM DESERVES A TRIA

On a trip East recently made by the writer he discovered that in order to get ginger ale or other drinks which should be procured from the club car. That is, if you happened to be the porter on the head car of the train, you had to walk at least 7 or 10 cars to reach the club car for your drinks. This not only worked an untold hardship on the Porter, but kept the passengers waiting an unnecessary length of time, during which time you were away from your car. Your bell might ring many times for your service, and not being answered, naturally would have a tendency to peeve the party ringing for you. After you have gone through all of these cars to get your order, you were politely told that the club car porter would serve it. Thus you are mad nothing more than an errand boy for the club car porter's benefit, going back and forth like this about 9 or 10 times a day and through 10 cars each time; a porter must go through on the average of 100 cars and all for nothing. The passengers pay the club porter the tip if there be any, and the porter who has run his legs off gets nothing but a tired feeling and maybe a bawling out from some other passenger who has been ringing the bell while you were on this wild goose chase. Get it from the diner, you say. Alright. If you have a drinking party, the diner soon runs out, now what must you do? The condition of which I write is on the Gold Coast Limited and all transcontinental trains which carry a club car observation. In this day and time of co-operation among porters, the system that the writer thinks would be a good one to give a trial is as follows: Let the head man give his order to the porter on the car next to him, and this porter do likewise to the porter on the next car, so on and so on until the order finally reaches the club car porter, in this manner it saves the porter on the head end from being absent from his car and also from bringing the wrath of some other passenger who should ring for him during his absence. It could be worked out very nicely if each porter on a long train would co-operate with each other. However, the writer would welcome any suggestions on this feature of the srvice from anyone that is interested.

FEEDING THE HELP

I often wonder to myself how some of these different dining car crews can look a porter or maid in the face when they get off the train after they have helped to rob them of the hard-earned money they have to make in order to eat. The Union Pacific is one of the few roads that charge a porter and maid 70 cents for a meal. Think of it! 70 cents! Where do they think the money is coming from? Many times I have seen the waiter stand up over them and make them put bread on the check, and if you didn't do it, you would not get it. Now, go around to the kitchen of any one of these diners after supper is over or any other meal, and see for yourself how much food is thrown in the garbage can, rather throw it away than give it to you. Many times it is the chef's fault. Then again it is the steward's fault. Porters do not want the Union Pacific to feed them for nothing, but when it comes to a case of throwing food away rather than give it to the help at a reasonable price, is it any wonder that the help is knocking the road, instead of boosting it?

LOCKERS FOR CLOTHES

Every time a Pullman car comes out of the shop it has some new invention on it, but as yet they have not given the help's clothes a thought, other than to make a rule that he should not hang them in the drawing room annex even when not occupied. Pray tell me, Mr. Pullman Co., what harm will clothes do in the drawing room annex when the room is not occupied? It's true you have designated a shelf for the porters to put their clothes on. This would be fine if all a porter had to wear was a neck-shelf soon must make way for a solution that a porter operating on a transcontinental train to Chicago in the winter time has an overcoat, and a suit or clothes and a pair of shoes, and a hat. Will you please be so kind as to tell me what condition you expect those clothes to be in when he folds them up at Los Angeles and takes them out at Chicago, barring the fact that he is not running top and bottom for it he does, this clothes shelf soon must make way for a soiled linen shelf. Now then, why not tell your mechanics to make an extra locker in the hall as you have done on some of the late type observation cars. A little consideration along the clothes line will go a long ways with the porters and inspectors will not have to keep writing them up for having their clothes hanging in the drawing room annex.

CO-OPERATION AMONG PORTERS AND MAIDS

On trains where maids operate, Porters should be men enough to try and co-operate with the maids as much as possible. They should look after their ladies' dressing rooms just the same as if there were no maids on the train; let's co-operate.

UNION PACIFIC GOSSIP

By: J. R.

Maids operating on trains Nos. 27 and 28 "Gold Coast Limited" are all smiles since their destination or layover period has been changed from Omaha to Chicago.

August Davis has temporarily disconnected himself from the U. P. to accept a much better position with a local motor company.

Heywood Perry was so absorbed in listening to some bedtime stories until he brought up a late to Mr. Turner. The latter though, failed to sympathize with him, but recommended that he return to the broadcasting station and remain until they signed off.

Fred Lloyd is registered at the Rock Island now since the departure of Mrs. Lloyd.

Mrs. Alma Hayes, maid of the Chicago District has been transferred to the "Gold Coast Limited."

Mrs. Dora McLaughlin, our little attendant at the Yale branch library has been successful in increasing her weekly business 65%. We are hoping that the great event will see the necessity of placing more of our girls in districts where our race is giving their patronage.

U. P. QUARTERS ASSUME NEW MANAGEMENT

Wm. Bridges, one of the veteran waiters of the "Overland Limited" has taken over the Chicago Waiters quarters formerly conducted by Mr. and Mrs. Frank Cole. It is with regret that this change was made but numerous complaints were being made to the Commissary that caused investigations to bring about such a procedure.

In view of the fact that the word "Dope" that this column has been known by is appearing in another part of this paper, this column in the future will be known as "Union Pacific Gossip."

Gas-Saving Suggestions

1. Adjust Gas Burners

Keep the gas burners and air mixers clean, and adjust them so as to get the steady, hot, blue flame that denotes the proper mixture of air and gas.

2. Don't try to Hurry Boiling

Water cannot be heated above 212 degrees Fahrenheit—the boiling point. Therefore, it is poor economy to waste gas making the pot boil briskly. A gentle boiling will furnish the same cooking temperature and will require much less gas.

3. Light the Fire Last

And turn it out as soon as the cooking is done. If it takes ten minutes to prepare the food for cooking and ten minutes to cook it, don't make the mistake of lighting the gas before starting to prepare the food; for in that case clearly twice as much gas is burned as is used.

Don't Waste Gas!

WARNING!

If your gas range was built with a "grid" or open top, it is unwise and unsafe to equip it with so-called "solid tops", "gas savers" or "gas conservers". Adjust your burners if they need adjustment, but beware of devices sold by persons of doubtful reliability. A range manufactured with a solid top burner, is a different matter; it was designed for such operation.

PASTOR SHOOTS Defending Member

Pastor Shoots In Self Defense

Alleging that he was threatened with a huge knife in the hands of Youniawnn Daily, Rev. W. R. Hardy, well known Baptist minister and pastor of the Second Baptist Church of Long Beach, on last Saturday night shot his alleged assailant three times with an automatic pistol. As a result the Reverend Hardy is locked up awaiting the result of the shots and Daily is in the hospital on the way to recovery, so it is said.

The whole situation, according to information gathered by the Eagle reporter hinges on a quarrel between Daily and Mrs. Sarah Robinson, a member of Rev. Hardy's church. Hardy bears an excellent reputation and the best people of the community of both races are clearly in sympathy with him. Among prominent members of his church are Rev. F. W. Williams, Mrs. Brooks, Mr. Edwards, Bonners, et al.

It was full of food for thought and the product of a master mind gained by years of experience as one of America's greatest and foremost educators.

While here Prof. Miller was the guest of Dr. W. B. Miller, 1466 Griffith avenue.

RANDOLPH CASE DISMISSED; TESTIFIES AS STATE WITNESS

Mrs. Clara Harris, in finishing her testimony on Thursday afternoon, said that she was standing at the table when Randolph raised his gun and shot. She said that she saw Randolph shoot towards the bedroom where her brother was killed. When Sheffield started shooting, she was standing between the dining room table and the fireplace. She continued by saying that Randolph shot into the bedroom, then walked to the front room where he was shot by Sheffield. After cross examining, she was dismissed.

The next witness called was Miss Catalina Scott, of 1018 E. 21st St. She was with the Misses Coates and Mr. Curtis when they came to visit Mrs. Harris. She said that after visiting for a few minutes, they decided to go, when Mr. Dickson came in. When asked by the attorney to tell the story in her own words, she said:

"After Mr. Dickson came in, I was standing by the front door which has a glass window in it. I heard someone come upon the porch. Raising the shade because they did not knock or ring the bell, I told Mrs. Harris that someone was at her front door. Then Mrs. Harris went and opened the door and let the men in. (The door was NOT broken in by the officers as had been previously testified). Mr. Sheffield went into the kitchen and Mr. Randolph stayed in the front with us. I was standing by the piano. Pretty soon, Mrs. Harris went over to the dining room window to talk to someone on the outside, and Randolph, seeing her, whistled for Sheffield. Then Sheffield came in shooting. All during the shooting, I stood by the piano until Sheffield asked me for the number of the house. I went on the outside, and found out, then came back and told him."

She testified that she did not see Sheffield step on the hand of Mrs. Faulkner, as she went back into the front room and stayed until the ambulance came, then she went home.

Mr. Jack Allen, 1355 E. 51st St. was then called. He is the son-in-law of Mr. and Mrs. Faulkner and went to the house to see his children that they were keeping for him. When he arrived at the house he found everything in confusion. Sheffield was telephoning, and Randolph standing in the dining room. Randolph asked him to telephone for the ambulance, which he did.

Q. "Then what did you do?"

A. "I looked in the bedroom and saw the body of my brother-in-law. I covered him with his bathrobe, then came out of the bedroom."

Q. "Did you see anyone in the front room?"

A. "Yes, my sister-in-law, Mrs. Faulkner."

Q. "Your sister-in-law, Mrs. Faulkner? Are you positive of that?"

A. "Yes, I am positive that it was my sister-in-law, Mrs. Faulkner."

Q. "And where did you see her?"

A. "In the front room near the piano. She was hysterical."

Q. "What did you do?"

A. "I took her several places trying to find my wife or someone to leave her with as she was very hysterical. I finally found my wife, we stayed at the house a while, then I took my sister-in-law back to her home."

At this juncture it was time for adjournment, and the court was adjourned to open in session Monday, July 11th.

CHANGES TESTIMONY

Upon the opening of court Monday, Mr. Jack Allen was called again to take the witness stand.

Q. "Have you any changes to make in the testimony which you made last Friday?"

A. "I have."

Q. "What is it you want to change?"

A. "Friday, being excited, I testified that I saw my sister-in-law, Mrs. Faulkner, in the front room. I did not see her in the front room. I saw her outside on the sidewalk."

Q. "What made you change your testimony?"

A. "Because I did not see her in the house, and when I came home and was thinking over what I said, I realized that I had not told the truth."

Q. "Have you talked this anyone about the case or been in the district Attorney's office?"

A. "No, I haven't. I was just excited Friday and made the wrong statement."

When asked if he had any other changes to make in his testimony of Friday, he said that he did not have any.

Mr. Grasty, deputy district attorney, then took the witness and read the testimony of Mr. M. S. Sheffield, as made at the coronor's inquest.

Q. (As asked at the Coronor's inquest): "How did you happen to go to this number?"

A. "Because I was told that bootlegging was going on there."

Q. "Who accompanied you?"

A. "Randolph, only."

Sheffield continued his testimony by saying that he and Randolph went by the side of the house and looked in the window of the dining room and saw some people sitting down drinking. Then they went to the door and were admitted by Mrs. Harris.

Q. "Then what did you do?"

A. "I went to the kitchen and started looking for liquor. While there, Mrs. Faulkner came to the door and asked what was the matter. I told her that I was an officer and was making a raid. I continued to look and heard Randolph call. I looked through the swinging door and saw Faulkner's arm out of the bedroom door shooting at Randolph. Randolph shot at the arm, striking him near the right eye."

Q. "How many shots did Sam fire?"

A. "He fired two shots and then the pistol jammed. When it was found, it was still jammed."

Q. "When did you fire?"

A. "After Randolph had been shot."

Q. "What calibre gun did you and Randolph have?"

A. "I had a 38 revolver and Randolph had a 45."

Q. "Did you really see Randolph fire at Sam Faulkner?"

A. "I did. I was standing in the swinging door between the kitchen and the dining room and I saw Randolph fire point blank at Sam Faulkner who was in a crouched position."

A. "One."

RANDOLPH'S CASE DISMISSED; TAKES STAND AS STATE'S WITNESS

After Mr. Brayton finished reading the testimony of Mr. Sheffield, Mr. Dennison, prosecuting attorney, then asked the court to dismiss the case against Mr. Frank Randolph for the purpose of calling him as a state witness. The request was granted and Mr. Randolph was then called upon to testify.

In taking oath, Mr. Randolph had to support his right arm with his left hand as the bullet being still in his arm made it rather difficult for him to raise it.

After taking oath and starting his testimony he stated that his name was Frank Randolph and that he resided at 1138 E. 41st street. He also stated that he had been a member of the police force since December 19, 1921 and had been associated with Sheffield, his superior, for the past two or three years.

Q. "How did you happen to go to 1368 E. 51st street on the night of April 24, 1927?"

A. "Because Sheffield told me to."

Q. "So it had been the custom that when Sheffield said that you were to go to a certain place that you and he would go?"

A. "It was."

Q. "Tell in your own way what occurred."

A. "After Sheffield said that we were to go to this address, we left 1st and Hill and started. We were told that there was bootlegging going on there. We left the car on Ascot, went through a yard of courts, climbed the fence, passed by the rear house on our way to the front house. In passing the dining room window, I looked in and saw Mr. Dickson and Mrs. Harris standing by the dining table. Mrs. Harris had a pitcher in her hand and was pouring something out."

Q. "Did you see what was the color of what Mrs. Harris was pouring out?"

A. "No, I couldn't tell, I just know that she was pouring something out of the pitcher."

Q. "How many shots did Sam fire?"

A. "He fired two shots and then the pistol jammed. When it was found, it was still jammed."

ON THE SIDEWALK

BY C. A. B.

"PIGEON SLAYS RAT AFTER GRIM BATTLE"

This was one of the big captions in the first section of Sunday's Examiner.

The article went on to say that "mother love whose surgings and sacrifices differentiate naught between species or orders of life spurred a frantic mother pigeon on to kill a huge rat which entered her nest on the top of a building in the city of Baltimore, and was making a get away along the telephone wire with one of her young in his mouth.

The article went on to say that staid lawyers, their girl secretaries and clerks came to windows to cheer the mother pigeon in her fight for the protection of her fledgling. And the article which has not been quoted directly closed with these words:

"The battle was on—and mother love won."

IS AMERICA BECOMING MORE HUMAN?

As we read this very appealing little story about a pigeon with outstanding mother love, and a thieving rodent, who paid for his greed with an ignominious death, we wondered if these same staid lawyers and their clerks would have evinced a similar amount of interest in a Negro lad paying the price of some imaginary crime with his body hitched to a burning stake while his heart-broken black mother—far enough behind the onlookers as not to be discovered—suffers vicariously as did Jesus when He hanged on the cross and was mocked by his accusers.

And we ask, IS AMERICA GROWING MORE HUMAN?

AN ALL-NEGRO VILLAGE

"Mound Bayou, in Mississippi, is an "all-Negro village of 1200 inhabitants, founded forty years ago by Isaiah Montgomery, a slave belonging to Jefferson Davis.

"Mound Bayou celebrates its fortieth birthday today. It has a $100,000 brick public school, a $40,000 African Methodist Episcopal Church, a $20,000 Baptist Church, a Carnegie library, two private houses of brick, no jail, one policeman, few arrests. All officials, mayor, postmaster, chamber of commerce, are Negroes."—L. A. Examiner, July12, 1927.

If Mississippi with its handicaps can climate and location can offer the world Mound Bayou as an example of the Black Man's ability to govern and be governed, then we wish to ask California and Californians, what's the matter with Altadenaville?

We believe that Altadenaville when founded upon the lofty ideals as was Mound Bayou but it will take a little more suffering and sacrifice to make it what the Mississippi village is. Let us hope, however that the next time Arthur Brisbane writes about Mound Bayou it will have become a city!

"TIME TO FIGHT".

"Barbasol: A recent cartoon in the Daily News depicts the people's mind pertinently. At a time we workingmen are rising up in arms and fighting with ever increasing vigor against the vile ownership of our homes, (for the rich real estate gamblers) lumped all of the best accordion to our economic loss, the Bank from the Yukon's belongs to the government, and tyranny by it? July the 3rd and 4th will open—settled for the time forced of the business of a dictated police with various and and compelled to pay for keeping 24 hours with their families in an unwise way ordered by a mad dictatorship.—Brian Lord."

MOSCOW AND AMERICAN NEGROES

BY: WILLIAM PICKENS

There are a few Negro Communists in the United States; not nearly as many, in proportion to their numbers, as there are white Communists. We mean: one-tenth or more of the population of these United States are Negroes, but every observer can see that not even a twentieth, perhaps not one-fiftieth part of the Communists in America are Negroes. And yet because a New York daily paper has just "discovered" the names and addresses of a few of these colored Communists, there is a great cry (in the newspapers): "Help! murder! Congress must do something about it!"

The fact is: the newspapers have not "discovered" anything,—except to very ignorant people. All intelligent people know that there are a few Negro Communists, and wonder, under the conditions, that there are not many more in these United States. Not all of those to whom the papers refer, are Communists; but those who are Communists are well known to every intelligent American Negro,—and they are fellows who have never tried to conceal the fact of their political beliefs. In fact, they have been doing, and doubtless will continue to do, what all politicians do: Try to convert other people to their way of thinking.

The great surprise, and the outstanding fact is, what the newspapers do not seem to care to emphasize: That these Negro Communists have so far been able to convert SO FEW of their fellow sufferers in American semi-slavery to the doctrine of Communism.

In order to make the thing sound "alarming," the newspapers are doing what, perhaps, newspapers will always do: add-to and multiply and exaggerate. For example: the "reputable" paper that started the alarm, says, speaking of the Negro students have gone to be educated in the "Eastern University" at Moscow: "From 50 to 100 of these instrumeats of propaganda have been shipped out of the United States," etc. Well, you must know how to read that style of journalism: just take that minimum figure, 50, and take away the zero, and you have it: JUST 5 AMERICAN NEGRO STUDENTS WERE INDUCED TO TAKE ADVANTAGE OF THE WORLD-WIDE OFFER OF THE SOVIET GOVERNMENT TO COME AND BE EDUCATED IN THEIR UNIVERSITY,—and one of them has died, leaving only 4. The writer saw and talked to all of them when he was in Russia. Besides these 4, there was ONE from Africa,—making a grand total of five alive and one dead Negro student in all Russia, from all North America and all great Africa.

What a peril! And these four fellows, none of them geniuses,—for I studied them,—are going soon to overthrow the United States, including Mississippi and Cole L. Blease.

The fun of it is: from all the rest of the world,—from white America, from England, Scotland, France, Germany, China and all the white and brown nations of the world, there are in this same "Eastern University" at Moscow TWELVE HUNDRED (1200) STUDENTS. The marvelous thing to the writer is: that there are not more American Negroes, perhaps the most oppressed and harassed people, with the exception of the Negroes of South Africa, on the top side of the round world. The Russian government only asked for 12 Negroes, and got only 5. The Negro Communists scoured to try to get 12 colored students to go and take advantage of this offer to study in a foreign land, perhaps the most interesting political experiment in human history, and could get only 5, and they went reluctantly. They did not try to get Communists,—they asked these of us who are not Communists to recommend students. We did not know any to recommend, because of the disinclination of the average American Negro to take such an offer.

NOW, the TRUTH: The reason why such a noise is made whenever anybody is reported to be trying to "arouse" the American Negro, is that most American whites know, deep down in their souls, that the Negro ought to be aroused,—that he has good cause for revolution and for change. We are most afraid of those who we oppress,—even when they are as "tame" as American Negroes.

And not a single newspaper has so far dwelt on this point: that the way, and ultimately the ONLY WAY, to make sure that Moscow or somebody else does not arouse the American Negro, is to treat the Negro with more justice. He is inclined to be the most patient element in the population, but even he will be finally aroused,—not by "Bolshevikt," but by a set of savages who are worse than the Bolshevikt were ever even accused by their enemies of being: savages who burn men alive, not for crime but for color; barbarians who plunder and rob and starve men and women and children under the protection of the color sentiment of America. If the American Negro turns Communist and Bolshevik, it will not be caused by a Moscow University with 5 Negro students who may never live to get back, but by the American newspapers themselves. The most provocative Negro has for his inspiration in America, is found in American newspapers.

Kan. State Club Closes Membership Drive

Last Tuesday evening was a big night for former Kansans as they gathered to close the big membership drive which had been in progress for the past 30 days.

A very splendid program was furnished by talent within the club and cleverly arranged by Mrs. Taylor, chairman of the program committee.

A happy and illuminating address was given by Prof. Ernest Hawkins who is the principal of one of the public schools of Fort Scott and here on the Coast at this time for his summer vacation. Prof. Wm. Biggers also a Kansas and formerly a resident here was present and edified all by his presence and message.

Several selections, readings and musical numbers were rendered, at the close of the program and words of encouragement by Prof. T. A. Green and Editor J. B. Bass. A grand feast which had been prepared was served and all departed voting highest honors to the Kansas Club as entertainers worth while.

Mrs. T. A. Glover was declared winner of first prize for bringing in the most members and Mrs. R. T. Taylor was the winner of the second prize. Next meeting Tuesday evening at the Y. M. C. A.

THE BACHELOR GIRLS CLUB

The Bachelor Girls are giving a Musical Tea on Sunday afternoon, from two until six, at the home of Miss Marcella Robinson. Their many friends are invited. A continuous program will be given, including participants from various clubs.

Miss Edith Fortier, a popular Bachelor Girl, left on last Tuesday morning for an extended Eastern tour. Miss Fortier will be gone several months.

The next meeting of the Bachelor Girls Club will be held at the home of Miss Helen Carson, West 36th street.

A Cincinnati paper says that government officials in Washington, when they heard of this terrific alliance between Moscow and a dozen American Negroes, were "just angry." Well, being "angry" will do no good about it. They must find some better statesmanship than anger. If more Negroes are won to radicalism, and more will be if the present situation in America is allowed to continue; they will not have to thank Moscow, but the thanks will be due to stupidity of the government officials themselves, who forget that Negroes are human beings, and who refuse or fail to even pass a law to prevent their being burned alive.

What we are trying to indicate is, that it would do more good if Americans would give less time and attention to wild reports about the disloyalty of colored citizens, who for over 300 years have been known to be the most responsible element of the population in any crisis, and more time and attention to securing justice, treatment for colored citizens, so as to keep them contented and loyal.

Inkslingers Entertain Dean Kelley Miller

The far-famed "Inkslingers Club" Miss Emma Lue Sayers as its conductor, gave in honor of Dean Kelley Miller a most sumptuous banquet at the Christian Inn last Wednesday evening. Other honor guests for the occasion were Garland Anderson, Ralph Bunche, Miss Anita Thompson, Jas. B. Lowe, Jimmy Smith, et al.

Mr. S. M. Steward presided at the musical end of the function and of course that meant class par excellent.

Humor and wit reigned supreme as the various writers and scholars were called upon and the sage and welcome words of Prof. Miller will linger long upon all who heard him.

The Inkslingers are to be congratulated upon the success of this very pretentious affair.

But on the other hand, do we ever thrill to the knowledge of the dependability of the great accomplishments which are now a part of our daily life?

Dependable, safe, rapid, comfortable transportation is a necessary factor in our civilization and the Los Angeles Railway furnishes this every day of the year. Rain or shine—early or late—the street car is ready to serve you.

Holsey Visits Tar Heel Business League

Newbern, N. C., July 11. (By The Associated Negro Press)—Albon L. Holsey, Secretary of the National Negro Business League, was guest of the local league here last night in closing a week's tour of Eastern North Carolina in interests of the National League. The National Secretary visited Durham, Kinston, Tarboro, Rocky Mount, Wilson, and Wilmington.

In company with Mr. Holsey were: J. M. Avery of Durham, Secretary-Manager, the North Carolina Mutual Insurance Company, and Regional Director of the National Negro Business League for North and South Carolina, also Prof. J. D. Reed, Vice-President of the Commercial Bank of Wilson.

On the tour local leagues were revived or organized and the new program of the National League explained. Much enthusiasm was aroused and Mr. Avery stated that a large delegation from North Carolina would attend the next session of the League when it convenes in St. Louis, August 10, 11, and 12. Mr. Avery is arranging for a special Pullman Car for the delegates from his district.

Personality and "Pep" Plus Service at the New Chick Inn

Now in its second week since its opening the new Chick Inn at 23rd and Central avenue is being crowded nightly. The personnel of any business means much to it, so if there is anything whatever i nthe selection of a staff the proprietors Messrs. Graham and Johnson have done themselves proud.

N. C. Harper, the chef, was a chef on the N. Y. Central, a number of years and brings with him all their latest dishes and styles of catering. Chefs Penn and Baines are also well-versed in the culinary art.

So many of our eating places allow the employees to drive away trade by uncourteous indifference and unconcerned manner that these two gentlemen have aimed to guard against this evil by employing waitresses who are really sales ladies of food, serving quickly and neatly with the smile that goes a long, long way. They are Mrs. Harvey, Miss Coleman, Miss Juanita Green and Miss Ollie Parker.

Receiving Degree From Law School

Three hundred and seventy-four students comprising the largest graduating class in the history of the New Jersey Law School, will receive their degrees tonight at the commencement exercises at the Shubert Theater.

One of the students to receive his degree will be William Wiener, 58-year-old principal of Central High School. Mr. Weiner intends to serve a clerkship with his son, Mervin Wheeler, and take his bar examination next May.

H. Theodore Sorg, a member of the faculty, will present the degrees, and Professor George S. Harris will award the prizes. David Seabury will address the graduates.

Another Milestone Of Progress

This week marks another milestone of progress for the group in Southern California. The first Mortgage Company to be owned and managed by our group in Southern California has been organized. Some of the most substantial men on the Pacific Coast will be connected with this organization.

Dr. E. R. Driver, one of the largest property owners in the city of Los Angeles, and whose experience in investing money is known to almost every bank in this city, is to be one of the higher ups in the Organization.

This company, while not a charitable organization, will do away with all the red tape connected with the average Loan Company. If anyone has a mortgage that is due or coming due, the Company, without cost or obligation, appraises the property and tells you just the amount of loan the property will stand. Aside from first Mortgage loans, the company will make second mortgages for building and repair purposes at the regular low rate of interest. Connections have been made with several of the largest financial Corporations in the city, who have been underwriting more than $20,000 monthly for this company, which has been quietly shaping its affairs so as to announce that it is ready for business.

Temporary headquarters are located at 1720 Central Avenue. Larger quarters will be opened when suitable location can be found. There are several prominent ministers, one lawyer and several business men who will guide the destiny of this company.

Sidney P. Dones, who is now finishing his law course at Southwestern Law School will be manager of this Company. Several public meetings will be held in the near future so as to acquaint the public with the superservice offered by the Associated Loan Company.

Don't Miss It! "Out of the Past" at Philharmonic Auditorium, Tuesday, August 2, 8:15 P. M. Wonderful, gorgeous, magnificent, Humorous, Pathetic, Spiritual.

Ancient Egyptian Order To Have Grand Opening in Los Angeles

BEAUTIFULLY DECORATED AND NEWLY REMODELED HALL TO BE THROWN OPEN TO PUBLIC IN GENERAL RECEPTION AND HOUSE WARMING

Los Angeles will experience an entirely new sensation when the newly remodeled building at Washington and Central avenue is thrown open to the public in a general reception and house warming of the Mystic Order of the Wise Men of the East and West, Friday evening, July 22, 1927. The entire upper floors of the building have been remodeled and decorated, making the new Wise Men's hall one of the beauty spots of the city. The entire third floor is devoted to the supreme offices of the order.

The new truths of this fraternal organization have been assembled by a number of well known local men and women and are devoted to building up the history, education, and stronger co-operation in our race. It gives to the public a long-felt need, for it has often been said that the colored race has no history, has no music, and no literature; and many of us accept this dictum without any real understanding of how baseless it is and how easily it may be refuted by a simple reference to the annals of the past.

HISTORY

That we do have a history—and a proud one it is—is simply verified by reference to ancient Egyptian records which are clear and undisputable, wherein it appears that during the several dynasties, at or about the 23d century before Christ and prior there to, the Ethiopians were the actual rulers of Egypt. Their civilization was the most advanced of any of the world at that time; they advanced in knowledge and understanding and in the glories of conquest. That they may have been torn from their high estate by overpowering numbers and their glorious civilization destroyed by the hordes of Assyrians who came "down like a wolf on the fold" detracts nothing from the historical fact that the Ethiopian dynasties were among the most conspicuous and glorious of the ancient times. That their history may have been dimmed, their music abandoned and their literature merged with another is simply demonstrative of the fact that, in the height of their glory, they lost sight of the principle of mutual co-operation and self-help and began to pull apart at the very time when they should have pulled together.

The most conspicuous sovereign of the 13th Dynasty was Netsi-Ra, the King of the North and South, and under his wise guidance the Ethiopian people made such progress and advancement as to mark them as the foremost people of the world at that time. He founded a secret order at that time, which had for its main objective the inculcation of that very spirit of harmony and mutual assistance, among his people which is so essential to the further progress of the race. The secrets, rules and maxims which he propounded and inculcated have endured down the centuries, through all the gloomy history of the race and stand today as the basic maxims upon which our group may well found its plans for the rehabilitation of the race to its ancient glories.

EDUCATION

It is the object of this secret order founded 2316 years before the birth of Christ by the illustrious Nehsi-Ra, king of all North and South Africa, to train every embrio brain and soul that train every embro brain and soul that God sends to ponder on the problems of the world, to educate every member of the race, both large and small, to know the beauty and dignity of honest toil and to appreciate the advantages of racial co-operation and racial unity, to eradicate the unclean ulcers that come from the germ of ignorance and superstition and to make the world a better and happier place for every race and creed and color of human kind.

CO-OPERATION

The Mystic Order of the Wise Men of the East and West is founded upon broad principles and seeks to teach all of its people the glory and beauty of right living and honest endeavor; that health and happiness go hand in hand with cleanliness of mind and body; to leave no center in all this vast world where any group of people can breed the vices and crimes which come from ignorance, to sow the seeds of right thinking and to teach everyone not to seek for selfish ends but to seek to serve; to uplift themselves; to make themselves worthy of all the benefits and advantages which will come to them when they are ready to receive them; to give thanks by service for the blessed opportunity; to love and to labor for the betterment of all.

Tries To Defraud City Of $50,000

Philadelphia, Pa., July 11. (By The Associated Negro Press).—Morris Gilgoff, who is employed as runner for a lawyer, and Olim Brown, a young man and a cripple, were sentenced to the county prison on a charge of attempting to defraud the city of $50,000. It was believed that these two men had been instrumental in having suits filed in the local courts for alleged damages, and a crusade against fake-accidents has been started. It is said of Brown that he claimed to have been hurt in an automobile accident near Elkton, Md., but that he through Morris Gilgoff, had built a story around a hole in the pavement of one of the city's streets. When cross-examined, Brown fell down, admitting that the entire affair was a frame-up.

CHURCH OF CHRIST (HOLINESS) IN CONVENTION

The California State Convention of the Churches of Christ (Holiness) convened in their ninth annual session with Bethel Church of Christ (Holiness), Los Angeles, June 27-July 3, 1927.

Monday morning opened the sessions under the leadership of the State President, Dr. Wm. A. Washington.

An old time song and praise service was readily engaged into by all. The President then delivered his annual message, therein expressing his delight and appreciation for the large number of delegates, members and friends present.

The prevailing spirit of "love, unity, brotherhood and co-operation seemed to have enveloped every heart, due to the fact that the daily sessions were started off with the 8:30 morning devotional services, thus setting every heart in a receptive mood.

The Pastors of the various churches of the City, honored the Convention by leading their presence and their many encouraging remarks along with their soul-stirring gospel messages.

Dr. T. A. Bedford, of Denver, Colo., also left a few words of brotherly love and advice, bidding them God's many blessings.

Brother C. C. Bailey, very sincerely gave the welcome address on behalf of the Church. Dr. L. B. Brown in his eloquent and able manner, addressed the Convention on behalf of the "Interdenominational Ministers Alliance, and which was so beautifully responded to by the State Secretary, Mrs. L. D. Pruitt.

Each auxiliary was largely attended and made excedinly good reports. As a whole, the entire proceedings of the Convention were successful.

The State President, Dr. Wm. A. Washington, again wishes to thank every friend, member, delegate, pastors and choirs for their every effort put forth in helping to make the Convention a success.

May God ever bless and keep you.

L. A. Man Heads American Woodmen Dist. Convention

NEXT MEETING AT FORT WORTH, TEXAS

California received the highest honors bestowed by the District Convention of The American Woodmen when more than seven hundred delegates from eight states who met in Kansas City last week elected John E. Rector the Deputy and Clerk of the Los Angeles Camp, No. 1, as president of the convention for the next year. Rev. M. M. Haynes of Austin, Texas, Editor of the Mouthpiece, the only other nominee for the presidency was overwhelmingly defeated upon the first ballot. Other officers elected were: Atty. T. K. Price, Denver, vice-president; Mrs. L. M. Nettles, Ft. Worth, Clerk; Mrs. Ludlia Lawson, Oklahoma City, Treas.; Mrs. A. King, Houston, Tex., Ass't. Clerk; Rev. R. W. Shaw, Dallas, Prelate; T. W. The delegates received a most hearty welcome by the people of Kansas City and many were the social functions staged in their honor. The mammoth street parade staged by the Woodmen was considered the best that has ever been held at a district convention and thousands of people lining the downtown streets applauding the various units consisting of bands, drill teams and decorated vehicles who participated for nearly one thousand dollars offered in prizes. The Denison, Texas band won first prize in the contest at convention hall on Wednesday night. The Fort Worth band won second prize.

The Supervisors and Field Workers Conference which met in conjunction with the convention elected as president of that body J. T. "Over the Top Valley Truck Farm's Fourth of July

"Many people arrived at the Valley Truck Farms,
Many others were on their way,
Some went astray,
But the majority had a lovely day
Down Valley Truck Farms Way."

It is marvelous to state how this beautiful little spot is being developed today, bringing to the sane thinking public the actual necessity that stands before us.

About two years ago, this tract opened up for the benefit of a certain race with the idea of promoting a prospect, or in other words, training our race to one of the most essential occupations for a good and happy livelihood. It has been proven by other races that from the soil comes many treasures. Many substantial foundations in the commercial world can be traced to Mother earth; from there starts all real substantial business.

We have heard the term, "Back to the Soil," we have denied the fact that we have heard it. Some of us are loathe to listen, it is not a new idea, but it is a fact that we must look to Mother earth for our beginning as all other successful races have done before us. Now comes Valley Truck Farms and its promoters, not with an original idea but with the facts that the farm life is the essential life, that it does away with many hardships, with many worries and it brings to our door that step which eventually leads to success.

Two years ago there were but few of the people of the race who thought of trying to raise fur rabbits for a living, there were some who made attempts at raising chickens in a small way; there were still fewer who cared to dig into the soil and plant seeds for the coming market and so on, until it dwindled down to the few who were partially successful. But Valley Truck Farms are now in everybody's thoughts, the people are now willing to listen. First: the proposition has proven to be sound; second, the titles clear; third, the water conditions are superb; fourth, the climate healthful, and the opportunities around San Bernardino are compared favorably with the Los Angeles of a few years ago, when Los Angeles began to jump in leaps and bounds. While San Bernardino can never surpass Los Angeles in population or otherwise, it bids fair to become a very prominent place on the map of California.

About seven or more months ago, Mr. Foisy who with his wife was engaged in a restaurant business on Hooper avenue and knew practically nothing about rabbits, he today stands high as an authority on the raising of fur rabbits. He is now established on one of these ranches and is doing well.

Much credit is to be given to Clarence Ennis, who is now very well known in our circles for his painstaking perseverance and determination to prove to the public the things they ought to do and know. We have been watching with interest this particular man for the past five or six years, and we find that he is always on the job, untiring, and ever ready to interest you in what he seems to feel and know as well as we, to be the proper enterprise for the people. It is needless to dwell on this particular point, or man, or being, because the majority of us are well acquainted with this man, though some of us misinterpret him, we feel quite assured that he not only has put "Over" the Valley Truck Farms under the aforesaid circumstances but we expect through his energies many other pleasant surprises and I daresay that California history will be incomplete in the years to come without the name of this man and his undertaking, as he succeeds in making families happy that might have been otherwise.

We hope that more of our people who are going about the cities looking for jobs, or praying for relief, or idling their precious time away in this short life where time is money, where time is precious, where time is our all, and soon see as he and his present followers, that the one acre farming proposition with either chickens or rabbits, etc., is one of the true roads to success and happiness in our most delightful climate of Southern California, as well as good citizenship which all communities should be and are proud of where success is assured.

ON ITS WAY

The Federated Clubs, with its amazing program of progress is truly on its way for bigger and better things.

BY THEIR FRUITS YE SHALL KNOW THEM."

Sitting down whining about what somebody else is doing will get you nowhere. The big proposition is to get something done. Big talk, won't do it; sandbagging somebody else, won't do it and as a matter of fact nothing except continued effort will put any worthwhile program over. "By their fruits ye shall know them," say the scripture and when the fruit is delivered we can all say, well done and at the same time give due credit to whom credit is due.

NO "OLD MEN'S" CLOTHES

Tailors say they have ceased making "Old Men's Clothes," for the reason that there are no old men. There has been a decided lengthening of the "expectation of life" in recent years, but the men who are old according to the reckoning of birthday anniversaries refuse to wear the sort of garb that was once the uniform of the elderly. And it is the mental attitude illustrated by their independence and enterprise in this respect that is helping to keep them young in body and spirit.

One of the first outward signs of this refusal to be old was the cutting of the facial foliage, which made even the middle-aged look like patriarchs. Then motoring, golf and other outdoor pastimes made necessary retirement of the stovepipe hat and the "Prince Albert." Young men today have no monopoly of sport suits and knickerbockers. Their fathers and grandfathers are frequently just as eager to appear "collegiate." And so there are no styles exclusively for the elderly any more. Men, old or young, dress much alike. They express in their attire the spirit of get-there, of being on the move and bringing things to pass. If the youngsters set the sartorial pace, the oldsters will be found not far behind.

RECALL A DUB, DUB

The Recall against the Mayor and City Attorney, Jesse Stephens, proves a roor back, or in other words, a "dub dub." In the first place just why issues should be joined for the purposes of a recall between the Mayor and City Attorney is an enigma to most of the people. Very truly much could be figured out against the Mayor and perhaps considerable headway made, but when they join with him one of the most popular and efficient city officials ever to hold office, liked by friend and foe, truly the whole fabric collapses and the Mayor and all can rest comfortably with no fear of the Recall getting even a passing notice.

FAR FETCHED

As the case of the People vs. M. B. Sheffield proceeds from day to day there is unfolded a deplorable state of affairs in our police department. It is exemplified where officers are wont to tremble and shake with fear of dire punishment by the loss of their jobs, if they dare tell the truth as it is expected they should do.

This situation has been testified to during the trial now pending in Judge Elliott Craig's court. As a matter of fact at this writing there is a tense situation and men in high places in the department are trembling in their boots in fear of the wrath of an indignant people which seems to be forming and there is no telling at this moment where the situation will end.

As the mills grind at this time it is Sheffield who is bearing the cross and whether he will crack and make further disclosures remain to be seen. Noted for his patent on the newly coined phrase in police parlance, it would be amazing indeed should he come to the conclusion as in days gone by to exclaim "EVERY TUB." In this case we aver there would be truly a rattling of dry bones in the Los Angeles Police Department.

HAVE ANOTHER EAR

The season for corn on the cob is here, and has never a single poet lifted his voice in praise of this delicacy? What could he not make of,

Those vaporous rows of aureate pearls
Glowing beneath the golden tide of butter, keen with salt.

Surely some other literature than that of breakfast food could wax rapturous over the sweet-heart of the corn, that marvelous, dewy whiteness, honey sweet, which at last yields itself up to strong, questing teeth.

Sacred literature bears witness to the seductions of corn. When the timid Israelites cowering in the desert fastnesses of Sanai learned Canaan was "a land of corn and wine" they experienced a sudden change of heart and burst across the Jordan. Their depredations among the corn fields and wine jars of the Hittites, Hivites and Jebusites are reported to have been something scandalous. They knew what was good, did those hairy patriarchs.

But whoever undertakes to tell the world of the joys of green corn must leave a certain incompleteness in his description of the table scene. To those who limit themselves to six or eight large ears at a sitting, there is something almost disgusting about those who do not desist till they have "eaten their length in corn." Their barbaric cries of pleasure, their gnashing, rending onslaught and the drip of warm oil from their elbows are quite too suggestive of scenes on the cannibal islands.

But what if shameless barbarism does once a year surround our polite tables? Life is short and false teeth overtake the strongest. So butter your ears and be merry, for Golden Mediocrity does not grow in the field of Elysium.

What do you think of this? A jury in the State of Georgia found a white man guilty of being one of a mob who took a woman from her bed at 2 in the morning; carried her into the country and administered a sound beating. She recognized the voice of the one who held her head between his legs as Acres, a Baptist Sunday School teacher and devout factotum of the church. The "Gang" tried to establish an alibi for him. Six of them testifying that he was with them at that hour administering medicine to a sick son. But the jury found him guilty. Now don't get excite dand hurrah for Georgia. The woman was white. Do you think for one moment that a black woman's word would have outweighed the alibi testimony of six white men? Not in Georgia! Even if the jury knew they were lying.

North Carolina is reverting to type. It's hard to eradicate that disregard for law which is the rightful inheritance of those who form the mob. Their forbears, scions of the prisons whose open sesame was an indenture for a trip to the new found Continent. It may be that the blood lust is a rightful inheritance. Brosdus Miller, a Negro was accused of a crime. For days he eluded his pursuers. Footsore, his feet encased in rags, from treading the trailless mountain; the ravishinfi pangs of hunger gnawing at his vitals he sought refuge in a mountain cabin. The human blood hounds were on the trail, and soon the cabin was surrounded by hundreds of armed men. Miller came to the cabin door to surrender. There was a volley and he fell, lifeless, pierced by a hundred or more bullets. That was bad enought, but here is where the blood lust of inheritance crops out. His corpse, the gaping wounds oozing blood, was brought out on the steps of the jail and a pathway roped off in order that the hundreds of men, women and little children might pass in order review before the ghastly piece of mutilated human flesh whose sightless eyes knew nothing of the passing event. But the descendents of the indentures of the past were handing the blood lust on down. North Carolina will have to make a triple increase for her educational fund if she would wipe off the stigma which has clung for a century.

The national sensation of the week is the apology of Henry Ford for the attacks against the Jews appearing in a series of articles in the Dearborn Independent. Even then there is a diversity of opinions. Some doubting his sincerity; others seeing the forerunner move, and claim that Henry has an eye on the Presidency. At any rate, the Jews are about the only people that could have gained an apology from the magnate.

Here's a funny one, and it happened in Texas. A Negro bell boy was accused of assault on an actress, a guest in the hotel. He was tried, found guilty and sentenced for 100 years. Then as an afterthought, the judge thinking he might probably survive the century, he added one year more—one hundred and one years. We venture to say that when he serves his term he will shut his eyes whenever he sees a white woman. One Hundred Years and One, Gee!

A colored girl born in Missouri goes to France, dances her way to fame, becomes the most famous of Paris' entertainers, marries an Italian Count (she claims that his lineage is as good as any the movie stars have brought over) and becomes a Countess. But becoming a Countess changes her race—that is, if we are to believe the Hearst American, she is a Filipino. Now, if you will tell us, who ever heard of a Filipino being named Baker, Josephine Baker?

RANDOLPH'S CASE DISMISSED; TESTIFIES FOR STATE

room and Sheffield went in the rear of the house. Mrs. Harris started to the dining room window and I started after her. Just at that time, I was shot."

Q. "Why did you start after Mrs. Harris?"

A. "Because I saw her take a pitcher and milk bottle off the buffet and I thought that if it was evidence, she shouldn't destroy it."

Q. "When did you whistle to Sheffield?"

A. "Just as Mrs. Harris started to the window with the pitcher."

Q. "Where were you shot?"

A. "In the upper right arm, between the elbow and shoulder."

Q. "What happened after you were shot?"

A. "I fell on the floor to keep from getting shot again. Then I saw Sam Faulkner STANDING IN THE BEDROOM DOOR in a crouching position. I pulled my gun out of the holster, and just about that time, I heard another shot and Sam Faulkner disappeared in the bedroom. I didn't know that he was killed at that time, but I saw Sheffield firing in that direction."

He continued his testimony by telling that after Sam Faulkner disappeared, he hollered to Sheffield not to let him escape. Then Sheffield, Mrs. Harris and Randolph went in the rear of the house, Sheffield in the back bedroom and Randolph in the pantry. The elder Mr. Faulkner then appeared at the swinging door and Sheffield shot at him. He, Faulkner, was NOT at the piano as he testified, so Mr. Randolph says. He further stated that he heard four shots altogether.

Q. "When did you first see the automatic?"

A. "After I left the kitchen, I went in the front and saw Mrs. Faulkner leaning over her son's body. That was the first time that I knew that he had been killed. I put by the body between the body and door was the automatic. I had my gun in my left hand, and, my right arm being useless, raked the automatic over by me with my foot, put my gun between my knees, and then picked it up and put it in my pocket."

Q. "Didn't you see Mrs. Faulkner reach for the gun, as you testified before the Grand Jury?"

A. "I did not."

Q. "Who telephoned for the ambulance, Mr. Allen?"

A. "No, Sheffield telephoned for the ambulance."

Q. "When is the first time you saw Brown and Bewly?"

A. "At the Santa Fe Hospital."

SHEFFIELD SAYS "EVERYTHING IS ALRIGHT"

Q. "Tell what happened when the ambulance came."

A. "When the ambulance came, I was taken to the receiving hospital at 1st and Hill, my arm bandaged, and then I was removed to the Santa Fe Hospital. That night, I saw Brown, Bewly and Sheffield at the hospital. Sheffield told me not to worry that everything was alright and that I had killed Faulkner, and that Brown and Beauly had seen everything.

Q. "Did you and Sheffield ever talk over the case?"

A. "We did, at the house and at the hospital. He told me that he (Sheffield) had not shot me that he saw the Faulkner boy shoot me and that I killed the boy."

Q. "What did you say when he told you that you had killed the boy?"

A. "I told him, Alrights"

When asked why he changed his story before the grand jury, Randolph said that after thinking it over, he knew that he had not told everything right so wanted to tell the truth. Three guns were brought forth for Randolph to identify which he did: one being Sheffield's .38, one the automatic which he had found beside the boy, and the other being his .45 Colt. Other things brought for evidence were: a milk bottle, a funnel, a glass pitcher, and 3 bottles of whiskey. Randolph admitted having seen the milk bottle and pitcher, but said that he did not see the other things.

WANT RANDOLPH TO HAVE BULLET REMOVED

Judge White, attorney for Sheffield, then asked Randolph if he would permit the bullet, which is still in his right arm, to be removed. Randolph answered:

"As far as I am concerned, it is alright, but my doctor said that if it was removed, 9 chances out of 10, I would lose my arm because of the fact that the bullet is scattered about in my arm in about twenty different pieces, and I have no money to pay for this.

Q. "How do you know that it is scattered?"

A. "Because the x-rays showed this. Several x-rays were taken of my arm."

It was finally decided that the court appoint a disinterested doctor to examine Randolph's arm to see if the removal of the bullet would necessitate the amputation of his arm, and that the district attorney's office would be responsible for the charges thereof.

Mr. Edward C. King, investigator in the District Attorney's office was then called. He told that had gone to the Faulkner home many times and had made a thorough examination there.

"The first thing I noticed was a broken place on the sidewalk that leads to the porch and in this broken place was a screw eye. In examining the screen door of the front, I discovered that the place where the screw eye had been was freshly broken, that is, it had been broken within the last few days (this examination was made the day after the murder). Then I looked for bullet holes. I found none in the front room, but I found one in a chair in the dining room, one in the swinging door between the kitchen and dining room, and one in the rear door of the bathroom."

Q. "Did you notice how the screens fastened on the windows?"

A. "Yes, they fastened on the windows from the OUTSIDE! one was off of the front bedroom window."

"I have been to the house many times since in company with various officers, including Mr. Sheffield, and made several examinations. The body of Sam Faulkner was taken up from the Evergreen Cemetery and another thorough examination made of it to see if more bullet holes could be found but only one was found. Along with other officers, Mr. Crossman, a specialist in telling the calibre of bullets, we examined the bullet that killed Sam Faulkner. We found that it was a .38 calibre bullet. We also fired Mr. Sheffield's gun and found that the markings of the bullet from Sheffield's gun and the markings of the bullet that killed Mr Faulkner are EXACTLY THE SAME!"

CHIEF BEHIND THEM ONE HUNDRED PER CENT

J. F. Brown, 1516 E. 46th street of the vice squad, was then called. He said that about 8:30 on the night of April 24th, he called Central Station as he usually did in the regular course of business, whoever answered the phone said that Randolph had been shot at 1358 E. 51st street, than they, he and Bewley, hurried to the number given.

"When we got there, we saw Sheffield, but not Randolph. I asked Sheffield what had happened and he said that Randolph had been shot and that he, (Randolph) had killed the boy. We started looking for bullet shells and I found a .32 shell near the fireplace in the dining room. Then I took Mrs. Harris and Officer Jarvis to Central Station. Bewley went with Sheffield.

Q. "Did Sheffield ever talk to you about the case?"

A. "Yes. After booking Mrs. Harris, we went up to the detective bureau and Sheffield told us to say that we had seen it all. That he had gotten in touch and talked with Chief Davis and the Chief had said that he would be behind us 100 per cent. Sheffield told us to say that we saw the Faulkner men climb in the window, and hears the shots as we were sitting in our car. He also told me to say that I was with him when he found the liquor in the driveway of the house. Sheffield told us to say that we saw the automatic beside Faulkner and that when Mrs. Faulkner picked the gun up, that Randolph snatched it out of her hand. Sheffield wanted us to make out reports but the clerk said that it was not necessary, so Sheffield used our (myself and Bewley) names on his report as witnesses.

Q. "Did you see Randolph at the house?"

A. "No, I didn't, but Sheffield told me to say that I did. I didn't see Randolph until I went to the Santa Fe Hospital."

Q. "Did you have anything to drink that night?"

A. "Yes, before we went into the Santa Fe Hospital Sheffield had a half pint of bonded Cedar Brook and all of us took a drink. There were only three of us, Sheffield, Bewley and myself.

Q. "Did Sheffield have any conversation with Randolph about the case?"

A. "Yes, when we got in the hospital and after Sheffield had asked Randolph how he felt, he told Randolph not to worry that Chief Davis was behind him 100 per cent. He also told Randolph that he (Randolph) had killed the boy."

Q. "Did you see anything that looked like mash in the home of Mrs. Harris?"

A. "Yes, I saw a 5 gallon stone jug under the kitchen stove with a mash of apples, prunes, and water. It was fermenting and could be easily smelled."

Mr. Brown also told that he and Bewley were called to go to Officer Finlayson's office, where he took a statement from them. He then told the story that Sheffield told him to tell. After having told this story to Officer Finlayson and the Grand Jury, he changed his story and is now telling the truth.

Mr. Brown is indicted for perjury and was under a bail bond of $10,000.00; after he changed his story and told the truth, his bail was reduced to $1,500.00. His trial is set for July 15th.

BEWLEY ON STAND

On Wednesday morning Mr. Buford Bewley, 3109 Central, police officer at the time of the murder, was then called. He told that after arriving at the house, seeing the dead body, etc., that he went out in the kitchen because he saw some blood out there.

"Sheffield came out there and said, 'I want you to testify for me and say that you saw a gun under the hand of the deaceased.' He could not say any more because someone came into the kitchen and interrupted us. I didn't see any liquor, but I saw some chipped apples and prunes fermenting in a stone jar under the kitchen stove. I also saw some whiskey glasses, a milk bottle, a pitcher, and a funnel which Sheffield booked as evidence."

"We left the house and I went to Newton Street Station with Sheffield in his car. Officer Brown, Jarvis and Mrs. Harris went in Brown's car. I stayed outside in the car until Sheffield had booked Mrs. Harris, then we went to Central Station where Sheffield booked the evidence. We, Brown, Sheffield and myself, then went up to the Detective Bureau and Sheffield went out and stayed for about a half hour. When he returned he told us that he had just had a talk with the Chief who was behind us 100 per cent and that he, Sheffield, wanted us to say that we had seen everything. I told Sheffield that I didn't want to get into it because a human life had been taken and there was going to be a lots more to it than they thought. But Sheffield assured me that there would be no trouble and I was finally persuaded."

Q. "Did you drink anything?"

A. "Yes, when we went to Santa Fe Hospital to see Randolph, Sheffield said, 'Well, boys, we might as well have a little drink.' Then he took a half pint of liquor out of his pocket and we cleaned the bottle. Then we wanted something to kill our breath. No one had any gum or anything, but Brown had one cigar which he gave to Sheffield. Sheffield cut the cigar in half, gave me one half and kept the other."

The rest of Bewley's story was similar to Officer Brown's.

Q. "Did you ever have any other conversation with Sheffield about this case?"

A. "Yes, in the witness room before we went in to testify before the Grand Jury, Sheffield told me to be sure to remember that Randolph snatched the gun out of the hand of Mrs. Faulkner."

Mr. Bewley, like Brown, is indicted for perjury and after changing his story, his bail was reduced from $10,000.00 to $1,500.00.

Officer C. M. Bradford of Newton Street Station was then called. He went out to the Faulkner house after receiving the call for the ambulance. He testified that he saw no liquor or guns, but found a water tumbler in the front room that smelled of liquor.

Mr. Hargas, (white) night operator at Newton Street Station made his testimony, making clear the fact that no record is made of the calls of a policeman unless he is on the work sheet. Hence the reason that there was no record of the call of Officer Brown on the night of the murder.

Thursday, July 14th.—First witness called was Dr. A. S. Loganinger, the doctor who was appointed by the court to examine Randolph's arm. He said that he had examined Randolph's arm at 11 o'clock in his office on the day of Wednesday, July 13th. He said that it was possible to have the bullet removed without loss of arm and that he judged that the bullet was of a .38 calibre or larger. More than 18 pieces of the bullet were seen in the arm from the x-ray pictures which he took.

Mr. Chas. H. Jarvis of the homicide department, Central Station was called. He testified that he went out to the house with the flying squadron as soon as the call was received.

"I saw the deceased on the floor of the front bedroom, but I saw no firearms. Randolph was on the front porch in his shirtsleeves when I entered. I saw Sheffield with glass pitcher and milk bottle in his hand. When Officer Brown found the empty shell, I told him to mark the shell and the place where he found it, and give the shell to Sheffield. Then I went to Newton Station with Mrs. Harris and Officer Brown."

Inspector Finlinson was to have been called, but he was ill and unable to appear. His testimony as given before the grand jury was read, saying that he had the .45 bullet which Sheffield had given him and what was supposed to be the bullet that entered one of the dining room chairs.

Mr. L. C. Crossman, firearm specialist was then called. He said that he was asked by Dr. Wagner, autopsy surgeon, to tell the calibre of the bullet which he, the doctor, had removed from the head of Sam Faulkner.

"We went to my office and after properly examining the bullet, I found that it had been fired from a .38 calibre Smith and Wesson revolver. I had Sheffield's gun which I fired into some flour, then I compared the markings of the two bullets and found them the same. Every gun has its own peculiar markings."

Q. "Is it possible to fire a .38 bullet from a .45 gun?"

A. "Yes, it is, but the bullet will have to be wrapped with paper and the bullet would not go far."

Q. "Can a gun be jammed without firing it; can it be jammed purposely?"

A. "Yes, it can." (Mr. Crosby made two demonstrations to the jury showing how the automatic gun can be made to jam. It is to be remembered that the automatic which was supposed to be the gun that Sam Faulkner shot Randolph with, was jammed when taken to the station by Sheffield.)

Q. "Can the calibre of a bullet be determined by the empty shell?"

A. "It can."

Mr. Crossman was then shown the shell which Officer Brown found in the dining room near the fireplace and asked to determine the calibre of the bullet that was in it. He was unable to do so because the identification marks had been defaced by the markings which Brown had put on it.

WRIGLEY FIELD WILL BE JAMMED—BILLY EVANS FIGHTS BARRON

Ace Hudkins, whom Frank Kearns named the most sensational fighter in the whole wide world, is known in the lose of the ring as the "Nebraska Wildcat". But since the Hudkins family has settled here now the local fans feel that Ace has always belonged to them. They simply love the boy, not only for his game, clean spectacular fighting but to this plan simple friendly way that makes him stop and shake hands with the raggedest news-kid, as quickly as with the biggest "butter and egg mano".

Along Fisticuffs Row

The writer stood in line at Hellman's bank to draw that last three bucks. The man in front turned round. It was Ace Hudkins. "Why hello," he said, "step up in my place, I'm in no hurry."

Good reason. It takes longer to deposit about $30,000 than it does to draw THREE.

Some of the biggest fight managers of the Coast head their stable with colored fighters.

WIRT ROSS has Santiago Zorilla and Pedro Amador.

TOM JONES has Neil Clisby and Jimmy Black.

LARNEZ LICHENSTEIN has Baby Joe Gans, Jake Kilrain and Battling Manning and other good boys.

POP HUBELY has a stable of colored Stars—Ernest Bendy, a great heavyweight; Vernon Jackson, the band boy wonder and Joe Commeaux. These boys have more stuff than many boxers who have been years in the game and it won't be long before their name in electric lights will empty the Avenue.

LESTER (SLIM) JOINT with his quiet, easy way wouldn't take a 50 grand not for Tiger Robinson, Whitey Black and Ham Jenkins.

TOM SIELSKI has a new heavy on the way from Texas. They say he is really good.

POP HANLON has Leroy Kinney and Seattle Jack Thompson.

JACK RUSSEL has Bruce Thenoit from the Coast.

JIM DAUGHERTY has George Godfrey and as the most notable example of many others.

Sport Writer Praises Philadelphia Giants Hurler

(By: A. N. P.)

Boston, Mass., July 13.—Herb. Finnegan, sporting editor of the Boston Daily Traveler, said in the July 1st issue, that if colored players were allowed in the big leagues, Joe Jackman, the elongated pitcher from Texas who twirls for the Philadelphia Giants, would make the grade with ease. The following day commenting further on the prowess of the colored ball tossers, Mr. Finnegan said Jackman was one of the best pitcher in the country, Walter Johnson, Leo Meadows, Flint Rhem and Grover Cleveland Alexander notwithstanding.

Last week "Bullet" Rankin of the same Philadelphia Giants, entered the baseball hall of fame when he pitched a no-hit, no-run game against the heavy hitting Copeland Club of Quincy. Only one man of the Copeland team reached first base and that by virtue of a pass in the third inning. After which the fast ball artist settled down to perfection. The final score of the game was 1 to 0.

After sport writers on the Boston dailies say the colored team is playing the best brand of baseball of any in the city including the National League Boston Braves, and the American League Red Sox.

NEGRO LAD CAPTAINS TRACK TEAM

(By: A. N. P.)

Boston, Mass., July 12.—The letter men of the Haverhill High School voted unanimously in their meeting Friday to elect Robert "Bucky" Holmes captain for the track team next year.

Holmes, who is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert P. Holmes, 39 Greenville Street, Haverhill, is a junior at the school and earned a letter in track last year. He was one of the most dependable men on the Brown and Gold Track Team this spring, as he was capable of entering the high jump, running and broad jump, and the dashes. He made a fine showing on every occasion.

The Brown and Gold captain-elect is the second colored boy to be elected to the captaincy of a Haverhill High School Athletic Team this year.

Just as we go to press Pedro Amador the lightning fast stablemate of Santiago Zorilla is rubbing his feet in the rosin to step around Don Levy for the rounds at Culver City.

Amador and Zorilla are said to be San Blas Indians and speak the native Spanish of the Isthmus from which they hail. But, nevertheless they are considered by the Central Avenue fans to be one of them and they follow the fine little fellows to all their fights. Amador and Zorilla are very popular with the Culver City fans as at this Stadium is where they won their spurs.

Jimmy Murray lined up a good supporting card.

Jake Kilrain and Sailor Larry Fight Draw at Pasadena

Morrie Cohan's new stadium at Pasadena as wthe most exciting, most thrilling and most surprising battle of the heavyweight elimination tournament still in session when on Thursday night last, July 7th, it was the main bout between Young Jake Kilrain, the sensational Omaha heavyweight and Sailor Larry, one of the best boys on the Coast for several years back.

The bout topped a card that had been ruined by withdrawals and substitutions, the semi-windup between Joe Hudson and Jack Delay being stopped by referee Charlie Raymond "I have no one to blame but myself for almost losing that fight last Thursday night, at Pasadena to Sailor Larry," said Kilrain, "I knew I had won the bout on points and after I had cut his eye badly decided that I need not be careful but could lead with a long, hard right. I did go and ran jam into a right cross that Larry caught me with coming in. It dropped me for the nine count and when he dropped me again I was determined if I could fight out the round that I would keep up the lead I had made in the earlier rounds. I did so and got a draw but believe me that Larry is a dangerous man and will beat him next time for I will take no chances."

Kilrain is to meet Mack Howe next week in the delayed match which Larry substituted in. Mack having a sore toe and unable to box. Jake is considered the best heavyweight on the Coast now because of his ten round battle against George Godfrey in which he carried the fight to God-frey all the way.

Kilrain is from Omaha, Nebraska and boxed some of the best boys in the East and mid-west before coming to Denver where he was the heavyweight champion of the Rocky Mountain district championship. Among some his victories there were: a K. O. of Cyclone Clemens in two rounds; Jake also knocked out Jack Lee, a member of Dempsey's training camp, in two rounds; Sailor Hughes at Stockton in 40 seconds; he also beat Eddie McGovern and Edmund Olson and feels sure of beating Mack Howe.

HIT HIM! HIT HIM! YELLS FIGHT PICTURE CROWD

BY: DEAN SNYDER

Picture audiences at the Olympic have grown until every night looks like fight night at the boxing arena which is trying out for the first time screen films of the famous Dempsey fights.

Many fight bugs have seen the pictures two and three times already.

The Dempsey-Firpo pictures are the most dramatic of any fight ever screened.

Firpo was knocked down nine times before he stayed knocked.

But it also shows Dempsey being hurtled through the ropes from a crash on the jaw by the giant South American.

This is the only time in Dempsey's career that he has been off his feet since he became heavyweight champion of the world.

The comparison between the three Dempseys:

1. 1921—When he knocked out Carpentier in four rounds.

2. 1923—When he knocked out Firpo in two rounds.

3. 1926—When he lost to the counter-fighter, Tunney, makes an amazing study.

Can the Dempsey who chopped Carpentier to bits and rolled Firpo nine times be the same Dempsey who let Tunney bounce him around in a bumiliating fashion?

But Dempsey was sick when he fought Tunney. It was pouring down rain from the fourth round on and the rushing Dempsey was handicapped all the more.

The "Great Moments of Great Fights" is also shown along with the Dempsey films. Here the fans see Villa win the flyweight title by knocking out Jimmy Wilde. They see Criqui knock out Kilbane for the featherweight championship of the world. They see Leonard and Tendler when both were at the very peak of their great careers.

The picture audience bursts into cheers when the more recent training camp pictures of Dempsey at Ojai and White Sulphur Springs are flashed across the screen.

Dempsey is still the hero of the California fight fan—and the world.

Washington Has Negro Little Theatre

Washington, D. C., July 11. (By The Associated Negro Press)—There has been organized here during the past winter season, The Krigwa, Negro Little Theatre. This is a direct outgrowth of the New York Krigwa, and has for its object the promotion of art and the giving of a sympathetic and correct portrayal of Negro life.

It is considered very timely, as so much has been produced on the stage in America that does not truthfully depict the Negro, most of the stage productions making him appear lazy, shiftless, and all else, but what he is, and this movement is intended to offset that impression. The general public will realize that there is much beauty, art, culture, and genius in the Negro race in America.

Three plays have already been produced before large and enthusiastic audiences at the Dunbar High School. "The House of Sham" and "Compromise" were both written by Willis Richardson of Washington, and "The Maker of Dreams", the third play, was written by Oliphant Downs. The Krigwa presented "Mortgaged" and "Flight of the Natives", by Willis Richardson and "Foreign Mail", a Crisis prize play by Eulalie Spence.

Willis Richardson, a member of the Krigwa Guild, has attained considerable fame among Negro writers as a playwright. He is more generally known, however, as being the author of "The Chip Woman's Fortune", which has been played in conjunction with "Salome" as a curtain raiser, both in this city and in New York. He has been frequently a winner, in literary contests of The Crisis and Opportunity, for the artistic portrayal of Negro life.

The Krigwa organization is sponsored by the Literature Lovers of Washington, and is under the direction of Mrs. Carrie W. Clifford, president; Mrs. Amanda Gray Hilyer, treasurer; Mrs. Willis Richardson, Secretary; and Mrs. Narka Lee Rayford, corresponding secretary.

The Krigwa will review many plays during the summer with the idea of bringing to the public a live and interesting schedule of artistic endeavor for the season to follow.

Flowers & Rosenbloom Stage Love Feast

Chicago, Ill., July 11. (By the Associated Negro Press)—The six thousand or more cash customers who braved the rain to see Tiger Flowers, the fighting Deacon from Georgia, "stage a comeback" or Maxie Rosenbloom establish his claim for a chance at Delaney for the light-weight championship of the world were sorely disappointed here Monday evening. Jack Delaney would have and could have whipped both of them easily on the same card if each had fought as they did at the White Sox Park.

Both fighters were in good condition and put up a clever exhibition of boxing but those punches that might have done a little damage always missed their mark. The only solid blow landed was at the close of the fight when Flowers slipped and in the attempt to rise kicked Maxie over the eye flooring him. This blow was not considered in the reckoning.

The preliminaries outshone the main fight by far, as the little fellows really fought. The semi-windup proved a fluke when Emanuel Jondis, a Greek, who evidently was dragged out of his kitchen where he serves as chef, took two socks on the chin delivered by Big Bill Tate, found a soft spot and turned in for the evening. If Jondis is a fighter he failed to impress the crowd that booed him generously.

In the preliminaries "My" Sullivan outpointed Harry Dudley of California in six rounds, Rudy Whalen drubbed Tommy Jones in six rounds, Larry Johnson trounced Mickey Perkins and Patsy Rocco and Chief Mikan drew in four rounds.

FLOWERS PRESENTED WITH MEDAL BY CLUB

Tuesday evening at a banquet given in the honor of Tiger Flowers by the Ambassador Athletic Club at the Club House on Grand Boulevard, the Georgia Deacon was awarded the Ambassador Club Medal of 1927. The affair was attended by sportswriters, admirers of the Georgian, and city and state officials.

HOWDY FOLKS:

Let's get acquainted as you are to hear a lot from me from now on. My name Art Hamilton, hailing from San Bernardino, better known as the Gate City.

I will attempt to give you clean, square shooting comments on the Black Sport world. My first article will appear a week from today.

Vic Alexander and Tony Fuente are carded for the Main Event here at my home town Thursday night. Vic and Tony are well known among the fans of the Angel City.

Both Fuente and Alexander have the reputation of being afraid to take them when the going gets hot. I will give you my impression of their fight.

Both are essaying a comeback and this fight means much to both of them. Some one is bound to hit the canvas during the course of the evening's entertainment. I wonder who it will be?

More next Friday. Until then, Adios!

"THE MOONRAKER"

Among the interesting new books at the Jefferson Branch Library one will find the delightful story of the "Moonraker" written by F. Tennyson Jesse, the nephew of that famous poet, Alfred Tennyson. The "Moonraker" is a short history of a little boy, Jacky, who runs away to sea. His adventures lead him to cast his lot with a pirate ship, the "Moonraker" when the ship he is on is sunk by the pirates. Finally Jacky finds himself on the Island of San Domingo where he meets Toussaint l'Overture, the brave Governor-General of that island. Jacky fights with Toussaint's army when Bonaparte sends the French fleet to subdue him. Toussaint fights a noble battle only to be treacherously betrayed when he has been promised peace. When a prisoner on board a ship bound for France, Toussaint cries out, "Freedom is a tree that cannot be destroyed. They have only cut down the trunk"—and here Toussaint stuck out his chest—"but new branches will spring up, for the roots are deep in the heart of man."

After three months on the Island of San Domingo Jacky felt changed, and in some measure, strangely older. It was not that he was now a man, that he had been in battles by sea and battles by land, and had suffered hardships and seen strange sights; it was that, in a little over three months, he had seen the whole of life in one man's face, and that face a black one. For the General, Toussaint, had shown him—and without knowing it—high hopes, not for himself but for mankind: shown him faith and trust and love and sacrifice, and after Jacky had watched these thing he had seen them betrayed.

After you have read this charming, alluring book, you will undoubtedly want to read another, so come to Jefferson Branch of the L. A. Public Library at 2211 West Jefferson St. and you will find other books equally as interesting and enticing. Select your vacation reading now!

GRADE CROSSING

Last week we pointed out that all accidents in which persons are killed or injured must be reported to Sacramento, and the article predicted that when a true picture of the serious accident situation is obtained we will lay aside considerations of sentiment and politics and business and adopt adequate measures of safety.

One of the measures which will demand and receive increasing attention when the true facts are revealed, is the separation of railroad and highway grade crossings. The number of grade crossing deaths and injuries is truly appalling. The railroad people naturally blame the motorist, saying he is impatient of restriction and moves at too high speed, and is heedless of warning, etc. This may all be true, although I make no admission of it. We can easily find carelessness and impatience and heedlessness on the part of railroad men. The fact is thousands are needlessly being killed or injured at railroad grade crossings and the slaughter should be ended regardless of who is at fault. Experience has demonstrated that a separation of grades is the only sure preventive.

The Legislature took three steps in this direction at its recent session. First, it provided that at least 5 percent of all money provided annually for the maintenance of state highways shall be expended in the separation of crossings at grade. Second, it proposed a bond issue of ten million dollars for the same purpose. Third, it provided a means of creating a local assessment district so that city or county districts may separate grade crossings at local expense if desired. It will take a long time to eliminate all the dangerous grade crossings in the state, but a beginning has been made.

The railroad interests have at times sponsored a rule which would require all motorists to come to a full stop before passing over a railroad crossing at grade. Whether such a rule would be practicable, or just, or effective will be discussed in the next article.

When Leaving Curb Give Proper Signal

A frequent source of accident, sometimes serious, is the pulling out from the curb, of a parked car without the driver having first given a warning signal, according to the National Automobile Club.

Section 130 of the California Vehicle Act is quite explicit on this subject. It says: "The driver of any vehicle upon a public highway before starting, turning or stopping such vehicle shall first see that such movement can be made in safety, and if it cannot be made in safety, shall wait until it can be made in safety; then, if the operation of any other vehicle may reasonably be affected by such movement, the driver shall give a signal plainly visible to the driver of such other vehicle of the intention to make such movement."

This provision is honored more in the breach than in the observance and often causes cars coming up from the rear to swerve and crash into oppositing traffic.

KEEP YOUR TIRES INFLATED

Motorists who decrease the air pressure in their tires during warm weather are robbing themselves of many miles of tire service, points out Mr. Allen of Allen Tire Shop.

"While it is admittedly true that heat increases the air pressure in tires, the percentage of increase is so slight that it is not even an important factor in the tire wear," said Miss Nichols.

"Many tire users will counter with the claim that on various occasions the air pressure has been increased several pounds by actual check with an air gauge. This is true, but it is not the air pressure that causes rapid wear, it is the generation of heat. For instance, let us examine two tires, one in which the air pressure is several pounds below normal, the other at prescribed and proper pressure.

"The tire which is under-inflated is run at a fairly high speed over hot roads. Sidewalls, cords and tread flex much more severely each minute than at normal pressure. Every flex or movement of the under-inflated produces heat. After a time heat developed has caused the air to increase to somewhere near normal pressure. This air has been generated by effort on the part of the tire at cost to the tire's life."

An emergency repair of a broken spring can be made by taking a piece of old spring or a piece of hard wood and wire together to the spring, as a splint would be applied to a broken limb. If the spring is broken in the center, wire in a block on which the frame can rest, and drive carefully.

CAMPERS FAIL TO OBEY LAW

With the aim of eventually altogether eliminating Harvey's control on the road to Big Bear Valley, the lower control station was moved up over the week-end to a point one and a half miles above the present control.

The road to the new station has been widened for two-way traffic, state advices to the Automobile Club of Southern California touring bureau, and the control will be at the new location for the rest of the season while the work of widening above this point is being completed.

It is expected that for the rest of the season an additional control establishes over the holiday will be continued so that down travel may leave Big Bear at 8 a. m., for the Santa Ana control at 9:30 a. m., and up travel from Harvey's at 11 a. m.

Decrepit Taxicabs In The Movies

What becomes of all the worn-out taxicabs?

Some of them go into the museums like the celebrated "Eloise," that led the van of French cabs that carried soldiers to the front to stop the invasion of Paris in the World War, but the majority do not have so kind a fate.

Curiosity on the subject was satisfied yesterday by J. A. Baldi, president of the Yellow Cab Company, one of the principal transportation agencies of the city.

"We do not have to worry about disposing of cabs that are no longer economical to repair or continue in service, as the demand for them is great," states President Baldi.

"Motion picture companies have a demand for obsolete types and worn-out vehicles as many of the films today require a machine that can be blown up or driven over an embankment in stunts that the cost of a serviceable vehicle would not permit.

"Smaller communities where the service is less strenuous absorb many cabs that the company has found have reached a point where it is no longer economical to operate them.

"Then there is always a good demand for the chassis of cabs to be equipped with truck bodies as the sturdy construction of the running gear of taxis makes them desirable as delivery wagons on truck farms and ranches for small town merchants."

USE HAND THROTTLE ON ROUGH ROADS

When negotiating rough roads, smoother and more economical driving can be had by using the hand throttle. If wasted gas to use the accelerator, because jolting of the foot causes more gas to be shed at times than is necessary.

BORROW FRONT LUG IF REAR ARE WORN

If the threads of a lug bolt are stripped while changing a rear tire on the road, borrow one from the front rim. If an extra lug is not carried. Every lug bolt is needed on the rear wheels, as the rim may slip when power and brakes are applied, damaging the rim and valve stem.

Magneto Lights Must Go

Sacramento, July 9.—Notice that cars equipped with magneto headlights operated without the use of a battery will be banned from the highways of California after September first, next, was issued here today by Frank G. Snook, chief of the Division of Motor Vehicles.

In a bulletin issued to traffic officers, Snook advised that a section of the motor vehicle act passed by the 1923 Legislature, prohibiting the use of such headlights, will become effective at that time. The officers were instructed that they will be expected to enforce the law to the letter.

The law will affect several hundred cars in the state, chiefly of ancient models and of a small popular make. All cars of newer models are equipped to be lighted with current derived from a battery.

Cars lighted by a magneto, produce little or no light when going at a slow rate of speed; when going at high rate of speed, they are apt to glare.

PUT OUT YOUR CAMP FIRES

Sacramento, July 9.—Keep your muffler cut-out closed and put your fires out!

California motorists about to leave the grind of the city for the cool fastnesses of the mountain forests are urged to accept this bit of advice by Frank G. Snook, chief of the Division of Motor Vehicles.

With the summer vacation season in full swing, Snook declared greater care than ever before will be needed if disastrous fires are to be prevented.

"Fortunately," he said, "most of the newer types of cars are not equipped with a muffler cut-out, but many of the older ones have them and disastrous fires are known to have resulted from flying sparks when they were left open.

"It is now conceded that they accomplish no good purpose. The Legislature recognizing this has condemned their use after January, 1929.

There will be 11 per cent more cars on the highways this summer than last year, he said, due to the increased registrations. He urged smokers to equip their cars with proper receptacles for burning cigarette stubs and matches.

The 300 traffic officers of the division are cooperating with the State Department of Forestry in preventing and putting out fires.

A Few Timely Hints On Mountain Driving

Now that vacation time is here, and many drivers who are accustomed to threading the comparatively level highways near the coast will be seeking recreation in the mountains, a few timely hints anent mountain driving may not be amiss, according to the Safety First Bureau of the National Automobile Club.

Remember that in the higher altitudes your gear should be reduced at least one degree for taking any particular hill. For instance, a hill which your car would ordinarily take in high at sea level will require a shift to second at 4,000 feet.

Do not burn up your brakes by riding them on the down grades; go into second or low, depending on the steepness of the grade and let your motor do the braking.

Sound horn at all turns where the view is obstructed.

When you meet a car on a one-way road, the fellow coming up-grade should be given the right of way, that is, if it be necessary for one to back to a passing place, the fellow coming down hill should do the backing. It is easier to control the car backing up hill than backing down.

Carry skid chains. Showers are frequent in the mountain sections and chains may mean the difference between triumph and disaster.

Do not overload your car.

OPTON'S RAILROAD CLATTER

By Chas. L. Upton

The Railroad Clatter congratulates the following porters on the anniversary of their birth. Your birth stone is the Ruby (symbolic of Mental Contentment; R. Hicks, D. Rosemond and N. X. Jones, Santa Fe red cap.

HOW DO THEY GET THAT WAY?

The type of porter of whom I write is, I believe, known to every service man of any length. One night the writer was receiving passengers on the San Diego Owl. A porter, whose name I will not call, approached me for a loan, stating that he was on a car going to New York and he had to have money on which to eat at once, whereupon, I being a liberal old soul advanced the hungry man the sum for which he asked, saying as I did so that this was my regular run and when he returned from his trip to New York with his party of oil men he would find me at the same old place and the return of the loan would be appreciated. He faithfully promised, and that is all the writer has up to this day is his promise. What I am curious to know is, why, if he had just left home as he said, did he not eat at least one meal home before he left? And why, since he knew before hand that he was going to take this long trip, did he not come prepared? From all indications it appears to me that this particular porter is on the beat and makes a practice of this method of getting by. There are many like him, and it is a pity for a porter to drop so low that he has no word. There is always some excuse for a porter getting broke away from home, but when a porter reaches that stage where he must leave home broke, it's time for that gentleman to turn in his keys and get a job in town.

ARE YOU MAKING PROGRESS?

How many of the Los Angeles porters are making progress? Are you one who is laying a dollar aside for a rainy day? Many of us are far too quick to throw a dollar away when there is another one in sight. It is a condition which has always existed among Pullman Porters more than any other class of men, easy come, easy go, and when you get ready to leave this old world, the boys have to subscribe to give you a decent burial. It is a condition which by this time we should have learned to eliminate. The only way to have something is to get in debt and pay it, by hard work. Buy some of this earth, you cannot go wrong, do not be afraid of debt. A man who owns his own home, or is buying his own home is always highly respected in his community, he has the earmarks of amounting to something, but a man who spends everything he makes as fast as he makes it, is considered nothing but a good fellow and unreliable; if you are one of those types who is listed among the unprogressive, wake up and get out of the rut, get a hold on something, and do it quick before it is too late.

AVIATION AND TRAINS

A little over a year ago, Col. Mitchell of the air service created quit a sensation when he broadly exposed office aviators at the White House, stating that as far as actual flying experience was concerned they had little, and surely not enough to dictate to pilots who had spent the best part of their lives in actual flying. He was severely dealt with by the Government. But as a result, the case was the forerunner of awakening the government to the true facts about Aviation. Then came Col. Lindbergh who demonstrated to the world the possibilities in aviation and airplanes. Germany has already got many air lines established and, working on a paying basis. America is now about to do the same thing. Air corporations are springing up all over the United States; in a short while they will be carrying passengers all over the States. On July 1st the first transcontinental air line will start its ship from each end of the United States—one leaving San Francisco, the other Chicago. They will make stops at Sacramento, Reno, Salt Lake, Cheyenne, Wyo., Omaha and Chicago. In California, the Pan-American Air Line at times that we alone get all the bad breaks in life; that our lot is the worst and that life isn't worth living. Every walk of life has its stumbling block. This may well apply to waiters operating on the Gold Coast Limited. The operation of this particular train in two sections this season has really placed a stumbling block in the financial path of this class of employees in former years before old 7 and 8 became "De Luxe". One section with 150 to 165 people would net waiters a good revenue it is to be hoped that this second section may soon pass into oblivion.

Malts and Waiters operating on the De Luxe no doubt will welcome this innovation. The Coach makes this much needed.

DEBT

(By: A. N. P.)

Washington, D. C., July 12.—The announcement was made Wednesday that Liberia had paid its entire war debt to the United States. The check for $26,000 was turned over to the United States Treasury Monday. This check represented the principal and interest of the debt incurred when Liberia declared war against Germany during the World War.

The Negro republic is the second to wipe its slate clean of its war debt, the other being Cuba.

$5,000 FOR RESISTING ARREST

(By: A. N. P.)

Little Rock, Ark., July 12.—Robert Allen was fined $5,000 and sentenced to serve six months on the county farm Wednesday, on a charge of resisting arrest. While Allen was charge with resisting arrest, the real grievance against him was that he was one of two Negroes who made a "date" with a white woman and trapped by officers at the trysting place on the night of June 21.

Allen's partner was slain by the Officers and Allen himself is alleged to have been roughly handled. This is the heaviest fine ever imposed on this charge. The law provides a minimum fine of 50 and a maximum imprisonment of six months. In imposing the unprecedented fine on Allen, Judge Weas made no comment except that the law provided no maximum fine.

Governor Signs Anti-Lynching Writ Brings Ire Of Citizenry

(By: A. N. P.)

Columbia, S. C., July 12.—South Carolinians, white and black, are praising Governor Richards for the determined stand against lynching which he has taken, in order to safeguard the state from further humiliation resulting from mob violence.

Inheriting a lynching investigation which was a hoax, Governor Richards has sought at all times to prevent a further occurrence of mob violence. Upon entering office he declared that the state had been disgraced by the Aiken lynching, which was described as the most atrocious ever carried out in the state, and pledged himself to do everything to prevent mob violence during his administration.

DETERMINED TO UPHOLD THE LAW

The governor has faced many trying situations under which mob violence seemed almost impossible to prevent. Each time he has arisen to the occasion and has done his utmost to prevent a lynching. Conditions reached a climax last week when six Negroes were arrested charged with murdering a white officer of the law. Lynching was discussed and it apparently was settled that the six Negroes would follow the fate of the Lowmans at Aiken.

While the mobbists were beat upon lynching the six prisoners the Governor was equally determined that the Negroes would be protected. He issued a proclamation to the effect that he did not intend to tolerate any mob violence and that the law must take its course. Other governors have made such statements, but Governor Richards followed up his declaration with action.

When the six prisoners were to be transferred to Beaufort, S. C., for trial, he ordered two units of the National Guard to accompany them and to protect them during the trial. The soldiers, armed with rifles, machine guns and tear gas bombs, guarded the prisoners during the trial and accompanied them back to Columbia where they were again placed in the state prison.

SENDS TROOPS WITH POSSE

The governor also endeavors to safeguard the lives of fugitives who are being sought by posses. Down in York when the vicinity was being scoured in quest of a Negro youth alleged to have raped a white woman, another charged with murdering an aged white woman, feeling was high and if either had been caught he would have in all probability been lynched. Realizing this, Governor Richards immediately dispatched troops to the York area with orders to protect the men, if captured, at all costs. The soldiers went and in neither case did a lynching occur.

Governor Richards is sparing no expense to keep the slate of the state free of lynching. Each time the militia is called out it means added expense, but the governor feels that a life is worth the money spent and the sanctity of the law must be protected.

Citizens are pointing out that lynching would soon be abolished in the South if other southern governors were as courageous as the chief executive of South Carolina. His efforts are appreciated by all law-abiding citizens and those who love the state in which they live. "Give us more Richards" is the cry of the South and duty falls upon the voters to place such men into office.

CHICAGO BUSINESS LEAGUE

(By: A. N. P.)

Chicago, July 11.—The program of the Negro Trade Association was given a big boost at its weekly noonday meeting held Friday in the Junior Room of the Y. M. C. A. cafeteria when Anthony Overton, President of the Douglas National Bank, attended and proffered his full support to the movement.

The Association was recently chartered by the National Negro Business League as local number 180 and will function as the Chicago Branch of the National League. Claude A. Barnett, Regional Director, who was unable to attend the meeting in person, endorsed the activities of the Association by communication.

The Association will meet regularly every Friday noon, from 12 to 1:30 in the cafeteria of the Y. M. C. A. and all members of the association as well as business and professional people generally are invited to attend these meetings. The association has headquarters at 3451 S. Michigan. Telephone Douglas 1412. S. D. W. Carr, Executive Secretary.

Pythians To Meet In Boston

(By: A. N. P.)

Boston, Mass., July 12.—The 20th Biennial Session of the Supreme Lodge Knights of Pythias, Eastern and Western Hemispheres will be held in Boston, August 26, 1927, according to a proclamation issued by Supreme Chancellor W. Ashbie Hawkins of Baltimore and Supreme Keeper of Records and Seal George E. Girton of Boston.

The session was scheduled to be held in Richmond, Virginia, but because of the exceedingly heavy financial contributions made by the people of Virginia and other southern states to flood sufferers the change of location was made.

The headquarters of the order is here in Boston and no great outlay of expense will be necessary for the convention by convening here, it is said.

The proclamation further states there will be no efforts made for a parade, no display of regalias and elaborate entertainment, but that the session will get down to the very necessary business of the order.

Sheffeld Takes Stand In Defense

The trial of Peoples vs. Sheffield is still attracting much attention and drawing large crowds to the courtroom every day. There is still a long line of people in the corridor trying to gain admittance to the courtroom and deputy sheriffs and police officers are kept on the job to maintain quiet and order in the hall.

Thursday afternoon, July 14, the state closed its case and the defense began. The first witness called for the defense was Inspector J. Finlinson, who was also the last witness for the state.

He was questioned as to the statements taken from Miss Cotes, Scott, officers Randolph, Bewley and Brown, which he said he took. When asked if he told Brown and Bewley to testify for Sheffield, he said:

"I never told Brown and Bewley to testify for Sheffield, neither did I tell them that we must stick together as the Chief was behind us. I showed Brown and Bewley a map of the house and asked them to explain to me their version of the shooting; they did and I found that it corresponded with mine. I went to the house several times and tried to find a .45 bullet hole, but have been unable to do so."

Continuing the case Friday the first to testify was Lieut. C. B. Hoye (white) of the detective bureau Central Station. He stated that he saw Randolph in the receiving hospital about 9:30 the night of the shooting, and that he saw both Randolph's .45 and the jammed automatic.

"Randolph told me about the shooting and said, 'the S——B—— got me, but I got him too.'"

Randolph was then called and he denied saying what Hoye said.

Mr. Wm. J. Pierce, nurse at the receiving hospital, was the next witness. He testified that he did not hear Randolh say what Mr. Hoye said but he did hear Randolph say, 'Sheffield was in the kitchen; the boy got me, but I got him too.'

Miss Delores Michel, stenographer in the detective bureau, was then called upon to testify. The points were brought out that in the statement which she took from Miss Catalina Scott, state witness, Miss Scott said that Randolph was shot from the front bedroom door. In the statement of Miss Ruth Coates, she said that she saw a streak of fire come from the front bedroom door.

Mr. Randolph was again called in reference to some accident insurance which he had collected after his arm was shot, but owning to the fact that Mr. Poist, the insurance man, was not there to deny or affirm the statement, the testimony was deferred.

Lieut. Garrott of the Newton Street Station was then called. He was one of the investigating officers on the case.

"Upon entering the house, I saw Sheffield with a glass pitcher in his hand. The pitcher had some amber colored liquid in it. I did not smell it but it was the color and consistency of whiskey. When I arrived Mr. Faulkner was outside crying, but he came in with me."

Mr. Kroger, stenographer in the detective bureau of Central Station was then called and testified as to having taken down the statements of Brown and Bewley at the Central Station after the 24th of April.

Q. "Did you see Sheffield on the 24th of April?" was the question asked Mr. Curtis Mosby, who the next Witness called.

A. "Yes, I saw him at the Legion Nite Club, 1145 E. 12th street, about 11:30. he was with Officer Brown. He said that Randolph had been shot."

Mrs. Bertha Henderson, former cashier of the Legion Nite Club, took the stand and testified that she had seen Sheffield at the Nite Club on April 24th and that she remembered the date because it was just before her birthday and that Sheffield had told her that he was not feeling so well because his partner had been shot.

EXTRA

The Soaring Eagle entertained the Eastside populace through the courtesy of Dr. Bell's Super Radiola on last evening ,when a great concourse of fight fans gathered in front of the Eagle office and amid the greatest enthusiasm, heard the fight called of from the ringside in New York blow by blow. In the fatal seventh round when Dempsey knocked Sharkey out a great cheer went up ,and those who bet on the loser departed walking and talking to themselves.

Fatal Round: Dempsey came in a weaving, Sharkey held as the fire grew hot about his body. Dempsey suddenly whipped his left into Sharkey's stomach and followed with a right smash to the jaw that knocked Sharkey down. Sharkey got up to his knees at the count o fnine, swayed and fell flat as the referee counted ten.

Q. "Did Randolph ever say anything to you about the case?"

A. "Yes, the next day out at the Santa Fe Hospital (Mrs. Randolph was there too) I asked Randolph how he was feeling; he said, 'I am in pain, but it makes me feel good to know that I got the man that got me.' He was also out to my house and said that he was at the District Attorney's office and that Mr. Dennison tried his best to get him to say that my husband had shot him."

Mr. Randolph was again called, and he denied having made the statements.

Mr. James Bartley of Central Station read on the witness stand, a statement taken from Mr. Randolph while at the receiving hospital, in which Randolph said that he saw men and women in the dining room drinking whiskey and that he saw money exchanged, and he also said that he shot Sam Faulkner with his .45 Colt.

J. Hicky, another policeman from Central Station was then called. He was on the homicide duty after the inquest and went out to the house with Sheffield, and several officers.

"Sheffield then demonstrated to us the happenings the night of the murder. He said that Randolph shot across the dining room table at Sam Faulkner, killing him. When we asked him why a .45 was not found in the deceased man's head instead of a .38 he said that one of his bullets must have killed the boy. We looked for a .38 bullet, but could not find it.

Another member of the homicide squad, Frank Condaffer, was then put on the witness stand. His testimony was practically the same as Mr. Hicky's, saying that they had looked for a .45 bullet hole or the bullet, but could not find either.

Monday morning, July 18th at 10:00 o'clock with Judge E. Craig on the bench, the case of Peoples vs. Sheffield was continued. The first witness called was Mr. Ernest Edgins.

Mr. Edgins testified that he had been over to Mrs. Harris' home the Friday before the murder. Dr. Darrington Weaver, Mr. Henry Mack, Willie Bunnson, Leroy Sanders and Edgar Colbert, following witnesses, and they testified to the same fact that Edgins had. Judge White, counsel for Sheffield, tried to bring out the point that the above parties had been served liquor at the house, but was unable to do so because of the objection of the People and the sustaining of same by the court.

Sergt. E. Kynett, police officer, was then called. He said that he was working "under cover" in the month of April in the colored district.

Threatens to Shoot Sheffield

"I met Sam Faulkner in front of a pool room on Central near 12th. I went out to his house and got a bottle of whiskey for which I paid him $2.00; we drank the whiskey. Going down 12th street with Sam one day, I saw Sheffield with a cowboy hat on and said to Sam, 'Look at the colored cowboy.' To which he replied, 'Cowboy nothing. That is Sheffield that is causing so much trouble around here and if he ever comes to my house, I'll certainly shoot him.' He told me who Sheffield was. I asked Sam if he had a gun and he said that he did.

GREETINGS TO THE CALIFORNIA STATE CONVENTION

At this time we are delighted to welcome into our midst the twenty-first Annual Convention of California State Federation of Colored Women's Clubs.

The Federated Club's motto is, "Lifting As We Climb", and now, fondly do we hope, fervently do we pray, that the mighty bulwarks of prejudice within our own ranks will receive a death blow in this session, and that after the meeting and deliberating of these noble women of sable hue in this Southern California metropolis, Los Angeles will be a better place in which to live.

The writer is keenly alive as to the progress made in club life in California in the past seventeen years.

Last Fall it was our privilege to look in on the annual sessions in the States of New Jersey and Rhode Island, and we found that in club personnel and accomplishments in affairs local neither of these States had anything on California except "hot air."

We hope that we are not presuming, but if this has not been done, we suggest that some white representatives from the leading white clubs be especially invited to sit in on the sessions.

AT WATTS OR SOUTH LOS ANGELES

It was certainly an edifying privilege to be with the women at Grace Chapel in Women's Day program Sunday.

Watts is no curious corner as was once thought to be. It is one of the fast growing sections where member of our group are showing signs of the right sort of progress.

AIMEE SEMPLE McPHERSON

If it's publicity that causes a woman to be great then Aimee Semple McPherson is the greatest woman in the State of California.

WHAT WOULD JESUS SAY?

From all quarters we have heard—"He is getting what he earned," or "I hope they hang him."

Peter, Christ's child in the making denied Him and He (Christ) uttered not a mumbling word—Judas, another of the disciples, betrayed him, and our Savior was heavy with grief, but spoke no word of reproach.

Now, if Sheffield has committed an unpardonable sin—who among us is without sin, and ready to cast a stone?

As far as we are concerned we wish to say that we are truly sorry for this young man who drank deeply from the cup of prosperity. Became drunk with good fortune to the extent that he could see no Alps ahead. Then the rest of power was placed in his hand and he was mad forth to [illegible] kill—and now he is left to [illegible] cross alone.

War Declared On Lower Calif. Land And Development Company

This week we will continue our article by telling you some more of the facts that we learned while on our trip to Santa Clara ranch in Lower California.

Immediately after we had arrived at Santa Clara Ranch, we sought an interview with President Theo W. Troy. We stated to Mr. Troy in a very brief manner what we had learned from Mr. Romero, our Trustee and through other channels as to the real status of the ownership of the Santa Clara ranch. We also asked President Troy if he had signed or had any knowledge of any signatures of any of the original purchasers as to having transferred this property to the Lower California Mexican Land and Development Company. His reply was that he had no knowledge of any transfer being made and that he was sure that he personally had not signed any papers for a transfer of the land from its original buyers to the company. We then attempted to show him that the California Corporation was selling stock to the people on nothing but hot air. We also attempted to show Mr. Troy that since the company had no holdings it has no protection for the persons who were paying their hard earned cash into the coffers of the company and mostly Hugh E. Macbeth, the company' sattorney. After a bit more discussion with President Troy he seemed to realize that the ordinary investor into this proposition has no real legal protection. So President Troy said he felt that it was no more than right that the common people should be protected and that he was then ready and willing to step into the courts of Mexico and see that a just and legal transfer of the Santa Clara ranch be made so that the stock holders may be protected.

We felt and thought at the time that President Troy had manifested a magnificent and gracious spirit in showing that he was ready to see that the stockholders have a square deal, nevertheless, we could not wholly agree with Mr Troy's proposition for we felt it would be entirely insufficient and inadequate to settle this vital question. In other words, we felt it impossible for Mexico and her courts to be able to settle or decide matters pertaining to the action of a California Corporation.

Through this Corporation and Hugh E. Macbeth this proposition has been thrust upon the people. The stock was sold and the money spent or squandered herein California, and by the help of God, we intend to see that an account shall be made right here in California. In commenting on this question, one of our group has this to say:

Mexico owes me nothing but has abundantly given me her beautiful sunshine, and air, the scene of her gorgeous mountain tops and fertile valleys, the right and privilege to partake and enjoy her gracious hospitality while there. In California Hugh E. Macbeth has pleadingly extracted our money and in return has graciously poured out upon us, unmeasured amounts of watered stock". He must answer here. We do not feel it would be just the correct thing to do to close this article without at least a reference tothe hospitality of Mrs. R. W. Head and Mrs. John Robinson while on the ranch. Mrs. Head was down on her summer vacation for ten days but if she kept the pots boiling for those ten days as she did the day that we were there, we are sure that everybody got back to Los Angeles with a substantial gain in health and weight.

A farewell party was given for Mrs. G. A. Gaither of Chicago, Ill., who has been the house guest of Mrs. W. A. Small, 9500 Pace Avenue.

RACE RELATIONS

Dr. L. K. Williams, famous orator, preacher, educator, statesman, and president of the National Baptist Convention of America, on last Friday evening at the Second Baptist Church, delivered to a large audience of Negro men and women one of the most forceful and logical speeches heard in Los Angeles on the foremost problem of the day—the Negro problem.

According to Dr. Williams and prominent educators—white and black—this problem is the most pressing problem testing American democracy and Christianity at the present time. Dr. Williams is very optimistic in regard to the future outcome of this problem and has strong faith in Christianity to alleviate it. Christianity teaches brotherly love, which respects human rights—the rights the Negro of today is asking for.

Dr. Williams ridicules democracy, calling it a mockery to civilization, which is very true, for the essence of true democracy is justice to all, regardless of race, creed or color. But American democracy dispensing privileges to the white man seems to forget there is the Negro whose demands for the same privileges cannot be ignored. Laws cannot settle this Negro question, for they lack uniformity and enforcement. This question will only be settled by the hearts. Man must be born again and Christianity will give them this new birth, stated Dr. Williams. Dr. Williams attacked the Ku Klux Klan as group rule against the Negro. Group rule is not democratic because it does not involve every individual. When democracy breaks down in its dealings to the Negro it is a failure to the White Man. Men rule people must be God rule people.

Dr. Williams brought out the fact that we are the "guests" of the white man, for they invited us over and when we refused to accept their invitation the white man resorted to force to make us accept the invitation. Now we are here to stay and gain the personal rights endowed to every individual. Dr. Williams also said that the Negro race is the most popular race in America today. We have given the white man much competition—in fact we have given him more than any other races. The white man has given us competition, too, but it has not always been clean, honest competition. In spite of his prejudice we have won and are still winning by a wider margin than any other race in America. Our triumph against the overwhelming difficulties the white man has hurled in our path has produced a big race psychology in the mind of the white man. Another interesting point of Dr. Williams was our knowledge of the white man. He said we know more about the white man than the white man knows about us, for we have had more chances to know about him. We have outlived his psychology.

The white man thought the Negro to be a lazy individual after slavery, but the Negro proved himself to be a leading industrial factor and now he has to suffer the indignity of having the doors of industry shut in his face because of his color. The Negro must learn the dignity of all types of labor. The Negro must become more efficient industrially, for the industrially efficient are the backbone of a nation.

Dr. Williams emphasized the fact that we are the true one-souled American, for other nationalities in America find it difficult to sever their ties with their mother country. They send their money back to their native land. The Negro invests his money in America and pours his wealth into her coffers. Since Emancipation the Negroes in this country have amassed a fortune of two billion dollars. The foreigners' interest in America is strictly material.

Dr. Williams touched upon the problem of segregation. He said that the Negro's pride in clean, healthful environments has caused him to move into communities which will meet his requirements of a desirable environment. In most cases these desirable communities are inhabited by white individuals who protest against the gradual encroachment of the Negro, who is merely looking for decent surroundings, on their community. Then another great problem confronts us—the problem of segregation, which should not be tolerated, for has not every individual the right to adjust himself to suitable surroundings? Adjusting one's self to a desirable environment is one of the fundamentals of a democratic social order. Dr. Williams mentioned something which may seem rather queer—the fact that a Negro does not associate with all Negroes, for his self-respect does not tolerate another individual of his race whose character is questionable.

Race hatred has grown out of tradition, poor thinking, propaganda, ill-formed judgment, and a closed mind. It has grown out of our numbers, out of our likeness, and our customs. We had to accept the customs and standards of the white race when we were set free, because we were ignorant and had none of our own. Why should the white man deny individuals whose standards are so well patterned after his? This problem has tested the Christianity and democracy of the white man. Christianity is a failure if men of one God cannot be as one man. There cannot be fatherhood without brotherhood; there cannot be brotherhood without fatherhood. Dr. Williams in closing emphasized these practical facts and urged that Christianity be applied to a problem of this magnitude.

GORGEOUS LUNCHEON

Gorgeous is just another way of a word, for puffing the one word, splendid—And that's the word we want to use, when we say, Mrs. Pearl Smith gave one gorgeous luncheon Saturday afternoon. Beginning at 2:30 P. M ending in a party and closing about 10 P. M. o'clock, in being an at home affair, judging from the extended arrivals of her many friends. Knowing Pearl Smith's luncheon to her friends would be just such an affair, every one came in their best "bib and tucker" with expectation the forerunner of all other expressions.

This particular luncheon was given in honor of one delightful young matron, of Fort Worth, Texas, who won all as friends, as they were met, Mrs. Cora Woodall, sister to Mrs. Pearl Smith. The house was "snappy" in its attractiveness, the lovely, spacious rooms, were filled with tables covered with lovely, different colored organdy covers, sweet peas and ferns, were used as centers for each table, blending with the color of the covers, dainty, is the word the picture made. All the ladies were beautifully dressed in their lovely summer frocks, making a very pleasing picture indeed, for Los Angeles' elite, socially, were out for pleasure and a more than delicious lunch was served, followed with cards. Sharing honors with Mrs. Woodall were Misses Anita Thompson and Francis of New York, Mrs. Margaret Abbott of Tuskegee and her sister of Kansas City, Mrs. E. P. Fagan. Prizes for out of town guests were won by Mrs. M. Abbott, first and Miss Francis, second. City guest, first prize Mrs. Ruth Webster and Mrs. Margaret Moore second. Many delightful affairs are being planned by Mrs. Smith's friends for Mrs. Woodall.

Mr. and Mrs. Claude Craine of Chicago, Ill., are in the city on a visit and are stopping with Mrs. C. C. Fletcher, 1248 East 50th Street. They will return to the Windy City in a few weeks.

THE BRONX HOTEL

(By J. P. SASS)

Visiting the Bronx Hotel we were much pleased at the patronage which this hostelry enjoys and the general trend of affairs therein. We cannot refrain from the highest commendation for the proprietor, Mr. E. J. Seymour, who has demonstrated an abiding faith in this venture for and on behalf of the colored people.

In a large establishment such as this one which is perhaps the largest hotel in the entire country catering to our people, he has had many obstacles to surmount, but he has met them and nothing has shaken his confidence for ultimate success. Not even the crackers, or rich property owners who would do everything in their power to prevent the colored people from having a place worth while to stop at, nor the studied efforts of envy and malice could stop Seymour.

He has steadfastly and honorably kept the faith. Provided postions for the race by the score and gives to them a strictly first class hotel and you can't beat that.

DALLAS PUBLIC SCHOOLS

B. F. Darrell School
T. D. Marshall, Principal
Dallas, Texas, July 14, 1927.

Hon. M. H. Broyles,
523-523 Bryson Building,
Los Angeles, California.

My Dear Mr. Broyles:—

I thought you might like to hear from one of your former students and that is why I am writing you at this time.

It has been quite two years since I was in your office, but I have thought and spoken of you to the many men and women whom you once taught in Texas. You are fondly remembered by so many here in Dallas. Two of your ardent admirers are W. T. Downing and W. H. Jackson both of Prairie View. Downing is the principal of a school in Valley Mills, Texas and Jackson is principal of one of our city schools.

My school is the largest in the South. We enrolled one thousand six hundred forty nine the past term. I had thirty one teachers. This school is a platoon and department school of one year; the only one in the city for colored. My salary is not just what I think it should be. I get two hundred dollars per month for nine months. I am going to ask for twenty-seven hundred dollars per year. I have rental property that brings more than a hundred dollars per month. However I am doing well. I have a good wife who is a real helper.

Professor N. W. Harllee died just three weeks before the end of the last school term. I am sure you remember him as he was one of the oldest teachers in the state. He had been teaching in Dallas forty two years last February.

I should like very much to come again to your city and may be I shall do so in the near future. I may attend your university next summer.

I have finished my college work. I started doing some summer work at Wiley University in nineteen hundred fifteen and on the 31st of May last I received my M. A. degree. My work for the Master of Arts degree articulated with the work for the B. A. degree. My work was very high for the several years I was engaged in the college work. I remember that I have one B grade which means that that particular grade was between eighty percent and eighty nine percent. My other grades were all A grades. My honor was cum laude. I am a member of the Phi Beta Sigma fraternity and president of the Wiley Extension School now in operation in Dallas under the auspices of Wiley University. The present enrollment of this school is fifty one teachers.

They are doing work leading to a degree.

If possible, I am going to do some work this next school year on my Ph. D. degree. I am thinking of going to the top while I am at it.

Lovingood said on one occasion: "Whatever calling you take up in life, learn to say the last word about it". That impressed me so that later I wrote a thesis entitled, "The Last Word".

May I wish for you a happy and most prosperous life.

Very respectfully,
T. D. MARSHALL,
2804 Juliette Street.

P. S.—I attribute much of my success to the teachings that I received while under you. I can remember very vividly the classes you had while I was in school. You gave me a good foundation and quite a number of Life's principles for which only God can pay you.—T.D.M.

THE SHEFFIELD CASE

Randolph and I, were across the street behind some palm trees. Barnes went in the house and soon returned saying that they were all out but would have some soon."

Q. "Tell what happened on the night of April 24th."

A. "Randolph and I left Central Station and drove to 1358 E. 51st street. I parked my car on Ascot between 51st and 52nd street. We went through a court on 52nd, climbed the fence, passed by the rear house of 1358 E. 51st and started down the driveway. At the dining room window we paused and looked in the window and saw Mrs. Harris serving Mr. Dickson some amber colored fluid for which Dickson paid her some silver money. I could hear the money ring. Then we went to the front and knocked on the door, as the curtain was raised, I showed my badge and said that we were police officers and to open the door. As we entered, the Coates girls ran to the kitchen. I brought them back and they, with Randolph, sat on the davenport and I went to the kitchen to search for liquor. I started pulling out drawers and looking in any place where I thought liquor might be. While down on my knees looking in a drawer, I heard Randolph whistle and say, 'Shef she's dumping it.' I jumped up and just as I got to the swinging door between the dining room and kitchen I heard a shot. When I opened the door, I saw an arm protruding from the front bedroom door with a gun pointing at Randolph, then fired point blank at Randolph. Randolph fell and drew his gun; I shot at the arm and almost at the same time that I fired, Randolph fired his gun in the same direction. The door of the bed room shut."

Q. "While you were in the kitchen did anyone come in?"

A. "Yes, Mrs. Faulkner, the mother, and Mrs. Faulkner, the wife of Sam, came to the kitchen door and asked what was the matter. I told them that I was a police officer and was making a raid. Then they left."

Q. "What did you do after the bedroom door was shut?"

A. "I went back in the kitchen and through to the bathroom. I thought I heard a noise, and I fired at the bathroom door. I went through the bathroom into the front bed room and found Sam Faulkner's body, that was the first time that I knew that he had been killed. Then I returned to the kitchen from the way I came and saw Mr. Faulkner peeping in and I shot at his head. I was trying to protect my partner and myself and I didn't want anyone to shoot us."

Q. "Did you ever see Mrs. Faulkner, the mother, enter the house?"

A. "I didn't see her enter but I saw her leaning over her son's body and I saw Randolph go to the body, rack the gun, which was lying beside the body with his foot, pick it up and put it in his pocket." Mrs. Harris told her mother, 'It was Randolph that killed son because I saw him fire twice in the direction of the bed room.'"

Q. "Did you see any officers in the house?"

A. "Yes, I saw quite a few. We started looking for the empty shell from the deceased's gun and Officer Brown found it. I had to borrow a flashlight from one of the officers as I didn't have one.

Finds Liquor

Then I went outside to try to find the liquor that Mrs. Harris had dumped. Some officers went with me, I can't remember who. Beside the dining room window I found a glass pitcher, some broken glass, and beside the fence I found 2 bottles of what looked to be whiskey. The pitcher had a little whiskey in it. I took all of this to the station and booked it."

Q. "Did you book the .38 bullet that was found that night?"

A. "I did not book it until April 29 because I had forgotten about it."

"Q. "After taking Mrs. Harris to Newton Station, what did you do?"

A. "Bewley went with me to Central Station in my car and Brown followed in his car. I never saw that .32 automatic until I got it at Central Station. I made out my report and used Brown and Bewley's names as witnesses because they told me to do so. When we were at the house Bewley said, 'Shef we have this number on our list and you got it just before we did.' They offered themselves as witnesses, I didn't ask them.

Q. "Did you tell them to testify for you?"

A. "I did not! They said that they had seen it all and would be witnesses for me. I didn't tell them the Chief was behind us 100% because I didn't even see the Chief that night. I never had any conversation with them about the affair to even lead them to think that I wanted them to say what was not true."

Q. "Did you fix the automatic to make it appear jammed?"

A. "I did not, I only put some matches in it to keep the jam from exploding while handling it in the Property Clerk's office. I never saw the gun until I got it at Central Station to book it."

Q. "Did you take a drink in front of Santa Fe Hospital?"

A. "I did not; I didn't have any whiskey at all that night."

Q. "Did you tell Randolph that 'everything was all right?'"

A. "I did not. I only asked him how he was feeling and told him that I would go over to his house and tell his wife about the accident and that my wife and I would be to see him the next day."

Heard Six Shots Altogether

Q. "How many shots did you hear or see altogether?"

A. "I heard 6. I heard one when I was in the kitchen, one the arm fired at Randolph, one Randolph fired at the arm, one that I fired at the arm, one that I fired at the bathroom door, and one that I fired at the head of Mr. Faulkner."

Mr. Sheffield denied having planted the three bottles of whiskey that he found, when asked that question. He said that he was not working directly under the supervision of Chief Davis, but was under Deputy Chief Plummer.

Miss Mitchell, stenographer in detective bureau Central Station, was then called to verify a statement taken from Miss Ruth Coates, one of the Peoples' witnesses and one of a party at the house during the shooting.

"Miss Coates said that she saw a streak of fire from the front bedroom door."

Mr. Poist, manager of accident and health department of the Equitable Insurance Company was the next witness. He stated that Mr. Randolph had a policy in the company and had made out a statement to collect accident money on account of his injured arm.

Q. "Did he say who shot him?"

A. "He said that a figure crouched behind some portiers or a door had fired two shots at him."

This was the last witness for the defense, so at this juncture, the Defense rested its case.

OPENING ARGUMENT

Wednesday, July 20 at 10 A. M. the case was continued. It Wm. Rowyton, one of the prosecuting attorneys who opened the argument. He reviewed the evidence as presented by the witnesses emphasizing the facts as brought out by them (as: no one saw liquor in the house but Sheffield; that if Sheffield found the 3 bottles of whiskey, glass pitcher, and broken glass, as he stated, on the ground by the east window, how was it thrown out of a screened closed window with the shades pulled down without breaking the window and screen; that the automatic was jammed by Sheffield as noted by the marking on the gun; that Sam Faulkner's head was sticking out of the door and NOT his arm, as Sheffield testified; that Brown and Bewley had been properly coached by Sheffield; that Sheffield shot at Mr. Faulkner, Sr. for no reason at all; and several points that have been told in previous articles.

Mr. Brayton finished his plea about 3:10, and, after ten minutes intermission, Mr. White, counsel for Sheffield, started his plea.

COUNSEL FOR DEFENSE BEGINS SUMMING UP

Mr. White was very "flowery" in his opening remarks making a short speech on policemen in general; their service to the people and their graves which were as sacred as those graves in Flanders Field, ending by saying: "It seems to be open season around this town for attacks upon the police department." He said that if Sheffield was guilty and the jury found him absolutely guilty that there was but one thing to do—hang him! But, on the other hand, if there was any doubt in the jurors' minds about anything of the case to acquit him!

He continued by saying that when the automatic was locked, as Mr. Brayton had said it was when Sheffield had made some markings on it, that the marking did not meet (they were in the form of X X), but when the gun was like it was when it was jammed, the X X met; that the Coates girls ran because they kne what it was Sheffield and Randolph at the door; that the statements of the Peoples' witnesses changed during cross examination; that Mrs. Harris standing near the dining room window all of the time was very significant, because she was talking to someone outside and wanted to get rid of the liquor through the window; that "it has come to a pretty day when the District Attorneys speak of Finlinson, who has given 17 years of his life to the people through the police department, as coaching people to say what is not true. Finlinson cannot be compared with such people as the Coates girls, Miss Scott, Brown and Bewley.

At this time, it was past time for adjournment and the court adjourned to convene Thursday at 10 A. M.

Thursday morning, Judge White continued his plea to the jury. He said that when Sheffield shot at Faulkner, Sr., he did not know whether it was the man at whose arm he had shot or not, because he did not know that Sam Faulkner was killed; that the bullet of Randolph's went out the window, therefore it cannot be discovered; that Sheffield testified whenever asked and always told the same story.

"There is only one real person that gave testimony and that was M. B. Sheffield who towers above all the rest. And if the bright red blood carousing in Sheffield's veins was like the slimy ooze in Brown, Bewley and Randolph, he would be out on the streets as they are ,but he would rather be in jail than to be like them with a stigma on their souls, for after all, bars and a cell do not make a prisoner. These men are avowed perjurers and perjury is the moundation stone of all injustice, the crime of crimes as it misleads jurors and convicts innocent men."

REBUTTAL BY DENNISON

At 11:40 Mr. Dennison began his rebuttal. He corrected White's statement of "only the bootleggers, gamblers, rapists, and men taken care of by fallen women are prosecuting Sheffield" and said that the better class of people wanted to see justice.

"Courts are temples of justice, and if Sheffield had entered this home as officers should, with a search warrant, etc., there would be no trial."

In continuing he said that the District Attorney's Office was not attacking the Chief of Police. He briefly went over the happenings on April 24th stressing the material points of each happening and corroborated them with the statements made by the witnesses. By this time it was past noon and the court was adjourned until 2 o'clock.

EDITORIAL

FEDERATED CLUBS

The good work already put on foot by the Federated Clubs of this city demonstrates the wisdom of the movement. It also goes to show the value of organization. The more bodies interested the greater results can be obtained, for this reason we are strong for the idea of pooling our common interest.

THE AGE-OLD PASTIME

Although in the downtown districts of our cities the sidewalks are still crowded with pedestrians, it is probably true that walking has become an obsolete pastime in America. The rushing in and out of stores in the shopping districts isn'e walking anyway, in the opinion of lovers of that form of physical exercise.

We have lost the feeling of leisure which in former days was so conducive to walking. Even in our motoring we seem to be possessed of the idea that we must hurry to get somewhere, although we may have no particular destination in mind. An Englishman who even during his visit to this country spent much time in walking said of us that the pictures in periodicals representing the occupants of automobiles reclining in luxury and enjoying magnificent scenery did not depict us truly. That is not the way we cover the miles.

He was greatly amused over the fact that during his walking tours he was frequently offered rides by motorists: "they do not seem to understand", he says, "that a man on a walking tour is not in need of vehicular conveyance. They act as if the best thing about walking is giving it up and having a ride".

Obviously the automobile does not permit of sauntering. When the road is good, there comes the irresistable impulse to make the most of it, which to nearly all drivers means anywhere from 35 to 60 miles an hour. And consequently there is lacking the opportunity for quiet enjoyment of the passing landscape; and lacking too is the inducement for reflection and restful meditation which walking, either by one's self or with motoring has its pleasures, and on the whole they are no less than those of walking. And perhaps in the stress of modern life it is only natural that we should have taken to the thrill-producing form of exercise.

SILENCE AND SPEECH

Could you quit talking for two weeks? Of course you could if if were absolutely imperative, but you wouldn't want to do it. Yet, a strict silence regimen is a part of the method of correcting defective speech adopted by one clinic devoted to that purpose. Patients are barred from uttering a single sound for a fortnight, no matter how urgent the need for conversation, in order t ogive the vocal machinery a complete rest.

In a recent test 12 high school girls and 30 boys were subjected to the treatment. The girls thought it would be impossible for one of the female sex to cease from conversation for two weeks, but they would try. Two girls failed under the strain. One felt that she just had to ask "Is my nose shiny?" and the other that she must borrow a powder puff and she asked for it. One boy ran away but the others stuck to silence for two weeks mainly by keeping radio receivers glued to their ears.

One might secure an intimation of what the experience would be by ceasing from talking for an hour when in the company of others. Were one forbidden to speak, possibly there would be nothing else one would want to do so much. It is a voluntary act but most of us carry it on almost involuntarily. We are so accustomed to talking that it is automatic, though were it less so much of the conversation might prove of greater value. In the cases of those of us not suffering from defective speech, periods of silence might prove highly beneficial. Thoughts might catch up with conversation.

HORSE SHOES

It seems as if the game of horse shoes is being indulged in more this year in Los Angeles than usual, but it could not be spoken of as a revival; for this form of sport, going back in principle to the discus throwing of the ancient Greeks, has never been absent within the period of written history. In early England it was known as quoits, with heavy iron rings used, and this name and the use of rings persists to a considerable degree, but horse shoes appear to be the official style in this country.

Quoit pitching became so general in England in the fifteenth century that royal attempts were made to end it in favor of archery. One of the writers of the period speaks of "quoiting as too vile for scholars." It is noted, however, that scholars at picnics still take to it about as keenly as any, while archery, much as there is to be said for its gracefulness and test of skill, still requires efforts to keep it alive. Horse shoes, first used by workingmen for lack of quoits ,now are made specially for the game, with regulation weight, and finished as elegantly as desired, in gold bronze, nickel plate or aluminum.

So let the ancient and honorable game be fostered in Los Angeles as elsewhere.

Why regard the $2 bill with distrust? It's just as good as a dollar bill used to be.

Have the men who made nickel cigars ever thought of serving a slab of corned beef with them?

A good doctor has to know almost as much about medicine as he knows about human nature.

While the fellow with a poker face may get along, there are times when most of us think it needs poking.

Most of the things you think are necessary wouldn't be missed at all if you didn't think they were necessary.

COMMENTS

BY: W. J. WHEATON

There is a peculiar psychology about these racial international marriages. A few months gone by Roland Hayes, the tenor, was reported as engaged to marry a Hungarian Countess. There was a big to-do. The press of both races denounced the action. The white press from the prejudiced viewpoint of a black man marrying other than one of his race. The black press because it believed that he should have bestowed his marital favors on some woman of the race: that he should not bestow his affection otherwise. The question was the topic of discussion in the clubs and forums. Hayes was rapidly losing caste. The personal equation; compatability, artistic companionship, love, never entered into the topic. It was a mere matter of race—A black man to marry a white woman. Josephine Baker marries a white man, and you hear very little adverse comment even from race women.

The political matters around and about the Capitol are in Statu Quo. The reorganization program will go into effect on the 29th of July. It is predicted that very few, if any, changes will be made other than those necessary to function the several changes in the divisions. It is conceded generally that Senator Hiram Johnson will succeed himself as United States Senator for California. The presidential atmosphere is somewhat foggy. President Coolidge does not seem to create much enthusiasm. California voters are a peculiar lot. One can never tell. We have seen the presidents picture screened and there was never a ripple of applause. Show Governor Young or Lieutenant Governor Fitts and the audience will break into cheers. So with Senator Johnson, he is still strong with the people.

There are rumblings of discontent among the protelariat of San Francisco. Mr. and Mrs. Voter are grinding axes and whetting carving knives. A goodly number of the City Fathers will have to do some tall explaining in order to retain their jobs in and around the civic center. Some of those departments who have drawn the color line to such a marked degree are liable to lose their political heads. They said that they could not do it in Los Angeles, but they did.

Perry Howard wants the New York I. B. P. O. E. of W. lodges to put up a bond of $30,000 to insure the Grand Lodge against arrest. Why, Finley and the outfit did not want 30 cents for any immunity against arrest when he paraded at the head of 3000 of the Order, and bowed his acknowledgements to the crowds along 5th Ave. But then, there was no election in sight.

Sierra Lodge, 742, of Sacramento is planning to give one of the most elaborate balls of the season on the night of Labor Day. They have already secured one of the city's best auditoriums and engaged one of the most famous orchestras in the State.

Notable events are happening so rapidly that they fail to thrill. A few decades past when it was heralded to the world that the Wright Brothers had invented a flying machine which aroud six feet from the ground for a period of six minutes it was acclaimed as a miracle; and astounding feat. Then a French aviator flew the English Channel, Calais to Dover, and the feat was chronicled as the climax of human endeavor in the subjection of the elements. Now Navigators of the air have crossed the North Pole; conquered both oceans, and so used are we to the accomplishment of the seemingly impossible that after the first vociferous acclaim, we forget.

Well they gave that fellow Agree, high school principal and church factotum, who was convicted of being one of a mob who flogged a white woman down in Georgia, one year on the chain gang and a fine. We are not claiming that the sentence of Agree will have a deterent effect on assaults of black women. Georgia has hardly the time to be educated to the fact that the condoning of one crime leads to another. For years black women have been the common prey of untutored ,therefore unscrupulous Georgians. Disregard of the virtuous rights of any woman is a desrespect for all. Until Georgia courts convict without regard to race or color its sending to the chain gang of one hoodlum will have no effect.

Up in Jackson, Amador County, Henry Jackson, was for years one of the familiar sights on its streets. He had a little barber shop and it was the rendezvous for many of Jackson's citizens who delighted in uncle Henry's reminiscences of Civil War days. He was a veteran of the Civil War and when he died the other day at the ripe age of 85 years he was given a veteran's burial by the members of the American Legion (white), with the military honors which are a part. That was in California.

Down in Louisiana there lived a young man (black) who had answered to the call of a nation's chief magistrate to go to war and fight to make the "World Safe for Democracy". He went: He unloaded ammunition, tons and tons of it. He coaled ships and toiled in the mud and slime of Brest until his bones ached and tired nature would cause him to fall asleep on a pile of coal or box of stores. Every time he lifted a shovel of coal or strained at a bale of goods, he would ward off fatigue by saying "I am making things better for the folks back home, I am helping to make the world safe for Democracy."

THE COLUMN.

OF ONE of our contemporary papers.

GEORGE GODFREY was called down for dancing the "black bottom" in the ring after he "rabbit punched" and kidney punched little Neil Clisby to an uncreditable win.

To that we say AMEN! It is all right for a winning boxer feeling good over his victory to leap over the ropes, or do a handspring like Tiger Flowers or Paulino but for a so-called top-notch boxer to act a boob is bad especially for a colored fighter, as there are many in the audience who lose respect for him when he pulls an Uncle Tom jig just to get a big laugh.

IF GEORGE had been in the ring with John Lester Johnson, someone his size, he may not have felt like dancing, and the black would have been on the other side of a smashed mug.

I think well of George, like one thinks well of a big irresponsible kid who doesn't know what its all about, so I have canvassed among the fight experts to ascertain what they think of him as a fighter. They all say he has nothing but size, strength and weight, with which to pull and maul around the light-heavies his manager picks for him. The first good big man he meets will Knock Mr. George OUT or the referee will throw him out for holding and wrestling.

• • •

Now at his prime, he ought to be in the money for good heavies are in big demand. Daugherty claims they won't match him in the East. The fact is Daugherty is in bad with Tex Rickard. They both talk about each other. Daugherty says George has never made him any money, only makes debts. George says Daugherty doesn't half massage him and there you are.

But one thing is sure. If George took things seriously like Dempsey did before the Tunney fight, he would always be worried. They say after he eased out of town an army of bill collectors were anxious to see him. A telephone bill for $290.00, a photo bill for $25, poor Kind Broad who rubbed him was looking for his $15 or $20 owen him and a swarm of others None of that will help him any for after all he is very unpopular with his own race on the Coast and in all his fights never drew as many as Baby Gans in one. MORAL. The bigger a man is, the bigger fool he is, sometimes especially for women.

Boxing Notes From the Main St. A. C.

The Main Street A. C. was a lively institution all week and will continue as such for the rest of the week at least according to the schedules worksouts.

Ace Hudkins has been working out there and yesterday worked three sizzling rounds with John Patrick Daugherty and two with Billy Anderson.

PUTTS AND SLICES

The golfers are getting out early these hot days. Baby Gans has quit playing, but the others are improving. Charley Mosby and Ted Brandon are still shooting around 90. Art Brandon, Williams, Jimmy Carton, Clisby Clark's few others are hanging pay with 8's 9's and 10.

BABY JOE GANS AND O'DONNEL PUNT HOT DRAW

In a hard, bitter contest which surprised the many followers of Baby Gans the recognized lightweight champion, Johnny O'Donnel earned a draw with the Young Master. O'Donnel, though a fairly clever boxer and hard hitter was not expected to make so good a showing, but he took the first third and four rounds before Gans seemed to get started. The second, fourth and tenth were even.

BABY JOE GANS
"The Young Master" World's Lightweight champion who invades the East soon

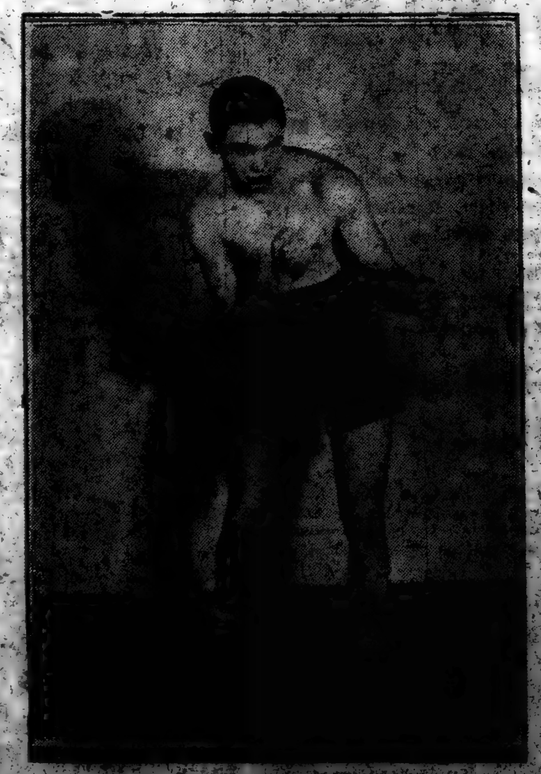
Gans took the sixth, seventh, eighth and ninth by wide margins, but he seemed to be waiting through the early rounds and when the final bell came it was a good draw.



A return match will probably end in O'Donnel being K. Oed.

DEMPSEY-SHARKEY BATTLE

ART HUDKINS, (Fight Mgr.), Sharkey will win by K. O. if allowed to fight his way.

FRANK KERWIN, (Sports Writer), Sharkey.

ED SMITH, (Famous Sports Writer), Sharkey is sure to win. Age will get Dempsey.

What do you say now about Wills and Paulino? Surprised? Let the "Brown Panther" rest now, he's thru.

"Chuck 'Em Charlie" is the name we hereby christen Charlie Raymond the able and very busy referee. When fighters stall, he doesn't wast any time, he grabs 'em both and chucks 'em out of the ring. He also "chucks" in the towel when a fighter is out on his feet. He says "What's the use letting him get butchered?"

YES, THEY STILL RIDE BICYCLES

Nicholas Frantz of the Grand Duchy of Luxembourg today won the annual longest bicycle road race of the world, covering 4000 miles, which started June 19th. The race is called "Tour de France", and skirts the entire frontier and coast boundaries of the country.

THE WILD CAT WILL WIPE OUT DEFEAT BY BAKER

Billy Evans Will Climb Over Dario Barron

ACE HUDKINS
Who fights Sergt. Sammy Baker at Wrigley Field, July 23rd

Everybody is arguing. Will Ace Hudkins, the Nebraska Wildcat beat Baker or will Baker beat Ace the second time. Some say Baker is too smart, has Ace's number, etc. But listen to this. Ace Hudkins knows that regardless of a badly cut eye, he was still in shape to go on when the referee stopped the fight in N. Y. so he will go in determined to win and will win. Baker will find a different man in front of him than when they boxed in N. Y.

At the Olympic on Tuesday, July 26th, local fans will have an opportunity of seeing the much heralded Vicentini in action. The little South American is the Chilean champion and has a number of wins over U. S. boxers to his credit.

Jimmy McLarin has made one of the most remarkable claims of any of the homegrown product of pugilists. He is the idol of several local arenas especially Hollywood and is the favorite to beat the Chilean in his usual style of winning.

THE BLACK SPORT WORLD THROUGH THE EYES OF ART HAMILTON

Substituting for Tony Fuentes against Vic Alexander, Battling Ivy, a white battler supposed to have a punch as poisonous as his name put up one of the non-fightingest fights I ever had the pleasure to witness. He couldn't fight and he wouldn't let Alexander fight. He resorted to holding and a defensive crouch and the pride of the Avenue couldn't fathom that style of fighting. For eight long rounds Alexander swung and missed but in the nith Vic happened to land one of the many rights he aimed at Ivy's mid-section and Ivy went down, the bell saved him from a knock-out. The tenth was a reptition of the other nine, Alexander swinging and missing, Ivy holding and running.

Vic was awarded the decision, but me, oh my, what a fight.

Paoline Uzcudun, the bounding basque of Spain, upset the dope bucket when he knocked out Harry Wills, the Brown Panther. In fact he turned the bucket up side down.

Paoline wasn't conceded an outside chance of winning but you never can tell about this fight game. Wills was tamed from a wild roaring panther to a purring house cat by the hard hitting little Spaniard. Thus fell the idol of all the fistic followers of our race. After seventeen hard years in the ring Harry must realize by now that he is through.

I advise him to retire to Strivers' Row in Harlem and take a well-earned rest.

The Sixth Annual Pacific Coast Championship Tournament scheduled for Oakland Sunday and Monday, September 4th and 5th promises to be the biggest and most successful tourney we have ever held excepting San Diego in 1924.

The Bay Cities Tennis Clubs who is acting as our social host has planned many gala "pay-as-you-enter" affairs for your comfort before, during and after the net struggles both in Frisco and Oakland so be sure to take at least fifteen cents more than your fare or you may be on the out side looking in.

BILLY EVANS GETS HIS CHANCE

WILL BE BIG TIME STAR AFTER BARRON BOUT

If Billy Evans, the sensational little Buckeys sharpshooter, gets the chance of his life in the battle with Darie Barron in the Hudkins Baker card—Billy is an Eaglet and there will be a big Eagle section out to root for him. He has won consistently at the smaller clubs fighting all main events and after the Monday night battle in which he will beat Barron, he will be in line for some of the best shots in the country.

BILLY EVANS

Would You Swim That Far For Bucks?

St. Louis.—Kurt Odenheimer, 20, started today on a swim down the Mississippi to New Orleans. He expected to reach the gulf in two or three weks. Odenheimer, a stock and bond salesman, took a friend's $100 bet that he could not make the swim.

LA PREMIERES BASEBALL CHAMPS

The La Premieres are the baseball champions of 1927. They emerged victorious in three successive games and were held to one tie. Among the losers were: the Laddie Boys, Golden Eagles and the highly touted Merry Makers, the ancient rivals of the La Premieres who were overwhelmingly trounced to the tune of 17-5 which settles a long drawn out argument. An All-Star team held the champions to a 10-10 tie.

BRONX PALM GARDEN A SEPARATE INSTITUTION

Curtis Mosby, who re-opened the Bronx Palm Gardens for high class entertainment announces that he is in no way connected with the Hotel proper and that any unfortunate happening such as those Pullman Porters caught gambling in their own room, has no reflection on his cabarat which he is conducting properly.

A novelty recently staged, which made a great hit, was a Sunday Review Night with a program of old time songs, dances and costumes.

Corinne Hart, the new entertainer from the Sunset Cabaret in Chicago, made a big hit, as did the regular staff of performers and Mildred Washington's Revue.

Curtis Carpentier, the former versatil and talented manager, is back in charge staging new and original features each night.

HUDKINS-BAKER MATCH GREATEST OF YEAR ON COAST

There is more talk along Spring street these days regarding "left hooks" and "right crosses" than ever before in boxing history.

All because of Ace Hudkins' bout July 26th at Wrigley field with Sergeant Sammy Baker, the Mitchell Field soldier who stopped Hudkins in seven rounds at New York and punched Callahan full of holes before knocking out Mosby in the ninth round in Chicago.

Baker will enter the ring a 10 to 8 favorite at least.

In New York he would be a 10 to 6 bet or better.

But Los Angeles likes its own children and especially the "Nebraska Wildcat" who never really lost a fight in this part of the country, excepting his meeting with Tommy O'Brien at Ascot when Ace was a green kid.

Both Baker and Hudkins are the same slam-bang style of fighters. Baker is said to be the hardest puncher.

MAIN ST. A. C. STAGES A MYSTERY

HUBELY'S 'ACE OF SPADES' TO STRUT HIS STUFF TOO

Here's the mystery! The word. Caballero in Spanish comes from the word caballo meaning a horse. But Caballero means gentleman when it seems it ought to mean a horseman. Now, when Rosilio Caballero, the sensational Filippino flash, meets George Brady, Saturday, will he prove to be a horseman and gallop all over George in his usual style or will he prove it to be a gentleman? And saying, "After you, my dear Gaston," retire to a soft place in the rain?

He says, "no;" and George says, "yes;" and Carlo Curtis the only genuine kid promoter says, "here you are—take your pick."

FIRESTONE AND THE NEGRO IN LOS ANGELES

Newspaper dailies in Los Angeles this week broadcasted the news that the Firestone Tire and and Rubber Co. had acquired a large tract of land fronting on Alameda St. flanked by Manchester and Florence avenues in the vicinity of the Goodyear Rubber Co. for the sum of a few petty millions and contemplated the erection of a several million dollar plant for which Los Angeles and California are singing praises.

While it means much to the community, in reality we doubt if the local Negro will have anything to rejoice about. Goodyear built a wonderful plant here a year or two ago and we had great hopes that they would employ some Negroes in their plant but to date they have failed. You can't find a Negro out there with a spy glass and further they stated they would not employ any though there are at least 25 thousand Negro laborers and mechanics in the city. So Goodyear means nothing to the Negro except that if he has cash he can buy their products.

How About Firestone?

And now that Firestone is coming, what wil he do? Will he break the ice or allow such organizations as the Friday Morning Club (a woman's club) and several other such organizations dictate to them the policy they must employ here and employ only whites? Will they do a Sears Roebuck somersault and exclude the Negro in a general way from their payroll?

Yes, Firestone is coming but unless the Negro gets busy and starts to combat the feminine organizations that are openly trying to shove the progressive Negro back into what they call "his place," he is going to be confronted with some real hard times.

Firestone as is known, has acquired large plantation holdings in Liberia and does employ Negroes there for the reason it is an economic question. Here in America twelve million Negroes must live and such being the case he must be prepared to hold his ground against such propoganda put out by such organizations as the Friday Morning Club that are injecting the un-American principle of prejudicing the minds of big white business Negro help either common or skilled labor.

Add Oil to Fuel In Your New Car

One quart of light oil per 10 gallons of gasoline, poured directly into the fuel tank, may be a great help during the first few hundred miles of driving a new car, according to the National Automobile Club.

Rim of the World Drive Reconstructed

At an altitude of over 6,00 feet above the sea, with a splendid panoramic view of orange groves and numerous thriving Southern California cities stretching beneath it, the "Rim of the World Drive" in San Bernardino has been undergoing reconstruction which will give this beautiful resort land much better and modern road facilities, according to information received from the Touring Department of the National Automobile Club.

The present work, while only a beginning of contemplated improvements, will make this scenic drive a "high-gear" road and, being routed over the southern slopes, greater possibilities for winter travel will be assured. This drive, which is also known as the "Crest," begins at Waterman Canyon and follows the old "Crest" route to Bear Lake. Section "A" ascends to the summit of the San Bernardino mountains, ending at Squirrel Inn. Section "B," now under reconstruction, lies along the crest of the ridge to Running Sprinks Park.

It's a bad sign when the driver reads only the billboards.

A Car Now to Fit Every Pocketbook

An automobile to fit every pocketbook. That is fast becoming the situation in America today, according to the National Automobile Club.

Although there are less manufacturers producing today than there were a few years ago, there has never been a time when so large a choice was available to the buyer as there is today. There are inexpensive cars, medium-priced cars, and expensive cars with four, six or eight cylinders. There are red cars, blue cars and striped or vari-colored cars. The upshot of it all is that there is scarcely a buyer who cannot find just what he wants in the matter of price, taste and needs.

Money made the mare go, but it's credit that runs a lot of motor cars.

Is Mule A Vehicle? Court To Be Puzzled

Is a mule a vehicle? That is what a Louisiana court will be asked to decide, according to the National Automobile Club. A motorist, driving along the road on a dark night ran into something which caused his car to overturn and injure him. The obstruction was a mule. As all vehicles are required by the state to carry a tail light, the motorist is wondering whether he can prove to the court that the mule is a vehicle.

Don't Strain Your Motor on the Hills

Don't try to make the grade in high gear if you see it is going to strain your motor. That is the advise issued to mountain drivers by the National Automobile Club. The satisfaction that might result from successfully climbing a hill in high is not worth the chances of a garage bill which is more likely to be the result.

The difference between a profession and a trade is that the first man has a diploma and the latter a Pierce-Arrow.—Hiram.

What'll We Do With Marathon Motorist Drives for Four Days

Four days and nights without sleep and driving all the time is the record set by an eastern motorist, according to the National Automobile Club. Driving his car for 96 consecutive hours, he made an aimless tour of every city and village in the county. At intervals, he had a luncheon of bread and milk or ice cream. The car averaged 24 miles to a gallon of gas and went through without a change of oil. The mileage head gave him on his return and he is now a hero.

Don't Toot the Horn When You Pay Call

When you go calling, ring the door bell; don't toot the horn. This has long been a matter of etiquette. Now North Carolina is going to have it a matter of law, according to the National Automobile Club.

A recent law in that state makes it unlawful to use the horn for any other means than a warning device, or to make any unnecessary noise, loud or harsh sounds other than a reasonable warning! Does this mean a warning to get out of the way or a warning that the boy friend has arrived and is waiting?

The Worn Out Cars?

What shall we do with automobiles when they have reached the stage of second childhood? That is the question which is bothering many cities, according to the National Automobile Club.

A new departure among Kansas City automobile dealers calls for a $50,000 organization to take care of 12,000 decrepit cars in that city. This plan is being carefully watched by dealers in other large cities as a possible solution of the disposal problem.

Lubricate Engine At Regular Times

Don't wait until you hear a squeak before lubricating your engine. A squeak means a dry or dirty bearing and may come at a time when you are far from an oil supply, according to the National Automobile Club.

Change the oil at regular intervals of about 750 miles during the summer and keep an eye on the oil guage for possible failure in the lubricating system.

An Ounce of Prevention Worth a Pound of Cure

"An ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure."

Isabella Lopez of the Mother Barlow Preventorium at Burbank laughingly acclaims the old adage to be true.

A short time ago Isabella was an undernourished, pre-tubercular child with quickened breath and hectic flushes on her thin pale face. She was listless and did not care to run and play as did other children of her age.

"Dread tuberculosis will consume her unless something is done at once," physicians told her parents.

What to do was the question that puzzled them.

Then they were told of a warm garden where little children grew well and strong in the sunshine while nourishing milk and food were provided for them by the big-hearted people of Los Angeles.

So little Isabella came to the garden of Mother Barlow's Preventorium, which is supported by the Community Chest.

Here, where sunshine is plentiful in the fresh air, taking a rest, posture and correcting exercises are the dread germs have their fight.

Has the Community Chest helped you?

Carolina Man-Hunt Ends With Death of Hunted

(By: A. N. P.)

Morgantown, N. C., July 12.—The man-hunt, which has been in progress in and around these parts and participated in by thousands of white folks and a few colored folks, so they say, ended the Fourth of July when Broadus Miller, the hunted man, was surrounded and killed.

According to the first reports of the killing of the alleged slayer of a fifteen-year-old white girl, officers surrounded Miller and he gave battle and in the fight Miller was slain. A second report followed closely in the wake of the first to the affect that Commodore Burleson, a mountaineer, member of the posse, killed the fugitive. Any way, Miller is dead and the man-hunt is over.

This hunt has been going on for a period of two weeks and several "suspects" were arrested. Monday the posse came upon Miller in the mountains and a battle followed in which the fugitive was slain. This climax to the man-hunt gave rise to a real celebration of the Glorious Fourth here and when the body of the slain man was brought to town and placed on display at the County Jail, more than five thousand citizens gathered around to view the remains and to pay tribute to the mountaineer who had killed him.

Moscow And American Negroes

BY WILLIAM PICKENS

(For The Associated Negro Press)

There are very few Negro Communists in the United States; more than a tenth part of the American population are Negro people, but not even a twentieth part, perhaps not one fiftieth, of American Communists are Negroes. And yet, because some New York newspaper has just "discovered" the names and addresses of a few of these Colored Communists, there is a great alarm and cry of, "Help! murder! Congress must do something about it!"

The fact is: the newspapers have not "discovered" anything—except to these people who are very ignorant of colored people's affairs. It is well known that there are some Negro Communists, and the constant wonder is that there are not more, considering the status of colored Americans.

And it is also known that these Communists, like all other party politicians, have been doing, and will doubtless continue to do what they can to convert others to their way of thinking. But the outstanding fact is, what the papers do not seem to care to emphasize: That a much smaller proportion of Negroes than of whites have heeded the call of Communism, in spite of the relatively much more unfavorable situation of the Negro population.

It need not be forgotten that similar alarming misstatements were made concerning "German propaganda" among American Negroes during the world war.—In order to make this Russian menace sound still more alarming, one newspaper, speaking of Negro students that have gone to be educated in the "Eastern University" at Moscow, says: "From 50 to 100 of these instruments of propaganda have been shipped out of the United States," etc. But this is how to read that style of journalism: just take that minimum figure, 50, and take away the zero, and you have the correct number, 5. ONLY FIVE AMERICAN STUDENTS could, after a long campaign, be induced to take advantage of the Soviet government's world-wide offer for people to come and study under free scholarships in their university at Moscow,—but more than 1,200 other students of other colors accepted: white, yellow, eastern, and western,—American white people, English white people, German white people, French white people, and many peoples from Asia. Only ONE NEGRO FROM AFRICA accepted. One of the five American Negro students died, so that the remaining "peril" is: one African, four true American Negroes and one dead one.—What a menace this is to the government and people of these United States!

The Russian government asked for only 12 American Negro students at the time,—and all the hard efforts of American Communists could find only 5 that would accept.—And that is how "Three black crows", when traced to the source, becomes "something not quite as black as a crow".

Schifley Addresses Teachers At State College

Orangeburg, S. C., July 11.—(By the Associated Negro Press).—One of the interesting things closing the first week of the State College Summer School was an address by W. A. Schifley, State Superintendent, for Negro schools to more than three hundred teachers enrolled.

The State Superintendent was introduced by Professor Howard Greg, Director of the Summer School, who in presenting him told of the improvement South Carolina was beginning to make in Public School Education since Superintendent Schifley's entrance into office.

Superintendent Schifley in his address to the teachers emphasized the necessity of cooperation and hard work to bring the Negro School on a par with other schools, and also told of his efforts to see to it that not a county in the state be without a Rosenwald School within the next few years. He explained this could be done if the teachers would go back to their respective communities and have their pupils earn and give one dollar per pupil per year towards building improvements.

Another interesting bit of information brought out by Superintendent Schifley in directing questions to the teachers in the audience was that practically every county in the state had a representative attending the summer school here. This address by Superintendent Schifley is just one of the few that the Summer teachers are to hear from authorities in different fields of endeavor.

The Fifteenth Annual Session of the Knights and Daughters of Tabor convened in Los Angeles on the 12th, opening with a public reception Tuesday evening at the newly decorated Wiseman's Hall, at Washington and Central Ave. The Hon. S. A. Jordan, International Chief Grand Mentor of Little Rock, Ark., will be the honored guest during the session.

The Ladies of the Forget-Me-Not Club held their monthly meeting at the home of the president, Mrs. Edna McNeal on McKinley Ave.

HAPPENINGS IN THE EAST

Robbing Pullman Passengers.

A man booked as E. C. Berry and wife, Lillian, were arrested yesterday in Youngstown, Ohio Hotel on charges of robbing passengers aboard trains.

The arrest was made by Capt. A. B. Cox of the New York Police, connected with the New York Central Railroad. It is alleged that the couple while traveling from Buffalo to Youngstown in a Pullman, robbed other occupants of various sums that so far total $339.

At the request of H. W. Brockman, Cleveland, New York Central Police, the prisoners will be held for federal court. They will be turned over to deputy United States marshal, Charles W. Beck at Youngstown today and later be brought to Cleveland.

TWO TRAINMEN KILLED

Augusta, Ga., July 9.—A. W. Wingo, engineer and Luther Henry, Negro fireman, were killed almost instantly, when a Charleston and Western Carolina Frieight train bound for Spartanburgh, S. C., struck a washout about 18 miles from Augusta. A Brakeman was also seriously injured.

CRAZED NEGRO SPILLS BLOOD

In Miami, Fla., Policeman J. L. Moris, 26, was killed and six Negroes were wounded when Charles Lee, Negro, ran amuck with a shotgun in the Negro district. Lee previously had shot his wife, son and four other Negroes.

Morris, who leaves a widow, came to Miami from Tulsa, Okla.

casting of a program from a moving train, was being attempted on the Northbound Pioneer Limited of the Chicago and St. Paul railroad while speeding toward St. Paul.

The train, carrying a special Studio car which is completely equipped for broadcasting, started its program at about 7 P. M. central standard time. The mile a minute studio carried the designation station W-H-B-L with a wave length of 205 meters or 1470 kilocycles. The studio car, an all-steel baggage car, is also equipped with a cage atenna and a cage counterpoise on the outside. When the car is in motion, the cages are carried parallel with the roof of the car and have an eighteen inch clearance.

A preliminary test, recently conducted, demonstrated complete feasibility of broadcasting from the studio car, road officials said, with letters of acknowledgement received from far distant points.

Radio engineers are watching the experiment with interest. One of the most important results is the determination of the practicability of the general use of telephonic communication on a fast moving train.

CHICAGO HAS GASOLINE STRIKE

At the time the writer wrote this article, Chicago was in th smidst of a gasoline service station strike. All automobiles were tied up and traffic was at a standstill. 2,800 filling stations were shut down and 500 tank drivers were sitting idly by waiting for a demand of a $10 increase over the existing $140 a month minimum wage for filling station attendants, and a 15 dollar increase over the present $125 a month for tank drivers.

Officials of the oil companies accused the union of putting an abrupt stop to peaceful negotiations. Patrick Burnell, head of the local, blamed employers for failure to adjust the wage controversy.

The unexpected climax to several weeks of negotiations came when officials of the brotherhood of teamsters called out drivers and attendants of gasoline stations on a strike until their demands were met. A settlement finally was effected and disaster averted, when a compromise agreement in which the drivers will receive $25 per month thereafter. Hejetofore the maximum wages of attendants was $140 a month. What Los Angeles would do if their should happen a strike of this nature.

COMMENT

This news is being written from Hoover Camp, North Canton, Ohio. I suppose by the time my readers are glancing over these lines of the East the writer will be well on his way back to sunny California. The writer has tried to keep his column interesting even though he has been far away from affairs going on in the community of which he writes his regular weekly column or hoping that the happenings of the East will keep up that interest which has ever been manifested in the Railroad Clatter. He asks his readers to look for the first real news of Los Angeles in the next issue.

UNION PACIFIC GOSSIP

By: J. R.

Eventually the trial of Sheffield and Randolph will come to an end and these much talked of characters will have no doubt passed into oblivion and more attention will be turned to the coming events—Dempsey-Sharkey fight and other activities.

Aaron Tood, formerly of Diner No. 40.4 is swinging between Los Angeles and Chicago.

Kelly, Sctor and McGaston of the Golden Pheasant Cafe, Dallas, Texas, rs operating out of Omaha on Wild cars.

Jimmie Martin, formerl rof the Overland Limited, is now with Burlington out of Chicago.

Brace, (Sweet Cookie) Cook reports that he is on the road to success. He is on the payroll of the Pacific Coast Club.

Do you know that Fred, beter known in Railroad Circles as Tubby Lloyd, has severed his connection with the U. P. after four years continuous service to accept a position in Evansville, Illinois. The departure of this individual will be much of a loss to his associates and friends. The gossip extends its best wishes to him for success th his new undertaking.

Fair and Warmer

Wm. Lovan took a trip off to evade the warm weather in Chicago, in doing so, Clifton Johnson, swing man, was assigned to fill out Lovan's tenure of work as pantryman. Cliff's only answer was, "yes, yes" and those who know him well, know what that means.

N. C. Joiner and Clifton Johnson, constant readers of the Eagle voiced their opinion as to how well they liked it by subscribing for one year.

Randolph (Pee Wee) Stevens spent the week-end in Omaha and reports having had a wonderful time.

WM. ROBERSON MANAGING SENSATIONAL JUNIOR LIGHTWEIGHT

Sensational Junior Lightweight, Lightning Davis is now under the management of Wm. Roberson, well-known cafe proprietor and sportsman.

Lightning Davision has been in the camps with Baby Joe Gans for the past three weeks working himself in shape for a bout in the next three weeks. At present, he is working out daily at the Vernon Athletic Club.

Lightning Davis has fought some of the best boys when he was going good. He has been out of the game for the past two years. At Vernon where he is training daily, he look like a new junior lightweight champion.

The writer feels confident that the boys in the lightweight division will have to step lively to stay out his way. Davis holds decision over the following boys:

Jack White decision; Ted Lewis, K. O.; Scotty Deasel, decision; Joe Layman, draw; Jack Lewis, decision; Young Sam Langford, draw; Dummy Waller, decision; Bobby Pierce, decision; Young Epstein, decision; Jimmy Driggis, decision; Rattling Chico, decision.

Electric Rates Reduced

Effective August 1

TO ENCOURAGE an increased and more widespread use of electricity, especially in the home, the electric rates of Los Angeles Gas and Electric Corporation will be reduced, effective August 1, 1927.

Domestic Lighting and Appliance Service

The new low rates first call for a reduction in the base rate of from 5.5 cents to 5 cents per kilowatt-hour.

The following schedule is then provided for domestic lighting and appliance service in apartments and homes having not more than five lighting circuits—the average home:

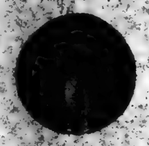
First 50 Kilowatt-hours per month ..... 5.0c per KWH
(and for 9 KWH per lighting circuit for each circuit in excess of five)

Next 125 Kilowatt-hours per month ..... 2.5c per KWH

For All in Excess per month 2.0c per KWH

Commercial Lighting Service

A new commercial lighting rate also will begin at 5 cents per kilowatt-hour for the first 250 KWH, with further reductions for larger use of current. The new schedules have been made with the idea of enabling consumers to put electricity economically to a wider range of uses than ever before.



These new low rates should effect a considerable saving to the great majority of our domestic and commercial consumers and allow an increased freedom in the use of time and labor saving devices in the home.

PREACHER HELD FOR SLAYING

BY C. A. B.

What promises to be one of the most sensational murder trials was launched in Judge Charles T. Cook's court at Long Beach, Calif., Tuesday afternoon, July 26 at 2 o'clock in which the People of the State of California is prosecuting the Rev. W. R. Hardy for the murder of one John Denkey.

The first witness called to the stand was Dr. Terry, the physician who examined and gave medical attention to Mr. Denkey a short while after he was shot three times on the evening of July 9th on California Street in Long Beach by the Rev. Hardy.

Dr. Terry was called to the stand by Prosecuting Attorney Fee, who testified that death, which occurred on July 14th, six days after the shooting, was the result of a gunshot wound in the stomach.

The second witness called by the prosecution was Warren A. Bliss of 2223 Myrtle Ave., Long Beach, who testified that he heard, but did not see the first shot fired, but appeared on the scene in time to see three of the four shots fired at the man who was on the run as the parson continued to shoot.

Mr. Bliss also testified that he heard Rev. Hardy say that he shot Denkey when he threatened to cut his guts out.

Q. Did you hear any quarrelling before the shooting occurred? Bliss was asked.

A. No! I first heard a shot when I was returning from the rear of the house where I had gone to get some of Mr. Denkey's things. I was in the act of hauling away.

Mr. Bliss testified that he saw the people gathering in front of the house and noticed the gun in Rev. Hardy's hand.

Q. "Did you see a knife in the hand of the deceased?"

A. "No!"

Q. "Did you hear him say anything?"

Q. "I heard someone say, 'I am going to cut some Nigger's throat,' but who it was, I don't know."

The next witness called was George Walker, who after being sworn testified that his name was George Walker, and that he lived in Long Beach. That on the afternoon or early evening of July 9th he heard a gun shot and rushed to an open window in the cafe just across the street from the scene of confusion, where he worked.

Q. "What did you first see?"

A. "I saw a man standing in front of Mrs. Robinson's home, and the Rev. Hardy with a gun in his hand that was belching shots at one John Denkey, who was running at a rather slow pace across the street."

Q. "Did you notice that any of the shots hit the fleeing man?"

A. "Yes. I saw him throw both hands on his back and I then noticed that he was bleding profusely."

Q. "Did the Rev. Hardy continue to shoot?"

A. "Yes."

Q. "Did the next shot take effect?"

A. "Yes, it hit Denkey in the shoulder."

Q. "What happened next?"

A. "By that time Mr. Denkey was in the middle of the street running towards me."

Q. "Then what happened?"

A. "I helped Mr. Denkey across to the sidewalk, and someone rang for the ambulance."

Q. "What did Rev. Hardy then do?"

A. "He walked towards his home with his son, who took the gun away from him."

Q. "Did you hear him say anything?"

A. "Yes. I heard him say that if there is anyone here who don't like it I will give them some."

This witness was then turned over to the counsel for the defense and was cross examined.

Q. "Were you a friend to the deceased?"

A. "I knew him, and, yes, looked upon him as a friend."

Just at this juncture there was a tilt between prosecutor Fee and the defense attorney, after which the defense continued to cross question the witness.

Q. "Did you see a knife in the hand of the deceased?"

A. "Yes."

Q. "What became of it?"

A. "I took it out of his hand and turned it over to the arresting officer."

The third witness called by the prosecution was Mrs. Alice M. Lacey, who testified that she was in her home next door to the Robinson home when the trouble started when she heard a noise which she took to be [illegible] from an automobile, but [illegible] she showed explosive [illegible] and saw Rev. Hardy [illegible] in his hand pursuing Mr. [illegible] across the [illegible] in the middle of the street running to the sidewalk, and someone rang for the ambulance.

A. "He walked towards his home with his son, who took the gun away from him."

Q. "Did you hear him say anything?"

A. "Yes. I heard him say that if there is anyone here who don't like it I will give them some."

It being 5 P. M. court adjourned to meet again Wednesday morning, July 27th at 10 o'clock.

WEDNESDAY MORNING SESSION

At 10:25 A. M. to a crowded court room of both black and white folk the bailiff cried: "Rise please, Judge Cook's Court in Dept. 2 is now open," whereupon Judge Cook took his place on the bench barely scanning his court room.

The case of People vs. Hardy was called. The defendant and all witnesses were present and the business of the day was started.

All witnesses were asked to leave the court rdom except Holland C. Mack, who was called to the stand.

Q. "Did you know John Denkey?"

A. "Yes."

Q. "Was he your friend?"

A. "We were room mates for three years."

Q. "Do you know the defendant over there?"

A. "Yes. I go to his church."

Q. "Why did you file the complaint in this case?"

A. "Because I was asked by the deceased before he passed to see that justice was done."

Q. "Have you spent any money on this case?"

A. "Yes. I assumed the burial expense."

Mr. Mack was then cross examined by the defense.

Q. "Would you like to see this defendant hanged for this crime?"

A. "I would like to see justice."

Q. "Have you hatred in your heart?"

To this question the prosecution objected and his objection was sustained by Judge Cook who pronounced it immaterial and out of order.

This ruling by the judge was bitterly attacked by the defense, and before the tilt between Court and defense attorney ended the latter was threatened with a Contempt of Court charge.

The witness, Mr. Mack was every inch a gentleman of culture and refinement and even when the defense attempted to confuse him in his cross questioning he remained calm, showing at all times control.

Q. "Are you American born?" shot the defense at Mr. Mack.

A. "No," the witness replied.

Q. "Where were you born?"

A. "In the British West Indies."

Q. "Is it not a fact that you and Mr. Denkey were children together?"

A. "No."

Q' "Where did Mr. Denkey come from?"

A. "I believe from a French Colony in the West Indies."

Q. "Why do you wish to see this Rev. punished?"

A. "Because I want the people to have justice in the courts."

Through Mr. Mack's testimony it was brought out that the fight which ended with the shooting affray was the result of a fuss which started some weeks before between Mr. Denkey and his landlady, Mrs. Robinson, in which the parson participated; and as a result of which Denkey was arrested on a charge of battery and lodged in jail.

Mr. Mack after testifying as to a conversation he had with Rev. Hardy just before the shooting in which he stated to Mr. Hardy that he had talked with Mr. Denkey and ascertained from him that he did not desire any trouble.

At this time court adjourned to open at 2 p. m. o'clock Wednesday afternoon at which time William R. Wills took the stand and testified that on the evening of July 9th, while dining in the Gilmore Cafe on California St. he heard a shot and rushed to an open window to see from whence it came, whereupon he saw Rev. Hardy with a gun in his hand in pursuit of John Denkey who was running.

Wills was cross questioned by the defense, and testified that he was an acquaintance of the deceased, but not a particular friend.

The next witness called was Mr. Emmit Jones, who gave his address as 3918 McKinley Ave., Los Angeles, Cal. and testified that he too was dining at Gilmore's Cafe at the time of the shooting affray.

Q. "Did you hear the shots?"

A. "Yes."

Q. "How many shots did you hear?"

A. "I think four."

Q. "As a matter of fact how many shots did you hear?"

A. "I don't know."

Q. "How far were you from the scene of the shooting?"

A. "I don't know, 'cause I did not have a tapeline with me."

"Another question," shot back the defense counsel, "I don't want to

Golden State and Progressive Mutual Consolidate

The officers of the Golden State Guarantee Fund Insurance Company and the officers of the Progressive Mutual Benefit Association set an example for racial co-opration, solidarity and progress when they reached an agreement whereby the business of the Progressive Mutual will be transferred to the Golden State.

In these days when we hear so much talk about racial co-operation it is fitting and proper to have our business men set the example as these men have done by combining their efforts and making a bigger and greater organization.

Many big mergers of financial institutions throughout the country have been effected this year. In the consolidation of the Golden State Guarantee Fund Insurance Company and the Progressive Mutual Benefit Association, the officers of these organizations prove that they are men who believe in progress.

According to statements issued by Mr. Geo. A. Beavers, Jr., Director of Agencies, as a result of the consolidation all members of the Progressive Mutual will have their policies replaced with the Liberal Golden State policies. Mr. Victor G. Jordan, formerly Field Manager for the Progressive Mutual, will continue to serve these policy holders for the present. He has been made Special Representative of the Golden State and is expected to have charge of one of the districts in the near future.

Mr. Elijah Cooper, formerly President of the Progressive Mutual, is now Chairman of the Divinity Board of the Golden State Guarantee Fund Insurance Co.

Prominent and Pioneer Physician Crosses Great Divide

After a brief illness Dr. J. S. Outlaw, age 44 years, passed away at his home, 230 West 30th St., on last Tuesday morning about 10:30 A. M.

The news of his death was a complete shock to his many friends and acquaintances. For more than a quarter of a century the doctor had been active in the practice of his profession in this city, maintaining offices in the Wilson Building and in later years in the Bryson Building.

The doctor was a graduate of Howard University and procured his A. B. from Lincoln and was a native of Washington, D. C. The direct cause of his death was an attack of pneumonia of less than a week's duration.

The body layed in state at the funeral home of Conner and Johnson for two days. Simple services were held at the Chapel of this institution Thursday at 2 P. M. when thousands of citizens attempted to gain entrance to pay their last respects.

Dr. W. T. Cleghorn officiated. Mrs. Aurelite Nelson sang two solos, with Miss Nilde McCullough accompanying her at the organ.

The body was borne to Evergreen Cemetery and there cremated, attending the widow of the deceased.

PASTOR R. N. HOLT SUCCEEDS HIMSELF

Can peace come out of confusion? This seemed to be the question at the close of a stormy session Wednesday evening at St. Paul Baptist Church. Bearing the outcome of its action presented to the congregation by the Deacon Board recommending the pastor's resignation. Such an action was prompted by many of its disgruntled members who have ceased to support the cause, which is responsible for the dilleums in the organization placing this cause at the door of their pastor which is often expected.

After much deliberation and contending that such action be taken by the Thirteen Brethren who had the courage to stand by this, their conviction, presenting such a recommendation. The vote was finally taken 61 to 12, 93 members being present. Among those representing the recommendation are the Pastor's strongest supporters. (And for the good of all concerned they did their duty.) The Pastor in commending both those who stood as men and women by their own conviction and declared that "we can and will respect ourselves as having come from a membership of 75 in the past 20 years to several hundreds." The above action has been settled definitely with many of the supposed members of the said action temporarily blotting their names what the last time.

The Pastor has labored with new conviction and promises [illegible] united in a spirit of fellowship and pledged to co-operate in a great Kingdom [illegible] Thus far, records show, [illegible]

PYTHIAN PROGRESS 1926-1927

A BRIEF REVIEW SHOWING THE OUTSTANDING ACHIEVEMENTS OF THE ORDER AND PROSPECTS FOR ADVANCEMENT, TAKEN FROM REPORT MADE BY GRAND CHANCELLOR JACOB SOARES.

Grand Lodge Session now Being Held in the Castle Hall of Echo Lodge No. 2, K. of P. of E. & W. H., July 25 to 27

The year of 1926-27 has so far in many respects been an eventful one in the annals of the Knights of Pythias. Students of fraternal conditions and especially those conversed in Pythian affairs believe that the order at present is stronger and that its outlook is brighter than at any other time in its history.

During the past year the gain has not come up to expectations numerically but advancement along other lines of activity promises a real growth in the immediate future while other achievements have undoubtedly layed the foundations for the fundamontal progress of the Order.

Perhaps the best survey of the record can be made by quoting from the statement of Supreme Chancellor W. Ashby Hawkins and Supreme Keeper of Records and Seals, Geo. E. Gordon —The Pythian banner of the E. & W. H. has been raised in many states against strong protest—notably in the following states, Louisiana, North and South Carolina, New Jersey, Illinois and Connecticut is still growing steadily."

The E. & W. Hemispheres withdrew from the South and North American, Europian, Asiatic and African Knights of Pythias in 1839 at the Supreme Session held in Baltimore, Md., because of infidelity shown by officers to members. It was not until after the Order came under the banner of K. of P. of E. & W. H. that we find the beginning of constitution and peaceful government.

In addition to the income of the order our headquarters building located in Boston, Mass., brings in an annual income of $5000.00. This building was purchased in 1922 for $250,000.00.

The coming 20th Bi-Annual Session of the Supreme Lodge which convenes in Boston, August 28th to 31st of this year, will mark our Fortieth Anniversary. As we pass another milestone it is well to look back along the road already traveled and review the outstanding events of our Order which will give us impetus and inspiration for the future.

It has built better communities and has given practical service. It has made intelligent and aggressive citizens. We all swear allegiance to the Flag and are determined to participate in every movement for the betterment of our City and State.

Members in the State of California are now entering on a constructive period for the order. More worth while Pythian work must be accomplished by every Lodge and Court in the State. Thus far, records show, Californian Lodges are surpassed by every lodge in the East. It is time for us to get busy and accomplish for ourselves and for the State of California.

For forty years our Order has been successful in fraternal work, having for its object the betterment of humanity and this work will not be complete until the banner of the Knights of Pythias of the Eastern and Western Hemisphere shall be hoisted in the heavenly breeze in every state of the Union.

Done this 25th day of July, 1927.

ELECTED GRAND PATRON O. E. S.

Rev. S. M. Beane the very popular pastor of Hamilton M. E. Church, this city and a member of Electa Chapter Order of the Eastern Star, was by a unanimous vote chosen by the District Grand Lodge of the O. E. S. in annual Grand Session assembled in the city of San Francisco last week, as the Grand Patron for this great organization.

Rev. Beane has demonstrated his worth in fraternal as well as religious circles as a man who stands for real and lasting progress and it is indeed reassuring when our orders see it to place persons of his type for leadership. We congratulate the Eastern Star as well as Rev. Beane for its elevation to this position.

REV. S. W. BEANE

Along, and simultaneously with the Odd Fellows, the sisters of the Grand Household of Ruth will also meet and likewise legislate for their department of the Order.

Isiah Robinson of this city is the executive head of the Order, while Mrs. Selbe of Stockton, California, is the head of the Grand Household of Ruth.

A great session is promised and real constructive work accomplished for the future of the Order is fondly hoped for.

What Is Your Hobby?

Everybody has his hobby which takes him away from daily routine and makes life more [illegible] What hobby horse do you [illegible] haps it is music which [illegible] inspires one. If so, Pratt's "New Cyclopedia of Music and Musicians" can solve many questions for you, and you might also be interested in reading robert Schauffler's "Musical Amateur." "Radio news" one of the popular radio periodicals, would interest you, if Radio happened to be your hobby. If drama holds your interest you can't afford to miss reading a drama of such exquisite beauty and grace as Edna St. Vincent Millay's "King's Henchman."

In these days of sunny weather and gentle breezes the mountains and beaches are beckoning to everyone. If your hobby is hiking, how much more you'd enjoy the hikes, if you had the May number of the National Geographic with its two hundred colored plates to help identify the gay variety of wild flowers along the way. Or, if that ocean waves seem more restful, the Atlantic Supplement of "Ainslee" will help you to identify those shells you carried home from the beach because you thought that they were pretty or unusual. Anywhere in California the scenery appeals, and so you hope you're a member of the camera fraternity—who, if so, Johnson's "Photography with my Camera," or Collier "The Amateur Photographer's Handbook" might give you new interest.

Klan Drives Man Crazy

(By: A. N. P.)

Sea Bright, N. J., July 25.—City officials arranged last Monday for the deportation of Jacob Hall, a colored employee at one of the local resort hotels here, to his relatives in Smithfield, Va. Hall became violently insane, it is said, because of threats made by members of the Ku Klux Klan. He left Smithfield several months ago after some trouble there, and the Klan at that place is said to have communicated with the one at Sea Bright. Hall ran amuck and had to be strapped to his bed.

Woman's Screams Frighten Mob

(By: A. N. P.)

Columbus, Miss., July 25.—Screams of the Lowndes County Jail's housekeeper frightened away 3 men who had held up the prison keeper, and demanded that he turn over to them Walter Burley, confessed slayer of Mrs. O. S. Rees, and her sister-in-law, in Jackson, Miss., in May, and who is under death sentence after his recent conviction.

The three men, according to the jailer and his housekeeper, drove up in three cars. The number of men who waited in the cars outside, could not be determined. No clue had been established as to the identity of the jail raiders, but should it reoccur, the officers on duty there have received order to "meet them with gun fire."

Sheriff Z. P. Goodby, declared that every prisoner in the jail was there by due process of law, "and I am going to protect them in accordance with my oath of office. Deputies on guard at the jail are heavily armed and have been ordered to shoot in order to protect prisoners and uphold the majesty of the law." It was denied by county officials today that Burley was in jail here. He is under sentence to be hanged at Jackson.

"THE NEGRO IN AMERICAN LIFE"

BY: JEROME DOWD

The problem of the Negro in America is outstandingly the most vital problem we must face as a nation. It is not merely the problem of the South, but of the North; not merely the problem of the cotton fields, but of the great industrial centers; not merely the problem of the white man, but of the Negro himself.

The Negro is here, twelve millions of him. He came a captured slave, torn from his age-long habitat by a volition other than his own. Yet now no volition can move him back again. His blood, it has been openly declared in the Legislatures of Virginia and North Carolina, is mingled with some of the proudest aristocracy of the nation. His roots are interlocked with the roots of the conquering race.

What is the future of the Negro? Segregation? Or emigration? Or a gradual infusion of his racial stock into the composite American race of the future?

Professor Dowd's book, "The Negro in American Life," constitutes a unique historical and sociological study of the African race in America, with a survey of the race's past and an indication of its future.

Introducing his history with a resume of the Negro in Africa, he then surveys the condition of the race in America, both the North and South, at the outbreak of the Civil War. He projects and analyzes in detail the development of the Negro's social and economic position, the Negro's martial record, his opposition in literature and art, and his migrations. The chapter on proposed solutions of the Negro problem, together with Dr. Dowd's estimate of the Negro's future, are remarkable alike for their clarity of vision, their wisdom, and the dispassion with which they have been written.

It is interesting, it is informing, it is stimulating! It is an admirable record of the Negro which every thinking person should read.

This book may be reserved at the Jefferson Branch Library, 2211 West Jegerson St. Hours: 9 A. M. to 9 P. M.

Mexican Commits Assault

M. Torres was caught before he was able to escape by officers Bradbury and Cusly of Newton Street, in a vacant lot near Long Beach Avenue where he had lured little Ocho Macho, 4 years old. Hidden by the high weeds he was assaulting the boy child when linemen at the top of telegraph poles saw him from the high elevation and phoned from the poles to the Newton Street station. The officers caught him red handed and he will probably receive the highest penalty under sec. 290 which provides a long prison term for such crimes.

The beaches are crowded with folks looking for relief from the heat or a chance to show off a neat looking bathing-suit. At Santa Monica, human beings of "color" are given beach space that looks about an inch square. But we suppose they like it—or they have to. Eva Overr Solomon Addresses Large Gathering Sunday

The annual outdoor meeting of the B. Y. P. U's. of Riverside, Redlands and San Bernardino was held last Sunday afternoon in Meadowbrook Park where more than 300 persons listened to an enthusiastic address delivered by Eva Overr-Solomon, Director of Religious Education of the Western Baptist Association, whose subject was: "I said, I will take heed to my ways."

Preceeding the address a spirited song service was the source of much enjoyment led by Torrence Mercer participated in by all the spectators.

Mrs. H. G. Freeman of the Second Baptist Church of Redlands was responsible for this occasion which was carried out in great shape.

An interesting feature of this meeting was the presence of a young Christian Mexican woman who expressed her desire to be of some held in the meeting and she sang a wonderful solo, also read a passage of scripture for the instruction of many of her group who were present, which was in turn interpreted by Mrs. Elizabeth Gray.

Following the address invitations were extended the visiting pastors to say a few words whereupon Revs. F. W. Cooper, Moderator of the Tri-County Convention, I. N. Whitten, pastor of the New Hope Church, San Bernardino and the pastor of the Methodist Church responded very readily in glowing terms of the success and intent of the meeting. Mrs. M. Alyse, president of Women's Convention, spoke most encouragingly of the work she hoped to accomplish through this effort.

So well pleased were the hearers with the outcome that a motion prevailed that this be a monthly affair so long as the weather was permissable. After the meeting was dismissed the committee in charge served refreshments to all which was very much enjoyed. The notice of the date of the next meeting will be given publicity by Mrs. Freeman, President of Tri-County B. Y. P. U. when she hopes to have out a larger crowd.

CHRISMAN SISTERS ENTERTAIN FOUR HUNDRED

In the beautifully remodeled Hall of the Shrine of the Wise Men of the East, Cor. of Washington Blvd. and Central Ave., in a gorgeous garden setting of La France roses, gladiolas and golden dahlias made beautiful by the art of Ralphe W. Porter, florist, Miss E. Gertrude Chrisman, popular school teacher and her sister, Mrs. Ralphe Porter, on last Saturday evening received about four hundred friends in honor of their cousin, Miss Alta Milton, a charming debutante and teacher of Washington, D. C. and other visitors including Major and Mrs. Loving and their friends, Mr. and Mrs. Rogers who are in the motor party with them from Oakland; Miss Woodall of Sulphur Springs, Texas; Miss Anita Thompson of Baltimore and Miss Maymie Francis of New York. Other distinguished guests present were Professor and Mrs. J. H. Morris of San Antonio, Texas; Dr. and Mrs. Mott-Smith and Miss Mills of Hollywood. Mrs. Mott-Smith is the president of the Los Angeles division of the Woman's International League for Peace and Freedom in which organization Miss Mills also holds a high office and is also connected with the Fellowship of Reconciliation an organization which has for its underlying principle the creation of a better understanding and a stronger fellowship among the peoples of the various racial groups of the world. Miss Chrisman is chairman of the membership committee for our group in these organizations.

Despite the fact that the invitations stipulated "informal" every lady was a dream of loveliness either in a dainty, cool party frock or a more elaborate evening gown. Among the most handsome of these were the gowns worn by the hostesses, Mrs. Ralphe Porter's being a maize colored, heavily beaded georgette and her sister, Miss Chrisman's a lovely decollette, beaded orchid georgette over shell pink satin.

The sisters were assisted by Mrs. Frank Pearl, charming in a fluffy creation of coral chiffon with silver slippers, Mrs. Walter Webster in beaded gown of yellow georgette, pearls and diamonds, Mrs. Angelita Nelson in a dainty pink chiffon dancing frock and by Mrs. Pearl Woodall Smith in a beautiful white georgette evening gown. Miss Marion Carter's slender beauty was enhanced by a rose colored gown adorned with irridescent sequins. Mrs. Charles Conner was stunning in a white georgette evening gown heavily beaded with seed pearls and brilliants. Miss Milton wore a rose colored, hand painted taffeta en bouffant style, Miss Maymie Francis' dancng frock was of exquisite imported ecru lace while Miss Anita Thompson was lovely in a costume of gold lace and black satin, Mrs. Loving's gown was a handsome wine colored satin with imported black lace overdress.

A delicate courtesy to the ladies in the receiving line and those assisting was a lovely rose corsage from the hostesses.

Motor Party Arrives Late

A jolly group of friends consisting of Mr. and Mrs. Leon Marsh and Miss Thelma Brooks of Oakland and Mrs. Holland of Sacramento and others broke all speed records in a vain effort to reach the Chrisman sisters' dancing party last Saturday evening. They arrived just before Gene Wright's excellent orchestra struck up the farewell number and were in time to greet a number of their friends and join one of the numerous parties enjoyed after the dance.

THE SLOW CLUB

Members of the Slow Club of Los Angeles and friends enjoyed their first social Wednesday evening, July 27th at the home of the president, 1333 E. 33rd street at 8 o'clock.

Tables were arranged for eight guests. Refreshments were served and the program furnished by members of the club which included fancy dancing, songs and progressive whist; dancing completed the diversion of the evening. The next meeting of the Slow Club will be strictly business.

CARE OF THE TEETH

BY DR. J. WINIFORD ROUT

THE TEETH AS FOCI OF INFECTION

Focal infection may be regarded as both one of the latest and one of the oldest conceptions in medicine. For many years physicians have considered the probability, if not the certainty, of systematic disorders having their origin in some localised spot within the patient's own body.

Within recent years it has been proved conclusively that colonies of bacteria lodge in localized areas of the body where they multiply and incubate, throwing their poisonous products into the blood stream, thus producing various acute and chronic systematic diseases.

Any part or organ of the body where germs and their products accumulate, such as the mouth, the nose, the sinuses, the teeth, the gums, tonsils, etc., may become a focus of infection, pouring their poisons into the system.

Diseased tonsils and decayed or abused teeth may be regarded as typical, classical examples of focal infections. The tonsils especially seem to have been the earliest and the most generally recognized portals of entry for a systematic infection and there can be no doubt that it was the oft-noted coincidence between diseased tonsils and such diseases as rheumatism, arthritis, heart-disease, etc., which led to investigation of their probable connection and the establishment of the doctrine of the focal infection.

The number and variety of disorders capable of being produced thru absorption of dental infection, very greatly exceed, according to all reports, those for which the tonsils are responsible. Of course, some discount must doubtless be made for the recency of the consideration of dental focal infection, but even with this allowance it seems already certain that diseased teeth are responsible for a fairly long catalogue of disease including different forms of heart-disease, nephritis, arthritis, rheumatism, gall-bladder infections and even diseases of the urinary tract.

The Forum's President

It is perhaps interesting to have at hand the close-up on many of our progressive and forward looking citizens and no one is perhaps more in the public eye than the dynamic and philosophic president of the Los Angeles Forum in the person of W. H. Duncan, who is now serving his second term in that position.

Mr. Duncan is a product of bleeding Kansas, spent years in Colorado and has left his "foot prints upon the sands of time" in every place in which he has lived as a man who stands for the highest ideals of citizenship and for the advancement of his race. During his residence in Colorado, Mr. Duncan for several years served faithfully and well as president of the Western Negro Press Association at which period he was actively connected with the newspaper business at Colorado Springs, Colo. He has at all times been known as a man with real honest convictions and with the courage to maintain the same.

Therefore when he came to California it was but in his element to line up with those who are striving to do things and in this situation he attracted the members of the Forum who elected him as president and re-elected him only recently to succeed himself.

His regime has thus far been marked with a deal of success, with the president ever striving to bring about a concentration of effort and the organization well on the highway of progress. One thing certain and sure, his course is marked with positiveness, justice and fair play to all.

Mr. Duncan and his better half are indeed worthy citizens and their interesting family has added much to the community and it is with a deal of pleasure that we write these lines in appreciation of his integrity and worth.

Mrs. J. H. Caulesberry motored to Riverside Wednesday to meet her husband, Lieutenant J. H. Caulesberry of the Uniform Rank, K. P. who are in session with the Grand Lodge there. Mr. and Mrs. Caulesberry are owners of the Colorado Electric Company, at 834 Central Avenue, Los Angeles. Accompanying Mrs. Caulesberry was Mr. J. A. Foster, also connected with the firm.

PAN-AFRICA

BY WILLIAM PICKENS
(For the Associated Negro Press)

A white friend who holds office under one of the Cabinet departments of our government, writes me:

"In thinking over 'Pan-Africa'—I have come more and more to the same conclusions as I tentatively reached the other evening; namely: that there is only one basis for it: that of common oppression; and that, since oppression is a world-wide phenomenon, there is no logical reason for limiting this union of the oppressed to Negroes.—"

This is ideally true, and would be practically true if there were no such thing as color psychology in the white world. But, as it is, the Negroes will have to get together themselves before they can be got together with others of their economic and societal class. That is the burden of "race" and "color."

It is true that the fundamental problem is economic and social; and it is true that economic law has no regard for color. But it is not also true that human beings, with minds warped and twisted by prejudices and superstitions, have no reaction to color. "Race" and "color" become cross-currents in the economic stream. A color arrangement is an evil, a necessary evil, but, we hope, a temporary evil also. Nevertheless it is a real evil. It is not an ideal arrangement to organize a "Negro" social agency, a "Negro" drug store, a "Negro" insurance company, or to be compelled to organize a "Negro" family. But these are merely the modus vivendi,—what the traffic will bear.

A national association for the advancement of "colored people" is not more logical than a world conference if he would give us any information of all Africans,—but it is a necessity born of the circumstances. Oppressed white and oppressed black in America have one cause; but they will not get together in that cause at first, not now, and not for some time. They may the sooner find themselves together by pursuing the same cause in their several ways; in short, they will discover that they cannot pursue their cause to its ultimate success unless they get together. But it would be fatal to wait until they learned "that lesson before we encouraged them to start anything.

There is the same need of organizing the psychological (not biological) group known as "African" in the world that there is for organizing the "colored people" of America.

But my friend is right: for that is not the end; not complete, not real success.

"Pan-Africa" must lead toward co-operation of those of like estate.

War Declared on Lower California Land & Development Company

Last week we gave you a short article on our recent trip to Lower California; this week we will continue our story of our trip by telling you some of the positive facts relative to the Lower California Mexican Land and Development Company that we gained on this eventful trip. We wish to quote a pertinent question followed by a scathing rebuke that appeared in last week's article as follows: "Can you see why the possibilities of losing this foothold in Lower California stirs our blood and drives us forth to battle for our rights and the preservation of our dreams?" Through foolish, inefficient manipulations of our attorney who either did not know what he was doing or purposely chose to misrepresent, we as a company of men have contributed thousands of dollars for the purchase of a property over which we have no right or title." The question of title of these properties is the one big question with us and should be with every stockholder in this proposition. We first visited the attorney at Via Juana who served as the attorney of the parties of whom the ranch was purchased by our group. First to give you an idea of this lawyer's knowledge of our affairs, we would state that he acted continuously in the capacity of attorney for the previous owners of this ranch from the time it was first purchased by our group in 1919, until the final payments in 1924 or 25. Often during this space of time he also served our company in various matters as related to the Mexican Government. We asked him as to the holdings of the Lower California Mexican Land and Development Company. He stated that he knew nothing about what they owned in California, U. S. A., but that they owned nothing in Mexico as far as records show.

He further stated that he could not say as to whether the Co's. stock selling campaign was legal or illegal, but that it was absolutely irregular. After we had finished our interview with this gentleman, we proceeded on our journey to Ensenada, Lower California Mexico, where we met Mr. Ricardo Romero, our trustee, a Mexican Citizen and gentleman that would please any honest man he met.

Senor Romero for several years has served his own people of his district by representing them in Congress at Mexico City. A young man with an almost "boyish" expression on his face, affable, courteous with the stamp of honor on his countenance and honesty beaming from his eyes, Mr. Romero represents the highest type of citizenship. We only regret that our space is too limited to tell you more of him. When we approached Mr. Romero on the question of the Land and Development Company, he frankly told us that he had already been informed that some trouble was brewing in our company and that his job was that of trustee alone for the eight men who had signed with him as sole owners and buyers of the Santa Clara Ranch, and that he knew nothing of the company that was selling stock and from a legal point had no reason to recognize the said corporation. He stated that he did not wish to enter into a clique of private arrangement with anyone or more the trustees, but that he was ready at all times to do and give his very best for the entire eight men who were the original purchasers of the property. He said that his only interest in the persons who had bought stock in the Lower California Mexican Land Co. would be to tell them the truth concerning what they really owned in Lower California. He further stated that he would furnish a signed affidavit to the effect to anyone that requested it of him that the California Corporation does not own a square foot of ground in the Santa Clara Ranch in Mexico.

Now, what does all this mean? It simply means this, that Hugh E. Macbeth as attorney and general advisor has put upon the people of Southern California and many other sections of the United States one of the most colossal fakes that was ever perpetrated in the history of California.

Possibly it would be well to modify the above statement by saying, if this is not the case then our worthy attorney can proudly boast of being the biggest man with the smallest brain that ever stepped out of Harvard University.

We are asking the stockholders to immediately get in touch with us this week. We are going to find a reason for this kind of stuff and now it exists. Look in the telephone book for our telephone numbers. Next week we will tell you how our president of the company stands on this proposition.

Wilkins' 14th Annual Pupil Recital A Big Success

The 14th Annual Recital of the Wilkins' Piano Academy was an overwhelming success in every way. All the pupils played with brilliancy and actistic interpretation and finish.

At 7:45 the entrance to the spacious auditorium of the St. Paul Baptist Church, Cor. 21st and Naomi, was crowded and congested with those anxious to gain admission and get a good seat. At 9 P. M. the heavy doors of the annex and Sunday School department had to be opened to accommodate the crowd. Although the evening was unusually warm, and the program lasted until 11:30, that big audience remained, applauded, encored and even sent up written request for more. There was such a profusion of flowers and so many beautiful bouquets and such large baskets that many had to be carried in special automobiles. We are told that Myldred Sennett, a student teacher of the school, who played Kowalskis' big Salut A Peet with such fire, received more than half a dozen very large baskets of flowers.

Although every little kiddie, and grown up did credit to himself, his teacher, and to his School, there are many that deserve special mention: Baby Amelia Hester, pupil of Myrner Shivers, played Beethoven's Fur Elise like a pianist many years her senior; Baby Lucile Marie Johnson, pupil of her mother, Mrs. Alma Johnson, wife of Prof. Thomas Johnson, baritone, of Angelus Temple played well and was so cute and stylish; little Vivian Mitchell, son of Rev. F. M. Mitchell and pupil of Mr. Wilkins received a big hand; so did Arnelta Webb, Robert Green, little Herman Owens, little Lorenza Holloway, Jenne Walker and Genevieve Barnes, all of Wilkins pupils.

Mrs. Helen Powell, pupil of Fraulein Wilkins, Frances Curry, pupil of Lucille Banton Blayechettai, Mrs. Grace Gray, pupil of Gilbert Allen, did commendable work. Mr. H. Thomas White played Chopin's Military Polonaise very well with a bandaged and crippled finger.

The young men's band under Prof. T. R. LeBlanc's direction played two numbers very creditably. Fraulein Wilkins' vocial solo accompanied by Samuel Brown was well received and she had to respond to an encore, also did Gilbert Allen with his Cornet Solo, Lucille Blayechettai accompanying him.

The exceptions on the program were Baby Lillian Radel, who played the Rhapsody by Koelling with only 6 month's study, pupil of Myldred Sennett, Charlotte Shimidzu, Japanese pupil of Mr. Wilkins with Mendelssohns Scherzo in E Minor and T. Eugene Estes who has studied only one year and nine months with Mr. Wilkins played Liszts D Flat Major Etude beautifully.

Little Iona Logan received an ovation and had to respond to an encore. She has beautiful style and phrasing.

The crowning feature of the evening was Gilbert Allen's rendition of Verdi's Rigioletto, Liszts arrangement. He rendered this difficult composition very brilliantly and we have never heard it rendered more dramatically by student, teacher or Artist.

Mr. Wilkins has lots to be proud of with his many pupils and student teachers, and we all have very much to be proud of to have a student teacher of Prof. Wilkins who is doing such wonderful work musically among our people.

Trousers Lead to Arrest

(By: A. N. P.)

New Orleans, La., July 26.—Because he was wearing a pair of "checkboard" trousers, which belonged to John Burden, a roomer next door, Isaiah Lodge, was arrested and charged with petty larceny. The trousers, which belonged to Burden were taken off Lodge and held as evidence, while in the meantime the accused is sitting in the jail in an undershirt and a towel around him, and Burden, more lucky, is lying abed awaiting the outcome of the trial.

Red Caps Refuse to Give Blood to Buddy

(By: A. N. P.)

Boston, Mass., July 27.—Ollie Clark, red cap for the Boston and Albany Railroad at Trinity Place, lost his leg when he slipped and fell from the North Shore Limited Train Thursday morning. He was taken to the Massachusetts General Hospital where his mangled foot caused his whole left leg to be amputated.

At the hospital doctors asked that some fellow red cap give a pint of blood to save Clark's life. No red cap responded.

Dime Causes Shooting

(By: A. N. P.)

New Orleans, La., July 25.—Edward Angus Williams, 17 years old, weighed his own safety against the retention of a dime in his pocket. He chose to keep the dime, and got a bullet in his left kneecap. Edward Angus owed the 10 cents to Sam Laggan 23 years old. At least Sam contended such. He met Edward near his home, 6th Thomas and St. Mary Streets and "dunned" the latter for the money. Edward emphatically replied in the negative, whereupon Laggan is said by police to have drawn a pistol and fired one shot. Laggan was arrested and Williams was taken to Charity hospital where an operation was performed to remove the bullet.

SHEFFIELD FREE

Macco B. Sheffield was set free after the jury, which had been deadlocked for 24 hours, returned a verdict of acquittal at 12 P. M. Saturday, July 23rd.

Sheffield was tried for murder of Sam Faulkner at 1258½ E. 41st St., Sunday, April 24, 1927, during a raid.

The trial lasted for three weeks and every day the courtroom was packed to its capacity with crowds in the corridors.

The jury consisted of 8 women and 4 men and it was understood that the jury gave the acquittal on the doctrine of "reasonable doubt."

Sheffield is again on the police force.

BROWN AND BEWLEY CASE SET FOR AUGUST 10

Brown and Bewley, former police officers and two main prosecution witnesses in the Sheffield case, have entered pleas of guilty and will have the hear on their probation application August 10th.

These two men perjured themselves before the Grand Jury in connection with the Sam Faulkner murder but told the "truth" at the trial of Sheffield.

LABOR PROBLEMS AND THE NEGRO

From Address by WILLIAM PICKENS, Before the Intercollegiate Association of New York, in Summer Session at Potter, N. J., July 24th, 1927

"There is no 'Negro Labor' and no 'White Labor.' There is just, —LABOR, and there are white and black people among the laborers. There is a greater proportion of the black than of the white population in the laboring rank; and therefore anything that is important for laborers, is still more important for the colored laborers.

"Co-operation, unionizing, the employment of organized power, is very important for laborers. The relation of wages to the cost of living is very important for laborers. The legal rights of labor organizations: the rights of group bargaining for wages, the right or impartial treatment by the officers of the law in cases involving disputes between laborers and their employers,—these rights are vital to the interests of laborers, white, black, or other colors.

"Employers do not buy or expicit color; they trade in labor. The handicap of color, like the handicaps of age, or sex, or ignorance, may give a selfish employer an extra advantage in robbing the laborer. But that would only mean that the Negro laborer will be more taken advantage of, and should, therefore, be more interested in the defense of labor.

"That means, logically, that there should be no Negro labor unions or white labor unions, but only labor unions, for laborers. A division in the ranks of laborers along the racial line is just as weakening as a division along any other lines whatsoever. When white workers force colored workers into separate unions by race prejudice or into the open shop by discrimination, these white workers are acting directly against the interests of themselves and of all other laborers.

"The Negro is not naturally an open-shop worker or strike-breaker. He is just as willing as any other race on earth to get more wages and do less work. He is the same sort of animal as the rest of mankind."

Mrs. Ben. H. Graham and little daughter Bennell are spending the week at the La Bonita Hotel at Santa Monica Beach. They have as their guests, Mrs. Hattie Hampton and her two children, Theodocia and Morris. Mrs. Graham is the wife of the famous Woodmen Supervisor and is a teacher in the Los Angeles city schools.

GLASCO GIVENS CONVICTED OF PLANTING NARCOTICS—SHEFFIELD CASE

A reverberating echo of the famous Sheffield case was the conviction by a jury in Judge Elliott Craig's court of Glasco Givens who was charged with a felony when seeking to plant dope on the premises of Mrs. Clara Harris to help out the defense in the Sheffield murder case. The jury was out but a short time and brought in a verdict of guilty, and Givens faces a long term in San Quentin for the part he played in the premises of this notorious case.

WOMEN'S FEDERATION

We cannot fail to take due cognizance of the gathering from all parts of the state of our noble women who are laboring and striving to do the things which stand for the highest ideals of citizenship.

The Colored Women's Federation of Clubs in Annual Session in this city have for more than a decade, by practical demonstration, qualified for that leadership which stands for the very best way and manner for our future advancement. We congratulate the Federation upon its mission of good will and to lift others as they climb.

THE SHEFFIELD CASE

Ordinarily when one is tried by a jury of their peers and a case has been fairly presented, we are content to let it go at that, whatever the verdict may be. Insofar as the defendant is concerned in this instance, we have no regrets and can but congratulate him on winning his freedom and restoration on the force.

The whole fabric of the system of trial juries and cases where the parties all happen to be members of the colored race, we cannot fail to denounce. Just where a jury of eight women and four men could make out a verdict of justification on the evidence presented in this case is not only an enigma to us but is such to 90 per cent of our entire population.

It just appears to be a matter when a crime is committed and those directly involved are of a particular race, the jury fails to get serious and even allows justice to be dethroned to hurry up their own convenience.

A MAN'S COLLAR

Speaking of fashions for men, none change oftener than collars. Like feminine skirts, they're up one season and down the next. Modes in collars range from soft to starched, low to high, long pointed to pointless, and from the swagger attached collar to the ultra-formal picadilly. It is doubtful if some haberdashers have as many regular customers as they have different collar styles in their show cases.

There has long been a suspicion among collared men that every new name appearing in the realm of collars does not introduce a new shape. Men who have attempted to re-stock their collar boxes by name will attest to the charge that the collar manufacturers, in the interests of better business, change the names of a few styles when they run out of new shapes and fabrics.

It used to be a puzzle to the human race how the official pullman car namer thought up a new and fancy name for each pullman or parlor car produced. A greater enigma is this prolific source of names for collars.

A collar by any other name looks just the same and the women-folks, who can match ribbon by memory, may think man's complaint against this practice of re-christening collars is perfectly absurd, awfully silly and all that, but the fact remains that a man can wear the same style collar for twenty years and yet be unable to distinguish that style in a show case displaying twenty or more others.

Aristocratic and artistic names may have their uses for manufacturers of furniture, cabinets, railroad cars, automobile models, cosmetics and young men's suits. At least the high-sounding name is less of a nuisance thus used than when applied to such commonplace as men's collars. If it is the design of the manufacturers to puzzle the retail trade, why haven't they adopted some of the 7500 Chinese characters?

THE VACATION DELUSION

Another popular theory has been exposed as a delusion. A French writer vehemently refutes the common supposition that the way to get rest is to do something else, to spend a day or a week doing anything that one does not do the rest of the year. This, he says, is only "getting tired another way".

Instead of a theatre or dance after a day of toil, this investigator into the causes and remedies for fatigue recommends repose, sleep, solitude, quiet and inertia. The rest cure he advocates for the tired business man is not golf, motoring, a sea voyage or two weeks at a shore resort. For such, if they really desire rest and recuperation and not merely a vacation, he prescribes a retreat far from the crowd, devoid of activity, the society of others and other disturbing influences.

Of course he is right. And the truth of the matter is that his theory has always been put to practical use. People who go away to rest don't delude themselves into thinking they obtain that needed reconstruction of mind and body by participating in sports and mingling with the mob. They seek out some quiet nook and strive with as little effort as possible to see, hear, speak and do as little as possible.

No time is more propitious than the present for removing some misunderstanding of that great American institution, the vacation. Though it detroy the institution itself, the pronunciamento is here issued that the vacation is no longer used as a rest cure and is not necessary as such to the average worker. If there was ever a time when people went on vacations to rest after their labors, they now return from their vacations to rest after their labors.

COMMENTS

W. J. WHEATON

Then came the disillusion. On his way home he was denied the accommodation authorized by his government and, literally, was kicked from his car, his uniform was derided and he was given a stated time to "get out of it." Nothing at all daunted, he went home to pick up the threads of an existence but the exposure of his war time experience had undermined his health and he became tubercular. Not long ago the mighty Mississippi became a ranging torrent. Thousands were made homeless and suffering was rife. Among those who sought refuge on the levee was our soldier boy. Emaciated; near death. An armed guard ordered him to help fill a breach in the levee. He worked at the crevasse until nature was exhausted. He died. Did they dig a hole for him on the levee, or did the swirling waters of the river receive it? We do not know, that was in Louisiana.

Now, it's a question. Is Josephine Baker really married to a count, or is it all an advertising stunt? Rogers, writing over from Paris says it's the latter. They have searched all of the places which are authorized to perform such ceremony and no record can be found where Josephine Baker and the "titled" Italian have boarded the matrimonial ship. If it is not true that she is the Countess De Abatino there will be a many sigh of relief go up from our Nordic "friends." It will not enhance the popularity of the very beautiful dancing star to have it told on the thoroughfares of the world that as the French would say, Mme. Josephine Baker has only made a "white marriage."

We have not been able to verify the rumors affecting the San Francisco political situation. It is rumored that the political impresario, Sheriff Tom Finn has groomed the present Postmaster, James Powers, for the mayoralty handicap. There is something doing when such astute political managers as McCabe, Finn, Graney, et al consolidate as is the case by the amalgamation of the two committees, city and county.

Down Los Angeles way the Mayor, Cryer, has got himself in "Dutch" by his insistence on the making of several appointments which are "Persona Non Grata" to the City Council as well as the citizens. They are even figuring on a recall. Representative, the Hon. Frederick Roberts is making a survey of the several school text books which come off the press this year, especially the histories. There has been considerable talk, even among educators, as to their pro-British proclivities and the glossing over or ignoring entirely of other historical epochs.

It seems as if the Grand Lodge of the I. B. P. O. E. of W. will meet in New York or New Jersey. It is stipulated that the sessions of the Order be held in Newark, N. J. and the social entertainment in New York. Can you beat it? Wilson is reported as saying that, "the reason he did not want New York was, New York would support Dalmus Steele for G. E. R. As I have before said in this column Finley Wilson would move heaven and earth to retain his hold on the Order through 1928. There is nothing he would not do; nothing he would not condone to accomplish the selfish motive in view. Why the great activity of Perry Howard and Arthur Froe? the former assistant in the office of the U. S. Attorney General, the latter Recorder of Deeds for D. C. It is obvious to the veriest tyro in the game of politics. In 1928 there is a general election. Of course Howard is the Grand Legal Advisor. Froe is not. Why the Grand Lodge platform will this year look like a "Kitchen" Cabinet. All of the "Political Leaders" will be up there. Talk about buying Negro delegates in the Republican National Convention: it's nothing to the tactics employed by the "Gang" to influence votes in the Grand Sessions of the I. B. P. O. E. of W. Read the minutes of the last Grand Session in Cleveland! Look at the Committees! 25, 35, 45 and up. Look at the Assistant Grand "this and that," all were drawing from the Fraternal Treasury $7.50 per day. Half of them did not even know what Committee they were serving on. From 3 to 5 men did all of the work. They have a Law, it's Les Majeste to criticize the heads of the Order. They are Sacrosaut; they have hedged themselves about with Divine rights, but it is time that the men who are delegated by their Lodges to WAKE UP! Let's put an end to this foraging of moneys paid into the exchequer of the Grand Lodge by the subordinate lodges. We want to see the moneys so contributed wisely expended. We want the rural schools of the Southland looked after as well as the already endowed colleges and universities. We want the Commissioner of Education ($2,000 per year) to seek out the schools which need our encouragement. The boys and girls of the poor of the Race. Yes, there is a great work to do the Negro Elks are capable of doing it, but before we can accomplish the worthwhile things, the big things, we must rid the Order of the Political incubus which is retarding our fraternal march.

It does seem to the man "up a tree" that R. J. O'Connell, former Civil Engineer, who was ousted from the Modesto Irrigation District, is rather belated in his "expose" of the attempted frame-up in the Mojch Hatchy-Pacific Gas affair. In view of the coming election in the city of San Francisco, it savors too much of politics to be effective. The veriest tyro is, or has been aware that there has been a scenagambian hid in the Hotah-Hotchy woodpile.

be monkeyed with."

"Neither do I," answered Jones, his pearly white teeth slightly showing and setting off a well-shaped mouth that was a fitting finish for a perfect profile for a real ebony king.

The remainder of about ten or twelve questions put to Mr. Jones were pleasingly answered with "I don't know."

George Walker, who had testified at the opening of the prosecution's case was again called to the stand and was asked:

Q. "At the time of the shooting did Rev. Hardy go beyond the curb?"

A. "No. It seemed to me that one foot was on the curb and one in the street."

Q. "How far were you from the scene of the shooting?"

A. "About thirty or forty feet, I can't say exactly."

Walker was then excused and Mr. Gilmore of the Gilmore Cafe was called to the stand and gave practically the same testimony as that given by the preceeding prosecution witnesses, and at this period the prosecution rested its case.

DEFENSE WITNESSES ON THE STAND

The first witness for the defense was jailor Fred Morrison.

Q. "Were you jailor on or about July 7?"

A. "Yes."

Q. "Did you at any time see John Denkey?"

A. "Yes. On July 7th I saw him first at the desk in the Police Department at which time he seemed to be very angry and said he would cut the guts out of all American Negroes when he was out."

Q. "Did you hear him say anything about Rev. Hardy?"

A. "Yes. He said that if the Rev. did not keep his nose out of his business he would cut his guts out."

Charles F. Green, who said he was in the Bail Bond business, and in the city jail at the time Denkey was brought in testified that he heard Denkey make threats against Rev. Hardy and all the American Negroes.

At this period the court was declared closed for the day to open again Thursday at 10 A. M.

THURSDAY A. M. SESSION

Thursday morning as early as nine o'clock Dept. 3 of the Municipal Court presided over by Judge Cook was crowded by local blacks and whites anxiously awaiting the outcome of the preliminary hearing.

The first witness called was the jail elevator operator who carroborated Mr. Green's testimony.

Police officer George Hannahs was then called.

Q. "Do you know John Denkey?"

A. "I saw him first July 7th, when he was arrested for battery and brought to the city jail."

Q. "Did you talk to him?"

A. "I did."

Q. "What was his state of mind at that time?"

A. "He was very angry with all American Negroes and said the first one of them that stuck their nose in his business was going to be cut up."

Q. "Did you find out why Denkey was lodged in jail at this time spoken of?"

A. "Yes. He told me that his trouble was when his former landlady with whom he had previously been very friendly had charged him with stealing $6.00 from her and one of her other roomers had attacked him when he resented the charge."

Q. "Did he tell you how and why the shooting which occurred four days later?"

A. "Yes. A few days after Denkey had been discharged on a 90-day's suspended sentence, he called the city jail and asked me to accompany him to Mrs. Robinson's residence, where he wanted to get his things. I told him that that did not come under police payiance, but was a case for civil action. Later in the afternoon Denkey called me again and said that he was afraid of trouble if he went after his things alone. However, it seemed that after he engaged his expressman, he went to the Robinson residence, but did not enter until Rev. Hardy appeared on the scene and invited him in, and then the shooting."

Out of all the testimony no one seems to have heard any heated argument that had up to the shooting on the day it occurred.

At the close of the hearing the Rev. Mr. Hardy was held without bail, for murder. The time and place of the trial will be announced later.

ward fulfilling our promise to give the people of California a great Life Insurance Company that will serve the needs of our group. Every Black American in this state can be justly proud of the progress made by the Golden State Guarantee Fund Insurance Co. Although the company is only two years old our present rate of annual income is in excess of $108,000. We are paying from Two to Three Thousand Dollars per month to policy holders in benefits, and we have loaned over $21,000 to our people on real estate. This service will be increased by the coming of the Progressive Mutual into the Golden State.

"To my mind the consolidation affords a most splendid example of co-operation which makes for bigger business. This only means greater service by our great Golden State to all of its policy holders."

Mr. Elijah Cooper, president of the Progressive Mutual Benefit Association states: "The proposition regarding the consolidation of the Progressive Mutual Benefit Association with the Golden State Guarantee Fund Insurance Co., has been talked over for several months by Mr. Nickerson and myself. Accordingly, an agreement has been made which is satisfactory to all.

"I knew Mr. Nickerson several years before coming to California, I know him to be an expert on Life insurance and a very efficient business man.

"I want to inform our many friends and policy holders that the consolidation of these two companies gives us double protection. I also wish to express our appreciation for your patronage under the name of the Progressive Mutual Benefit Association, and to assure you that it is our earnest desire to do bigger and better things in the insurance world."

Mr. J. C. Jordan, Secretary and Manger of the Progressive Mutual Benefit Association, states: "In view of the fact that 'union is strength,' and strength such that is had with the combination of concerns, the consolidation of the Progressive Mutual Benefit Association with the Golden State Guarantee Fund Insurance Co., gives courage to all men of color whose interest of racial finance is at heart.

"Having been one of the founders of the Progressive Mutual, thereby being interested in its better development which will make possible a variety of contracts to offer the public, I make my approval most heartily.

"I have served in the capacity of secretary-manager of the Progressive Mutual for five years as my diligence would permit, gaining many patrons and friends until seven months ago when I had to leave my post of duty where my son, Victor, is now serving. Although sickness has confined me to my home for several months my heart is with you.

"I am yours for great development."

Mr. Victor Jordan, Field Manager of the Progressive Mutual Benefit Association states: "Greater love hath no man than those who step forward to propose more and bigger things for your money.

"I will be found on the field with the same spirit as always, only with more contracts that you may choose from.

"This union means that Insurance under Negro management and control will soon invade the entire state.

"I am yet yours for service."

No institution has proven the possibilities that can result from co-operation more than the business of Insurance. The co-operation of just one-eighth of the number of men and women of our group who own Life Insurance, has given employment to fifty-five thousand Black Americans. In addition to this service our companies perform a striking service by using their reserves in saving homes, building homes and supporting business enterprises. Every California citizen can be justly proud of the Golden State Guarantee Fund Insurance Company which, is rendering its quota of this great service.

THE.

DOPE.

IS all upset.

JACK Dempsey won and came home while the town jumped up and cheered.

ACE Hudkins came home and won while the town got big-eyed with surprise.

THEY said Dempsey was too old and Baker had Ace's knockout number. Now we hve two leading citizens.

WHAT is going to become of our colored boxers? Two top notchers Thompson and Wills get let down for 60 days each by the Commission. Thompson said: "Thanks, I need the rest," but Wills and his manager both feel badly over the fact that White with his covering and holding tactics is to blame for any poor showing their fight may have made. Wills was doing his best all the time as is attested by many at the ringside, but at times the real facts do not reach the "powers that be."

WE MAKE no alibi for a fighter because he is of our race but in a sprit of fairness they should have the benefit of a thorough investigation and an equal break. But while we are fighting for them we will fight any of their ways or actions that will hurt them or hurt our race.

"ON THE PAN" will go any fighter or manager regardless of race who does anything to injure themselves or the greatest sport in the world. Our best friends are those who tell us of our faults and help us to mend them, so if a boxer's manager and the public learn that the boxer is dissipating on the sly or if a manager is found guilty of framing or anything in that class of dirt we are going to tell it and "Hope you don't feel hurt." And all real sports papers will do the same.

Along Fisticuffs Row

A LOT of history made this past week. Such little things as the Dempsey-Sharkey scrap for instance.

COLORED FIGHTERS are represented on most all the cards this week. Billy Evans, Clyde Colvin, Zorilla, Mack House, Neil Clisby and Vic Alexander are some of the boys boxing against white or Mexican opponents in all but the Pasadena battle.

THE OLYMPIC AUDITORIUM had a dark house this Tuesday, because the able management saw it was not good judgement to follow a big outdoor show.

HARRY "BUBBER" JOHNSON is not coming up to expectations for some reason.

After boxing two sensational battles with a draw and a K. O. over Manning at Culver City he loses a bout for some reason or other that everyone thought he was sure to win.

JAKE KILRAIN is still training every day. He is in wonderful shape and proud of his title of light heavyweight champion of the Coast because of the 10-round battle with Godfrey.

BILLY EVANS standing is not hurt any. He did something no other fighter has done so far—flattened Dario Barron like a pancake.

COLORED FANS are not supporting the good colored boxers back a credit to the game in the L. A. Rotaree's diamond belt popularity contest. To date there are only two boxers in the contest—Young Harry [illegible]

CULVER CITY BOUTS GET BETTER AND BETTER

LEVENTHAL-ATKINSON BOUT A THRILLING EXCITING BATTLE

To see two good fighters lay caution and science aside, and stand toe to toe as they slug until both are too weak to aim their punches as high as the jaw to pull the knockout, is a treat the fight fans seldom are lucky enough to get. This is what happened at the Culver City Stadium last week when Billy Atkinson and Jimmy Leventhal fought in the double wind-up last Thursday night, July 21st. Billy got the decision by a close margin, a cut nose seeming to worry Leventhal. So this week Jimmy Murray, the great little promoter has matched the winner of the sensational match with Manuel Vasques.

The complete card follows:

Billy Atkinson vs. Manuel Vasquez, six rounds; Midget Smith vs. Johnny Gonzales, six rounds; Mickey Arnold vs. Sammy Rothstein, six rounds; Young Joe Rivers vs. Pat Sweeney, six rounds; Freddie Landeau vs. Jack Grimstead, six rounds.

Main Street A. C. Shows Rudy Steiner Against Aguila Saturday Night

Too bad we received the Main St. Card too late to tell all about that great boy Rudy Steiner who is coming so fast but here is the great card he tops:

Vicente Aguilar vs. Rudy Steiner, main event, eight rounds; Jack Lamson vs. Johnny Fernando, semi-windup, six rounds; Red Bennett vs. Tony Parra, six rounds; Joe Blanda vs. Young Mission, four rounds; Lou Garcia vs. Kid Herrera, four rounds.

Hollywood Stadium Uses A Colored Boxer

A HUGE JOKE was sprung on the Hollywood Stadium when Alfonso Gonzales and Tommy O'Brien boxed there recently. You see, there is a written or unwritten agreement not to use any colored boxers, regardless of the good mixed bouts they are missing. A standard crowd of movie actors makes them a little independant of the colored fighters until the time that is sure to come when through cuts in salaries they will have to depend more on outside customers then they will need the best colored boys too.

But to go on with the story, although Gonzales speaks Spanish he is part Mexican and part Negro, it is reported, which of course makes him Negro, and it shows very plainly in his hair. But these facts were kept hidden at the match-making and those closely connected with the Stadium were really surprised and chagrined when the BIG LAUGH was sprung on them afterwards. Which only proves what's in a name!

"Fistic Titanic" An Episode In History

ACE MAKES GOOD DONALD MAKES GOOD

Frank Kerwin added laureis to his crown when he named Ace Hudkins "The most sensational lighter in the whole wide world". He added more laurels when as business manager for promoter Dick Donald, he and Dick practically alone did the work of staging the monster event that the whole world is talking about. Tex Rickard would have had an army of publicity men "etc", but they did the same thing by working about 20 hours a day. Fate has been kind to the optimistic Dick, but there were friends who stuck to him and believed in him all through, and it is said that he will be much different from the average struggled who suddenly bursts into prosperity, but will still feel kind and grateful thoughts to those who tried to help him when things looked so bad for a paying out-door show.

As for Ace we knew he would make good. You can't lick a cat with his back to the wall. So our head-lines ran before the fight "The Wildcat will wipe out defeat". Ace is at home here; he had to win and those 35,000 fans will tell you he did.

EVANS MAKES GREAT FIGHT

Although losing by a technical knock out Billy Evans the sensational colored featherweight, made a great fight against Dario Barron though out-weighed by three pounds. Though not making any alibi he would have been able to put Barron down again for keeps but for the fact that in the second round he got a hard blow on the hip bone that made him unable to side step Dario's wicked right.

THOUSANDS OF COLORED FANS

Thousands of colored fans flocked through the turnstiles drawn by the fact that the Colored press let it be known that neither Ace nor Dick draw the hateful color line and will give the colored boys a chance.

Promoter Dick Donald estimates his own profit on the Hudkins-Baker show, all overhead deducted, at $18,981.

His official gate receipts were $93,063.30, of which the federal government deducted $8460.30 amusement tax and the state $4253.55 under the boxing law. This left $80,349.45, the amount the fighters were paid off on.

Hudkins' share was 37½ per cent, or $32,098.99. Baker received $30,087.36. Rent of the ball park amounted to $8034.94. The preliminary card cost $1150. Help, seat expenses, etc ran $10,000. Thus the show cost him $51,368.39 to stage.

Mexican Idol Meets Conqueror of Jack Willis

DEMPSEY TO INTRODUCE PROTEGE

All the milling crowing mob of the 10,000 greeters who failed to see the conquering hero Jack Dempsey as he came in Tuesday night last, from his victory over Sharkey will get the chance to see him in person, at the Olympic Auditorium. The occasion will be the double windup which Matchmaker Wadhams has lined up by having the great Mexican Star, Bert Colima meet Everett Strong, and Paul De Hate take on Herman Auerbach. Auerbach's father was the former manager of Dempsey back in Salt Lake City, and out of consideration for his old guide the great contender is howing his interest in the youngster by being on hand to introduce him. Paul De Hate is a good opponent for Auerbach and the two are expected to put up a close battle at their weight of 150 pounds for a 10-round session.

Bert Colima will meet the man who trimmed Jack Willis, in Everett Strong the hard hitting middleweight who has a string of recent victories to his credit. The men will weigh 158 pounds.

Danny Kramer who pleased the fans in [illegible] scoring fights recently meets Bobby Fernandez for 6 rounds at 126 pounds, and Pat McGraw opens the show with Sailor Fay at 126 pounds for 4 or less sessions.

Clisby Should Knock Out Mack House Again

THEY BATTLE AT PASADENA STADIUM AS WE GO TO PRESS

Tom Jones who has handled more champions than any man in the game and who has two of the best Coast prize winners in Johnny Adams and Neil Clisby is really a man to be counted on in the fight game. He predicted his boy to send the California Bear to birdland and he did. He predicted that Neil would hit Godfrey good and hard on his jaw and he did, taking six rounds from the "black bottom" champ. As we go to press the first preliminary is going on in Morrie Cohan's new stadium. The card follows:

Mack House vs. Neil Clisby, main event, ten rounds; Ralph Lincoln vs. Jimmy Black, semi-windup, six rounds; Walter Beck vs. Pete Savedia, four rounds; Brad St. Charles vs. Jimmy Harrison, four rounds; Willie O'Connor vs. Frank Echeverria, four rounds.

Johnny Adams and Cottrelle At Hollywood Stadium

Colored Shows Again On Broadway

By: ALBERT ANDERSON

(By: A. N. P.)

New York, N. Y., July 27—With Miller and Lyles in their gorgeous new "Rang Tang" and Ethel Waters starring in "Africana" opening the same week on Broadway, while Clarence Williams' revue "Bottom Lands" also downtown goes into its fourth week, one might opine that the season for colored shows is already in full swing, and if the full houses which have been greeting them even these torrid July nights are any criterion, they are in for a successful stay. While the critics who have been predicting that colored shows could not longer make it on Broadway and the white women's clubs which have been passing resolutions urging the prohibition of these shows, where their husbands were getting too "free and easy views of brownskin pulchritude," are not making much headway.

Flourney Miller has been threatening for some years to do this thing which has finally come close to accomplishing "produce a perfect Negro musical comedy."

In "Rang Tang" which is play at the Royal Theatre, 45th and Broadway, from the moment Ford Dabney lifts his baton as the curtain rises until the final ensemble, there's not a draggy moment. The action is fast. The book is snappy. The plot unwraps a tale of two colored barbers who forced by their justifiable unpopularity to flee "Jim Town" steal an aeroplane and land in an idealized Africa which rivals the Arabian Nights, the kind of an Africa most Negroes have always dreamed about; and Miller and Lyles with a comedy Negroid but artistically clever and up to the minute spend enough time on the stage to dominate the evening.

There's a capable supporting company. Evelyn Preer, the prima donna, makes one wish that coupled with the wonderful experience she has had and her undoubted talent, she could call back that face and form of her adolescent lays ten or fifteen years ago. Such a combination would be hard to beat. Zardee Jackson, who after several years as a soubrette at last has a big chance, entirely justifies it. A sparkling personality, vivacious, and hard-working, she shines. Others who attract are May Barnes and Lavinia Mack, a terpischorean duo and Myron Jones who in his dancing is superb. Charlie Davis and Jerry Mills have worked wonders with the chorus which is large, hot looking, and beautifully costumed, although would like to have seen what Louis Douglas would have done with such an aggregation to work with.

One wishes for more critical observances to give, but the show which to me seems better than 'Shuffle Along,' a common standard of measurement, justifies but few. Outstanding single voices are missing except in the case of Josephine Hall, former Chicagoan, who plays the role of Queen of Sheba and whose "come to Africa" after Miller and Lyles fall into the ocean off its shores is well done.

Ford Dabney has provided some tuneful music, which he directs with a spirit that recalls, particularly in the unique solo for the banjo, the family bent as exemplified in Wendell Phillips Dabney, his cousin. Joe Willis with a beautiful bass voice sang some of it with the male chorus that rivals the Student Prince. The book is by Kay Gynt, the lyrics by Jo Treat, while Flourney Miller staged the entire production.

At Daly's 63d Street Theatre, Africana, rather loosely woven bit of entertainment, with a number of vaudeville acts and reconstructed stage sketches serves Miss Ethel Waters as a starring vehicle. She as usual is a delightfully suave artist, put over her songs in a fashion that instantly captivates her audiences in the intimate little theatre she is using. For the past several years we have been complaining that whits people were stealing the dances our folk originated, refining them and coining the cash and glory resultant. We are catching up and the dancing in Africana proves it. Louis Douglas has performed miracles with a perfectly matched brown chorus, the best I've seen. Glenn and Jenkins in the street sweeping scene score of course. Snow Fisher and Baby and Bobbie Goins are good while Paul Bass not only uses his sweet tenor voice, but proves to be quite an actor. There are no song hits. In "Rang Tang," "Jungle Rose" and Rang Tang score some and in "Africana," Miss Waters sings "Weary Feet" and "Smile." Chiefly she uses her old songs.

Clarence Williams' "Bottom Lands," I have not yet seen. It started its first week rather poorly, I hear, but each week has shown an improvement. So with these three shows going, all of them we hope, destined to long life, the season is off. May good luck and prosperity hover over it.

American Woodmen Hold Installation of Local Officers

On last Friday night the Los Angeles camps of the American Woodmen held their joint annual installation of officers at the Masonic Hall, Prior to the installation, a special program in honor of the delegates who had just returned from the Woodmen district convention held in Kansas City at which J. H. Rector of Los Angeles was elected president, was held. Very comprehensive reports of the convention were made by Mr. Rector and Mrs. Mary E. Gipson at the close of which each received a beautiful bouquet of flowers. Mrs. Clara K. Burgess made the speech of presentation. A splendid reading depicting the merits of fraternal insurance was delivered by Mrs. Ionia Alley. At the conclusion of the installation refreshments were served in abundance.

State Supervisor B. H. Graham installed the following officers of camps number one, two and five respectively: Commanders E. W. Fisher, Alva L. Pulliam and Atty. Curtis C. Taylor; Vice-Com. Elizabeth Sneed, Willie L. Willingham and Shirley Freeman; Clerks, J. E. Rector, H. K. Watkins and Chas. L. Daniels; Recorders, Mary E. Gipson, Agnes Williams and Marie Brooks; Bankers, Dr. B. L. Boswell, Elijah Cooper and Clarence S. Smith; Auditors, Zach H. Moore, Elizabeth Stegall and Eugene Allen; Escorts, Luther Eads, James Jones and Leslie Franklin; Prelates, Nancy Denard, Alice J. Chappell and Rev. Chas. H. Cotton; Sentry, Carrie B. Fowlks, Sarah Parks and Andre Buford; Watchmen, Annie Downard, Reuben Biggs and George Monroe; Chm. Sick Committees, Henry Green, Mary B. Brown and Mary E. Fuller; Worthy Guardian of Juveniles, Kansas B. Worts; Chm. Green Cross Nurse Corps Pearl Ruthledge; Chm. Sunshine Club, Gertrude Matthies.

Young Walton, one of the most efficient officers on the force for the past four years, is back from a 30 day vacation to Akron, Ala., where he was visiting his mother. He also visited Chicago, Ill., and Tuscaloosa, Ala., and is now back on the night watch refreshed and ready for work.

WHITE ELKS AGREE TO ERASURE OF LAW

(By: A. N. P.)

New York, N. Y., July 27.—According to the report delivered the committee from the New York I. B. P. O. E., who returned last week from Cincinnati, where they had been to visit the annual session of the B. P. O. E. (white), the latter have agreed not to oppose their efforts to have the Grattan Law set aside. Counsellor Billups, chairman of the committee, showed a letter which he explained was signed by the Grand Exalted Ruler and Grand Exalted Secretary of the white lodge, stating they were willing that the law should be removed. The Secretary of the New York B. P. O. E. promised according to the New York Elks, to be present at the hearing before Judge Morchauser at White Plains, New York, when the case comes up next Friday, and to state that the white Elks no longer oppose the existence of the Negro lodges.

The original resentment of white Elks is said to be due to a belief on their part that the ritual of their order was purloined from them to form the basis of the black organization. The splendid work being done by the Negro antlered tribe has, it is reported, mellowed their attitude.

ELKS MAY MEET IN NEW YORK YET

(By: A. N. P.)

New York, N. Y., July 27.—Despite the war of injunctions, the rapid fire changes of meeting place, and the general unrest which has kept the world of Elkdom and a good portion of other honest citizens on their ears for the past month or so, the chances are that the I. B. P. O. E. will hold its annual session right in little old New York.

Even Finley Wilson, Grand Exalted Ruler, wants to go there, and if the New York lodges will do just one thing, he has promised to issue another famous proclamation, moving the Grand Lodge to Gotham. New York really wants the event and have agreed to do the necessary thing—endorse Finley. The exalted ruler, slipped quietly into town last Friday a week ago and met seven members of the executive committee of the official New York entertainment body, on which are such prominent antlers as Dr. Hudson, J. Oliver, chairman; Jack W. Duncan; Tom Brown, Sec.; Jesse Battle; J. Dolmus Steele; Ferdinand Q. Morton; Andrew Mitchell and Sam B. Mitchell. Mr. Wilson did not go up into Harlem, but met the group at the Commonwealth Hotel down in Greenwich Village. With him were Perry W. Howard, S. A. T. Watkins and Oliver Randolph. They got down to brass tacks. The Elk Chieftain made it clear that what he wanted was reelection and protection. Some New York Elks had threatened him, he is reported to have complained. He demanded the endorsement of at least two of the New York lodges, especially Elite Monarch 45. Action started. Imperial 127 met Tuesday night and endorsed Wilson. Monarch did the same Wednesday and Manhattan is expected to follow suit. Whereupon Wilson has promised to issue the old proclamation and move the session to New York from Jersey City where it is now temporarily resting.

Those New Yorkers claim Finley has been up a tree at the White, that they have had no candidate and that Dalmar Steele whose name has been mentioned cannot carry even his own lodge. Their pride is stirred. A high-class group of men always the center of attraction at Elks gatherings they are afraid the rest of the country will think New York Elks are not free, that "a man can't live in New York and throw his shoulders back as an elk."

GIRLETICS

BY: GLADYS MATHEWSON

Hello, Everybody!

Here I am again after a lengthy vacation. Two friends, Anne Collier, Hazel Earles, Maudine Simmons, Hazel Thomas, Alphia Williams and I spent two weeks at the Annual Girl Reserve Conference which is held every summer at the close of school in Ashomer, Montrey County. We had a splendid time living out of doors and a wonderful opportunity to pursue with girls [illegible] their [illegible] in various athletic events. There were about two hundred girls in Ashomer and only nine of these were representatives of our race. I might add that it was truly a good representation. There were girls from all over the United States and quite a number from the Hawaiian Islands. With such contact among the girls of the different races we are hoping that a more friendly feeling will be established among all the people of these races.

The interest of the girls seems to be centered on swimming and tennis. One of the events for the former is that the Annual Lake Arrowhead mile-high swimming meet for girls is scheduled for July 30. This promises to be one of the biggest meets ever held. Miss Eleanor Garrate of San Rafael who is the joint holder of the national 100 yard record, national 50 yard swimming champion and the Pacific Coast champion over 100 and 200 yard distances is to be one of the entrants in this contest. Other entrants are Lillian "Bunny" Fergus, a fiver of note, from San Francisco and Marian Gilman, the 13-year-old backstroke champion of the Pacific Coast, also of San Francisco; Adelina Whaling, of San Diego, the winner this year of the Silver Gate swim and Dorothy Justille, of the same city, another Pacific Coast backstroke swimmer.

The men and boys are not the only ones who have the "flying fever." Miss Mildred A. Doran, a 33-year-old school teacher of Flint, Michigan, arrived in Long Beach, Tuesday afternoon, after making a flight from El Paso, a distance of 815 miles in 3 hours. This young woman hopes to be the first woman to cross the Pacific to Honolulu by air. Her pilot is a Long Beach boy, Auray Bedlar. We all wish Miss Doran success on her trip when she makes it.

CALIFORNIA EAGLE AUTOMOBILE SECTION

NEW MOTOR LAWS

BY: IVAN KELSO

COMPULSORY AUTOMOBILE INSURANCE

Another proposed measure which failed of passage at the late session was one which would have saddled from $16,000,00 to $20,000,00 of expense annually upon the motorist. This was the measure to require all motorists to purchase automobile liability insurance.

Automobile liability insurance is designed to protect not the injured person but the owner or operator of the motor vehicle, and the early policies provided that even the owner or operator had no claim against the insurance company until a judgment against him had been obtained by the injured person and until the insured had paid this judgment. Business competition in part and legislation also, have brought about a change until now the standard form of policy in this state is practically a contract between the insured person and the insurance company for the benefit of the injured person.

However, it is still true that if the injured person is guilty of any negligence which proximately conributes to his own injury, he cannot recover from the motorist and will not benefit from the existence of a policy of insurance.

The agitation for compulsory automobile insurance arose from that class of cases where grievous injury was suffered by innocent persons at the hands of careless and often drunken drivers, who were found to be without property of any kind sufficient to pay even in part for the damage caused. Unfortunately, such cases are many in number, and yet the best figures obtainable indicate that in this state such claims would hardly amount to $4,000,000, whereas the cost of making all motorists insure would be nearly $20,000,000.

And even though all motorists were insured, a large number of uncompensated persons would still suffer, first, because of their own negligence, and second, because thieves and bootleggers and hit-and-run drivers would still exist and would not stop, following an accident, to reveal their identity.

But the Legislature decided that the proposition deserves study and provided for the appointment of a commission for that purpose to report at the next session. In the meantime, we will have available the reports of accidents and their causes and will be in possession of data upon which to base sound conclusions.

Report on Fishing In the High Sierra

Reports received from the Southern District office of the State Fish and Game Commission indicate that Mono and Inyo counties are rapidly reaching the front rank as ideal spots for those wishing a real outing amid beautiful surroundings and in a country where the streams are well stocked with fine fish, according to the National Automobile Club.

Although some of the lakes are still inaccessible due to the late melting of heavy snows in the high altitudes, fishing is reported good in June Lake, Mono Lake, Convict Lake and the many streams that traverse this section.

The Los Angeles office of the fish and game commission patrols this section and reports that it is becoming an ideal playground.

Just recently the first plant of fish made under the new program of operations adopted this year by the Commission was made in Mono, Inyo and Alpine waters.

Fish almost a year old, ranging in size from four inches to seven inches in length were taken from Mt. Whitney Hatchery to the number of over 20,000 and planted in the various streams.

The most spectacular feat performed was the transportation of 2,000 of these fish well able to take care of themselves and rapidly develop into fine sport for anglers, to Alpine County, a trip of 270 miles over mountain roads.

These fish were placed in the streams without the loss of a single fish, each trout making away as soon as liberated from the can.

Deputies of the fish and game commissioners using trucks furnished by the Rainbow Club of Inyo County made the plant. The entire planting of 20,600 fish was done with less than one per cent loss, and the chances of the fish surviving are almost 100 per cent, Charles S. Bauder, captain in charge of the Southern District predicts.

The commission plans to build a fine new hatchery at Bridgeport in Mono County this year, and in this way will be able to stock the streams of this real paradise for outdoor lovers with considerable more efficiency than under previous methods.

Current rumor has it, and the rumor is reasonably reliable, that a certain auto top trimmer, formerly 346 Living stge Westbrooks, F. C., who invited two highly respectable citizens in the persons of J. E. Prowd and Harry Lavette to join him on a ride in his high-powered Kissel, Sunday, met two Rosy-looking browns and as the result of same he discarded his first two friends inside away from a street car and———. The boys are looking for Shefield.

It was a hot summer Sunday after noon and the tired motorist was weary of the heavy traffic of which he was part. He stopped at a village oil station.

"Can you tell me," he asked the proprietor, "where I can find a tree—not right here in the village?"

"Wese," replied the old man, "dere's de lot's where I been sending all de folks dat's asked me for dat."

The Spirit of Booker T. Washington Goes Marching On

At the recent burial here of the mortal remains of Cicero C. Simmons, his virtues were extolled by black leaders and white leaders and the press, but it was in keeping with the spirit of the man that there was no "vain pomp and glory." For Simmons came up from the bottom, like the great Washington whose pupil and apostle he was, and his philosophy was that true contentment lied in work, and if that work adds to the happiness of others the greater the contentment.

Although he held high positions among his people and although he held university degrees which were evidence of his scholarly attainments, he was an humble follower of The Master and, like Him, he worked with his hands, on occasion, at carpentering. Carpenter and Bachelor of Arts—an unusual combination. But it speaks eloquently of the spirit of Cicero C. Simmons.

I think it was Simmons' philosophy that to help men one must go where the men are who need help most, so that was why he never lost his contact with men who work with work with their hands, while having the right to the company of men who had won distinction with their minds.

At the funeral of Cicero C. Simmons humble folk mingled with the civic leaders of Tucson, Arizona, where he had resided for many years, and they heard Mayor John H. White extoll the deceased educator as a man who had done more for his race than any other—both by labor and by precept. They heard Superintendent Grimm of the State School for the Deaf and Blind, point to him as an example to inspire those who labored under difficulties, as one who had accomplished greatly after overcoming great obstacles.

Arizona is a young state, but it was no small compliment to those comparatively young race leaders then no such tribute had ever been given to a man of the black race as was given to the late Cicero C. Simmons—and it was genuine recognition that Simmons' race had achieved through him as a fine representative of it.

That he would have wrought greatly and valiantly for his race had he lived is certain and the state of Arizona, as well as his race, sustained an irreparable loss in his untimely cutting off; but he will long remain as an inspiration not only to his own people but to all who are ambitious to succeed against heavy odds and who are guided and sustained by a love for their fellows and a zest to serve them.

The Spirit of Booker T. Washington goes marching on! To the stars through difficulties—but reaching back and down always to help others along the onward path.

He was a living justification of Tuskegee Institute and his life was an evidence of the working out of its great and noble purpose. And sleeping the eternal sleep under the warm, bright Arizona sun he sleeps well—but his Spirit, too, goes marching on, a kindly light to brave feet treading the acclivities of life.

Simmons' work in Arizona was interrupted by an affection which made it necessary that he seek a lower altitude and he readily found an opportunity for even wider service in Los Angeles, where he became a member of the staff of the Los Angeles public schools after twelve years' service as principal of the Paul Laurence Dunbar School in Tucson, a school which he was instrumental in founding and which stands first among Arizona schools for colored children. It was due in no small part to his influence that the standards of colored citizenship in Tucson were raised higher and higher in the period of his residence there and today it is in a country in which the native population is prejudiced there is no race problem in Tucson.

While laboring in the educational vineyard, Cicero C. Simmons continued to work for the improvement of his own mind, for to him it was an instrument through which he helped others. (The spirit of Booker T. Washington goes marching on!) He attended the University of Arizona and was graduated with distinction, with the degree of B. S. But he did not confine his duties of citizenship either to music or to play, and in Arizona he put his mind to many public civic enterprises which contributed the equivalent of an education with executive qualities. He took Orpheus' lyre and led the ladies.

A graduate of Tuskegee was not further improved his mental equipment at Ann Arbor, Michigan, and the University of Chicago, the University of Arizona, [illegible] and the University of Southern California, [illegible] and he was a member of the Phi Beta Kappa fraternity.

He was president of the Tucson branch of the N. A. A. C. P., a devout churchman; an active member of the American Federation of Labor, and a member of the National Educational Association. In short, he was a complete citizen and a gentleman of the first rank.

Cicero C. Simmons was born at Bedford, South Carolina and was 64 years of age at the time of his death. He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Emma C. Simmons, of 332 East Fourth street, Tucson, Ariz.; and by three brothers, A. J. Simmons of Charleston, S. C., H. S. Simmons, of Savannah, Ga., and William Simmons, of Savannah and two sisters, Mrs. J. C. Gaston, of 307 West Sixth street, Tucson, Arizona and Mrs. Josephine More of Savannah.

INCREASE OF 130,875 UNITS IN LAST YEAR

LOS ANGELES LEADS ALL COUNTIES WITH 648,849; SAN FRANCISCO SECOND WITH 126,163 TOTAL

Sacramento, July 23.—An increase of 130,875 in the number of registrations of motor vehicles in California during the first six months of 1927 over the corresponding period of a year ago was reported today by officials of the Division of Motor Vehicles.

Evidencing the contention of the department that the so-called "point of saturation" is far from being reached and adding proof of the general prosperity of the state, the report shows a net gain of 15.4 per cent in the number of vehicles in a year. The total inclusive of passenger cars, solid and pneumatic tired trucks, motorcycles and trailers was 1,425,786.

This does not include nonresidents, cars exempt from license fees as those owned by cities, counties, and the state and public service corporations and those registered as dealers cars. These would add several thousand to the total.

night when he could have deadheaded them home on a pass without any inconvenience to his district, but he held them until eight porters had collected and then reluctantly gave them transportation home on a train that was already loaded top and bottom, and they were forced to sit up all night long in the day coach. The system at Oakland is very hard on the extra man coming in there from Los Angeles and some remedy should be sought out where they will at least get some rest. As it is now, a porter arriving on the Owl, or Padre in the morning must report when he gets in. He is then told to come back at 2 P. M. before he can get signed out, the result is he gets no rest at all before he goes back on the return trip to Los Angeles. This district has perfected a system in signing out which gives the extra porter a good rest. Mr. Ross is able to tell a porter when he first arrives just what train he will go back on that night. If he has nothing to give you, he sends you back on a pass. Frisco porters operating into this district should be very thankful because they really have the best go.

Set Dates For Fourth Annual Community Chest Appeal

The year's annual appeal of the Los Angeles Community Chest will be from October 11 to November 5, four days shorter than last year's appeal, it was announced yesterday at Chest headquarters in the Chamber of Commerce building.

The shorter time in this year's appeal, it was explained, is because of confidence that the fuller knowledge the people now have of the Chest's purposes and accomplishments will result in the desired total being fully subscribed within that period.

The announcement of the directors stresses the fact that while the Community Chest was instituted primarily to relieve distress conditions in relief and welfare work, in many with industrial and [illegible] attached to the various welfare institutions, it should not be overlooked that more than ninety per cent of the money raised by the Chest is applied to [illegible] agencies which are engaged in [illegible] work.

Which created the board. It can simply offer its services as a neutral capacity when requested to do so. In this instance it has done so upon application from Mr. Randolph.

The Pullman Company has ignored Randolph and his co-workers. They point to the fact that "Under the Watson-Parker Act," machinery was created for the formation of Industrial Relations or Employes Representation Committees, which are developed under government rules and regulations.

These Employes Representation committees are functioning now among Pullman Employees who vote for their own representatives, and meet whenever a disagreement comes up, with representatives of the company and settle them.—the very thing which Randolph with his union seeks to do. The company, regards Randolph, it is said, "as an outsider, now in the Pullman service, with a reputation as a radical; a shrewd chap who sees a chance to make a lot of money from gullible porters." They point to the various raises in salary granted and influences in working conditions allowed as a result of the Employes Representation Plan.

From matters close to the Board of Mediation, it was learned that "no case which has come before it has been more difficult to adjust due to the animosity to which the case has been handled, the injunction of the racial issue and the seemingly absolute dissatisfaction of the Pullman Company to do business with Randolph." It was declared by this informant, that "if the porters movement had been headed by one of the older porters or a man in the trade, some light have been shed on settling the two groups together." To this the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters retorts that "No man on the inside could have done it more than advisory domain which we are making" and claim that "the Employes Representation Plan is dominated and controlled by the company."

What will be the result? If Governor Sproul can do his effort to bring the two groups together under the provisions following the report of the Board, it will warrant a great deal of appreciation from the country, the appointment of these persons, one representing the employees, the other by Mr. Randolph and a neutral arbitrator appointed by the Board. These persons would then constitute a board of arbitration which would have the power to summon either the employees or employers before it, and if they appear voluntarily, it cannot make or enforce any orders or decisions. Beach Scandal Aired In Court

NEGRO BATHERS OUTRAGED AT MANHATTAN BEACH

Negro citizens of Manhattan Beach and Los Angeles City and County who dare to bathe in the ocean are meeting with about as much consideration from the authorities of that municipality as the Christians met with in Rome when Saint Paul was preaching Christianity to the heathens.

Tuesday morning, August 2nd, the flat-top, white building that stands about in the center of the town of Manhattan and serves as City Hall, Fire Department, Police Department and Jail, was the scene of a mock trial in which four Negro citizens were tried and found guilty of the offense of bathing in the Pacific Ocean.

For more than a year a seething war has been waged against Negroes at Manhattan Beach, in spite of the fact that some of our best Negro citizens own summer homes there. But it seems that a climax in the determination to drive them out came when, some months ago Mr. and Mrs. Slaughter erected a modern, up-to-date, 10-room house, much better than the homes owned by the lazy, poor-white, race haters, whose only claim to wealth is invested in race hate.

HOW IT CAME ABOUT

And this is the way it came about. The poor-white race haters lined up with the Police Department and these city parley (supposedly law enforcers) wanted fat on the peoples' money, gathered in from taxes and assessments started in on a reign of terror. Their first move, it seemed, was to line up the Trustees of Manhattan, which, seemingly, was an easy task, and this honorable bunch of red-necks drew a lease which they gave to a Mr. Bascomette, which it seemed, gave him sole possession of block 9 in tract No. 3867 and he in turn instructed the hounds of war to rack vengeance on all Negroes. Hence the court scene.

For the past few months Negroes have been invited off the beach; for the past few weeks they have been thrown off. But on July 17th, four members of the race were arrested and thrown in jail. Two of whom were in their bathing suits and were refused an opportunity to change. They gave bond of $10.00 each and were cited to appear in court Tuesday, August 2, 1927.

On Tuesday morning at eleven o'clock, the case was called. Mr. Bascomette was represented by the City Attorney and the four defendants by Attorney Hugh E. Macbeth.

Oscar C. Bascomette testified under direct and cross examination that he had a lease on block 9 of tract No. 3827 at the foot of 26th St., but would not state whether or not he had ever actually paid a dime for the same when asked. Macbeth very adroitly attempted to draw him out on this point the City Attorney very quickly objected on the ground that the question was immaterial, irrevelent and without foundation; the judge sustained the objection.

Atty. Macbeth then proceeded to cross examine Bascomette.

Q. Did you have a sign posted?

A. Yes, No trespassing.

Q. Did this sign mean no trespassing by Colored people?

A. It meant no trespassing by undesirables.

Q. On July 17, when these four defendants seated here were arrested and lodged in jail were there any white people on the same spot?

A. Yes.

Q. Were they arrested?

A. No.

Q. Then your sign was posted for colored people only.

A. Not Undesirables.

Q. You consider colored people undesirables?

A. Yes.

Mr. Linford C. Hall, city engineer, was next called. He produced the lease and verified Mr. Bascomette's testimony.

Officers Alex Hedlock, B. Wentzel and Jack Gordon then testified. They answered questions to the effect that they were on duty July 17th and arrested the four defendants who refused to leave the beach.

The three officers swore that they took the four defendants by the arm and led them off the beach.

Chief Dale, city engineer who sent [illegible] testified that he had been [illegible] Manhattan since April [illegible] that he was present when [illegible] gave Bascomette the [illegible] Negro] citizens [illegible]

OUT OF THE PAST—MIGHTY PAGEANT THRILLS LARGE AUDIENCE

Mrs. Lillian J. Crew, author and director of the Pageant "Out of the Past," scored a signal triumph Tuesday evening when she demonstarted her super genius as an impresario, when, under her personal direction, this production was staged to the edification and enthusiastic applause of a monster audience at the big Philharmonic Auditorium.

Never in the history of the past has such a super production been staged in these parts. Promptly on time to the minute, did the unfolder of things, Mr. Floyd Covington, come forward and announced the first episode of "Out of the Past."

Marvelous indeed was the scene unfolded of the setting in Egypt with old Pharoh and the scene in Africa. Episode No. 2 depicted the Colonial Days, Geo. Washington, enacted by C. E. McKinney and Crispus Attucks by Roy C. Shealy. Episode No. 3, "Slavery Days," featuring the spirituals led by Mrs. Florence White, Mr. Chas. Boston, Pearl Rose, Lillian Moore and W. L. Hollands, accompanied by the big choruses. Scene 2, home life and the old time Quadrille were features.

Episode No. 4, "Freedom," scenes of worship, featuring Emanuel Hall, far-famed baritone singing "Old Black Joe" and Mrs. Charlotte Green and chorus, "Steal Away," G. H. Daniels, Nat Smith, Mrs. E. L. Jones and Mrs. Florence White, accompanied by chorus.

Scene 2 was the Emancipation, with Mr. W. H. Smith, in the role of Abraham Lincoln, delivering the Holy and chorus in the song, "Free at Last."

Episode No. 5 was "Democracy," the role of Uncle Sam was enacted by M. H. Broyles. The Rose of No Man's Land was sung by Mrs. Irene Forsythe and chorus.

Episode 6, Progress. H. W. Strain, enacted the role of W. E. B. DuBois, M. C. Hall, Booker T. Washington and A. Hicks, Frederick Douglas. Quite 20 representations were made and represented of fields of endeavor.

Woman Becomes Banker, Editor, Executive Head of Oldest Negro Bank

(By: A. N. P.)

Richmond, Va., Aug. 1.—Negro women of today are doing things. The approaching 60th anniversary celebration of the founding of the Independent Order of St. Luke, which is to be held here August 15-18, aside from being an appreciation of that famous organization's accomplishments is equally a tribute to the remarkable career of its head and guiding genius, a woman, Maggie L. Walker.

Mrs. Walker is executive secretary of the Independent Order of St. Luke, a member of the Board of Directors of the N. A. A. C. P., Vice-President of the National Association of Colored Women's Clubs, a trustee of the Frederick Douglass Home at Anacostin, D. C., founder and president of the council of Colored women of Richmond, owning its own $30,000 home. She is the founder and has been managing editor of the St. Luke Herald since 1902. She founded what is the oldest Negro Bank in the country, the Saint Luke Bank and Trust Co., and has been its president since its birth in 1903. For a long time she was the only woman Bank president in the country. Surely that is a record for usefulness and service that any American, black or white, man or woman, might aspire to.

The Order of St. Luke was founded in Baltimore in 1867. In the thirty-seven years which Mrs. Walker has been at the helm of this great lodge, she has seen it grow from 2405 members to more than 100,000, scattered over a number of States; to the ownership of a building valued at $100,000 to the development of a surplus fund of $75,000 to the establishment of $1,000 Juvenile department Benefit clubs, to the net of 15 clerks who operate the home office and 100 field workers.

Not only colored people but whites as well express their appreciation of Maggie L. Walker's contribution to the life of her people, her city and country. Governor Lee Trinkle, speaking at a [illegible] meeting at the city auditorium on Education said, "If the State of Virginia had three as noble [illegible] fifty years with the funds spent on the Each one received unstinted applause.

The Forresters Drill Team with Capt. W. J. Bratton as drill master, with sweeping and intricate formations received a tremendous ovation.

Episode No. 7, "A Vision of the Future" with Mrs. Irene Forsythe representing "Liberty." Miss Alma W. Greene, "Peace." All Nationalities. American Negroes of the New Day, composed of the various groups of the Pageant.

Closing with a mighty chorus with the National Anthem—"Lift Every Voice and Sing."

The Pageant was indeed a mighty conception and demonstarted beyond peradventure the super genius of its author and director, Mrs. Lillian J. Crew. No praise is too great for her.

Especial mention could be made of the cotton field scene and its performance as well as the scene denoting the progress of the race as delineated in the passing scenes. Many individuals stood out in bold relief among them was the solo singing of Emanuel Hall of Chas. Boston, Frieta Shaw.

In such a stupendous undertaking as this it is conceded that if could not possibly be devoid of criticism, but on the whole "Out of the Past" as put on last Tuesday evening was by far the greatest Pageant ever presented in these parts.

The music was good, but not of sufficient volume. The chorus singing, it must be admitted, fell short of what it ordinarily should be. The opening was prompt, and on time and no long waits; the whole show moved as if by clock work.

There was a big turnout, but not near as large as it should have been. A lesson this has been to the promoters of the same and that, is the fact that you cannot possibly pull off a proposition of such a gigantic nature as this without a prolific use of printers' ink. Next to the proposition itself is to advertise. This thing, the promoters of the Pageant failed to do, woefully so.

Negro and White Woman Charged with "Misconduct"

(By: A. N. P.)

Dunn, N. C., Aug. 2.—Ira Cox, a colored man and a well-known white woman, whose name has been kept a secret, were arrested Sunday night and charged with engaging in prostitution and misconduct. The woman was placed in the local jail and Cox was removed to another town to await a hearing.

Suspecting the couple of intimacy, which is not intolerated in this section between a white woman and a Negro man, Sunday night the officers raided the home of the white woman and found her and Cox together in a room under incriminating circumstances. So surprised were the couple the woman did not have the presence of mind to cry "Rape" as is usually the custom under similar circumstances.

The husband of the white woman has been an invalid for some time and was asleep in another room at the time the raid was effected and his wife arrested. According to reports Cox and the woman have been lovers for some time. In spite of the fact if at there is no ground for a rape charge, it is feared that unless closely protected Cox will be a victim of mob violence when called for trial.

Coming!

A. C. Harris Bilbrew president a striking pamphlette entitled "MISS ETHIOPIA'S CENTENNIAL," assisted by a chorus of 50 voices, Thursday evening, August 25 at Phillips Temple C. M. E. Church, 42nd and Wadsworth streets.

Report of the State Federation of Colored Women's Clubs

BY: ADA IRBY

Twenty-one years ago, Los Angeles witnessed the birth of the California State Federation of Colored Women's Clubs. On the same spot of ground at Pico and Paloma, where this organization has recently closed its annual convention with great achievemnt.

Because the city of the angels was chisen to hold this convention, Los Angeles sent flags afloat to herald the welcoming of this great body, which met at A. M. E. Zion Church, July 26 to 29 inclusive. The delegation was given a cordial welcome by the pastor, Rev. I. A. Moore and his faithful and beloved wife, who compiled our most excellent journal. Both worked hard that this convention should go down on history's pages of Los Angeles as a gigantic success.

At 10:30 Tuesday morning when the gavel was sounded by Mrs. Esther Jones Lee, the state president, all seats of the auditorium were filled with eager delegates and visitors from all parts of the state, when the strains of music were sent forth from the great pipe organ, every voice was heard to sing loudly "America," then came the salutation of the flag. Devotional was led by Mrs. C. D. Robinson. Order of business was begun with report of credential committee. Roll call of officers and appointment of various committees. Welcome address [illegible] was made by Mrs. Elizabeth Edwards, 3rd Vice-President. Response by Mrs. A. A. Knight of San Diego. Two minutes' greetings from Sectional and Past State Presidents, led by Mrs. Corine Bush Hicks. Minutes of the morning board and announcement were read, closing morning session by singing, "Lift Every Voice and Sing."

The afternoon session was opened at 2:15 with as much enthusiasm as was the morning with the State President presiding. The State Ode was sung followed prayer by Mrs. Sadie Cole, Supt. of Religious Work. Minutes of the previous session were read; continuation of roll call responded with many good quotations, one which marked the day was given by Mrs. Sadie Cole. Five charter members of the State Federation were introduced. Mrs. Melba Stafford then introduced Mr. Pond Jack, representative of Mayor Cryer, for the welcome address, in behalf of Los Angeles. Mrs. Pearl Lowery Winters of Bakersfield responded with a plea for justice for all regardless of race, creed or previous conditions. Announcements of publicity, courtesy and memorial committees were made. Reports of officers and superintendents of the various sections were received. An open discussion on "Moral Efficiency," was given thirty minutes. Mrs. E. G. Strickland of Pasadena will over do remembered for the splendid manner in which she dealt this subject. The afternoon session was closed with the courtesy appointments for the satisfaction of [illegible] Announcements and adjournment.

The evening session was presided over by Mrs. A. A. Knight, Mrs. Esther Jones Lee, state president. Prayer followed by Mrs. Brown gave a reading, "Gone with a Handsomer Man Than You," which brought many applauses. History of the California State Federation of Colored Women's Clubs was given by Mrs. Eliza Warner, president emeritus. Mrs. Warner named the thirteen presidents in order and stressed their merits and qualification. She told of the encouragement they received from the Princes of Pasadena for their work, also gave in details some of the monuments that stand to their credit. Under the presiding of Mrs. Corine Bush Hicks, the National Federation of Colored Women's Club was entertained in California. Mrs. Warner's address was voted to be placed in our next year's Journal. Greetings in behalf of the N. A. A. C. P. and ministers was given by Dr. H. C. Hudson and Rev. I. A. Moore respectively. Mrs. A. A. Knight then introduced the State President, Mrs. Esther Jones Lee, who gave an address that will long be remembered by those who were fortunate to sit under the sound of her voice. Mrs. Lee finished her year's work with much credit to her office, for the efficiency of her work. May she continue to "Lift as she climbs in Deeds not Words." A grand reception followed the adjournment of this session.

Wednesday at 10:30 A. M. every delegate was found in her place. Vice-president-at-large, Mrs. Edna Stewart, presided over this session. The Parliamentary Drill was conducted by Mrs. J. C. Banks. An oration on Frederick Douglass was given by Miss Charlotte Smith.

The afternoon session was pened by the State President, singing "Lift Every Voice and Sing." A ten-minutes' talk was given by Mrs. Vivian Osborne Marsh on Juvenile work. Mrs. Lydia Ward Smith gave an address on Citizenship followed by the various other sections. Problems of Modern Motherhood were discussed fully by Mrs. Sims of El Centro section. The delegates after listening to various papers, solos, duets, etc., were given a recess preparatory to the evening session which was called at 8:30 P. M.

Thirty minutes were give nthe Juniors with Mesdames Corine Bush Hicks and C. Sledge in charge. The young misses who will be our future club women of tomorrow made the Club women of tomorrow made the notice. There were piano solos, vocals and readings. Reports of their year's activies were made. Seven clubs were represented with delegates and fees. Their work was nobly done and was concluded with prayer by Rev. Beaks. Duet. A program followed which was very much enjoyed by all.

Among the telegrams and communications read by the committee was one from the American Reception Committee of the Fourth Pan African Congress, appealing to the club women for representation. Mrs. Charlotta Bass of the California Eagle was brought to platform and introduced. Mrs. Bass needed very little introduction as she is so well known for her timely lectures. She is always welcomed with great ovation. She lectured to the Federation on, "Is the Young Negro an Improvement Morally on His Fathers in Harlem?" Mrs. Bass handled this subject with much care and grace, showing her capability and careful study of the subject. Following this address a bass solo was rendered by Mr. Leroy A. Beavers, "Thinking."

Devotional was led at the opening of Thursday morning session by Mrs. Clara Hulbert. Prayer followed with scripture reading from the 14th chapter of St. John.

The president took her chair at the appointed time and opened for business. She conveyed her appreciation for the prayers sent up for her. The State Ode was sung. The Courtesy Committee brought seventeen visitors forward for introduction. Mr. Kinney was chosen to speak for the men while Mesdames Simpson and Willis were to speak for the women, as the time was too limited for all to speak. Mr. Olivet, Los Angeles' great politician, who was responsible for the street decoration was asked to give a short talk. Mrs. Mattie May Stafford, Supt. of Education and Literature led a discussion on, "Do Adversities Help Us?" which brought out many good thoughts. The scholarship committee made its report. Miss Octavia Payne of El Centro was awarded the scholarship for this year. A solo, communications and telegrams ended the morning session.

The afternoon session was opened by [illegible] "The Star Spangled Banner." With the state president presiding. Judges were appointed and the [illegible] chosen for voting. Assemblyman Elsworth gave a twenty-minutes talk on Assembly Bills 1621, 1627 and 1628. Memorial resolutions were rendered for the deceased by Mrs. Ella Winter. A paper was read by Professor Pearl Lovelace Winters and

By C. A. B.

WHY NOT?

Every man is entitled to his opinion in matters affecting church or state, and it does seem strange to us that beings are so limited in their reasoning power that they cannot understand this.

So many of us, especially those of us who label ourselves Christians, grow angry with our neighbor when he does not agree with us in our convictions in religious or pilitical matters.

DO WE GET REWARD ON EARTH?

We look for some reward of our endeavors, and are disappointed: not success, not happiness, not even peace of conscience crowns our ineffectual efforts to deal justly with the public. If we publish facts without any embellishment on our part they complain; if we put news on the front page they say it should be on the back and if we send this complaining element a bill for work done they logically reason their way out of payment of the same.

But our saddest experience in dealing with the public is to find that, in matters pertaining to crime, labor high up in church and state are want to use discrimination with regards to punishment.

For example, if a minister or preacher disturbs the peace and is duly hauled by the Courts, and gets publicity on the front page of the daily papers—this is no license for Negro journals to say a word. And if they should venture to publish a court record, some canting bigot tells you that the editor should be burned at the stake.

DID DAVID SIN?

Bible history tells us that King David committed a most terrible crime when he had Uriah assassinated in order that he might have his wife. If Bible history writers is that ancient period, had felt as some of our critics feel today the psalmist would have goad down on the pages of history with a clean record.

David was punished for this crime, and was repentant and served God with greater zeal afterwards than he had before.

You can't clean a house by sweeping with the windows and doors closed. Open up and let the air and sunshine in.

The black race in America is in the making—while we are building, let us lay a foundation that will withstand the crime wave that beat down the walls of civilization of ancient Rome, and is even today besetting the peace of mind of white America.

A friend died and a building fell [illegible]

"The hope of the future of any city is in the children of today," a wise man once said.

If you doubt it, look at Ted O'Neill of Kiddie Koop.

Two years ago the people of Los Angeles, through the Community Chest, made an investment in love and kindness when they took little Ted, friendless and homeless waif, to their hearts and gave him a home at Kiddie Koop.

Young as he was, Ted felt a resentment towards life. Felt that he had had an unfair start, that there was something wrong when he was hungry most of the time and that his clothes were not so clean and not so whole as those of other children he saw at play.

But after Ted was at Kiddie Koop a while his outlook on life began to change. He learned to laugh and be happy. He learned about health and cleanliness. He learned that "someone cared" about friendless and homeless boys and girls.

And then, one day, Ted realized that he was no longer friendless and homeless. That where other boys had but one father and mother, in the great loving hearts of the people of Los Angeles he had a Great father, father, and Great mother who would not have one child suffer while they had so much.

So, through the Community Chest, Ted had become one of the hopes of the city.

Every dollar given to the Community Chest will help others like Ted to future citizenship, for "the hope of the future of any city is in the children of today."

Business College Moves Into Its Beautiful New Home

The Cosmopolitan School of Commerce, formerly located at 851½ Central Ave., has moved into its new home at 1966 Santa Ana Blvd., one block East of Wilmington Ave., in the Watts district.

The public is cordially invited to visit the school and to discuss with the manager, Charles H. Palmer, any question concerning the new summer classes in business and literary work, the installation of bookkeeping system, the keeping and auditing of books and any phase of multigraphing and stenography which has served the general public so well during the last two years. The school's rapid growth during these two years has necessitated more space, and its new home has been selected with the idea of a more desirable location for study and class work, while the public will be given its same efficient and convenient service it has enjoyed heretofore. It has erected its new building with this thought in mind.

All work called for and delivered. Phone: DElaware 1452.

CHICAGO PLANS FOR 100,000 PYTHIANS

(By: A. N. P.)

Chicago, Aug. 1.—The local lodges of the Knights of Pythias of North America, South America, Europe, Asia, Africa and Australia, are rapidly consumating plans for the entertainment of 100,000 members of the order, who are supposed to gather here August 13-20, to attend the Twenty-fourth Biennial Session of the Supreme Lodge.

The order boasts of some 400,000 members and resources amounting to $10,000,000.00 including real estate, fraternal endowment reserve and high grade bonds. Of particular interest in this respect is the National Pythian Temple, which is being erected at a cost of $1,000,000.00 here at 37th Place and State Street.

No stone has been left unturned to assure, Supreme Chancellor S. W. Green, the other supreme officers and the delegates of the best entertainment and the greatest convention in the history of the order. A program that bids fair to eclipse all others has been formulated and every detail taken care of, according to Dr. Allen A. Wesley, grand chancellor of the State of Illinois.

Chicago, long famous as the convention city of the world, intends to outdo itself when the Pythians arrive and all business places will be thrown open to the delegates. The parks, amusement houses, club-houses, fraternity houses and the renown "Chicago hospitality" will join hands to make the stay of the Pythians enjoyable and memorable.

A program including business sessions and entertainment features have been worked out, so that it will be possible for the delegates to see Chicago and at the same time attend to the business of the order. The sessions will be held at the Metropolitan Center, and the prise drill at the Stadium, where more than 100,000 people witnessed the Army-Navy game last fall. Rivalling each other will be the "Japanese Lantern Parade" culminating in a Mardi Gras and Festival at the Eighth Regiment Armory, Tuesday evening and the mammoth military ball Thursday evening at the Coliseum. "The Pythians are coming" is the watchword of Chicago and Chicago will be ready.

KILLS WHITE MAN; IS FREED

(By: A. N. P.)

Memphis, Tenn., Aug. 2.—Robert Lynch, age 50, was exonerated by the police Monday for the killing of an aged white man, who staggered into his home late Saturday night and whom he shot for a burglar. The white man was identified as J. W. Harris of Georgia, Monday morning.

Lynch informed the police that he has been troubled with burglars on two occasions during the past two weeks and his home was robbed Thursday night. Sunday night he was awakened by sounds of some one breaking in. Seizing his revolver, he went to investigate and saw a man hovering in the darkness. He ordered him to throw up his hands which the intruder failed to do and he fired.

After the shooting, Lynch notified the officers who responded after several hours and found the dead white man. Lynch was taken into custody but was freed at the coroner's inquest when a verdict of justifiable homicide was returned.

Chamber of Commerce Publishes Comparative Figures

THE favorable position of Los Angeles in the matter of gas service is shown by the following report from the "General Industrial Report of Los Angeles County, California", prepared and issued by the Industrial Department, Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce:

GAS

California ranks first among the States in the production of natural gas and oil. Over 95 percent of the production is in the fourteen Counties comprising Southern California and 64 percent of it comes from the great oil fields of which Los Angeles is the center.

Natural gas, with a heat value in excess of 1100 B. T. U.'s per cubic foot, is used. It is one of the cheapest, most efficient and easily handled of all fuels.

As natural gas in California is available only in Southern California, this gives to industry here a great advantage over districts where only artificial gas is available, as such gas has a heat value usually of only 560 B. T. U.'s.

DOMESTIC GAS RATES

The following rates apply to natural gas for domestic uses. (Rates are per meter per month.)

First	4,000 cu. ft.	92¢ per 1000 cu. ft.
Next	11,000 " "	85¢ " " " "
Next	25,000 " "	78¢ " " " "
All Over	40,000 " "	72¢ " " " "

The favorable situation of Los Angeles in regard to gas is shown by the following table of gas costs for various cities. These costs are all in terms of price per million B. T. U.'s and hence are truly comparative.

City	Cost of Gas per Million B. T. U.'s	Per cent other cities are higher than Los Angeles
Los Angeles	$0.82
San Francisco	1.73	111%
Detroit	1.84	85%
Baltimore	1.70	107%
St. Louis	1.78	113%
Denver	1.73	111%
Philadelphia	1.92	135%
Chicago	2.01	145%
Portland, Ore.	2.10	156%
Newark, N. J.	2.12	159%

HEED THE CALL TO THIS MAMMOTH EVENT——A

SALE$ 25

THAT HAS NEVER BEFORE BEEN EQUALED IN THIS CITY

SUIT TO ORDER AT

$50 VALUES, TAILORED TO MEASURE

Now for a Tailoring Sale that men will remember as long as they live! Now for Tailoring Values that will dwarf anything ever before offered in any city in the West! Now for an event that will give the Dollar a new standard of value, and bring men by the hundreds flocking to our doors. For this is a he-man sale—a sale that will make tailoring history for years to come. We cannot hope to convey its immense importance to you here. We can only urge you to come in and see with your own eyes, so that you will know what we know about values. If we could print this message with red ink, in letters a yard high, it might be stronger to look at, but, believe us, it would not MEAN any more. So take our word for it and step around to Murphy and O'Neill's, where the Greatest Tailoring Values ever seen in Los Angeles are to be sold like hot cakes.

BIGGEST WOOLEN STOCK IN THE CITY—ALL WORK DONE BY OUR OWN WORKMEN IN OUR OWN DAYLIGHT UNION SHOPS

Our Stock of Suitings Embraces Every Wanted Shade and Coloring in Every Good Fabric

Worsteds, hard finish and unfinished; Scotch and Irish Tweeds, Cheviots, Cassimeres, Whipcords, Gabardines, Novelty Velours and Serges—Everything, in fact, that any man wants. Another big point in our favor is the fact that we believe in doing our own work. When we do it ourselves, we know it is right. Consequently, we hire our own tailors, maintain our own Union Shops, and attend strictly to our own business. It pays us to do it rather than let somebody else do it for us. We can give the public better service, in the first place, and we are Directly Responsible to our customers when we do our own work.

IF YOU WANT TO LEARN WHAT A MURPHY & O'NEILL SALE IS LIKE, STEP IN TOMORROW—SATURDAY YOU'LL SEE VALUES THAT WILL DO YOUR EYES GOOD

All things being equal, whether a man is a Union man or not, he should insist and demand the Union Label in all his garments for his own protection. The Union Label guarantees that the garment is made under sanitary and hygienic conditions. It guarantees that the man who makes the garment is a well paid, first class mechanic; and when you consider, that I can make you a suit at a lesser cost than the other fellow charges for equal quality, I should get your order.

Calif. Federated Clubs Hold Enthusiastic Meeting

The regular meeting of the California Federated Clubs met at Eagle Hall last Friday evening. A large attendance was present and much enthusiasm was manifest. Several important committees were appointed and ordered to report at the next meeting Friday, August the 5th. Among which was a committee to investigate conditions at Manhattan Beach. Also a committee to find out why nothing near our proportion of citizens are being drawn for jury service. Aside from this a committee was appointed to seek better recognition for the group in State, County and City governments.

The Urban League Plans Sixth Annual Camp For Needy Mothers And Children

Mrs. Katherine J. Barr, Executive Secretary of the Los Angeles branch of the National Urban League, announces that plans are being completed for the sixth annual camp for needy mothers and children to be held in the Pacific Palisades near Santa Monica, August 19 until September 2. The Pacific Palisades is a Christian educational institution and community, incorporated under the California Seminaries act as a non-profit enterprise.

The housing accommodation will consist of electric-lighted Casitas or tent houses, equipped with double beds, mattresses, necessary chairs, tables, bedding and linen. The camp is equipped with shower baths and a community laundry. Three meals per day will be served in a well lighted sanitary dining hall with a chef cook in charge of the kitchen. A library and reading room will offer increased facilities to mothers and students and standard periodicals will be found on the tables. Local ministers, educators, and professional men will be present to give lectures at the evening Assembly on personal health, mental efficiency, personality, and allied subjects.

A camp mother will be nominated who will divide the camp into smaller groups who will receive special lectures suitable for the mothers, boys and girls of different ages.

An athletic field having a 440 track and standard equipment lies adjacent to the camp. An athletic program will be followed and the boys will have a trained assistant to carry them to the beach for swimming classes or back into the mountains on long hikes; the aim being to teach them to become physically strong, mentally awake, and morally straight.

A small cabin will be used as a hospital and it will have the necessary first aid equipment for the slight sprains and injuries which accompany all outings. This department will be supervised by Mrs. Beatrice Lee Allen, a registered nurse.

Tent houses will be reserved for one hundred and twenty-five needy persons.

Parents wishing to take advantage of this outing for their children are advised to make reservations immediately at the Urban League office, 1325 South Central avenue, as only a limited number will be taken.

NEW YORK GETS ELK CONVENTION; EVERYBODY IS HAPPY

(By: A. N. P.)

New York City, August 2.—With the holding of the Elk Convention in New York City a certainty, harmony once more reigns in Elkdom and everybody seems happy once more. The way for the holding of the convention was made when the injunction which restrained Negro members of the order from the use of regalia of the order and which was the "bone of contention," was temporarily lifted.

The New Yorkers are happy, now that the convention will be held in Manhattan and their happiness is shared by Grand Exalted Ruler J. Finley Wilson, who is almost assured of re-election, in spite of the reports and rumors which circulated that he did not want to go to New York because he feared defeat in his efforts to be re-elected.

The amicable settlement of the trouble which at one time threatened to split the Elk ranks, came after the opposing factions had toured the country setting forth "their side of the case." The Grand Exalted Ruler was upholding his action in changing the convention to Cleveland and the New Yorkers were equally as active in urging the Elks to meet in New York as first decided and "showing wherein the convention would not be effected by the Grattan Law and the injunction."

Now that everything is settled and everybody is happy, all hands are turning to the task of making the convention a success. There is the opinion among some of the officials that the attendance will be affected by the many changes that have been made in the place of meeting, while others declare that the Elks will meet in a large number, wherever the convention is held and at whatever time.

EDITORIAL

THE PRESIDENT'S ANNOUNCEMENT

The President's announcement that he will not "choose" to run for the office to succeed himself in 1928 will no bout cause many heads to bob up for the place and the year 1928 will be memorable indeed for a multiplicity of seekers for the highest office in the land.

The decision of the President, while not expected at this time, will tend to clarify matters and give the rank and file of the party ample time to concentrate upon the strongest contender. To some groups of voters much more enthusiasm will be invoked into the campaign than there would have been for the President who was regarded as a cinch had he chose to run.

MAKING GOOD

Thus far our newly elected City Council is running true to form. The invisible hand has failed thus far to sway it from functioning in the interest of all the people. Let us hope it keeps the faith and the people will sustain them in their stand.

UNITED SUPPORT

The fight being made at Manhattan Beach under the leadership of Dr. H. C. Hudson, President of the local N. A. A. C. P. is one which should have the united support of all of our citizens who stand for justice and fair play. If the Hill Billies, Red Necks and Crackers of Manhattan Beach can get away with the putrid "Stuff" they are attempting at this place, indeed California will be but a whistling post for Mississippi and Texas.

It is a fight for all the people to maintain their rights. Just think of a city leasing out all of its public improvements in order to enforce a black and degrading edict born in prejudice and hate. This is the situaton at Manhattan Beach.

MAKE IT $4000

Down at Manhattan Beach they fined four of our citizens $400 for standing on the Beach. They had just as well made the fine $4,000 for no higher court in the land would uphold for one moment such an unconstitutional and ridiculous law as set forth by the red necks and crackers of Manhattan Beach.

WATCH FOR THE REAL CROOKS

In this Community the same as many others we have in our midst men and women who aspire for leadership and in so doing they can see nothing good in anybody else save and except themselves will dare to start a movement; they immediately endeavor to start up an anvil chorus to drown it out. This species of citizen will stoop to anything to gain their objective. They are invariably double crossers and hypoocrites, they will laugh in your face and stab you in the back. They will denounce everybody except themselves as fakirs and grafters and at the same time do all the faking and grafting themselves that it is possible to do. Their holler that the other fellow is a crook is just a smoke screen to call attention from them.

The people are fast getting wise to this species of crooks and in due time they will be shown up in their due color for the good of all concerned. Don't think for a moment that they are immune for regardless of whom the shoe fits, they must be prepared to hit the tall timbers for a firm determination has been decided upon to HEW TO THE LINE in all matters of interest to all the people and let the CHIPS FALL WHERE THEY MAY.

COMMENTS

Well of all things! There seems to be a concerted effort to put the preachers in the place that they should occupy—Spiritual Leaders. Too much stress cannot be laid against their activities in other spheres to the utter disregard of that most potent factor—Religion. Some writers even go so far as to term them as an incubus to racial progress; we cannot go so far. We believe that they occupy or are a cog in the wheel of racial progress, and as long as they don't slip that cog the wheel will function properly. If the preachers of the Race are losing caste it is their own fault—"You cannot serve God and Mammon" must be practiced as well as preached. To be an Ambassador of Christ is one of the most valuable contributions to civilization. To humanity. But it necessitates sacrifice. This newer generation cannot see why they should contribute heavily to those "who toil not, neither do they spin." Really, you cannot blame them for some of the preachers are too lazy to prepare an intellectual discourse, and are proficient only in the art of begging two or three collections.

The appointment of former U. S. Marshal, Hollohan, as Warden to the prison of San Quentin, came as a surprise to even the "knows." Since he vacated the post of U. S. Marshal he has been Sheriff of Santa Cruz. As a Peace Officer, the Warden has a national reputation. We remember when by his cool alertness he averted a second tragedy by the killing of the Hindu, Singh, who had shot one of his countrymen, in a U. S. Courtroom, crowded with spectators. In his politics he is registered Democrat, but he is an ardent admirer of Senator Hiram Johnson. The appointment was made by the Board of Prison Directors.

As the time draws near for the reorganization of the State government to function the Governor names his appointments to head the several Departments. The two most recent being P. C. Stevenot of Cavaleras and Dr. Walter Dickie of Los Angeles. They head the division of Natural Resources, and Public Health, respectively. The Division of Stevenot comprises mines and mining, forestry, parks, fish and game. Both these appointments, as the others which have preceded, are receiving commendable criticism. Gov. Young has been very fortunate in obtaining the service for the State of men of high character and splendid calibre. Now, there is representative Carr, Los Angeles, selected to fill the vacancy on the Railway Commission. Just and fair-minded. One of the pet phrases used by Carr in the legislative debates was, "Now, let us be fair in this matter." It was for him the soubriquette of "Let us be fair Carr." He will bring to the Railway Commission that same sense of fairness. Then there is State Printer, Chas. A. Whitmore, who is ably demonstrating the practical business of the big plant on 11th and "O" Sts. All in all, the Governor has shown splendid judgment in his selection of aides.

"Judge Lynch" is still in the spotlight. Mob murders are becoming so common that they fail to create comment. It is a bad sign—not so much as to those affected by the crimes directly—when the people become so calloused in perpetration of crime—murders and burnings—that they fail to awake interest. Such laxity is a sure sign of decadence. The Roman Empire was on the decline when Nero began his reign. "The wheels of the gods grind slowly." Thank the Christian God! The new generation of the Negro is discarding the "turn the other cheek" admonition and even in the face of certain death is beginning to strike back. Fight! Sometimes it takes a club to force the fact into the craniums of some who fail to realize that there is a big difference between civility and servility; courtesy and submissiveness. When it has to be done, we recommend the club.

WHAT AB OUT IT ?

The above cartoon is the suggestion of the California Federated Clubs and truly symbolic of real Americanism. Here all peoples instead of gathering together for selfish aggrandizement; should meet and take up the problems that hamper nations in order to improve the condition of all the people.

NEGRO BATHERS OUTRAGED

ens was drawn, Atty. Macbeth then quizzed him in this manner:

Q. Were you present at a meeting of the trustees May 19, 1927?
A. Yes.
Q. Do you remember, of having seen People's exhibit "A" at that meeting?
A. I do.
Q. Was this particular lease discussed?
A. I don't know.
Q. Was the object of the lease to give Mr. Bessonette police power?
A. I don't know.

And this particular personage even though he was a city trustee, was as dum as an oyster concerning the city's business.

City Marshal, John F. Garvan was next called. He was the last minute in belts and spurrs with a great gun decorating him on the right hip, his face a dingy red and a voice less musical than a fog horn on a stormy night easily made him the most trying ordeal for those who looked and listened.

Q. Were you present July 17th when these four defendants were arrested? shot Atty. Macbeth.
A. I - - - w - a - s, came the long, drawn-out answer.
Q. Where did you see them?
A. At the foot of 26th street.
Q. What were they doing?
A. Two of them were in the water the others standing on the beach.
Q. How far were they from the water?
A. About 25 feet.
Q. Did you show them the lease?
A. Yes.
Q. What did they say?
A. Said they did not care about the lease because it was not worth the paper it was written on.
Q. Then did you tell them to leave?
A. I did.
Q. Did they go?
A. No.
Q. What was said?
A. One of them insisted that they did not want to go off the beach said he would rather be locked up and make an issue of it.
Q. Was there any disorderly conduct on the part of any of the defendants?
A. There was much talking.
Q. What finally happened?
A. We took the four men to jail, and they all, except this man Conly, paid the $10.00 bail required.
Q. How many colored people were on the beach at the time of the arrests?
A. About fifteen or twenty.
Q. What became of them?
A. They went away.

Court adjourned for noon recess at this point.

AFTERNOON SESSION

Court was called at 1:2[illegible] P. M. and police officer Haddock was called upon to testify.

Q. Where do you live?
A. In Manhattan.
Q. How long have you been a resident of Manhattan?
A. Four years.
Q. On or about July 17th were you an officer?
A. I was.
Q. Did you see any of these defendants on or about that date?
A. I did.
Q. Where?
A. At the foot of 26th street.
Q. Did you say anything to them?
A. Yes.
Q. What if anything did you say?
A. I told them that they would have to stay off the beach.
Q. Did they leave?
A. No, we had to take them away.
Q. What time was it?
A. About 7 o'clock in the evening.
Q. Who was spokesman?
A. That man (pointing to Dr. Hudson), I believe his name is Hudson.
Q. Did you have orders from Mr. Bessonette?
A. Yes.
Q. What were the orders?
A. To keep people off the beach.
Q. What kind of people?
A. Colored people.
Q. When they refused to go what happened?
A. We arrested them and lodged them in jail.

And at this juncture the Prosecution rested its case.

To our mind, without proving anything other than that a conspiracy had been formed by a class of illiterate white Americans and the authorities of Manhattan who wanted to reek their prejudical spleen on the Colored population of that section, who apparantly are making greater economic progress than they are.

ATTY. MACBETH IN THE LEAD

At this point the mock court was turned over to Atty. Macbeth. He called as his first witness John F. Jones, one of Manhattan's luke-warm trustees.

Q. Are you a trustee of Manhattan?
A. I am.
Q. In what class is Manhattan?
A. Class 6, Certificate 2000.
Q. Calling your attention to Oscar C. Bessonette's lease I wish to ask if it was authorized by the board of trustees of Manhattan?
A. Yes.
Q. Was there any publication of said lease?
A. I don't know. (Later) I think not.
Q. Did he ever pay one dollars?

To this question came an emphatic, "I object," from the City Attorney and the objection was as readily sustained by ye honorable judge, who however never lifted his drooping eyelids while sustaining.

Q. Did you put Oscar C. Bessonette in possession of property.
A. I delivered the lease.
Q. Assuming that Mr. Bessonette testified that you put him in possession of property in question would that be true?
A. I don't know.

And in answer to a string of similar questions swared by Atty. Macbeth there came from Mr. Jones the never faltering: "I don't know."

Everett Crandall, another trustee, was called. He testified that he was a Chemist and knew nothing about real estate values; was present when the said Bessonette lease was drawn, but did not know whether or not it was designed to keep Colored folk off the beach.

Manhattan's water inspector, Carl D. Edwards, also a trustee, was placed on the stand and asked to examine the lease.

Q. Is that a true statement of what transpired when this lease was made, he was asked.
A. Yes.

Geo. A. Belvan, a flapper young lawyer, tanning and trim in a bright gray suit, took the stand.

Q. What is your occupation? asked Atty. Macbeth.
A. Attorney-at-law, was the crisp answer.
Q. Are you a Christian gentleman?

The court gasped because the attorney with the rather overgrown red nose went up in smoke, feeling that he had been grossly insulted.

Atty. Macbeth very gently withdrew question, and once more the ship of State moved on.

Dr. Henry C. Hudson, president of the National Association was called.

Q. What is your name?
A. Henry C. Hudson.
Q. Your occupation?
A. Dentist.
Q. Were you at Manhattan Beach, July 17th?
A. I was.
Q. Did you see these other defendants?
A. I did.

"Well," continued Atty. Macbeth, "tell the Court what happened at that time."

In a well-measured voice, untinged with any emotion, Dr. Hudson testified that while out driving, he stopped by Manhattan about 5 o'clock on the evening of July 17. Seeing the officers talking to some other colored men he went where they were on the immediate water edge to ascertain what was going on. I asked these officers, present here, what, if anything, was the trouble? They answered that that was private property, and the Colored people should follow the line of least resistance.

"But," said I, "the Negroes did not do this in the world war. If they had they would have scampered off to the backwoods claiming conscientious objection, but instead they wen even to the front lines." But in answer to my argument these officers insisted that unless we moved on they would have to arrest us. I asked on what charge? "Resisting an officer" was the response.

"But we are not resisting," I insisted, "and that is rather a serious charge."

But to no avail did I argue. We were hustled off to jail.

The other defendants were J. H. Conley, Romolious Johnson and John McCaskill, who testified that he was a property owner at Manhattan, and a tax payer; that on July 17th for no other cause than bathing in the ocean he had been arrested and thrown in jail in is bating suit for which offense he was seeking redress from the only source from which he could expect fair play.

Others who testified for the defense were Mrs. Sarah Hall and Mrs. Mattie Johnson.

The four defendants and the other defense witnesses gave practically the same testimony as to what occurred on the beach July 17th.

When both defense and prosecution had exhausted their witness supply, the judge turned to the City Attorney and to Attorney Macbeth, asking if they had any closing remarks, and for a minute or two the all-wise City Attorney who very likely knew before hand just how the case would pan out, hesitated and insisted that Atty. Macbeth take the floor; Mr. Macbeth, smiling, waved the honor, but when the City Attorney insisted that Mr. Macbeth should address the waiting assemblage he did so with honor and credit to his profession, to his race and to his country.

In part, while pointing to the American flag that hung over the judge's head, he said:

"I am not here to defend any race, or color or creed, but the Stars and Stripes—the honor and integrity of my country. I charge this trustee board and other authorities of Manhattan with fraud, and with concocting a scheme under the guise of the law by which they may discriminate against a certain class of people—Negroes—in this community, many of whom are property owners at Manhattan and a loyal American.

"Why, your honor, the whole thing reeks with fraud, and deception, and is a blot on Americanism."

The only sign of feeling displayed by his honor, the judge, was the reddening of neck and face as he sat beneath the fiery darts of Atty. Macbeth, who, in his handling of this case demonstrates utter unselfishness in defending the defenseless. In closing his remarks Atty. Macbeth said that our contention is that this board of trustees had no right to give away the property in question.

In deciding the case the judge invited the defense's attention to section 416 of the Penal Code.

Each defendant was found guilty, and had to furnish $200.00 cash, or $500 property bond pending an appeal.

Slavery Still Exists

(By: A. [illegible])

New York City, August 2.—That slavery [illegible] in other parts of the world was indicated in the report of the July meeting of the Anti-Slavery and Aborigines Protection Society, which was held in Central Hall, London. The organization reported that while all civilized nations have formally abolished slavery, there are yet millions of people being held in the outlying parts of the world.

The dispatches from Australia report of the conditions of natives there in very harsh terms declare that "the great evil was the misuse of native women by whites, which had led to a large proportion of half castes." The whites are disposed to regard the Australian natives as being hopeless and declare they are yet in the "stone age" but missionaries testify that they have many commendable qualities.

ONE a trainer of athletes.

THE OTHER a writer on athletics, etc., in the L. A. Times.

FROM their names you may judge they have the proverbial Irish wit, and they are full of tales. "Now I'll tell one," says Jerry, and "now I'll tell one," says O'Malley.

JERRY McCARTY told of two preliminary fighters who attracted the attention of spectators by stopping in the midst of the slugging to talk.

"What are they saying?" asked one spectator of another.

"Oh, they are only apologizing to each other when they miss hitting each other," came the answer.

SPEAKING of apologies, the Central Avenue fans will be busy apologizing for our own Mushy M. he fails to put Sergeant Baker in the guardhouse when they meet at Wrigley Field.

Mushy is well liked by the colored fans. He ran barefooted as a kid along the Avenue, went to school, played and fought with them and they are all 100% behind him.

Clisby Proves Himself Mack House's Master

As Watson Burns the manager of Mack House reluctantly admitted "Neil" has another great boy in the same Ilfornia Bear." And although Watson further adds by way of detraction that Neil has never knocked out anyone but Mack, yet if he is the great fighter he was thought to be then that means a lot to knock out the king of them all. At any rate the main bout at Morrie Cohan's Pasadena arena last Thursday reads something like this:

Round 1—They shake hands. House leads with light left jab to head; follows up with left hook. Clisby steps inside, crosses right to jaw, Mack's legs sag, Clisby shoots hard right to jaw— and Mack goes down and way out. Time 1 minute, 15 seconds.

This makes the second time within the month that Clisby has turned the trick for Mack so Neil will have to be fed some better heavies.

JIMMIE BLACK A GREAT BOY

Tom Jones the wise champion maker has onther great boy in the same stable with Neil. This is Jimmy Black who fought the semi-windup against one of the foxiest and trickiest little old gentlemen that ever fought 15 years with hardly a mark. This was Ralph Lincoln. For all his smartness Jimmy boxed rings arounds him and can knock him out any time he will fight instead of hold and run. Jimmy starred the card at Wilmington, Wednesday night.

Along Fisticuffs Row

THE DAILY RECORD last Thursday said that Mack House had the "big head" just before the first Clisby bout. These dailies will speak right out! Perhaps the faithful colored weeklies ought to do so too; it would help the game.

CHEPNEY MILLER is now under the management of Tom Scott. His contract was offered one day last week for $500. That colored boy shows great promise. His contract may be worth $5000 in another year.

Egden, Rice, Kelly, Grayson, Cisto, in fact all the dailies and most of the weeklies have exceptionally good writers, a full sketch of whom we will give at another time. And California is a wonderful field for their efforts.

EASTERN COLORED LIGHTWEIGHT DEMON HEADED WEST

MANAGER PRAISES WESTERN SPORTSMEN

The letter below induced the California Eagle to take especial pains to see that Mr. Doran, an able fight manager got acquainted with as many of the prominent men of the fight game as his short stay here allowed. Among those he met were "Pop" Hubely, Jack Russel, Carlo Curtis, "Pop" Neiles, George Brown, Johnny Forbes, Wirt Ross, Mr. Winston, co-manager with Tom Jones and many others. He voted them all a fine lot of sportsmen and regretted not meeting Si Masters, Jack Doyle, Dick Donald and other bright stars of the sport world he had heard of. He will return soon with Battling Dozier.

Wichita, Kans., July 15, 1927.

MR. J. B. BASS,
Editor, California Eagle,
Los Angeles, Cal.

My dear friend Joe:

This will introduce to you Mr. J. W. Doran, a fellow citizen of our town, in whom we all have a deep interest and place the most implicit confidence. He is a square shooter and his life reflects the noble words of the famous Scotch bard, "A man's a man for a' that."

He has been interested in the fight game for several years and has several boys of our group in his care who seem to be making it to the top of the ladder in the fight game, especially are we impressed with the possibilities of Battling Dozier, a fighting demon of this burg. They all think well of him for he has always given and demanded for them a square deal and protected their interests at all hazards.

Mr. Doran is a man of strictest integrity and if you will put him in touch with a few of the worthwhile men in the fight game in your locality, I will consider it a personal favor and thank you for the same, giving you my fullest assurance than any courtesy shown him will be worthily bestowed.

Thanking you in advance, with best wishes for your success and prosperity, I am with kindest regards,

Your old friends,
W. A. BETTIS.

VERNON JACKSON TOPS LOMPOC

Vernon Jackson the great little band-boy bantam is toppin gthe card at Lompoc, Friday night. He meets a good boy in Benny Ferrel. The whole card looks like this:

Vernon Jackson vs. Benny Ferrell, 8 rounds; Jek Miller vs. Pat Yanko, six rounds; Iyama Soko vs. Amado Also, six rounds; Antonio Parra vs. Joe McCarthy, four rounds.

Bath Day Bouts at Main St. Club Send You Home Early

Those Saturday night fights at the Main St. A. C. it seems get the grand finish on a week of boxing which each week takes place in more different clubs than in many of the cities back East. As a rule all the bouts from 1st preliminary to the 8 round main bout take place as if the boxers had a grudge at themselves, at each other and at the clock, for as a rule they seldom go the limit, each fight often ending in a knockout. Last Saturday night was featured by a grilling toe to toe slugging match between Rudy Steiner and Vincente Aguilar which had the fans on their feet half the time.

The card for Saturday, August 6th follows:

Reckless Gardner vs. Kid Jones, main event, 8 rounds; Jackie Blanket vs. Bobby Harris, semi-windup, 6 rounds; Young Chappy vs. Joe Rodney, six rounds; Young Mack vs. Kid Bailey, four rounds; Young Jack Dempsey vs. Young Corbett, four rounds.

Bettors Get All "Het Up" At Tia Juana Dog Races

If there is any doubt as to how strong the betting is on the Dog Races at Tia Juana now, in the midst of the season, one has only to take a look in to see there is even sharper betting. There is one thing sure, you can't frame a dog or buy his jockey. He has none; just runs, that's all.

A track record was smashed to bits when Gold Leaf, Virt G. Bowman's brindle dog, took the Pantages Theater Stakes, going the quarter mile in 25 4-5 seconds. Gold Leafe, a consistent winner at the stadium, was slightly overlooked by the clockers and had a good reward for his backers. Miracle Man, the favorite, was second by three lengths.

Concerning Mr. Norman Hartford's article in the Referee commending the attitude of good Negro sports towards comedian boxers, this is an artist's conception of how small big George Godfrey would look beside the late Bert Williams, a real comedian. Every man to his trade.

Who Should Meet La Barba For The Championship?

BY: "POP" BARRET

With Mr. George Blake, now with us again, and his great little champion, Fidel La Barba, on his way home, it is interesting to read the pro's and con's, as to whom will meet Fidel for his title before he quits the game to enter College.

According to talk hereabouts, one would believe that we on the Coast, had very little knowledge of things pugilistically. Just imagine the thoughts in the minds of those in the game the other side of the Rockies, when they read that we only know of three men that can fight in the fly-weight class, Fidel La Barba, Newsboy Brown and Johnny Vacca, when every man in the game should know that Vacca is a legitimate bantam, while at the real weigt of 113 pounds, Brown would be more fit to enter a hospital than entering the ring to fight for a title, and to mention that either Brown or Vacca, is booked to meet La Barba, for the title, would only be fooling the fight fans.

There is an old saying that Brooks, (especially in this game) really makes the fighter, and Brooks surely made Johnny Vacca on the Coast and the world back in Boston, Mass., several months ago, when Vacca met and defeated Fidel La Barba, which is now history.

The real opponent picked to meet La Barba, that first night, was Harry Goldstein, who beat Johnny Vacca, (before them, for the flyweight championship of the New England States) but looking over Goldstein in the ring before a match, any one knows, the only way Harry Goldstein could defeat anyone is

RUDY STEINER PULLS HIS 23RD K. O.

BY: A. RINGWORM

The figure 23 used to mean "skidoo" away back in the ancient days, so the writer saw a boxer hand his "skiddoo" sign on an opponent.

Rudy Steiner, Wyoming Cyclone, knocked out Aguilar, in the 7th round at the Main St. A. C., main event, Saturday night, July 30th.

Steiner, after being knocked down in the second round, brought into play his cyclone wallop, knocking Aguilar down for the count in the 3rd, 4th, 5th, 6th and 7th round. He went down for the last time, giving to Steiner 23 knckuts ut f 30 fights.

Aguilar put up a good fight displaying to the fans that he could stand plenty rough treatment.

This was one of the best fights ever staged by Carlo Curtis, manager of the Main St. A. C. Steiner carries a knockout in either hand and enjoys the reputation of having more power in his wallop than any boy his weight in the fighting game.

Since Steiner entered the main event spotlight he has successfully knocked out every man he has met. Steiner is rated as being the toughest kid that ever entered the ring.

In Steiner you may anticipate only one thing and that is a real fight from the sound of the gong.

Steiner is being handled by Johnnie Forbes, one of the world's greatest trainers all he is known as the trainer and handler of of champions. Forbes says he has today the only Mack House reluctantly admits, O'Neil Steiner is under the management of Carl Bradshear, known to the sporting world throughout the country.

LIGHTNING DAVIS IS BACK IN THE GAME

A COLORFUL FIGHTER

Fighters usually wait until they are old to start a "comeback" but not so with Lightning Davis, the fast 130 pound boy that Wm. Roberson has spotted for a clean up in California and parts East, North and South. Davis is not coming back from a slump or a discard but only from the movies in which he has been working since he gained that expressive name of "Lightning" by his quick, snappy punching and dassling footwork that tickled the fans p'nk a couple of years ago when he boxed at the various clubs, though only a kid. Now just starting in his 20's, he is "right as a fox" and is dodging no one from 130 to 135.

THE BLACK SPORT WORLD THROUGH THE EYES OF ART HAMILTON

Jcak Dempsey was successful in his comeback. He demonstrated to the 80,000 rabid fight fans in New York on the 21st, that he was 100% better than he was last September. He made a bad start letting Sharkey get the jump on him in the first three rounds, but from the 4th on the ex-champ seemed to go stronger.

Dempsey is still la terrific hitter but he has lost his speed. Sharkey undoubtedly will rise again to the top of the heap and Dempsey may pull the unexpected in September when he fights Gene Tunney. But, giving Dempsey all due credit for being a great show man and probably the greatest hitter of all times, there is, I think, a fighter who not only could tke the great Dempsey and also the gabby gob from Boston, but the world's heavyweight champion—this fighter is George Godfrey. Godfrey lacks one thing that would make him a greater fighter than Dempsey was in his prime—a fighting heart. He packs a mighty wallop in both hands. our friend Sharkey can testify to this. Sharkey was laid up for three weeks from the body beating Godfrey gave him when they fought in Boston three months ago. Buckley, Sharkey's manager said outright that one Godfrey bout was plenty when Godfrey asked for a rematch. Godfrey is in the East now seeking a match with Pauloine Uzcuden the conqerer of Harry Wills.

There is room at the top or fistic circles for a lot of colored talent just at the present. Negroes are not doing much in a fistic way just now. There are very few seriously-taken contenders for any of the titles. Big George Godfrey is the only heavyweight worth mentioning. Fighting Bob Lawson was knocked out of fistic limelight the other day when Paul Berlenbach staging a comeback knocked him out in the seventh.

Old Tiger Flowers was robbed of his title in Chicago and there doesn't seem to be much of a chance for a rematch. Jack Kearns is too smart for that. Bruce Flowers was flattened by a third rater in New York last week so that lets him out of the lightweight picture. Baby Joe Gans has yet to meet a fighter that will show his real worth. Santiago Zorilla would give Bud Taylor a whale of a battle but his nationality is classed as Indian.

So folks, to make a long story short, there is a fairly lucrative job open in fistic circles for some aspiring young Senegambain.

BABY JOE GANS the Young Master is slated to take Dick Ramies to a boxing school at the San Diego Coliseum, Saturday night. Ramies is very smart but Gans is smarter.

DEMPSEY, SHARKEY TUNNEY

BY: WILLIAM PICKENS
(For the Associated Negro Press)

In spite of the fact that "Jack" Dempsey is one of the most notorious color-dodgers in the history of the ring, we find ourself rather pleased that he licked Sharkey. In the first place, Sharkey is (or was) a plain braggart; but we think that the curious twist in our psychology is due to the fact that we never considered the Dempsey-Tunney fight in Philadelphia a clean fight. We felt that big money played to big a part in that fight, and that it should be due ver in a real fight. Stepping over Sharkey puts Dempsey face to face with Tunney again. Perhaps that prospect satisfies something in our subconscious.

Of course, Sharkey seeks to minimize the defeat by saying that Dempsey committed a foul. He got rid of "Jack" on a foul. But now the referee says, "Dempsey won't foul."

Why, of course, not! Mister Dempsey is a "white" man. And who ever heard of a white man committing a foul?

The Slogan "Fighters Who Fight" Originated by Tiger Flowers' Manager

HAS NEW CONNECTICUT TRAINING CAMP

BY: FAIR DEAL

"Fighters Who Fight" has become a popular slogan with boxing managers in all parts of the country now but few folks know that Walk Miller, the originator of same, is one of the few who really bends his best efforts to see that his warriors live up to it.

Millers idea is that any boxer who goes in the ring, not properly conditioned, is obtaining money under false pretenses. Therefore in order to see that his own never had any such experiences, he bought a large farm down near Atlanta, Ga., of many acres and set about to have it transformed into a Health Farm, not in name only but in reality.

After equipping it throughout with the very best athletic pharaphanalia that could be obtained, his gym is second to none in the U. S., it has high ceiling, windows that almost entirely surround it, letting in sunshine and fresh air and hot and cold showers as well. Miller sent for Dr. Carl J. Studer to come over from El Paso and take charge of it.

However, due to the fact that so many of his boys are boxing in the North and East, Miller found it was a little inconvenient to have them down there so far away, consequently he established another Health Farm nearer and selected Norwalk, Conn., as the place to locate.

Studer, one of the very best conditioners in the game, who understands anatomy from all angles and who is supervisor over all their training. He also has imported a chef to see that they are only allowed to eat the food that is best for them and the ole Doc is one strict boss.

It is rumored about on the Frivolous Fifties that Tex Rickard is contemplating staging a bout between Mickey Walker and Tiger Flowers on the eve of the Dempsey-Sharkey fracas. The joyless Georgian is hoping this is not just another one of those things.

Old Diogenes, had he lived today would have tossed his lanter nin the subway howling lon gand loud for a searchlight in his hopeless quest.

The Los Angeles Junior Chamber of Commerce has given a beautiful trophy cup which will be the perpetual prize. Other trophies will be given for the golf, tennis and basketball tournaments which the City Engineers are planning to develop with the other engineers during 1928.

The City Engineers have planned an elaborate reception for the Bay City Boys. On August 5th they will hold an auto parade in the downtown section. Many of the cities' prominent athletic individuals, movie stars and the Bureau of Power and Light Band will feature the affair. The Bureau band of 50 pieces will also be on hand to furnish music at the ball game.

When the Bay City squad arrives they will be escorted to their headquarters at the Clark Hotel by a delegation of fifty prominent engineers, under the leadership of City Engineer Shaw.

Due to the fire which completely destroyed Maier Park, the engineers were forced to change the location of the meet to the White Sox Ball Park. Over four thousand tickets have been sold. The engineers report that due to the added interest of Jack Dempsey announcing his intent to referee the boxing match they are hard pressed to handle the flood of requests for tickets that are pouring in. Arrangements with the Police Department hve been made to detail a large squad of officers to handle the crowd. Tommy Carter, Ass't. Engineer, and ex-lightweight champion of the Pacific Coast, is scheduled to box four rounds with Freddie Miller, of the San Francisco Engineers. Miller is well-known in Bay City Amateur boxing circles. During spare time, Tommy has worked out in the old Stable under Eddie Sears. Carter reports that he is ready for the mill and his old K. O. wallop is still good. He expects to take the measure of Miller in a couple of rounds. Jck Dempsey has promised to referee this bout.

Mystic Order of Wisemen Have Beautiful and Impressive Opening

On last Friday evening, the Mystic Order of Wise Men of the East and West, the ancient Egyptian Order which has been organized in this city, made its formal opening to the public at their newly remodeled and beautifully decorated hall, corner of Washington and Central avenue. The program and ceremonies marking their opening, were both beautiful and impressive, and met with a hearty and enthusiastic response by those present. All of the supreme officers appeared in full uniform and regalia and marched to the rostrum down an aisle covered with canvas and lined on either side with a row of uniformed guards equipped with sabres, shields and spears.

Dr. Wilbur C. Gordon, supreme grand examiner of the Order, acted as Master of Ceremonies. A paper giving the aims and ideals of the order was read by Mrs. Green, and the chief address of the evening was delivered by Mr. Hugh Gordon on "A Peep Into the Past," giving a brief history of the Negro or Hamitic Race, and tracing the Negro's lineage back to Abraham, Mr. Gordon's address was a masterpiece both in information and delivery. Four beautiful musical selections rendered by the famous Bilbrew Ladies' Quartette, and two vocal selections charmingly rendered by Mrs. Emma Smith, soloist, were the musical treats of the evening.

After the ceremonies and program were over, the guests were served to delicious punch, and spent the remainder of the evening in dance, placing their final stamp of approval on the Wise Men for their beautiful dance floor and spacious hall. The hall was beautifully and tastefully decorated in streamers of blue and orange lights, carrying out the official colors of the Order, and in festoons and garlands of yellow flowe, and palms, the floor of the stage being covered with a carpet of grass. All decorations were in charge of Ralphe W. Porter of Flowerland Studio.

Mr. Robert W. Willis, general organizer and Supreme Grand Mohar of the order, was introduced but reserved all remarks until the public installation of officers is made sometime soon. Mr. Willis, through this order, promises something of real value to the public along the line of co-operation and racial pride and consciousness, which has not heretofore been attempted by any Negro organization, and will give a more detailed statement of his dreams and plans in the near future. Meanwhile the membership is being rapidly increased.

Heroic Musicians Play As Boat Sinks

(By: A. N. P.)

Chicago, Ill., August 1.—Heroism and tragedy mingled here Friday afternoon, when the lake steamer, The Favorite, loaded with women and children was struck by a squall one mile from North Pier and sank into Lake Michigan. The catastrophe, which was likened to the tragic sinking of Lakeland here twelve years ago, resulted in the death of about thirty women and children.

Vying with the heroic efforts of divers, swimmer and crews on launches to save the women and children, who were struggling in the water, were the efforts of John C. Butler and John Jones, Colored musicians, to calm the panic stricken women and children. Facing death, these two heroic musicians stuck to their post, playing "Four Leaf Clover" until swept into the lake by the storm. Both were rescued by a motor launch.

Butler Tells Story

John C. Butler, when questioned concerning the tragedy told the following story of the affair:

"The Favorite was Midway between the pier in Lincoln Park and the Municipal Pier," he said, "A squall came up. At first there was a terrific wind. We were all looking for rain.

"Ominous black clouds had gathered. Still, my partner, John Jones, who plays the mandolin and myself playing a banjo continued to strum the "Four Leaf Clover."

"We thought we would calm the eighty passengers. Most of them were women. There were a dozen babies with these women passengers.

"Well, when the rain finally came along, everybody dashed for the East side of the boat. There is no awning anywhere on the boat.

"The weight of the passengers on the East side of the boat caused it to sink. There were only two life boats and a raft on the ship. The captain, who had his wife and daughter aboard, tried to launch the life saving boats. They only managed to get one afloat.

"Women were screaming and yelling to save their children. I saw one woman go down clutching her infant to her breast. Another woman deliberately hurled her baby into the boat that was floated when she found there was no room for her. I believe she was drowned.

"There are only two decks on the Favorite. After the squall came up, I tried to gain the upper deck. As the boat tilted, I was pitched into the water. I don't know how I was rescued."

Mr. Butler had gone down the third time before he was picked up by rescues, and his partner had made the second trip beneath the water before he was saved.

Shriners Prepare For Annual Convention

(By: A. N. P.)

Newark, N. J., Aug. 1.—This city will be in the grip of one of the most significant and spectacular conventions ever held here, from August 21, through August 31st, according to the proclamation issued by Imperial Potentate Caesar R. Blake, Jr., which decrees that the 28th annual conclave of the ancient Egyptian Arabic Order, Nobles of the Mystic Shrine, affiliated with Prince Hall Masonry, will be held here.

According to a statement, issued by J. A. Jackson, imperial publicist, 122 temples, aggregating a membership of 15,00 Masons of the higher degree, will be represented at the sessions here with Golconda Tempie, No. 21, as the host.

The 15,000 Nobles are selected from the Knights Templars and Scottish Rites Masons of the 32nd degree militant branch of the Masonic fraternity, which are inturn fabricated from the nearly 450,000 Master Masons of the affiliation that has grown out of the lodge established by Prince Hall in Boston in revolutionary days.

From the opening session, at which prominent city and state officials will speak, to the picturesque parade on the final day, the program will be chockful of activities of interest to delegates, visiting Nobles and "Camp followers." This program is made up of business sessions, drill contests between Arab and Egyptian patrols and marching clubs of various temples including the Medinah Temple No. 19 of New York City, and Arabic Temple No. 13 of Chicago which boasts of the largest temple in the jurisdiction and the championship drill patrol, coached by Alderman R. H. Jackson.

The parade on the final day will be under the supervision of Clarence E. Dunlap, Imperial Commander of Imperial Circle of Indianapolis, Ind., and Chas. Thorpe, New York, imperial master and will be participated in by patrols from New York, Chicago, Boston, Atlantic City, New Haven, Philadelphia, Baltimore, Washington, Pittsburg, Louisville, Cincinnati, St. Louis, Buffalo, Indianapolis, Kansas City, Columbus, Ohio, Richmond, Norfolk, Jacksonville, Fla., and other cities [illegible]

Mississippi Delta Region Faces New Menace

COLORED FLOOD REHABILITATION COMMISSION TO INVESTIGATE ALL COMPLAINTS ARISING FROM COLORED REFUGEES

(By: A. N. P.)

Jackson, Miss., Aug. 3.—In a statement issued Monday, Dr. F. L. Underwood, State Health Officer, declared that the Mississippi Delta is threatened by a serious outbreak of pellagra, due chiefly to the lack of a sufficient milk supply.

At the time the Health Officer made his statement, there were several cases, but no deaths had been reported. The physician however, said that unless the situation is remedied at once by a proper diet that dire results would follow. Already many cases of insanity have been caused by the ravages of the disease.

In this section, as in all of the flood afea, the majority of inhabitants are Negroes, who till the soil as farm owners, renters, tennant farmers and as share-croppers, and are therefore the chief sufferers. These people lost most of their cows along with other property when the Mississippi River swept over its banks leaving in its wake, destruction and death. Pellagra seems to attack poor whites more readily than Negroes but every precaution is being used and efforts made to provide an adequate milk supply, by replacing the cows, which were swept away.

The Red Cross has arranged to have members of the Colored Flood Rehabilitation Commission of which Dr. R. R. Moton is chairman, investigate all the complaints arising from colored people which involve discrimination or mistreatment in any way. In the investigations required in the several states, President Joseph S. Clark of Southern University, will have immediate charge of Louisiana, Dr. L. M. McCoy, President of Rust College, Holly Springs, Miss. and H. C. Ray, chief extension agent with headquarters at Little Rock for Arkansas. Every facility of the Red Cross and additional state workers are to be placed at the service of these state chiefs.

JACK DEMPSEY TO REFEREE BOUT

The Bay City Engineers escorted by M. M. O'Shaughnessy, City Engineer of San Francisco and over two hundred rooters are en route to Los Angeles to tangle with the Los Angeles City Engineers ball squad at the White Sox Baseball Park, 38th and Compton avenue, on August 6th, at 2 P. M.

The City Engineers Athletic Association has sponsored a coastwise league which will embrace Seattle, Portland, San Francisco and San Diego. This ball game will be the first of a series of three to decide the State Championship. It is reported that the other cities are each whipping a ball team into shape to enter the fray.

Much enthusasm has been aroused and keen rivalry is developing between the stated engineering departments.

AUTO HAPPENINGS

BY: ANNONYMOUS

Friends, Countrymen, and Lovers, much has happened since the last issue of the Eagle in the auto line. To wit: The speed laws have been rearranged for the benefit of the auto public and you are now permitted to increase your speed 5 miles more or 40 miles per hour. Not a fraction over, remember, or you may find yourselves in conference with the notorious professional bail bondsmen that are causing so much discomfort in police circles both as to themselves, yourself, and the judges. So friends and enemies beware! I say BEWARE!

Gasoline, that precious fluid that flows from the bosom of the earth mainly through the Rockefeller, Doheny and Shell pipe lines, for a financial consideration of so much per gal. has raised in price. Two cents has been added making gas 21½ cents per gal. The people elected some Senators and Legislators and they in turn elected to raise the tax 1 cent, making it 3 cents all told, and the oil companies in turn elected to select the auto public to pass the tax on to pay and as a result the street cars are getting lots of business for the voters are leaving their cars at home. That dear reader, is diagnosed in scientific English as "passing the buck."

Owing to the fact that so many motorcycle cops were complaining of their backs hurting them, the City Council held counsel and debated whether or no they should hire new and younger men or can the motorcycles and buy autos. Results: They decided to retain the men and dispose of the motorcycles. So now we have a bunch of new geared up Bricks parading two cops each. As it costs more to arrest each offender, now owing to the use of autos, your fine is now doubled.

VACATION INFORMATION

"PLAN YOUR TRIP" ADVISES AUTO CLUB

"Plan your trip."

That is the suggestion offered the motorist by the Touring Department of the National Automobile Club, which routes hundreds of motorists annually through all parts of the United States.

Lost time, inconvenience, rough roads, roundabout driving and the exclusion of points of historic and scenic interest—all these are the result of haphazard touring. If the journey is to be enjoyed to the fullest extent, it must be planned in such a way as to insure the best time; to avoid as much as possible all bad stretches of road; to reach the point of destination by the shortest and best route and to include all points of interest. In this way a maximum distance is covered and long stops can be made at desirable locations. These suggestions apply to long trips as well as to shorter ones.

If the tourist has in his possession an up-to-date road map or chart and the latest knowledge of road conditions, and knows where the best camping places or accommodations are to be found, he is saved from making mistakes which might cause much inconvenience. No chances of undesirable stays need be taken by the motorist. He need only plan his journey in advance.

Casual inquiry of a bystander is likely to mislead the traveler as more often than not, the answer is a haphazard guess. Road conditions are constantly changing and up-to-the-minute information is the only preventive against making mistakes which may cause hours of uncalled for unpleasantness.

On almost every road or highway there are points of especially interest, but they may slip by unnoticed. Sometimes they are at a distance from the trunk highway. Their exact location on a map will point the way. Knowledge of the history of a city also often enhances the pleasures of sight-seeing.

Avail yourself of the privileges to which you are entitled as a member of an automobile club.

ROADS IN YOSEMITE NOT GOOD, REPORT

Roads in the floor of Yosemite Valley are not in very good condition, according to the Touring Department of the National Automobile Club. Extensive construction has made necessary the closing of many of the roads and others are unpleasant to drive on. The hiking trails, by which the most beautiful parts of the Valley are reached are not affected by the construction work.

Roads leading into Yosemite are in good condition.

CAMPERS REMINDED OF IMPORTANT DUTY

Campers should remember three very important things. First, when camp is made, two holes should be dug, one for the fire and another for tin cans and other refuse. Second, these should be used. Third, when camp is struck, the holes should be covered completely.

That is the duty of every camper, according to the National Automobile Club. By fulfilling this duty, he will show a trait of good character and leave behind him the imprint of civilization.

ROADS TO CRATER LAKE IN GOOD CONDITION

Roads to Crater Lake are in exceptionally good condition, according to the Touring Department of the National Automobile Club.

From Medford, Oregon, there is a good graded road to Trail and Prospect. Careful driving is necessary on this stretch as there is considerable loose gravel. From Prospect to the park boundary is in fine condition, being a wide, hard-surfaced, graded gravel road. Excellent time can be made over this part of the road. Pavement is encountered at the park boundary and continues for three miles. Then there is a good gravel road to Anna Springs checking station.

The Park is particularly beautiful at this time of the year as there is an abundance of water in the streams and snow along the road. There is one snowbank approximately ten feet high against the side of the hotel.

From Anna Springs to the Lodge, about five miles, the road is in good condition although a little muddy in places.

The return road from Crater Lake to Klamath Falls is also in exceptionally good condition, having been recently oiled. Dust has been eliminated by the oiling process. The Green Springs Road from Klamath Falls to the Pacific Highway is in excellent condition. There is some oiling being done on this part of the road, but traffic is handled around and no inconvenience is experienced.

Both the road from Medford and the Green Springs Road to Klammath Falls are very scenic as the Medford Road follows the canyon of the Rogue River for a considerable distance and passes through the Crater National Forest for many miles. The road from Crater Lake to Klamath Falls follows the short of Klamath Lake which lake is famous for the white pelicans which make it their home. From Klamath Falls the road winds along the course of the Klamath River for quite a distance and also passes through miles of virgin forest.

FISHING REPORTED GOOD IN LAKES NEAR BISHOP

Fishing is now very good in June and Gull Lakes, near Bishop. The best flies for June Lake are Dave Davis and the best at Gull Lake are Jack Lloyd. Worms are good bait at both these lakes. The trails are now open to the head-waters of the San Joaquin, including the Lakes, Thousand Isles, Shadow and Garnet. The first parties in to these lakes have reported extraordinarily good sport. The sagehen season also promises well in this district.

VANCOUVER IS MECCA FOR MANY MOTORISTS

Vancouver, B. C., is now the mecca for hundreds of motorists. The roads near Vancouver are famous for their excellence, and there are many fine drives, varying from an hour to a day in time. Stanley Park is a wonderful forest within the city limits of Vancouver and contains thousands of Douglas fir and giant cedars of amazing size and age. The park is encircled by a splendid road, nine miles in length.

The "Marine Drive" takes the visitor through the best residential parts of the city, including Shaughnessy Heights and Point Grey, thence to the mouth of the Fraser River, with its fleets of salmon trawlers, and back along the coast, past bathing beaches and golf links.

Capilano Canyon, a gorge of great natural beauty in North Vancouver, is reached by a newly erected bridge over the Second Narrows. The suspension bridge across the canyon, 230 feet above the rushing waters is visited by thousands annually.

BOOKER T. AND THE AUTO

SCHOOL ON WHEELS FAMOUS IN SOUTH

"The Booker T. Washington School on Wheels," maintained by the Tuskegee Institute, was founded by Booker T. Washington and is probably the most famous school of its kind in the country.

Dr. Washington, anxious to assist his fellows, many of whom were living in miserable conditions on their farms in the South, secured financial assistance from a wealthy man in the North and sent out a wagon equipped with garden tools, dairy apparatus and farm implements. With the wagon, instructors went through the poorer regions of the South and brought education to dwellers in out-of-the-way places. Specimens of well-bred livestock and of good crops were also shown.

This venture was a success and out of it has grown the present school which is mounted on a truck and reaches hundreds of Negro farmers yearly. It travels in districts which are inaccessible by railroad and brings improved means of living to many who would otherwise never come in contact with modern methods. Arrangements for the school's coming are made in advance and it "keeps" the year around, giving an education of a practical nature.

"School on Wheels" are also operated in some states by the Forest Service in an effort to educate people in the methods of fire prevention. Last year these schools drew audiences of 27,000 persons and traveled 7,000 miles. One truck traveled through the State of Arkansas and another covered the Appalachian regions and Florida. Each school carries several instructors.

Advice on 'Road Hog' Given by Auto Club

"Don't give the 'road-hog' a chance to display his hoggishness."

It is pointed out that one of the best methods of dealing with the selfish driver is that of denying him an opportunity of getting into action. While this means of treatment cannot be used against all types of "road-hogs," it is very effective in dealing with two of the most dangerous classes, namely; the "straight-at-you" driver and the driver who speeds up as he is being passed while another car is approaching from the opposite direction.

When a driver takes the middle of the road and moves his machine straight at the approaching car, it is better to turn out and let him speed by than to contest the road with him—far better than to risk a head-on collision.

Again, it is safer to be sure that there is sufficient room to pass a car before attempting to when there is an approaching car to be considered. Selfish drivers have no signal to show that they mean to speed up as they are passed. Their satisfaction comes from giving another driver a bad scare. The careful driver can experience no satisfaction that will repay him for the chances of a "wedge-collision" which is likely to be the result of such a situation if it is not perfectly timed.

For reasons of safety, the "road-hog" that cuts close in front of another car, must also be given the right-of-way although he by no means deserves it.

Until such a time as the "sluggard" is regulated by the motor vehicle laws, a lusty toot of the horn, and a sharp eye to his movements are the only means of dealing with that type of driver.

Then there is the driver who always contests the right-of-way, no matter what the circumstances. Let him have his way rather than take dangerous chances.

SOUTHERN PACIFIC RED CAPS DENOUNCE ACTIONS OF BOSTON USHERS IN REFUSING TO GIVE BLOOD TO BUDDY

The following article appeared in the Eagle last week and drew the severe criticism of President James A. Gray of the Red Caps and Janitors Association:

"Boston, Mass, July 27.—Ollie Clark, Red Cap for the Boston and Albany Railroad at Trinity Place, lost his leg when he slipped and fell from the North Shore Limited train. He was taken to the Massachusetts General Hospital where his mangled foot caused his whole left leg to be amputated. At the hospital doctors asked that some fellow Red Cap give a pint of blood to SAVE CLARK'S LIFE, no Red Cap responded."

President Gray made the following statement when interview as to what his organization would do in a case of this nature:

"There is not a man in our organization that would not gladly sacrifice a pint of blood to save his fellow worker's life. I cannot understand what kind of men young Clark was working with to refuse a request of this kind. Too bad he cannot come West where men are men. The statement of Mr. Gray only goes to prove the caliber of red caps that serve the traveling public in Los Angeles.

PASSENGER SERVICE BY AIR FROM S. F. TO CHICAGO STARTED

Passengers who left San Francisco on the first passenger airplane last Monday will arrive in Chicago 24 hours later, saving 46 hours on the train ride. The saving of time and the thrill of the ride will cost just $200. There will be three changes of planes on the way, Salt Lake, Cheyenne, and Omaha. Reservations for the trip have all been filled ten days ahead. The Pullman Company should have no fear of this service having a telling effect on their business for the simple reason that on this airplane the travelling public will not be able to get the brand of service from a trained and efficient Pullman Porter as he does on land. He cannot ring the bell and say, "Porter, bring me a pillow." He cannot ring the bell and say, "Bring me a glass of water," or "get this from the diner," and many other comforts he must sacrifice for the time he saves. His shoes will look the same or maybe worse when he gets off in Chicago, and if he is a little nervous when he starts, it is a cinch he will be a nervous wreck when he gets to his destination. The writer does not wish to be misunderstood as knocking this new way of travelling, still as it appears at present the monarchs of the air have not made any place where a porter can be used and naturally he could not be expected to boost it. AIR THEE WELL.

PULLMAN PORTERS MAKE SPLENDID SHOWING DURING JULY

The month of July has just passed out, hot, and a passenger irritator. July and August have always been two very trying months as far as a porter is concerned. They are the two hottest months in the year and as a rule are the months in which most complaints are received on service by over-heated and many times unreasonable passengers. Pullman cars as a rule after laying in the yards all day in the sun, back into the depot like a hot furnace, and it is entirely up to the porter to get it cool in as short a time as it is humanly possible for him to do so. Passengers not accustomed to travelling insist on both windows being raised and the result is a dirty car and a still warmer one. Complaints are numerous and the slightest error on the part of the porter brings down the wrath of an overheated passenger. He sees no one else on whom he can take his spite out on and the porter is the goat. However, the month of July has passed with only a small percentage of complaints of this nature, and shows that Los Angeles men are right on the job. Let's go through August the same way.

It is said that it cost the Pennsylvania Railroad $1000 for 10 minutes of broadcasting to put this program on. It is a great advertisement for the road.

Elsinore

Just a line to the writer's readers who are hibernating in Elsinore—May you enjoy your vacation in this wonderful resort. It has always been the writer's fondest ambition to be able to find the time that his more fortunate readers have managed to do in order to spend a week or more at Elsinore. This popular resort is the talk of the elite of Los Angeles and when one says that they are going to Elsinore to spend their vacation it has almost the same effect as saying you are going to Europe. I envy you, but rejoice in the fact that I shall not always be a slave to the City, and some day, I too will pack my corona, my pad and my pencil to that haven of rest, peace and quietness and derive there from inspirations from the trees, the streams and the happy summer colony of my readers at ELSINORE.

War Declared on Lower California Development Company

In the writing of these articles from week to week we have tried to confine ourselves to comments pertinent to the rise and fall of the Lower California Mexican Land and Development Co., and to avoid generalities concerning the conduct of Negro business. However, we find it necessary at this time to draw some comparisons between the operation of the Lower California Mexican Land and Development Company and the operations of an ordinary business of like character and scope in ideal.

In reading the following you will please remember that our knowledge of what should have been done has been gleaned from ignorance of business methods and processes, we placed ourselves so unreservedly in the hands of some about us thought we could trust both as to knowledge and character only to find ourselves so bitterly deceived.

First among the many things which we have learned from our bitter experience is that it is customary for all fiduciary and accurate performance of their duties. We may well assume that any reputable attorney of, even moderately successful practice, knowing this and would feel honor bound to so advise his clients especially if he were to assume one of those vacant offices, both for the protection of himself and the company. Our attorney, Hugh E. Macbeth, it seems either did not know, forgot, or willfully neglected to attend to this important matter.

Secondly we have been advised that it is standard business ethics for a corporation secretary to keep corporate funds in his personal checking account and misappropriate for personal use. Mike Newtown. Of course we have known this all along but it seems [illegible]

[illegible] down, but it seems our attorney, Hugh E. Macbeth, who was also our secretary was not quite so well advised. Either that or he decided that the violation of business as well as professional ethics in this instance was preferable. We wonder, why?

We also learned that it is customary for the books of a business enterprise to be audited at least once a year and a financial report issued to its board of directors by its auditors, its president and secretary. Every honest man welcomes an audit of his accounts especially where any individual, no matter how misguided, takes it upon himself to throw doubt upon that individual's honesty. We have been nine years in getting an audit of the books of this company; we have withstood scathing insults, threats, and waded through untold obstacles just to have a customary precaution performed. We wonder why? It has always seemed to me, and doubly so at this time, that if everything was clear and above board in the affairs of this company, the controlling officers, or should I say officer, would have long since acceded to our request, shut our mouths with the indisputable facts certified to by a reputable accountant, and marked us forever as disgruntled trouble makers. I wonder why all efforts have been to the contrary and only bribery, soft soaping and veiled threats are used to bring us into line.

Of course we knew, in conjunction with any other man of ordinary commonsense, that we could not sell property over which we had no title. We did not know until just a short time ago that the Lower California Land and Development Company did not and does not at this time own or have title to a single atom of the land composing the Santa Clara Ranch. Meekly, like fatatous sheep we have followed our leader to our undoing; we have sold our brothers and sisters, our devoted friends and followers, acre after acre of land which we did not own, to which we can never give a title, and which we had no right to sell. To add insult to injury we have sold them stock, which if an investigation were held, would be outlawed by the corporation Commissioner of the State.

Stock, the permit for the issuance of which was obtained under false pretenses upon the basis of falsehoods and misrepresentations. Yes, our attorney, Hugh E. Macbeth, secured these permits for us, and smoothed the way for all of us to become the co-deceivers of our friends, our brothers and our sisters. I wonder why? Must we assume ignorance, negligence, or "malice aforethought?"

And now we come to the comparison of notes between this and the ordinary business enterprise composed of reputable business men rather than of sheep who waddle contentedly to the tinkle of the bell of their leader until they find themselves facing destruction in the slaughter house. Where ever an officer or a group of officers do wrong the Board of Directors, the stockholders, all awake from their apathy, they protect their money in prompt action for redress. Do we? No. We hide our cowardice behind the cloak of racial solidarity and mistaken religious fanaticism. We babble behind the perpetrators back, and grin before his face; "we don't want to put our Colored Brother in the White Man's court" or let the "white people know all our business"—no matter how much he has robbed us. And behind it all looks nothing but cowardly fear and the pulsing of a guilty conscience.

RABBI CHARGES DISCRIMINATION

(By: A. N. P.)

Toronto, Can., July 30.—"Though Toronto has 40,000 Jews, who constitute about one-fourteenth of the population and though the University of Toronto does had among its most brilliant graduates Jewish students, it is practically impossible for a Jewish student to serve an internership in a Toronto hospital," declared the Rabbi Isserman of Bond Street Synagogue, this city. "Those medical students who want experience in addition to their college course must go for that experience to England. The General Hospital has no Jewish internes with the possible exception of one woman, it has no Jews on its staff. The hospital for Sick Children, a large proportion of whose patients are Jewish, has not one Jewish interne and has never had one," continued the Rabbi.

These assertions coming from the head of one of the Dominion's largest synagogues has stirred the hospital circles throughout the Province, and charges and denials are being regularly hurled. So far, there have been no complaints coming from Colored students in medicine, and while there are no Colored nurses, there are a few Chinese girls in training, and from these issue no complaints.

Grand United Order of Odd Fellows Hold Colorful Session At Riverside

The Annual Grand Session of the Grand United Order of Odd Fellows which closed on last Friday in the beautiful city of Riverside was one of the most colorful sessions ever held in the history of the Order. Every Lodge in the entire District composed of California and Oregon was represented by a delegate. Quite a few life members and Past Grand Masters were present. Among which were B. A. Johnson of Sacramento; J. C. Rivers of Oaklando; A. D. French of Chico and J. B. Bass of Los Angeles.

The session was marked by the constructive measures considered and adopted, among which was an Odd Fellows scholarship and the building of the Odd Fellows Home, and a closer working relation between the lodges and Households of Ruth.

RACE INFERIORITY

BY: L. E. J.

Certain races have assumed a "superior complex." This is especially true of the white race in its treatment of the black and yellow races. The white race, the American white man, regards the black race as a backward, ignorant race. It is true that the Negro was backwards several generations ago, but today his advencement is exceeded by no other race.

However, this feeling of inferiority toward the Negro continues to exist today in the form of America's greatest problem—the Negro problem. Race inferiority should not exist in this country, because this country as a Democratic country should equalize the status of all. A Democracy should guarantee equal rights to all, and special privileges to none. Race inferiority should not exist because of the progress the Negro has made. If the Negro when set free were content with idling and remaining ignorant he would be nothing but inferior to other races. But when set free was surrounded by a civilization which he has finally grasped after many hard struggles. Today any broad-minded white person will readily admit that as a nation about three generations from the shackles of slavery the Negro has made more progress than any other race in the world who has ever been in the same condition. This does not exclude the white race.

The Negro race is yet a young race and its boundless stores of energy, as is always found in anything with youth, will make it the most compelling race in America in time to come. If the white race should ever drop back in its progress the Negro will surely take its place, for in modern progress he is on par with the white race, and is far ahead of the yellow race whose civilization is so old and unchangeable. We cannot have progress without change, nor change without progress. However, at the present time the yellow race is undergoing a gradual change which will mean much in its future program.

The impartial white man admits rather reluctantly that the Negro is a compelling factor in America and urges the Negro youth to make it even more so.

BOMB IN THE SUBWAY

By: Wm. PICKENS

We wonder who put that tube of black powder and dynamite in the East River tunnel between New York and Brooklyn. We are not at all sure that any of the employees who were about to go on strike, put it there.

We do not intend to charge anybody with this deed, but we do intend to exercise our free-born American right to "suppose."

Well, "just suppose" somebody "planted" that bomb to help create feeling against the strikers if the strike had come to pass. "Suppose" somebody wanted to get public sentiment ready to support police brutality against the strikers, what better way than to make the innocent public think that the striking employees are so ruthless that they would not only damage the property of the car company but would even take the lives of passengers and other innocent people?

Did you notice that the bomb was "found" by one of the loyal employees of the company, and found after the strike had been averted? And did you notice that the infernal thing was not constructed and set so it could really explode, anyhow? The easiest thing about a bomb is to fix it so that it will explode. We can hardly believe that the one who placed this bomb ever meant for it to explode: either it was planted, to hurt the cause of the strikers, or if any prospective striker placed it there, he must have intended only to frighten passengers off the subway lines, for it was certainly set so as not to go off?

But it is difficult to conclude that regular union men would even "plant" a bomb, for that is just the way to help their cause to fail.

Own up! Who put that bomb there?

Mayor's Recall Gains Momentum

There is no question but that the Jacobson case has been a boomerang to the present City Administration; for regardless of the ultimate guilt or innocence of Councilman Jacobson, the people at this time believe him the victim of a police frame up. This situation reaches right back to the Mayor who is responsible for the police department.

At this moment long and loud are the cries for the recall of Mayor Cryer, and the petitions out asking for his recall are being readily signed as fast as presented, and there seems no question but what a sufficient number of names will be secured to cause an expression from the voters whether or not the mayor will be recalled.

THEY SAY

It is passingly strange that two great, big Captains would go out on a simple raid for an ordinary morals case. Also that the same attorneys are retained to defend the woman in the case, as "Marco" the big noise employs to look after the women who conduct the houses for him.

Also there are so many things in connection with the whole fabric which have a queer look that the people cannot get the angle any other way except it is a big frame.

DISMISSED FOR TELLING THE TRUTH

Police Officer Frank Randolph on last Friday was dismissed from the police force by the trial board of the Los Angeles Police Force.

There was no ceremony about the affair. He was simply fired without any sort of hearing.

Of course this will not be the last of the case, as the officer is under Civil Service, he will yet have his day in court.

The whole affair is an echo from the trial of M. S. Sheffield when Randolph through the course of things decided to come clean and tell God Truth. He went before the Grand Jury and gave his testimony, the charge against him was dismissed and he testified for the State.

For this he was fired as stated above.

Pacific Palisades Sight For 6th Annual Camp Of Urban League

The Mid-Way Camp, one of the most beautiful camp sites in the entire Pacific Palisades, has been secured by Mrs. Katherine J. Barr for the annual Urban League Camp for needy mothers and children of Los Angeles. This camp is rather inclined to be modern in every respect as there will be no tents to pitch, no water nor wood to carry, no lanterns for light and no indigestible food cooked in an open fire place. There will be attractive little tent houses with raised floors, running water ,electric lights and foods prepared in the camp kitchen by the chef in charge. Upon entering the camp each guests will be conducted into a private camp cottage, planned and erected for health and comfort. He will be surprised to find the tent homefully equipped and cosy as a bachelor's den. A short hike from the camp, a portion of the beach owned and controlled by the Pacific Palisades may be used by the campers for beach parties and swimming classes. For those who love the out-of-door life, yet fear the sudden change from warm homes to open air sleeping places, will find the home like atmosphere at the Pacific Palisades in Camp Mid-way safe for babies as well as for mothers. Mrs Barr will be assisted by a staff of consitrent workers who will try to keep everybody happy—an educational program has been arranged for the children and the mothers will be given instruction as to the proper care of the home. Miss Esther Griffin has been recently added to the staff to assist in Playground activities. The camp is proposed for needy mothers and children who are unable to pay for an outing at the least, but any woman or child wishing to spend one or two weeks in the camp may do so and receive all of the privileges for six dollars the week. Should you wish to go on the camp or send your kiddies it will be necessary for you to call at the Urban League Office and make reservation immediately as the camp opens Aug. 1st and closes September 1st.

MANHAATTAN BEACH CASE APPEALED

The case on appeal from the judgment of the local court at Manhattan Beach, which convicted Dr. H. C. Hudson and three other persons and assessed a fine of $200 each for bathing in the Pacific Ocean, was this day appealed to the Superior Court of Los Angeles County. The transcript consisted of 158 pages of typewritten matter. The case will be set and tried within the next 60 days at the courthouse in this city. Truly justice will yet assert itself.

ASSAILS PREJUDICE AND INTOLERANCE

Washington—At the North Carolina newspaper convention, at Morehead ,N. C., Julian Harris, editor of The Columbus ,Ga.) Enquirer-Sun, and relative of Joel Chandler Harris, creator of the Negro character "Uncle Remus," said that "illiteracy still thrives and prejudice and intolerance usurp the law and administer justice with the lash in the South." "A South illiterate and intolerant," continued Mr. Harris, "is a national menace".

Mr. Harris urged the editors to wield their influence against ignorance and intolerance and to help keep the South "in the path blazed by its founders." "Let each editor do his share toward ridding his section of the forces and ideas which are menacing its intellectual progress and spiritual growth and making a jest of justice and a lie of liberty."

They were given probation over a period of four years.

Up winding walks to East Hall on the campus of Hillsdale College at Hillsdale ,Michigan, twenty-three men and women of national and international repute will wend their way August 1-27 to discuss International, Economic, Industrial and Family Relations and new Educational Methods, and to discover, if possible, the real perplexities that now confront all races and groups of men dwelling on the face of the earth today.

The event, termed the "Third Annual Summer Conference," is under the auspices of the Fellowship for a Christian Social Order, of which Sherwood Eddy is Chairman of the National Committee, Kirby Page Chairman of the Executive Committee and Amy Blanche Green, Executive Secretary, whose offices are at 347 Madison Avenue ,New York City.

The two former conferences were held at Olivet, Michigan, where it was sought to combine physical recreation, wholesome social contacts, mental stimulus and spiritual refreshing.

Among the leaders in the discussion at the conference are:

Boris D. Borgen, Editor of the B'rie B'rith News; sponsor of Jewish Foundations in State Universities; prominent in Jewish social work and well acquainted with European affairs.

Paul E. Brissenden, ass't. professor of Economics, Columbia "U," former special agent of the California Commission of Immigration and Housing, former investigator of the United States Com. on Industrial Relations, author History of the I. Prohibition Officer Resigns

New York, N. Y., August 10.—(By the Associated Negro Press)—Information has been received in New York that Major August Heise, who was suspended and then reinstated in the prohibition service, following the charges of cruelty to witnesses, which were dismissed by a Federal Grand Jury last week, has tendered Commissioner Doran of the Prohibition service, his resignation.

The Commissioner granted Heise thirty days leave of absence which is taken as an indication Heise's resignation will be accepted.

Geo. L. Collins, Secy. Fellowship of Reconciliation who has specialized in race relations in connection with southern colleges and has met with student groups in several hundred colleges.

John J. Cornelius, lecturer and writer on international and inter-racial relations and delegate for India to the 19th World Conference of the Y. M. C. A. at Helsingfors, Finland and member of the American Seminar to Europe (with Sherwood Eddy) in 1926.

Among the eighteen others of equal prominence as students of International Relations and Educational Methods is T. Arnold Hill, Director of Industrial Relations of the National Urban League. Mr. Hill was formerly Executive Secretary of the Chicago Urban League having rendered service of great value to the City of Chicago during the trying period when thousands of Negroes were emigrating to the city from the Southland where for the most part they had lived and worked on farms and were unaccustomed to the low standards of city life.

Mr. Hill who visited L. A. last month is a well known writer on economic and industrial subjects. His address at the conference will deal extensively with economic and industrial topics.

All races and creeds will be represented at the conference and Mr. Hill is the only Negro on the program.

ON THE SIDEWALK

By C. A. B.

AIMEE SIDETRACKED; COUNCILMAN JACOBSON IN LIMELIGHT

For a goodly number of months Aimee Semple McPherson has had the front page of the daily papers and Bob Shuler's magazine. The public has become nauseated with the stuff handed out through these mediums about Aimee and "Ma" Kennedy.

And now, it seems that on account of the asserted "frameup" on Councilman Jacobson, and the heretofore unknown woman character we are to pass through another scandal drama staged in the newspapers.

However, we believe in Councilman Jacobson. We believe he is among the cleanest, most concientious, public servants that we have today.

—oo—

ON THE SIDEWALK last Monday proved to be interesting and exciting. The charming little social worker, Miss Gladys Harris had granted us the privilege of looking in with her on this occasion.

We went into many homes where tragedy had stalked and left its footprints. Like a panorama these scenes still pass before our mind's eye in striking contrast. In some homes there were pitiful little waifs, diseased from birth, either in mind or body; in still others there were men and women in whom the ravages of vice and crime had eaten into their very souls.— ut of all of these the most pathetic cases were those of Mrs. Dellehey and her son ,Beverley. Mrs. Dellehey is a little widow of 72 years, her son Beverley is 35 years old. They live at 1852 E. 54th St. Young Dellehey has spent five years between Folsom and San Quinten prisons where he lost his health and became a victim of the white plague. Mother and son are suffering for the simple comforts of life.

The California Eagle is presenting this case to you, after having stepped in, offering what it could afford, for you humanitarian consideration. Anyone wishing to aid this couple may do so by getting in touch with us at 847 So. Central or 1852 E. 54th St.

The other subject is a little widow with eight babies, who was deserted by her husband on the eve of the arrival of the eighth infant, whose name and address you may secure by calling at this office.

—oo—

BISHOP M. W. CLAIR

It has been our supreme privilege to hear Bishop M. W. Clair in sermon. When first we sat beneath the sound of his voice these lines drifted in upon us, "I am proud to be Black as the night is black—black like the depth of my Africa."

Last Sunday evening we heard him preach. We were impressed with the clear simplicity of his language but the profoundness of his thought. "Do not prepare to die, but prepare to live good lives," said the Bishop.

THE POLYTECHNIC EVENING HIGH SCHOOL

No excuse for anyone not getting into some of the many avenues of educational development offered by the Los Angeles Public School system.

The Polytechnic High School on August 1st at 7:00 P. M. opened an adult department or new—the only Law Dept. of the United States organized as a part of the regular school system.

We wonder how many members of our groups are availing themselves of this opportunity.

Some of the money used to promote mid-night beach parties and other frivolous forms of amusement should be invested in channels of character building that hold true and which have being worthwhile as parts of the community in which they function battle, and sinner consequent development.

MIDNIGHT FLOGGING

MATTIE MAE STAFFORD

The "Lash Parties" in Southern States have become so prevalent as to become a "national scandal" is the statement of a leading Georgia newspaper. The pastor of one of the leading churches in Montgomery, Alabama calls upon his congregation to say to the night-riders: "You shall not crucify the free-born men of America upon a fiery cross!"

"Flogging in Alabama must cease," declares Gov. Bibb Graves. Some call it "jungle justice" others "a denial of democracy, love, faith, and a denial of God!" What's the omen? Is it the sins of the fathers being visited upon the children? Is it the fulfillment of what you measure to your fellow man, it shall be measured back to you? Flogging is milder than lynching, but when Black Men are snatched from the strong arm of the law and burned at the stake, the Southland is not so thoroughly aroused as it is today over "midnight flogging."

So far, only four Negroes have been flogged, says a Southern daily. Would Alabama feel the shame and humiliation so keenly were the victims Negroes only? An equal chance and fairplay to all citizens are absolute essentials to the continued life of a Republic such as ours. I cannot think that the best people of America will long endure the savage methods of avenging their madness. They must have a better second thought to uphold the highest ideals of American civilization. The world's foremost nation cannot climb the ladder of fame by keeping the foot of the strong upon the neck of the weak. It would be amusing if it were not so serious, to hear the varied, strange excuses offered for these crimes. Is it human to disagree? Yes! Argue? Yes! But gag and bind? No! Revile and exile? No!

AKRON CAUTIONS AGAINST INFLUX

URBAN LEAGUE SENDS WARNING

The National Urban League through its Department of Industrial Relations has just released the following statement with reference to what appears to be a sudden, unwarranted migration to Akron:

"Negroes throughout the country from practically all of the Southern and Middle Western States and from as far West as Los Angeles are coming to Akron looking for work. Some of them are coming upon the invitation of relatives and friends who have lived in Akron; some have heard thru various sources that the city is short of workers. Akron's industries are reported on a firm foundation, and are working a full-time schedule, but it is feared that if the intake of new workers does not cease Akron will be unable to take care of the numbers who are finding their way to the city.

"George W. Thompson, Executive Secretary of the Association for Colored Community Work has conferred with the Better Akron Federation, the Local Community Chest and other public and private agencies and advises that persons planning to come to Akron expecting to find work immediately should delay their coming until those who are already there are properly integrated within the social and industrial life of the community.

"Akron has been fortunate in not having unwieldy unemployment or business depression periods, because the properous automobile industry has kept the rubber manufacturing plants busy. This probably accounts for the opinion thought generally to be true, that work is always plentiful there.

"The Urban League is making known the fact that such is not the case, and advises that persons who contemplate going to Akron for work should obtain it before reaching the city or be prepared to maintain themselves for several weeks and perhaps longer, while seeking employment."

Boy Won't Tell Who Cut His Head

Jas. Cameron, a boy living at 931 Naomi either considers it disloyal to tell which of his erstwhile boy friends threw the rock that cut a big hole in his head or else he is waiting till he recovers to mete out his own punishment. At any rate during a rock battle between he and another boy, name unknown, he was felled by one of the missles. Officers Garrott and Conway were called to the scene of the battle but the crowd had scattered and only a boy Albert Turner was found who witnessed the affray and he would not tell either. The injured boy was treated at the Receiving Hospital.

EMINENT HAIRDRESSER RETURNS FROM VACATION

Mrs. Rosa L. Sampson-Morris, owner of the Creole Beauty Shoppe at 1114 Central, returned home Sunday, August 7th after a vacation of six weeks.

Mrs. Morris was called to San Antonio, Texas, at the death of her brother, Mr. O. J. Connor, who was a well-known undertaker of that city.

While away, Mrs. Morris took her much needed vacation and visited many of her old friends whom she had not seen for years.

Although she had a most pleasant stay, she is glad to be back home again and tells all of her friends and customers that she is "still doing business at the same old stand."

Truth Crushed To Earth Will Rise Again

The California Eagle of August 5th, 1927, carried an article on Page Three headed, "WIDOW GETS PROPERTY BACK" in large black type.

The case referred to is No. 202316 Maggie Francis vs. Annie R. Scott. Mrs. Francis brought suit against Mrs. Scott, to quiet title to an undivided one-half interest in a lot on East Adams street, Los Angeles. Mrs Scott filed an answer and cross-complaint alleging that Mrs. Francis was indebted to her for rents received by Mrs. Francis from Mrs. Scott's interest in the property and for moneys advanced for repairs and upkeep of the property.

The case was heard before Judge J. A. Smith, presiding in Department 6, of the Superior Court on June 29, 1927. On July 22, 1927, the Judge caused the following minute order to be made "Cause heretofore submitted, decree granted quieting plaintiffs title to property described in the complaint; defendant to have judgment against plaintiff in the sum of $1091.65; plaintiff to recover costs." The Findings of Fact, Judgment and Decree have not been signed by the Judge.

We have no quarrel with the author of the article who was evidently attempting to boost his own wares, but we do object to a truth half told. In order that the public may not be misled we are publishing a copy of a letter from the trial Judge to E. C. Jennings, one of the attorneys for Mrs. Annie R. Scott:

August 2nd, 1927.

MR. E. C. JENNINGS,
Attorney at Law,
Los Angeles, California.

Dear Mr. Jennings: I have your letter of July 27th, asking for a memorandum of my decision in the case of Maggie Francis vs. Annie R. Scott,

I gave the Clerk of Dept. 6, Mr. John a memoranda of the various amounts at the time I disposed of the case. I am not certain of the amounts, but from my own notes, I believe the amounts found due Mrs. Scott are as follows:

27 months rent at $30.00 per month	$ 810.00
One half of not paid for painting house ($473.30)	236.65
One half of labor claim on house	45.00
	$1091.65

You might speak to Mr. John, and compare what I have here written with the statement of various amounts that I gave to him.

Assuring you of my appearing of your courtesy in matters that you have appeared before me, I am,

Very sincerely yours,
J. A. SMITH.

Mrs. Scott and her attorneys are satisfied with the conclusions of the Court, but when the time comes for the payment of the $1091.65, and the satisfaction of the Judgment, we trust and pray that the author of the article herein referred to will promptly pay the same, or see that it is paid. We anticipate that there will be weeping and gnashing of teeth when execution is issued against the property to satisfy the Judgment. "Thou canst not say I did it, shake not thy gory lock at me."

E. C. JENNINGS,
WILL H. LIGHT,
Attorneys for Mrs. Annie R. Scott.

PUPILS AND PARENTS FETED

The pupils, teachers and parents of the Wilkins Piano Academy were the guests of their director Prof. Wm. T. Wilkins, Sunday afternoon, from 4 to 7 P. M., an impromptu program was rendered. The school is unusually active and successful and the twenty-five teachers and apprentice teachers are being called together Thursday by the secretary, Elnora Howard Hubbs to formulate plans for the next term which begins about the first of September.

Wm. Wilkins entertained to try to show his appreciation of the good work of the students in his 16th annual recital.

—By—
GLADYS GREENAWAY

One of the most successful affairs of the season was celebrated Friday, July 29, at Venice. The "Gondolier Club" whose members stand high in Venice, Santa Monica and Los Angeles circles, proved excellent hosts. Johnny Mitchell's orchestra played really jam-up music. Oh, the punch! that concoction was so good it called for more . The beautiful gowns of the young ladies vied with each other in attractiveness, while the young men were no "slouches" either.

The president, Mr. Nathaniel Rucker, well-known track man; Harry Johnson, vice-president; Virgil Benton, secretary; together with Messrs. Walter Gregory, Leslie Nickerson and Mercier and Lloyd Reese, constitute the club which is one hundred per cent in popularity.

We hope they won't feel hurt when we say that every one is looking forward to another such successful affair.

We hear from good sources that L. A. will miss two very popular young men when Messrs. Clifford Gantt and Eardley Goff embark in their flivver to see some of the world. But they are coming back soon.

We wish to extend our sympathy to Mrs. Verna Lewis, whose husband, Arthur, died recently. Arthur was well-known and popular among the younger set and his loss will be deeply felt and mourned.

• • •

Brookside Park was certainly lively last week when the churches celebrated with a large picnic. Fond mamas could be seen with their numerous offsprings sitting on the grass with enough lunch to feed an army; young people could be seen cheerfully paying twice as much for ice cream sodas and sundaes; and stalwart forms of the men and boys and the girls in their chic bathing suits could be seen bobbing up and down in the plunge. On the road home, honking horns could be heard for blocks, while dust enveloped the machines. So everybody was satisfied and will be there next year doing the very same thing.

Miss Vera Foreman won first prize in the "Beautiful Extremities" contest held Monday, August 8th, at the 50th and Central Dance Hall. She certainly deserved it. We don't know that name of the young lady who won second prize but we do wish to mention Frances Dunham who certainly deserved some kind of prize . The contest was rather poorly arranged and conducted. Sonny Clay's Orchestra was jam-up as usual, but these artists really were warm, as were the guests. That hall, to my mind, reverting to slang, is the "bunk." It was so close in there that everyone was uncomfortable but the crowd really was there, giving every reason that the "Lone Wolf Club" is really popular.

For a bricklayer who is the most popular and distinguished piano player in L. A.? He is the artist who wrote "In my Dreams I'm Jealous of You."

• • •

Miss Dorothy Patton is driving a "Keen" Hudson and it is really jam-up, as is the Dodge roadster which "Toots" Banks is sporting around town.

• • •

Ode To The Reckless

I gaze across the street so wide
I start, I dart, I jump, I glide
I take a chance, oh, so slim—
I trust to eye and nerve and limb,
I scoot to right, I gallop thru,
I'm here, I'm there, I'm lost to view,
My wife I know, hangs in the toes
Another plunge and I'm across!
Oh, give me pity if you can,
For I'm just another pedestrian—.

• • •

Modern Samson: "My strength lies in my hair."

Modern Delilah: "Why don't you wash it?"

Miss 'Stell Williams says she swallowed enough water at the Brookside Plunge to float a battlship.

• • •

Mr. George LeVigne says he "shore" does like the West Side. For which we can hardly blame him .

Miss Pearl Wise is wearing on her engagement finger a pretty little ring. We wonder?——

We wonder if the "Two Black Crows" playing at the Pantages are really "crows" or just black cork artists .

Arithmetic problem: What price is a young man's suit when said young man, falling into the Pacific Ocean in an unlooked-for accident, gets said suit wet and it s-h-r-i-n-k-s?

• • •

At the Broadway Palace, downtown, they are showing "The Missing Link." Well, we know where they can find it—anywhere on Central.

• • •

Mrs. Emma Fife, of Pueblo, Colo., with her two daughters, Laura and Anna Louise, are visiting relatives in Los Angeles. Miss Geraldine Evans, their cousin, is planning several things for their entertainment. Mrs. Fife and daughters will be here for another three weeks.

Well, it sure is warm—so we'll all up on Ice water as we are broke. Toodle-oo. See you next week.

Miss Etta Mae Marshal ,formerly with Perry Winkle Marcelle Shoppe, will be glad to see her former followers at her new place of business, Lela's Beauty Shoppe, 1462½ Central Ave., WEstmore 6685.

TRUCK RUNS OVER CHINAMAN

Jaywalking across Central at Ninth street resulted in a broken leg for Chon You of 1114 E. 10th street.

Mr. You started jaywalking and then changed his mind and started back to the curb. At this time, a large oil truck of the Duntley Truck Co., 778 San Pedro, hit and knocked him down, running over and breaking his right leg. Quick thinking and quicker action by the truck driver, Mr. Schemlen of turning sharply to the right, is the only thing that prevented the Chinaman from getting killed.

Officer Roseborough, traffic cop at 9th and Central, called the ambulance. After setting You's leg, he was rushed to the Receiving Hospital.

The Pioneer Club, No. 1, met at 1152 So .Hobart Blvd., Mrs. S. C. Johnson and Mrs. C .W. Waters acting as hostesses. President Eliza Warner presided, while the new officers were beautifully installed by Mrs. Nick Chiles of Kansas. Refreshments were served and enjoyed by all.

Mrs. Monroe Armelin entertained Miss Adiene Ellis of Minneapolis, Minn., also Mrs. Hattie Johnson, of Seattle, Wash., with a tea Wednesday afternoon, August 3, from 4 to 6. Among the guests was Mrs. Harry E. Barnett, Mrs. Bert Love, Mrs. Cornie Purtie ,Mrs. Frances Watkins.

CARE OF THE TEETH

By Dr. J. Winiford Rout
PYORRHEA ALVEOLARIS

Pyorrhea Alveolaris or Pyorrhea, as it is most commonly called, is one of the most prevalent diseases affecting the mouth of modern man. This disease is not an entirely modern malady however, since skulls of ancient people dug up during excavations and explorations have shown the effects of the disease on the alveolar process.

The inception and progress of Pyorrhea is very slow and may go on for months or even years without any inconvenience to the patient or unusual conditions which the patient notices. This being one of the worst features of the disease, when the patient is aroused to the danger threatening his teeth so much of the investing tissue of the teeth has been destroyed and the gums are in such a condition that nothing short of a miracle can restore health to the parts affected. Pyorrhea is curable if treatment is begun in time and carried out carefully .

The causes of pyorrhea are many, but the principal cause is neglect. If every person would see their dentist twice yearly or even once each year for a careful examination of their mouth and teeth very few would be troubled with pyorrhea. Fermenting food debris, Mucoid plaques, Salivary deposits resulting from improper oral hygiene, Ill-fitting crowns, Mal-occlusion of the teeth are among the causes of pyorrhea, together with systematic diseases.

The usual first symptom of the disease is inflammation and discoloration of the gums, the gums bleed on slight pressure, if these signs are neglected the gums gradually receed fro mthe teeth, "pockets" are formed around the teeth from which there is a slight exudation of pus. On pressure the teeth gradually become loosened as the investing tissue is destroyed and finally have to be extracted.

If the cause is removed in the first stages the diseases may be checked and the parts restored to health .

"An ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure" however, and if one would assist nature in keeping the month free from the ravages of pyorrhea, keep the teeth clean. Use your tooth brush after each meal and before retiring. Keep your system clean. Allow no broken down and decayed teeth to remain untreated in the mouth. And last but not least have your mouth examined at least once each year.

NEWS OF THE CHURCH

Youth's Challenge to the Church Will Purify The Church

BY: DRUSILLA DUNJEE HOUSTON
(For the Associated Negro Press)

The church of the early ages grew corrupt, whenever it grew strong. Today in the building of magnificent structures, we must be careful that the same influences do not gain control. The austere life of self-denial of the Master has been thrust into the blackground and men are leaning toward every form of indulgence. It is against these thing in the church today, that youth hurls its challenge. It will help to purify these errors by waking sleeping Christian: but none of this does away with Christ or the Authority of His Word.

This Sinclair Lewis type of modern life has looked with the clear analytical eyes of intelligence at the humbugs and hypocrisies of the life around us. If we of the church could not cry out against sin within, then by an Elmer Gantry, they snatch off the cloak and the world sees some of what has been masquerading under the name of Christ. The white church fought no anti-slavery battles. It is today silent on the sin of lynching and in large numbers, it joins the Klan.

Because the true Christian has attracted false pretenders in no way discounts the blessings that have come to the world out of a belief in God. The fact that Sinclair Lewis could write his sordid, tarnished, Main Street and find so many undeveloped minds to enjoy it is no proof that there are not men and women living out the real beauty of spiritual existence that would be impossible without religion. Without the indwelling Christ, life would be insupportable to many men and women today. Main Street had never wakened to kinship with God.

Today in the Amen corner, on the rostrum and on the choir stand we may find Satan. Christ said that upon His coming Satan would be sitting in His seat. It is for upright men and women to wake up and search for this Satan in the church in hypocrisy, in envy or lust and thrust him out. These do not represent Christ or Christianity. When Sinclair Lewis stood at the grave of Burbank and streached out his puny arm against God, I laughed at his egotism. The God of the Universe, the Creator of Heaven and Earth, probably hardly knew that this worm existed.

He fixed laws in the beginning of life by which life measures out to us in our personal affairs the sum total of our meanness. A few months later I read, "Sinclair Lewis down with broken nerves." I knew that his scale had been balancing. There is no little God up in Heaven who takes personal revenge. Life is a great scale in the hands of an omnipotent fate that is impartial. God had said through his word, "THIS IS THE WAY." If we choose to obey Him, life will heap upon us real honors. If we choose the way of hate, then life will bring us dishonor. We are free moral agents. In this we are gods unto ourselves.

AFRICAN NEGROES FOUGHT EUROPEAN INVADERS

New York, N. Y., Aug. 6.—"Not a whit more spirited and determined was the North American Indian in keeping out the European invader than was the Negro in protecting his native land." So says the famous Negro author and journalist, J. A. Rogers, in an interesting article on "Bambaata—Leader of the Zulu Revolt" in the August number of The Messenger, a Negro magazine published in this city. "If the Indian can point to his King Philips," continues the writer, "his Geronimos, and Sitting Bulls the Negro can pointo to his Cetewayos, Lobenguelas, and Mosilikatzes. As Sitting Bull wiped out the entire American expedition sent against him, so Cetewayo killed the entire British force sent against him in Isandhlwana. In West Africa, Samory, called "The Black Napoleon of the Sudan," resisted the French, as in Ashanti, Koti Karakari, did the English; or in Abyssinia, Menelik did the Italian."

Mr. Rogers then tells the thrilling story of Bambaata, leader of the great native uprising in South Africa in 1906. By clever propaganda Bambaata succeeded in arousing all Zululand against the whites. Although short of rifles and ammunition, and forced to do most of their fighting with assegais and spears, the Zulus defeated and killed several expeditions of whites and native police sent against them. Finally the whites became so alarmed that they declared martial law and brought to bear all of their military machinery to crush the dangerous Bambaata and his men. This, because of their machine guns and rifles, they were able to do, after several desperate battles in which the Zulus with great bravery charged to the very mouth of the machine guns. The rebellion lasted nine months and cost the Natal Government over five million dollars before it was finally crushed.

Mr. Rogers, who writes regularly for the Messenger, tells the story in his usual excellent manner and the reader's interest is sustained to the very end. Truly a marvelous account of Negro courage in the face of great odds.

Vacation Reading

Take the best books along! These vacation days you have time only for the very best in books. Here you will find described some of the best books that can make the sunniest holiday even more enjoyable. They are delightful!

Edith Wharton's "Twilight Sleep" is a beautifully conceived story of New York Life. Moneyed men and women, living in a realm of "twilight sleep" are brought face to face with reality in a novel that delves deeply into the truths of human nature. An amazingly interesting story tense, haunting THREE—and shot through with that wit and satiric brilliance which no other writer can surpass.

Frank Swinnerton has written a swift, dramatic tale of two young women in the summertime of life. His book is called "Summerstorm." This very human narrative is full of restraint and humor, passion and poignancy.

"Ruth's Rebellion", by Achmid Abdullah treats of a brilliant lawyer who married as secretary. The story of his conflicting ideas of love and of fair play in marriage, of the cad who seeks to wreck the home, makes fascinating reading.

Theodore Dreiser's "Chains" contains powerful, vivid short stores which reveal a hundred phases of life, seen without sentimentality but also without brutality, with a light that reveals the significance of every detail.

"Lotus of the Dusk," by Dorothy Graham is the story of Liane, a daughter of two races, who possesses the fatalistic calm of her father's Manchu blood and the exotic attraction of Russia that is her mother's heritage; yet she is of the Occident, by education and instinct. Finding herself bound by the ancient customs of her family and a marriage contracted without her consent to a distant cousin, she rebels. A young debonair American arrives on the scene and then——

EDITORIAL

WELCOME BAPTIST HOST

A word of welcome to Baptist leaders in session this week at Pasadena will not be out of order. For truly this great religious denomination is playing well its part in the forward march of progress. Slowly but surely the church is ridding itself of the weights which have held it down in the past and the renegade and crooked preacher is being cast aside. The great and mighty Western Baptist Association is on its way for greater and better things.

IN DEFENSE OF FRECKLES

Summer always brings a recurrence of a special kind of dismay that afflicts the mere man's heart. It is caused by the advertisements which bloom upon the newspaper pages, stigmatizing freckles as a blemish and urging the girls to get rid of them. Why, oh why should a girl so blessed want to lose an adornment so significant and a hallmark so valuable?

In all the mazes of nature and artifices that work wonders with the feminine physiognomy, there is nothing so downright intriguing as freckles. When they are stippled upon the clear skin that usually goes with the combination, in fairy wings that straddle a slightly upturned nose and sweep in sunfed wholesomeness under eyes from whose deep wells a blithe soul looks out life unafraid, there is no more alluring sight in all the palaces of beauty..

Freckles are not surface things; they come from the heart out. They are the sign of a vital escape from the dead level, the smooth monotony—the escape to the variety that is the spice of faces as well as life. Back of them is a soul that has absorbed the warmth of the sun, the clean breath of the wind, and the laughter and joy that nature heaps into her overflowing days of youth.

You fortunate ones, you "speckled beauties," whatever you may do to your hair your, arms, your skirts and your feet, do not succumb to this propaganda which we are persuaded is [illegible] by the jealous plain ones who envy your freckled [illegible]. Keep your freckles. They are worth your weight in [illegible] from which they are made.

WHEN WORK IS PLAY

There is a lesson for grown-up men and women in that felicity of childhood to make play out of work. Many adults can recall when the "a-bringing home of the cows" was made the occasion for a buffalo stampede and the real wild west and lasso sort of cow punching ,and the fun which made play of the harvest labor and the snow house and snow man which made work shoveling great sport, as well as the many play games that came of raking the leaves, runnig errands, beating rugs. Was there anything men call work which those same men as boys could not have made a rip-snorting good game of?

Making play of work is the real secret of happiness. Happiness is never attained through slaving today in the anticipation of being able, financially, to play tomorrow. The man who takes a pleasure in his work—makes play of it—is enjoying life in its full. He does not need to depend upon financial independence for his happiness. He is the man or woman whom the world has always mistaken for the inspired genius because "love of work," "ambitions" and "aspiration" are terms foreign to a world finding in work nothing but "toil," "slavery," "labor," "struggle" and "drudgery," and working for nothing but "repose," "relaxation," and a perpetual holiday.

Love of work is possible either in digging ditches or sculpturing eternal marble, but good work is only possible from men and women who make play of their work. To the eye and ear it seems paradoxical, but the mind has long conceived that human beings who make play of their work play less at their work.

THE IRON IS HOT—STRIKE NOW!

Incident to the call of the California Federated Club at Eagle Hall on Friday night (tonight) to consider ways and means for the benefit of all of our citizenship and not a part of it, we must say that right now is the time to strike while the iron is hot. Staunch defenders of law and order will do well to rally to the call. The signs of the times tell us that a great readjustmnet of the affairs of our city is at hand, and all who are in sympathy with a safe, sound and stable city government will do well to become a part and parcel of the army now forming which will call for a readjustment of affairs. Get in on the ground floor for a bigger, better and greater Los Angeles.

WRONG HOG BY THE EAR

The underworld kings evidently slipped up in the Jacobson mess and got the wrong hog by the ear.

The demonstration put on by the reds to save the lives of Sacco and Vanzetti has the nation as,it were trembling in its boots. About what? Just a plain murder of a human being, tried by a jury of their peers, found guilty and the law shall stand or fall for this demonstration is a mockery upon justice.

As it looks now the law is forced on the defensive as governors and judges quail at the threats of the mob.

DEMONSTRATING

We have from time to time called attention to the wonders wrought by co-operation in all of its forms. We never tire in the preachment of this doctrine for it is not only the salvation of a city, county, state or nation, but to individuals as well when applied to business endeavor. As a matter of fact it is the only way to come within hailing sight of the heights for big business.

In keeping with this thought we cite the great void space

[illegible] an inspiring sight on a visit this week when [illegible] more events were in session, and to witness [illegible] determined efforts to excell in the salesmanship [illegible] also to witness the awarding of prizes in real estate [illegible] who has made the best showing for the week [illegible]

[illegible] shown the figures where during the past year [illegible] been paid out to agents and employees, which [illegible] striking contrast to the conditions which obtained [illegible] now to show and in fact is a practical demonstration [illegible] value of co-operation.

[illegible]ple of California can well afford to stand firmly [illegible] great concern which is great because of its mission [illegible]city. It knows no race, creed or factions and is on [illegible] guiding star for others who hesitate and fail to [illegible] for a bigger and greater business.

[illegible]E CHOSEN

[illegible]ent Coolidge does not choose to run for president in [illegible] before there are many others who sincerely trust and [illegible] will be chosen.

[illegible]ATTLE CRY

[illegible] house seems to be the battle cry just now in this [illegible]n as a panecea to all of our ills.

[illegible]UCH IS DUE?

[illegible] want to get the low down on just how much recogni[illegible]e to those who are faithful and stand out to the end [illegible] national as well as state and city administration.

[illegible] CENT

[illegible]s down at all times one hundred per cent for law and [illegible] as a menace of all crooks—high or low.

[illegible]D SEEK

[illegible]he alacrity of the police to curb vice in the case of [illegible] Jacobson when two high powered captains led the [illegible]d one would think we truly meant to clean up, but [illegible]om the same feat, sends all hopes a-glimmering.

[illegible] "DETOUR" SIGNS

[illegible]on,—"The right of citizens of the United States [illegible]not be denied or ABRIDGED by the United States [illegible]ate, on account of race, color or previous condition [illegible] proclaims the Fifteenth Amendment to the Con[illegible]e United States, which was declared, in a proclamation [illegible] Secretary of State, dated March 30, 1870, to have [illegible] by the legislatures of twenty-nine of the thirty-[illegible] Included among the twenty-nine states were [illegible]lina whose legislature ratified the amendment [illegible]869; South Carolina, March 16, 1869; Alabama, No[illegible], 1869; Mississippi, January 15, 1870 and Georgia, [illegible] 2, 1870.

[illegible], in the [illegible]es, when the colored voter seeks to exer[illegible]ship, when he attempts to take a trip [illegible]ways, he continually runs up against [illegible]a Democratic expediency and warn[illegible]anger ahead.

But when the Negro comes along [illegible]n the board he would get the most INVOLV[illegible]whole Constitution. 'I can't understand th[illegible]ght, trot back to the cotton field.' And that'[illegible]

To this uniform treat[illegible]ters throughout the Democratic South, wh[illegible]addle when that party has national control[illegible] the unequal distribution of the number [illegible]es and the electoral votes allocated to [illegible] the votes cast in Illinois for United State[illegible]702, as compared with ONLY 154,497 in [illegible]Mississippi, 94,934 in Louisiana, and 50,75[illegible]. For 25 members of the House of Represe[illegible]verage vot in Illinois was 59,828, as compared wit[illegible]e of ONLY 12,910 in Georgia, 12,322 in Mississipp[illegible],664 in Louisiana and 7,070 in South Carolina.

In other words, NEARLY FIVE TIMES AS MANY VOTES were required to elect a member of Congress from Illinois as were required in Georgia and Mississippi; nearly six times as many as in Louisiana, and more than eght times as many as in South Carolina. These four southern states, combined, have nearly twice as many votes in the House of Representatives and in the Electoral College as Illinois—an unfair voting strength the influence of which is so often unfavorably reflected in matters of vital importance to the nation.

A liberator is one who suppresses those who formerly suppressed his crowd.

Communism will work. All we need is a world of people who had rather give than get.

Anything called "a necessity in every household" is made of tin and gets out of fix next day.

Don't despair. If you can't run, you can sit on the fence and register scorn during the race.

Those German philosophers were nearly right. War won't make a people tough, but grubbing to pay for it will.

If a modern should invent a better mouse trap, the beaten path would be made by people asking him to make speeches.

What the world needs is not something to cure human ailments, but something to get people over the notion that they need curing.

The most interesting happening in national politics was the declaration of President Calvin Coolidge, that he did not "choose" to be a candidate for re-election. The declination of the President opens up a wide field for political speculation. It leaves the field open for a number of aspirants. Among the names most frequently heard are Hoover, California; Longworth, Ohio; Lowden, Illinois. Of course it is too early to speculate as to the outcome. At first there were a number who believed Coolidge was playing politics, but the American public has too much faith in the sanity and integrity of the President to believe him a party to such cheap political methods. Calvin Coolidge not "choosing" to run, means that Calvin Coolidge will not be a candidate for re-election.

The contests for seats in the city government of San Francisco are taking shape. Naturally the cynosure of the political eye is centered on the mayoralty contest. The present incumbent, Rolph, and the former Postmaster, Powers are busy counting noses. The Mission district is a Rolph stronghold and great efforts are being put forth by the Powers managers to make inroads in that bailiwick. The contest for the District Attorney's office is, also, becoming interesting. Louis Byington, Charlie Breman and Maurice Dooling are the contestants so far to face the barrier. It is rumored that Angelo Rossi wants to stage a "comeback" for Supervisor, and Sam Breyer has hopes.

"Be sure your sins will find you out," even if it is a frame. Unless you are proof against every temptation don't follow the role of Reformer. It is alleged that Carl Jacobson, Los Angeles Councilman and anti-vice crusader, yielded to the temptress and was arrested under the vagrancy law. Jacobson claims that it was a "frame." Well, we remember the Harper incident. Harper was Mayor of Los Angeles, and the occurrence which forced him to resign his office was somewhat similar to the Jacobson affair. If you are a vice reformer, yield not to temptation, but, when the tempter shows up, kick him out the door.

Racial segregation still goes on in Washington, D. C. and we hear of no strong protests from the racial appointees of the administration. The latest humiliation to be offered the race is in the Department of the Interior. Men who have served in the capacity of examiners for three decades have been set apart from contact with workers in the same branch of the service who are whits. The Pension Bureau is the scene of this latest race humiliation. Dr. Hubert Work is the secretary of the interior, and knowing him to be a broad, fair-minded man, we will withold criticism for a while.

The passing of Gen. Leonard Wood removes a national character from the stage. His career was rather unique. His prominence came with the Spanish-American war when with the late Pres. Theo. Roosevelt he organized the Rough Riders which troops he commanded. Since that time he has been much in the public eye. At one time he was a presidential aspirant. His job as Gov. General of the Phillipines has been a strenuous one. He was in the United States on leave and died after an operation for hernia.

We listened in at the dedication of the International Peace Bridge, Sunday. Felicitations of amity and good will were offered by Canadian and American notables. Speches by Premiers of Canada and England, the Prince of Wales. The United States was represented by Vice-Pres., Dawes, Secy. of State Kellogg, Gov. Al. Smith. There were two there who may be contenders for the Presidency of the United States—Dawes of Illinois, Gov. Smith of New York.

We noticed in one of the Bay City papers that the membership of the Booker T. Washington Country Club to be built in the Mendocino County woods has reached 700. Where did they come from? Can it be true that you can get 700 Negroes to put $50.00 each—$5,000—in chimerical scheme when it would be impossible to enlist that number to deposit 50 cents for some legitimate enterprise? If there in any such thing as making it impossible to use the names of those who have done worth while things to further flimsy race schemes it should be done. The capitalization of Booker Washington's name for all purposes is a thing to be regretted. We should have more pride, more regard for the names of those who have brought honor to the race. Booker T. Washington would never have countenanced the financing of a $250,000 club house, luxurious in every detail while the race as a whole is laboring under industrial and economic handicaps.

If I could demand: the greatest boon I would ask for my Race would be the capacity of thought. If we would but think: Stop; pause; consider: how many pit falls we would escape. But we don't; everything that is held up before us in glittering terms we accept, and what is worse pass it on to our fellows. We have always claimed that any Negro who seeks to exploit his Race is a traitor. No difference under what guise he operates.

The re-organization of the State government (California) as prescribed by the last legislature went in effect the 4th of July. On that date Governor Young completed his appointment of the personnel of the heads or departments who will constitute his official family. How Chas. A. Whitmore, state printer, has been appointed temporary as Chief of the Board of Control. The Hon. A. E. [illegible] into the St. Paul office of the late [illegible] McGee for a little comfab. He will the post ably.

We could join the "Hallelujah" chorus with sincerity had the President appointed some able Race representative as Minister to Haiti. There is the "Black Republic" which calls for racial representation. Maybe the President would appoint James Weldon Johnson. Well! all they had to do to keep U. S. Senator King from visiting Haiti was to tell Pres. Borno not to allow him to enter. Senator King might have asked the administration some pertinent questions concerning U. S. occupation of the Island. We doubt if James Weldon Johnson could get a passport to enter. Well, the Race used to have outstanding representation in the Treasury, Navy and Revenue departments. There were 14 appointments demanded of the administration when it was inaugurated. Count the demands, then count the fulfillments.

About the 29th of July the law passed by the 47th Legislature which authorized a reorganization of the state departments, California, goes into effect. So far there has been but one definite announcement, that of Bert B. Meeks, at present a member of the Prison Board, to head the Department of Public Work. The appointment appears to find favor with the majority. Beeks is one of the foremost business men of the State and his educational training as Civil Engineer is a great asset in his favor as all of the reclamation and constructive projects come under his department by consolidation of the several divisions. The Governor is greatly elated over his success in persuading Meeks to accept the job which is one of the most important under the reorganization. He will be given full rein in the selection of his chiefs of divisions. The salary is $10,000 a year.

The N. A. A. C. P. has chosen Los Angeles, California for the annual meeting, 1928. The Governor sent to the meeting in Indianapolis a telegraph inviting them to the State. This representative state of the "Western Empire" will welcome with open arms the forward looking men and women of both races which comprise the personel of its membership. California and Californians are known throughout the nation for their hospitality. In fact it is world wide. Here they can discover and discuss all of the problems, social and racial. Oh yes! we have them here! No use trying to dodge the issue. They will find here that Sam and Eliza have not left "Mr. and Mrs. John Peck" behind, and that they have brought some "Dixie seed" which they are trying to make grow in California soil, and it takes the harrow of Eternal Vigilance to keep it from growing prolific. Here and there, it has taken root in the soil and its pernicious efforts are left. In those communities where "Sam and Eliza" have not thrown off their former environments, "Dixie Seed" has had a chance to spread. It is all that the vigilant part of the populace can do to curb the spread of the noxious weed, but they don't despair. Let us in California give the N. A. A. C. P. a membership of 20,000.

Black Bathing Beauty Parade.

Mr. Nichols, as he thought, had about consumated his plans and arrangements for the spectacular affair, to be participated in by any and all who came when the better class citizens headed by our good friend Arthur Reese got on wind of things. They did not sit down and cry, but got busy, told the beach authorities: "We live here and are rearing our children in what we propose to have a morally healthy atmosphere. We want no intruders who bring about conditions that tend to lower our standard of living."

So keep out unless you have something worthwhile.

N. A. A. C. P. Wins Beach Victory

DUE CREDIT FOR A REAL VICTORY

The successful outcome of the ugly situation of Manhattan Beach is indeed such that all parties to the same are worthy indeed of the sincere appreciation of all people who stand for a square deal.

The National Association through its very intrepid and far sighted attorney Hugh E. Macbeth, Mr. and Mrs. Slaughter, who are located at the Beach, is responsible for the good work.

The various clubs and organizations and individuals which rallied to the call are all indeed worthy of the highest credit for their most splendid work for justice and the square deal. We suggest a testimonial gather is in order for all concerned.

LIGHTNING BREAKS UP BIG FIGHT

Rocky Point, R. I., Aug. 12.—A clap of thunder and a flash of lightning settled an argument between two colored gentlemen, saved a hospital bill and a possible jail sentence here Monday.

Just as Edward Smith of a small Connecticut town had reached the climax of his argument and was about to settle the dispute with a half-filled quart bottle over the patent leather haired head of Emanuel Jones of New Bedford, Mass., a sharp clap of thunder and a flash of lightning shattered the bottle in Smith's upraised hand.

Both men were momentarily stunned by the shock ad immediately vowed not to carry their discussion to the point of violence ,but instead, needless to say, the combatants are running yet ,if the speed from which they left the spot is judged.

The small conflict between Smith and Jones was only one of the many similar fisticuffs which were engaged in here last Monday. On that day 5,000 Negroes from all part of New England gathered at the seashore resort to commemorate some kind of an Independence Day . This is an annual celebration ,and was this year held under the auspices of the Patrick E. Toy Post of Boston and the Eugene Penny Post of Providence Veterans of foreign wars, and as usual, many of their comrades and friends came steeped in synthetic gin and armed to the teeth to fight an imaginary enemy.

This year, however ,the fight feature of the celebration was cut short before any casualties took place, for just as the boys were warming up to the custom of the occasion, great sheets of rain came down in torrents greatly cooling their violent intentions and a helter-skelter scurry for shelter and for home ensued. As a result, the tailor shops in colored settlements all over New England are doing rushing business this week, pressing fineries back in shape for next Sunday.

Echoes From Sheriff Traeger's 1926 Successful Campaign

On last Wednesday in Judge Chambers' Court there took place a trial for service due from campaign work by C. H. Alston, prominent real estate dealer out South Central avenue.

The trial was out of the ordinary from the fact that when a candidate wins there is hardly ever any question but that such expense as services are promptly taken care of. Mr. Alston avers that a year and six months has brought him no succor or relief and brought suit against C. W. Craddock for pay for his service.

It developed at the trial that Mr. Craddock made no denial of the debt and declared he would pay the same. However, Mr. Alston says he has had time a-plenty and he wants him to come across right now.

The judge took the case under advisement and will pass judgment at an early date.

Rev. Hardy's Date of Arraignment Set

The case of the People vs. Hardy, sensational murder trial which began its preliminary hearing in Long Beach, Tuesday afternoon, July 26, will be arraigned in Department 21 of the Superior Court, August 22, 1927 at 10 A. M.

Western Baptist Association Holds 37th Annual Session

The Western Baptist Association of Southern California held its 37th Annual Session in the City of Pasadena, August 8th to 15th. There were approximately fifty churches and auxiliaries represented and an attendance exceeding that of any previous session. Dr. W. D. Carter ,the pastor of the entertaining church and his membership proved ideal hosts and everything possible was done to make the session from their point of view, a success. The city papers gave wide publicity to the meeting and daily reports of the progress of the session were read throughout the meeing. The growth of the Western Baptist Association has been marvelous. From an organization representing but a few hundred members and confining its work almost solely to local missions, it has grown until it now represents a constituency of 7,000, with a definite program including local, state, home and foreign missions. There is an educational program of larger proportions and the system of work and co-operation has furnished information for persons from other sections making surveys of religious work.

Dr. Carter, His Church Entertained The Association

Mrs. Anna E. Walker was elected Grand Worthy Counsellor of the Court of Calanthe at the past session this year.

Before coming to this state, Mrs. Walker was a member of the lodge in St. Louis, Mo., for 33 years, becoming a member in the infancy of the Lodge when it had only 3 courts.

She organized two Courts for Kansas City in 1904. In 1909 she was initiated in the Supreme Court. All during this time, she has been a tireless worker and has not lost interest in her work.

She was transferred to this jurisdiction two years ago and as soon as she arrived here, she put her hand to the wheel as she had done back in [illegible] and is still working [illegible] and her many friends predict that the growth of the Court under her administration [illegible].

County's First Negro Interne To Practice In Los Angeles

Notable among the list of physicians and surgeons who passed the State Board of Medical Examiners last June as announced this week through the Metropolitan dailies, is the name of Dr. John M. Robinson, Jr., graduate of the University of California Medical School.

Dr. Robinson received his bachelor's degree in 1923 from California ,and entered the Medical School as the youngest member of his class. Owing to his high scholastic standing, he was selected to do special work in the medical and surgical clinics in the University Hospital while still an undergraduate and served as acting interne in obstetrics during his senior year in the San Francisco Hospital. Upon recommendation of the surgical staff of the University Hospital, he was chosen to do special research work in diseases of the thyroid gland.

He entered the Los Angeles General Hospital as the first Negro interne after a competitive examination with medical men from Johns Hopkins, Northwestern, Yale, Harvard and other schools of medicine throughout the country, with a very high rating. And, according to a statement of Supt. Wood to a prominent race politician, "by his diligent application to duty, his professional ability and his genial disposition, he has opened the way for other Negro physicians who might aspire to a place in the service of this institution, for he virtually earned the respect of the patients and the entire personnel of the staff here, despite all prejudices."

Dr. Robinson is the son of Dr. J. M. Robinson, Sr., chief surgeon of the Bush Memorial Hospital and associate surgeon of the Missouri Pacific Hospital of Little Rock, Arkansas. He will practice in this city with offices in suite 319-21 of the Bryson Building, formerly occupied by the late Dr. J. S. Outlaw.

Mrs. Elizabeth Edwards

The above is a likeness of Mrs. Elizabeth Edwards, one of the most active club women in the State of California.

Mrs. Edwards was instrumental in the formation of the now famous Friday Morning Iroquois Club; the ex-President of the Past President's Council; member and tireless worker in the Beth Eden Baptist Church, and an all around friend to man.

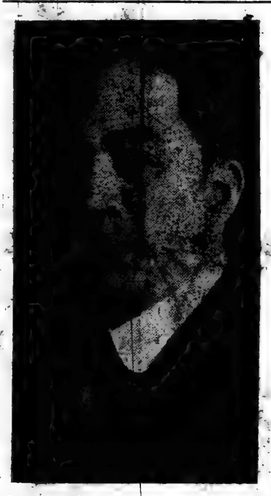
The now memorable session of the California State Federation is just another example of the things that Mrs. Edwards has helped make a glorious success.

We deem it not only a privilege, but a duty for the California Eagle to pay this most worthy Christian and club woman a bit of praise.

SHORT STOPS

The mighty Snapper Ingram of whom all forces rallied to the forefront in the 10th Councilmanic District seems to have turned turtle and deserted his friends. Read history, young man, and see what happened to great statesmen who turned their back upon the people.

We want to congratulate the Trustees of Manhattan Beach for its turn about face and real Christian spirit. It is a step of progress well worthy of mention.



VOTE OF CONFIDENCE GIVEN DR. H. C. HUDSON

N. A. A. C. P. PRESIDENT HAS SUPPORT OF THE MASSES

MONSTER GATHERING AT ZION A. M. E. CHURCH LAST SUNDAY; JUDGE GEORGIA BULLOCK SPEAKER OF THE DAY

A rousing meeting of the local branch was held at the A. M. E. Zion Church at Pico and Paloma streets last Saturday afternoon when the Auditorium of this church was filled to the utmost for the occasion.

After a brief routine of the regular meeting which resulted in the selection of Mrs. M. G. Patton as president of the Women's Auxiliary, the speaker of the day, Judge Georgia Bullock was presented through the chairman of the Program Committee, Mrs. J. Hill by Mrs. Georgia Robinson.

Judge Bullock made a very pleasing address which evoked much enthusiasm and tremendous applause.

FIRE WORKS ARE LET LOOSE

After a collection had been raised which was very liberal, Dr. Hudson, the president, announced the great victory gained in the Manhattan Beach case, when the trustees of that burg announced a change of front and that henceforth Manhattan Beach would be just the same as any other broad-gauged and progressive municipality and had receded from any Jim Crow policy of any sort or fashion.

VOTES CONFIDENCE

On the heels of this report, like a bolt out of a clear sky, a situation was revealed which the people as a rule did not know ever existed. That feature was understood to be that regardless of the huge success as a result of the untiring work of the president, that an individual or individuals had been making a subtle but pernicious whispering campaign against their very own president.

At least this is what this writer gathered from the unfoldment of things. At any rate Dr. Hudson brought his stewardship rightfully and squarely up to the people and in return received an overwhelming vote of confidence.

There were those who sought to say that this move was unusual and reflected on the Board of Directors, but such persons were promptly hooted down by the members. The branch overwhelmingly voted to Dr. Hudson its unqualified approval for his action in the Manhattan Beach case, likewise in the Sheffield case.

Fervid oratory was indulged in among those taking part in the debate in favor of the vote by J. H. Shackleford, E. H. Lee, Mrs. M. G. Patton, while the negative position was discussed or an effort made to do so by Dr. Somerville, J. C. Banks and T. J. Norris.

It was a great meeting and a wonderful day for the forward march of progress put in vogue by the supreme president, Dr. H. C. Hudson.

SECRET MARRIAGE ANNOUNCED

The younger circle received quite a surprise this week when informed by [illegible] announcements of the marriage of [illegible] Thurman to Mr. Howard [illegible] Stevens.

IS AMERICAN NEGRO MENACE TO CAUCASION SUPREMACY

To Look Situation Squarely in Face and Plan Action To Be Taken As A Christian Humanitarian Race

We have repeatedly called attention to the fact that there should be some action taken in regard to this important question. We are not doing our duty either by the race we represent nor to the race in question if we foolishly stuff over the opportunity offered. The Negro likes the climate of Los Angeles and we have now close to one hundred thousand among us. We must come to an understanding of some character or step aside and trust to luck.

This course would be fatal to both races. In proceeding to consider the question we must not be blinded with hate or selfishness. The Black Man is surely entitled to every consideration, but it is to be hoped that the White race is also to receive a like consideration. The time is rapidly approaching when the question will have to be settled one way or another. We are slowly drifting into danger and care should be exercised.

We are reproducing a letter sent us that explains the writer's view point; we also follow it with a bit of news appearing in one of our local papers recently. It will pay the reader to read both and then lay aside the California American for a moment and think the matter over calmly. Let us try and arrive at a Christian American decision, one that will harmonize with our highest ideals, it will take us some time ,for racial prejudices must be overcome. But remember the question MUST BE SOLVED SOME TIME and why not begin the effort to acquaint ourselves with the facts, in order that we can do the thing that should be done.

The letter follows:

Since the landing of our "Pilgrim fathers, to this present day we have displayed to the world, the spirit of dauntless courage, loyalty and faith. Our nation has been foremost in the achievement of many noteworthy events. We have proven our supremacy on land, sea and in the air. Do we wish to preserve this record

Gathered beneath the protecting folds of Old Glory, we, as representatives of a great nation live in a sense of peace and security, failing to hear the stealthy footsteps of the enemy at our gates. An enemy whose hoary hands are clutching at the very heart of our civilization, whose sensuous gaze is riveted upon the fair flower of American womanhood. An enemy who has come to destroy the very essence of American culture and idealism.

Are we aware of this creature—the negro—the black menace? Are we prepared to meet the situation which is so seriously endangering our future and the future of our children? Are we going to allow the Negro to intermarry with our Caucasion race until the purity of Caucasion blood is tainted beyond recognition? Should we be forced to allow negro encroachment in Caucasian districts, where our children must attend the same schools, play in the same play grounds and live in an environment which is altogether undesirable for their development? Must we expose our wives and daughters to insults and ravish at the hands of the negro?

We have in Los Angeles alone, a negro population of eighty-five or ninety thousand. Recently certain negro organizations have combined in an effort to bring thousands more of their race to our city, from the Mississippi flood district and other states. Los Angeles, at the present time, has not enough manufacturing industries, etc., to give employment to the present population. Are we not encouraging crime and burglary by allowing an increase of undesirable and poverty-stricken persons of the black race to be imposed upon us by the thousands?

Do we realize that in Los Angeles we have several Negro newspapers published on Central avenue, such as The Pacific Defender, The California Eagle, The Pacific Enterprise, The New Age Dispatch, etc., which are spreading propaganda and breeding hatred against the Caucasian race? Do we realize that the negro is showing friendly co-operation with the Russian Reds? Do we realize that the negro race in America has a powerful organization with a fund of ten million dollars with which to force equality with the Caucasians, socially, politically and otherwise?

How can we meet this situation as a Christian race. We realize that our Creator has placed the negro upon this earth for a purpose and it should not be our desire to crush him, yet God has originally placed this race in Africa where they should establish a nation according to their own ability and ideals. The negro, however, being ashamed of his race, color and nation has migrated from his homeland and now lives as a parasite in a Caucasian realm. Since he has chosen this means of existence, he must undoubtedly pay the price for his folly, and not expect us as a Caucasian race to stand humbly aside and allow this imposition to go on .

If our nation is to be saved from this menace and white supremacy permanently established, it is necessary for every Caucasian citizen to co-operate for the good of the race. There is no time to be lost, for already the monstrous shadow has been cast upon us. We have yet time to save ourselves, but delays may result in disaster.

We now offer without comment an excerpt appearing in an article taken from the Los Angeles Examiner of July 19, 1927:

"Sobbing her distress in the district attorney's office yesterday, Virginia Meyers, 16-year-old Lincoln High School graduate, heard Deputy District Attorney Clifford Thomas order a statutory charge filed against Melville Leighton, negro football player, who also attended Lincoln High.

"I'll marry him if it will save him from prison,' Virginia wept.

"Mr. Thomas explained to her that California laws prevented marriage between whites and negroes.

"In a statement made to the district attorney both Leighton and the girl admitted their love.

"'I first began going out with him about two and one-half months ago,' Miss Meyers said. "I drove my car around to school to get him. I went out with him about four times.'

"PUTS BLAME ON GIRL

"Leighton, while freely admitting his relation with the girl was inclined rather to blame Miss Meyers.

"'I wasn't the aggresor in this case,' he said in his statement. 'I treated her as any white boy would have treated her as far as respect is concerned around the school. I think the charges are rather stiff. I have several notes here that she wrote to me. She always called my home and came after me . I never called her.

"The couple were arrested in the girl's automobile on West Thirty-fifth street July 15.

"LIVES WITH PARENTS

"Juvenile authorities declared that the girl fell in love with Leighton on account of his football prowess.

"The girl lives with her parents at 911 Hyde Park avenue, Inglewood. Leighton lives with his parents, 1284 East Thirty-seventh street. He was placed in jail following his arraignment in Municipal Court. The girl was taken to Juvenile Hall."

—California American.

Dear Mr. California American in the first paragraph of your article, I note that you ask this question—Is the American Negro a Menace to Caucasian Supremacy? You not only ask the question, but likewise ,in the same breath, answer it. For you admit that you have repeatedly called attention to the fact that something should be done while the opportunity is ripe .

You speak of the American Negro as an alien. From the tone of your article I am persuaded to believe that you have but recently adopted this country, but have not yet been adopted by the country who pretend to protect with your assinine prerogatives. You freely admit that you know nothing about American History when you say that the Negro migrated to this country because he was ashamed of his nation.—Read Spear's and other American authorities on the Slave Trade in America and the West Indies.

For your enlightenment sir, a Negro wants you to know that not only did he come to America as a special but honor instructor, being the production of this great Republic will said. Indeed, America is builded on

BOB AT THE BAT

Last Sunday afternoon to a crowded house of more than five thousand people Bob Shuler tried the present City Administration and found it guilty of vice and corruption.

In speaking of the Jacobson case, Mr. Shuler said: "Councilman Jacobson may or may not be guilty of any offence that justifies his arrest. He and the public can afford to await the production of court evidence. In the meantime the public should assume the innocence of the Councilman. But as to the crookedness of our law enforcement machinery one need have no doubts.

The arrest of Councilman Jacobson under the circumstances as contended for either by the Councilman or by the arresting officers proves beyond a shadow of a doubt that the police forces of Los Angeles are aligned with the vice forces of this city.

Mr. Shuler's words rang out, and if words were shots at the end of his discourse, Mayor Cryer, Asa Keyes and other conspicuous characters of the present city administration would have lain prostrate at his feet.

Mr. Shuler's speech which included the arrest and its aftermath of Councilman Jacobson was a fearless attack on vice and corruption as it is practiced in Los Angeles.

SUNBURSTS FROM FROM ABROAD

French politeness is famous the world over, but it has been my observation that a good deal of it, at least, is of the surface variety .

Like many things which are practiced constantly, it is likely to become a mere form. For instance, you may be standing in line at a ticket window .The , Frenchman's apologies will be profuse as he tramples on your toes and jabs you with his elbows, and many will be his "pardon monsieur's" as he struggles to get ahead and take your place in line, but take it he will if given half a chance. It is far from uncommon for a Frenchman to walk directly between a lady and gentleman whom he may meet on the street—always with his "pardon" —for he has no sense of keeping to the right, and lucky indeed is the woman on a Paris street car who is given a seat by a member of the sterner sex.

Probably the one thing that "gets the goats" of Americans in Paris more than all others, is the footing accorded the Negro.

I doubt if any American can see a Negro walking down the street with a white girl hanging on his arm without experiencing a feeling of disgust, but such sights are anything but rare in Paris.

In many of even the better cafes, Negroes, usually accompanied by fair companions, are accorded all the privileges of whites, and the white girls dance with them quite as readily as with males of their own race. Association of white girls with Orientals is even more common. Paris is nothing if not cosmopolitan.

Speaking of dancing the French surely have some customs which strike the American as odd.

I dined the other evening on the balcony of a downtown cafe, and had an excellent opportunity to observe the diners and dancers on the floor below. Several tables, I noticed, were occupied by only girls, while at others men were the sole occupants.

When the music started, a man would go and ask a girl to dance, and when the music ceased they parted on the center of the floor, each going to his or her respective table. Apparently they were there for the business of dancing, and the French flapper, unlike her American cousin, was perfectly willing to foxtrot or tango without requiring her partner to buy her a dinner or a drink.

WHAT'S WRONG WITH FRANCE?

An American [illegible] with him wherever he goes. Regionals as he [illegible] his Ideals, and what he gets [illegible] ter, like France, with its [illegible] ters spirit he plans [illegible] of race hatred, and he can [illegible] tion nation.

Oh! for an American [illegible] of Christianity.

IN MEMORIUM

A FRIEND

In 1890 there appeared on the religious horizon in this state an individual, a stranger, bearing the cross of Christianity, young and in the prime of life. Along with others he had heard the call for men, men of Christian character and belief and he had answered that call. Conditions were not then as now.

To answer that call meant to suffer hardships and privations. It meant to sacrifice. He hesitated not but boldly accepted his lot as an ambassador of Christ and began what proved to be his life's work—saving souls.

One has but to glance at the minutes of the California and Colorado A. M. E. Conferences over a period of some thirty odd years to see the records of his accomplishments and his achievements.

His word and his deeds are evidence that he put worth and character first and the material rewards that accrue from them second in his scheme of life.

The name of this worthy and noble character, D. R. Jones, was for years a mouthpiece in the religious realms of the different places he pastored. No task was too great or small. His was a living example of what willpower could and did accomplish and as a result the cause of Christianity has greatly advanced and Methodism has been strengthened.

The great States of California and Nevada in which he so faithfully labored for so many years owe him a debt of gratitude and in their triumphist march over that religious highway made permanent and safe by such clergymen as D. R. Jones, John Pointer, J. R. Dorsey, Father Green, Rev. Edwards of 8th and Towne fame, to higher, better and nobler conditions in life its citizens pause to pay a silent tribute of respect to the name of Rev. D. R. Jones, who departed this life August 17, 1926, leaving in its wake the record of a life well spent. A record that shall shine as yon beacon light far out at sea, and be a monument for those who follow in its pathway. A record that shall live long after yon marble wall shall have crumbled into dust with ages and their inscriptions been forgotten.

Troops Prevent Lynching in South Carolina

(By: A. N. P.)

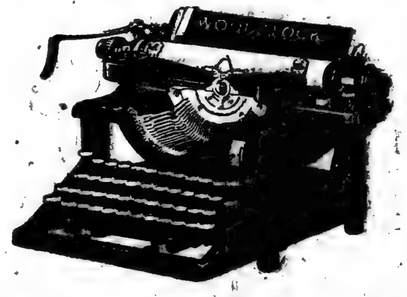
Union, S. C., Aug. 10.—Governor Richards' policy of the State militia to safeguard the lives of prisoners and to keep down mob violence, again prevented a lynching, when a mob of five hundred or more white men threatened to storm the local jail Saturday night and lynch Albert Simpson a colored youth, charged with shooting a white man. The appearance of the soldiers, armed with rifles and machine guards calmed the mob which dispersed immediately.

Simpson narrowly escaped being lynched in the early part of the afternoon. At this time, officers rescued him from the mob which was bent on killing him. According to reports, Simpson and a white youth by the name of Mack Austin had had trouble and a fight followed, in which Austin was shot.

A crowd of irate whites gathered around Simpson and was making preparations to lynch him, when policemen rushed in and rescued him. He was carried to the local jail. The mob, however, did not like to be deprived of their fun so easily and within an hour or so, the forces had been strengthened and they prepared to move on the jail. Their minds were changed when they saw the soldiers on guard, and when they recalled Governor Richards' famous order—"To shoot to kill."

The white youth sustained a slight flesh wound and a charge of assault with intent to kill, has been placed against Simpson.

The dispatch with which the troops reached the jail and quelled the trouble, has elicited much commendation from citizens, who want to see South Carolina's slate kept clean and the law upheld. Forty-five minutes after Captain Thomas E. Jolly, commander of Company E of the 118th Inantry, received the order, he had his men at the jail and ready for action. The action, however, was not necessary.



Rev. A. P. Shaw exchanged hats with somebody at Eagle Hall last Friday night, he will be glad to return the one he took to the owner. Call HUmbolt 3425.

PROSPER TEA A SEASON SENSATION

Social chat shall for a long time keep alive memories of a function held on Saturday last, August 6th, that in this the usually dull summer season was unequalled by any in the whole winter season. This was a Tea in which Mrs. Estelle Prosper and Mrs. Gertie Bartlett were hostesses to Mrs. Lillian Craw, and Mrs. Clara Sledge of Cukland, Cal.; Mrs. Cora Jones, Phoenix, Ariz.; Mrs. Anna Jackson, El Centro, Cal.; Mrs. Pearl Lowery Winters, Bakersfield, Cal.; Mrs. W. D. Miller, Los Angeles and Mr. Floyd Covington.

The beautiful, spacious, and sumptuously appointed home of Mr. and Mrs. L. J. Prosper at 750 E. Adams St., was the scene of the delightfully memorable affair. By deftly artistic arrangement, the lofty entrance hall, reception room and library, were transformed Alladin-like into a veritable dream garden of Paradise. Vari-colored dahlias, eye entrancing gladiolas, gorgeously tinted tropical plants, and the choicest, most exotic blooms of California's Southland nodded and beckoned their dainty welcome as they filled the air with seductive perfume.

From 4:00 P. M. to 8:00 P. M. 500 of Los Angeles' elite mingled in pleasant concourse, and listened enraptured to a brilliant musical program. Mrs. Leola M. Longress rendered a piano solo masterpiece and two vocal solos each were rendered by the three nightingales, Miss Rowena Muckelroy, Mrs. Emma Smith and Miss Ollie Grpen. A toothsome buffet luncheon was served in the evening with refreshments of ice cream, cake and punch. Those whose assistance made the affair such a pleasant success were: Mesdames Madeline Osborne; Estelle Cook; Zenobia Clark; Zora Watson; Ruby Young; Dr. Geo. Offut; Irene Butler; Nellie Smallwood; Florence Carter and Mrs. Emma Carter.

AND OH! WHAT A NIGHT!!

Mrs. Major Smith of 1001 E. 29th street was hostess to the Sunbeam Club on Friday, August 12th. The Home was profusely decorated with cut flowers of many varieties.

Whist was the feature of the evening. The guests began arriving at seven o'clock, and at eight, on which hour began the game, everyone favored with an invitation was present and ready. The evening was exceptionally interesting, prizes being awarded every quarter hour to the holder of the highest score. The grand prize was a hand-embroidered Vanity Set won by Mrs. M. Berry for the highest score of the evening. Through the evening each lady was presented with two souvenirs.

At ten o'clock the guests wended their way into the dining room to partake of the sumptuous viands prepared by that famous butler, M. Smith. Covers were laid for 14 on a table which was the acme of artistic beauty with a magnificent floral centerpiece, elaborate silver, and silk hand embroidered mats. The delicacies of the season and the well known Xmas bird with all its fixin's were in evidence.

The hostess was assisted by her beautiful and charming daughter, Mrs. Hazel R. Holmes. The latest fashions were picturesquely displayed by the entire group of ladies, led by their president, Mrs. K. C. Venerable.

At midnite the guests departed, and were lavish in their expressions of gratitude for the generous hospitality of her hostess and the cuisine par excellent as only "Major" can bring it forth.

Departing guests were heard to say —"An evening well spent."

The Liberty Club from the Pullman Porters of Los Angeles met with Mrs. B. M. Hill on last Friday. The attendance was fine and every moment was given over to business. So if you are the wife of a Pullman Porter come and co-operate with us. We will be delighted to have you. Always watch the Eagle for Liberty Club news. Next meeting will be held on August 24th at the residence of Mrs. Hood, 867 E. 36th St. Anyone wishing to join, call AXmine 4709 and the Secretary will arrange for you to join.

CARD OF THANKS

It is with mingled pride and pleasure that I am able to take this opportunity of expressing my most sincere thanks and appreciation to my fellow Race members and Angelenos for their exceptional, unselfish and highly altruistic efforts in my behalf. As a student, the aid which has been afforded me will prove of incalculable value; and as a Race member, this support has given me a new inspiration to strive ever in the interest of the group.

All groups without exception have rallied to the support of this drive, sponsored so successfully by one of our leading women's clubs,—the Iroquois Friday Morning Club, with a spirit which should prove to all our youth and student groups that the elders heartily endorse a program of education. I am sure that this action will prove a stimulus and inspiration to my fellow-students to carry on to greater heights in the educational field.

My heart is now and shall ever be with my friends in Los Angeles, and I hope some day to be able to repay with service in some humble way, my obligations here.

(Signed) RALPH J. BUNCH.

WESTERN BAPTIST ASS'N.

Dr. W. H. Rozier and his associates presented a most commendable program during the entire session. All the sermons and addresses were well prepared and faultlessly delivered. The Convention Chorus under the direction of Capt. Reynolds and the Young People's Choir under the direction of Miss Anna Mai Griffith contributed largely to the success of the meeting. The executives of the association and its auxiliaries brought a faithful survey of the year's work and in convincing terms made recommendations for the ensuing year. One theme will cover all these addresses, "Progress".

A very large place was given the young people on the program. In addition to the splendid courtesy during the week day program, they had charge of the Sunday evening service. The address of the evening was delivered by Mr. Lloyd Griffith who took as his subject "Youth Faces the Future." The closing sermon was preached by Rev. R. H. Wade.

The retiring moderator, Dr. W. H. Rozier has given his denomination an enlarged vision of religious activities. Through the function of the educational commissions, a Director of Religious Education has been employed, and who has the direction of the religious educational activities of the young people throughout the district; Vacation Daily Bible Schools are conducted; Training Classes are established; the West Coast Theological Seminary has been established for the Missionary Commission an enlarged program of home and foreign missions is conducted and small local fields are assisted. Rev. Frank James the General Missionary has responded faithfully to the reconstructed program.

As a testimonial of faithful services, the Association presented the retiring moderator, Dr. Rozier, with a certificate of appreciation and confidence. The Woman's Home and Foreign Missionary presented him with a Life membership in the Association. The management of the Old Folk's home was reorganized and it is believed this institution will serve even a greater need in this part of the state.

IS THE AMERICAN NEGRO A MENACE?

this is a Caucasian country. Well, here is the definition of a Caucasion: CAUCASION—Anyone of the white division of human beings, so called because the people about the Caucasus Mountains (which forms a division of the Russian Empire) were taken as the highest type of the human family; it includes nearly all Europeans, the Circassians, Jews, Armenians, Hindus and Persians.—Any native or inhabitant of the region about the Caucasus as the Georgians, Circassians, etc.

What about it? Are you still a Caucasian?

Again, dear sir, do you know that the Negro fought for America's freedom from England's tyrannical reign, fought for his own freedom in the Civil rebellion, has fought in all the wars wherein America's interests were affected?

And do you know further that even though he was brought over against his will and sold into chattel slavery, serving his time of two hundred and fifty years in that, the most menacing of all debasing schools; he comes forth with the record of having made greater progress along all lines in his sixty-two years of freedom than any other race subjected to the same experience?

Think, brother, think! for you are undertaking the biggest problem of your life. I would suggest that you do either of two things—trust to luck or eat him. If you trust to luck you will, as was intended by the Creator, leave him to destiny; if you eat him you will have more brains in your belly than you have in your head.

So again I prayerfully suggest that you think again before you act.

his toil, sweat and blood, if you please.

You say you are Caucasian, and that

Mr. Davis' absence did not hamper the success as he had two very efficient men in the person of Mr. Frances, who is looking for a location for a first class cafe and Mr. Clifford Prince, one of our young druggists. As long as the club has men of this type it will be a success. Plans are being made now to raise money for the charity work.

The Community Chest

Life may have dealt him a blow but it has not conquered him.

Even enthralling age has not laid him low at ninety. For Morris Tolsky, the proud old man of the Hebrew

MORRIS TOLSKY
At The Age Of Ninety

Sheltering and Home for the Aged, a Community Chest agency, where he is cared for, is a victim of circumstances.

And now, far advanced in years, he feels that he can still "make good", that his straightened circumstances are only temporary embarrassment.

For in his day this Proud Old Man paid his tribute to life. With advancing years came unforseen difficulties that swept away his little fortune. Friends and family were gone, too, and he struggled along alone until the big heart of a kindly city that understood took him under its protection.

"Caring for the aged is no longer considered charity but the obligation of the stronger to help the weak" one of the workers for the Community Chest agency explained. "They have given of their time and talents in the march of progress. Now, when misfortune overtakes them in their declining years, it is an act of brotherly love and understanding to take them by the hand and lead them over the rough way at the end of life".

Your dollar given to Community Chest means that much contributed to the betterment of the world and one step nearer the brotherhood of man.

ONE MAN'S OPINION

[Editor's Note: The following article addressed to the Editor is the opinion of a fellow citizen. Others may differ. Let's hear from those who may.]

Los Angeles, Aug. 12, 1927.

MR. J. B. BASS,
Editor California Eagle,

Los Angeles, Cal.

After being confronted with the outrage of the case brought against some of our Race and most respectable citizens at Manhattan Beach, which I think most of the people in our group have either read of or heard about, I feel it my duty, being a contractor and a man in business amongst the group, to bring to the attention of others who may feel as I do although not hurt in the way that other mechanics and I, myself, feel over the sight of our largest building contractors employing white men to do mechanical work on buildings being built, financed and owned by colored people.

Mr. W. H. Terry is the building contractor's name who is employing white men to do work that men of our race are just as capable of doing, if not more so, than the white men that are doing the work for Mr. Terry.

Of course Mr. Terry is running his own business and running it to suit himself and not me or others, but I cannot feel that he is doing justice to the Race as he is one of the Directors of the Unity Finance Company of which Dr. Hudson is one of the vice-presidents, and too the doctor was one of the outraged parties of the Manhattan beach affair. If he wanted to play a Race part with Dr. Hudson and the other outraged parties, the last thing he would do would be to employ white men to do work that can be done by men of his own race and too men that could and would put money where it would be a benefit to other of our Race.

To think that a man who is in a business supported by colored people and too doing work for colored people in a colored neighborhood, using colored people's money to pay men of a race that would not permit him nor any other colored man or any part of his family to as much as enjoy something that the Almighty Father put here for one and all to have, is like taking food away from a child to fatten a frog for a snake.

Now, if Mr. Terry was to be forced to work as a journeyman and the fathers of these same white men were to be contractors and offer Mr. Terry a job, I can say without fear that the same men that are accepting Mr. Terry's money would refuse to work with him, but still he employs men that have every advantage in the world to get work and let men of his own race walk around and suffer for the want of work and too men that would and could protect him in the time of need.

It has often been remarked to me as well as others by white people that the Colored Race don't stick together. And why? Is it that Colored people don't organize? Our group will make a howl that we don't co-operate. Well, I feel that when men that are in a position to help a man that will help others of his race, fails to do so, there isn't much chance for unity or co-operation, for it is like taking a hub out of a wheel and expect the wheel to turn smoothly. Now, it is high time that the progressive leaders of our group are getting out and doing a bit of investigating and bring to the sight of our Race such men as Messrs. Terry, Brooks, Knox and others that are taking work from our people and giving it to people that are opposed to even our children going to school with their children; for the class of white mechanic that will even figure on a Colored man's job is way below the standard of a good mechanic for if he were good he would be in Hollywood, Beverley Hills or somewhere else where a Colored man cannot go and get even a job of cleaning up behind mechanics and on investigation it can be found that the same white man that these Colored contractors are employing are living in restricted districts and would be the first to raise a fuss if these same Colored men were to try and buy in their neighborhood, for it is the lower type of white man that harms and discriminates, for the rich white man puts a price on his properties and pleasures that the Colored man won't afford even though he be able to do so.

So I feel that every broad-minded, clean-thinking Colored person will see as I see and, that is, if we have men in our group who are in power to help others of our group and turn it over to white men rather than to help men of his own race that have families to support and can produce just as good as the men of the opposite race, cannot be for the race at all and should be classed as a spy during war time for he is not only doing an injustice to a race brother but is hurting his whole family and other families and the entire race, for every dollar that is turned away from a race man is the same as a weapon against him and his race. And when any of us think that we are gaining anything by putting the white man to work because he gives a cheaper figure, it need not be thought that it is better because nothing good is cheap and anything cheap can't be good.

Now I will for myself put up a defiance to any of the Building Contractors and that is, if any white painting contractor can use the same grade of material as I use he can't do his work any cheaper than I can.

I don't claim to be the best mechanic in Los Angeles, but I will say I am capable of working with any of them and have as good a crew of mechanics as any of the white paint contractors that I have seen working on any of the colored builders' jobs and there are other colored paint contractors just as good as I am and will put up the same challenge. So these builders need not alibi by saying they can get better work and get it cheaper for they can only get a cheaper job, for I will say that from my experience through dealing and working with and around white panters, that they know more about cheating than the colored painter does, for they know more about chemicals and when you want paint you want minerals and not chemicals, and I daresay that the average building contractor does not know the difference between the two when being applied, nor does he care just so that he gets his work done at the lowest figure.

In speaking as I have, I speak from experience for I worked as an apprentice in W. H. Patton's carriage shop in Omaha to learn my trade and after serving my apprenticeship I was refused in the yourneymen's union allowing that they never had had a colored member and wouldn't have any now. That was in the days when man was supposed to be man, but my skin was dark; in Chicago even until today Colored men can't work with white mechanics although we have to join the union. We are unionized by the white union and a clause in the By-Laws of the union keeps them separated but colored builders in Chicago work all colored mechanics, pay better price too allowing the sub-contractor to pay a better wage and naturally the people get a better job, for better prices afford better material and better mechanics and makes a better finish all the way. Our people have often remarked here why do the homes in Hollywood and Beverly Hills look better than ours do, and that is simple, for the white builder pays from five hundred up for a four-family apartment and the colored builder makes the painter figure below four hundred and twenty-five dollars and a hundred dollars makes a lot of difference in a job, for the painter makes the job show up for after every other mechanical line is completed the painter has to finish.

NEWS OF THE CHURCH

War Declared On Lower California Land & Development Company

As we read the news sections and the editorial columns of the daily papers, it does not take one long to see and realize that all California and especially Southern California is all agog and perturbed over the Julian Oil Corporation and its doings. Not alone are the thousands of white stock investors raising this vociferous halloo, but even in our group where that as investors, they form an insignificant minority, we find in the homes, on the cars, on the street corners and even in the pulpits a continual "buzz" about the "Sin and Shame" of such doings. We are told that charity begins at home. In other words we would state that your appeals for your next door neighbor to keep his backyard clean would not be very effective while you kept your own untidy and allowed your trash and paper to be blown and strewn over his yard. We openly admit that every investor who has placed a dime in this concern has a right to kick and to kick hard. In fact any citizen who wished to criticize the procedure of the Julian Corporation has a perfect right to do so, but what the Negro has to say on this proposition is usually hearsay. Not one but of one thousand has one iota of inside information.

To Public Speakers and especially to ministers of the gospel who are conscientiously seeking to instruct and life his hearers into the virtues of race integrity, race co-operation and square dealings one with the other, we would suggest that we have a subject by far more appropriate than the Julian case.

We wish to offer to you as a subject, "The Lower California Land Company and Hugh E. Macbeth." We claim that this would be a more appropriate subject because in the first place, it deals with a question that involves Negroes alone with the exception of wherein Macbeth occasionally injected a cheap white man to help him fleece the Negroes.

Then too, such a speaker would be able to talk to his people on things not what he heard but what he knows. If he felt that his memory might fail him then we could furnish him with the following information from which he could write his manuscript. The speaker could first say that Hugh E. Macbeth collected between five and ten thousand dollars or more of the people's money, put it in his own personal bank and drew it out on his own personal checks and spent it. We have the cancelled checks in our possession to present them to anybody who wants to see them. Possibly when the speaker or minister had made the above statement, some good brother would rise and wish to shield Macbeth as some are trying to do today, saying Macbeth had a right to use the money in this manner. The speaker could then reply by saying, "No, Macbeth had no right to use the money in this way, because the gentlemen from whom I got my data for my manuscript have a letter from the State Corporation Commission showing that Hugh E. Macbeth had written to the Commission asking that he, Macbeth, be granted the privilege of holding the money which the people paid him for stock. We have the letter showing that the Commissioner wrote back to Macbeth telling him that under no consideration was he to hold in his personal account any of the funds realized from selling stock but that it must be deposited in a bank that was agreeable to both Board of Directors of the Company and the State Corporation Commissioner. Did Macbeth keep the orders of the Corporation Commissioner? No, he did not. The cancelled checks will show mission telling them that the Security Trust and Savings Bank had been selected as the depository for the money realized from the sale of stock. This eight or ten thousand dollars of cancelled checks that we hold will show that they have never been through the Security Trust & Savings Bank. In the permit that the State Corporation Granted the company to sell stock it was also plainly stated that all monies paid in for stock less 10% was to be held in escrow until the expiration of the permit and if at the time of expiration of the permit all of the stock had not been sold, the money was to be taken from the depository and turned back to the people, who had invested.

Did Macbeth abide by this order? No, he did not. Instead Macbeth went down into Mexico and made a "bogus" lease deal, incurred heavy debts and rode his fellow directors and the public at large for money with which to pay these supposed debts off. We are only sorry now to know that we did not have the knowledge of affairs three years ago as well as we have them now. We would have long since taught this good brother how to handle other folk's money. Someone asked us the other day, are we tired of writing on this matter? We frankly say yes, but as long as we are right we can't be quitters. Someone has said that it looks impossible for us to get anywhere. When we hear such remarks we receive encouragement by turning to the Biblical story of David and Goliath. Goliath was a great giant, all armed and armoured with swords, breast plates and shields. David was only a bare-footed boy with a sling and a stone. When the crucial test came between the two, history tells the story of the victor. We may not be so accurate as David was to hit the mark, with the first stone, but we are going to continue to throw them as long as slings and rocks last. As the late comedian Bert Williams would pit it, "I shall continue to throw stones and I shall miss nobody."

the children at the nursery, that it keeps her busy from morning tuntil night.

And that is just what the thinking people of Los Angeles have planned for little girls like Carol whose mothers have to work. It is part of the constructive program outlined through agencies of the Community Cheat in view of the old adage, "Satan finds work for idle hands to do."

"Keep the children of the working mothers busy at constructive play and you will rid the city of evil," is the admonition of welfare workers.

But the good done in this field of endeavor is two-fold, for it not only trains little Carol for the future but helps a hard-working mother to keep the little home together.

"The home is the foundation of the nation" so every dollar contributed to the Chest builds for the future welfare of the nation.

Europe has intellectuals, but they can't say "yokel" in that withering way ours have.

Nothing can long astonish a country that can so quickly adjust itself to a new flivver model.

One thing Americans have in common is a desire to acquire culture in six easy lessons.

The vulgarities that shock people most in public are the ones they enjoy most in private.

"Smoke is waste", says an appeal for smokeless cities. It will be if science succeeds in extracting the nicotine from tobacco.

A physician says that the world's work is done by morons. We did not realize before that they were such useful members of society.

After a wedding in New York we are told that a "resolution followed at the home of the bride's parents". Doubtless a resolution on the part of the bride to be the boss.

AUGUST

August brings a touch of fall .The sun is perceptibly on its way south. Earlier it takes its candles through the woods and goes to bed. Evening may bring a suggestion of chill and a thought of a log fire. Queen Anne's lace and button rockets are in places with daisies and the fox grass .There'll be red haws and wild grapes to gather.

The silk of the sweet corn is brown. Red-headed woodpecker have come into the oaks, pounding and skirling. Thickets are growing yellow. Soon a dried leaf will come tumbling out of the shag bark hickory. The pips of the wild rose will turn red. The old wheel is on another turn.

UNUSUAL MAN.

Objection was voiced at the N. A. A. C. P. meeting on last Sunday on the ground that it was unusual procedure for the president to seek a vote of confidence for his acts, and further that it was a slight to the Executive Board.

Those making these objections, if they would have a second thought in the premises would readily realize that their president, in the person of Dr. H. Claude Hudson is an unusual man. He has been a God'send to this community and as such has wrought wonders for the great N. A. A. C. P. To do this he has worked hand in hand with all forces which signified their intention to go forward. If one or more would hesitate the doughty president simply said, "Unhand me," broke the chain and moved forward and onward, having an abiding faith in the support and endorsement of all the people whom he sought to serve.

When he heard mumbling even from one or more of his Board members he simply paused and asked the higher power, the people themselves, what they thought about his acts. Their answer was hurled back in the echo of the echo of the question and was, "we are with you Claude Hudson, 50,000 strong."

As a matter of fact many of our embryotic and aspiring leaders have yet to learn that the highest compliment they can pay themselves is to keep their ears to the grass roots and listen to the voice of the people.

Dr. Hudson is strong, he is unusual and does the unusual thing because at all hazards he works for and obeys the voice of the people.

KEEPING PACE WITH PROGRESS

The success of co-operation as evidenced and pointed out by the accomplishment of the Golden State Insurance Company in our last issue is reflected in various lines of effort now being demonstrated in our midst.

We call attention this week first to the Conner-Johnson Undertaking Company. When one person conceived in unity there is strength and Charles H. Conner organized a company to go into this particular line of business and today this concern is very aptly demonstrating and filling its niche in the business affairs of this city. It is an institution to which all may point with pride. It is a success and was made so from the fact that co-operation was such procured and put into execution.

Secondly we have in the very same line of effort the Angelus Funeral Home, when several of our wide awake and enterprising citizens came together and co-operated in putting on foot this business concern. By co-operating they were able to save a one-man business which was tottering and about to fail . They have raised it up, bought the ground on which the business is conducted and today by co-operating have a business which is a credit indeed.

EVOLUTION OF HIKING

One of the things that takes the joy out of motoring is the hop-hiker, whose number is legion, having multiplied like the Japanese beetle in the last five years. And right now, while the vacation and touring season is in full swing, he seems unusually numerous and pestiferous.

These unmounted gentry of the open road are abroad not to walk but to ride, and a goodly proportion of them have argued themselves into the belief that they have an inalienable right to the vacant seat in the first automobile to pass. No doubt there are thoughtful, considerate and grateful gentlemen among them who realize that they are beggars for something far more costly than a crust of bread or old clothes. They are content to hoof it until caught up with by a driver hungry for company or just naturally generous.

The lot of the thumb-pointing ride-beggars who are welcome in most cars with spare seating space is made harder by those having the effrontery and impudence to insult motorists who refuse them a "life", and by murderers who rob and slay those with compassion enough to give them free transportation.

Hop-hikers having the appearance of respectability and honesty have little difficulty in "seeing America" with transportation paid by somebody else. And, judging from the number of pennant-bearers encountered on the highways on weekends during football season, college students miss no games away from home and spend no money on carfare.

Books on etiquette should be revised so as to lay down certain inviolable rules governing the granting and "accepting" of hops. Certainly it is proper for those who have their girl friend or their thoughts out for a jaunt to turn thumbs down on the thumb-pointing, foot-preserving hiker.

NO SHORT CUTS TO SUCCESS

Lillian Gish, famous screen actress, recently made the remark that it takes ten years of hard work to build up a large following and to make people demand a name or face in the films. She speaks from personal experience and from a knowledge of the experience of other screen folk.

Here is a situation not limited alone to movie stars. Doctors and lawyers frequently justify their fees by the years they spent in building up a paying practice. It is not only in fiction and the movies that young artists starve in attics.

Henry Ford struggled along for years before Dame Fortune favored him. And his experience has been that of the founders of most of the country's great industries.

Successful merchants often attribute their business achievements to early years of struggle just one jump ahead of the sheriff. Their businesses rest on solid foundations laid by years of hard work and extensive advertising. Stores and other business enterprises do not win public confidence and widespread patronage by lottery.

The larger rewards of screen stars, professional men and successful business men are vindicated by the years of self-sacrificing toil expended in winning them. Part of their income in back-pay.

Many individuals and business enterprizes fail today because they are unwilling to pass through that formative period of hard knocks and hard work. The world wasn't built in a day, and great careers and monumental commercial enterprizes are not produced by the wave of a wand.

DOLLARS AND TOWNS

Probably everybody at one time or another has mailed an order to an out-of-town concern, but how many have ever stopped to think what that order meant? Not many. or there would be less trading with mail order houses and other "foreign" firms.

Do you know that every dollar sent out of town is gone forever?

Do you know that every dollars spent in your own community makes it more prosperous, gives it a chance to grow, and helps make Los Angeles a better place in which to work and play and live?

Large cities offer inducements for mail order businesses to establish plants there because they concentrate, in the communities in which they operate, millions of dollars from customers in other cities, towns and rural sections.

If mail order money is needed by the large city it can do much more good in the smaller community from which it issues. A few hundred dollars spent at home makes a larger ripple in the pool of business than as many thousands of dollars can make in the great metropolis.

Why are so many people blind to the good their money does when spent in Los Angeles stores? It furnishes employment, makes those same stores more useful to them, helps pay for civic improvements and better schools, and in other routes finds its way back to the spender.

And is not the lure of the mail catalog explained by the saying, "Distance lends enchantment"? As for mail, order economics, they exist only in the mind.

Article to the California Eagle:—

The World today is organized for work, and efficiency is the only road to a higher stardard. Search and you will find that at the base and birth of every business organization is an enthusiastic man consumed with eagerness of purpose, with confidence and faith in his own endeavors.

Eighteen years ago I started out from the second largest city in Arkansas, namely Pine Bluff. My experience has always been that the right road is the easiest traveled; a more successful life than that of the "bad man." When I have failed, it has been because of neglect and of fairness, of politeness, of industry, imperfectly, the good advice my mother gave me, which I have heard repeated from boyhood up by all good men and women. The simple truth is that all this commotion about the wrongs of condition is a mistake; it is the people who are wrong, not the system, and the commotion simply encourages the foolish in folly.

I respect nothing so much as I respect the lessons of experience.

We are the heirs of the ages, and men in the past have tried to make life easy as possible for "some divisions." They have neglected nothing calculated to benefit the human family, and we of this Golden Age should know that the only improvement possible rests with individuals.

I have always believed in religious liberty. I believe that every Colored man to be one hundred per cent American. Urge that every application of the Constitution and amendments of of the United States be equal to all citizens, regardless of color or previous conditions. I maintain that a man's hatred of any class or group of patriotic Americans unfits him for public office; I believe that in our American industrial and commercial activities that the door of opportunity should be open, and promotion possible for all our citizens since all our citizens contribute to the general prosperity of the country. I contend for civic equality not social equality, which often does not exist in the same family.

I believe in the highest improvement of Americanization of our homes, our children and our communities. I crave the co-operation of every white and black man in America in these efforts to make, in fact, as well as in praise, that this land shall be for the free and the home of thebrave.

It has been years since the Spanish conquest of the Incas. Most powerful; rich of the barbaric Indians of the Southern Hemisphere. His told how Francisco Pizarro captured, imprisoned and finally slew the powerful chief of the Incas, Atahualpa, and brought the Empire under Spanish subjection. Today they comprise 80 per cent of the Bolivian population. Poor, ignoant, degraded, relics of a proud nation trampled under the feet of human greed. But there must be something in the blood which debesement could not conquer. A stirring, throbbing, pulsating something which dirt and squallor could not quench, nor ignorance kill. It has broken out in open rebellion against their enslavers and the white residents of the Bolivian republic are fleeing before the descendants of Atahualpa. Fleeing for their lives. Just one more surge in the "Rising Tide of Color."

About 700 Hindus gather in the Native Sons Hall Sacramento. They came from all points in California. If you remember in 1911 President Taft appointed a Commission to study race conditions. It was known as the Dillingham Commission. In the report made they recommended that Hindus be classed as members of the Agrian or white race. Senator Copeland, New York, at the last session of Congress introduced a bill which would legalize that report. The chief speaker was a Hindu from New York . He is the secretary of the India Freedom Foundation. He said, "The passage of the Copeland bill would not alter nor lift the ban on East Indian immigration passed in 1917, but would allow Hindus to own real property." Yes, if that measure becomes a law thousands of acres now under lease will be owned by Hindus. Thousands of acres will be lost to Negro farmers. We have sounded the warning.

Two Italians, Sacco and Vanzetti have for the past seven years been front pagers. Today they have the government of the United States set by the ears. Extra guards for public buildings and prominent individuals, courts, jurors, and the governor of the commonwealth of Massachusetts have found, through evidence given ,that they were guilty of murder. They have been sentenced to die . Then why not execute them? Something is wrong! The law is at fault or rank cowardice permeates the law's officials. The men have flung the defiance of anarchy from behind their prison bars. Does this great government tremble at the threat of anarchy?

Down in Georgia a Negro woman was taken out and flogged because she did not keep an engagement to wash an "Ayrian" woman's clothes. In Mississippi a Negro man was killed because he refused to work for one dollar a day wage . In Arkansas, a Negro was hung to a tree, it is alleged that he "assaed" a white woman. None of the malefactors have been arrested for those crimes. If they were they would not stay in jail seven minutes, less the seven years, and had a Negro been accused of the like crime of the two Italians they would have been executed and they and the crime forgot. Something's wrong, somewhere!

One of the most interesting and instructive studies is the history of the Boulder Dam. The bill which is sponsored by Senator Hiram W. Johnson and Congressman Swing, and known as the Johnson-Swing bill. That project is of vital interest to California. It is essential to the industrial and agricultural needs of the State as well as securing the safety from flood of the valleys. The state's interested in the irrigation and power development of the project have different opinions and are at variance in number of things but same though will finally overcome those differences and an amalgamation of interest will be the outcome. We have promised some contributions to give Ra voters an idea of the great importance to them of making the building the Dam a success.

So they are at it! "Jimmie" Rolph and James Powers, leading candidates for the mayoralty of the city that "Sits on Seven Hills;" "The city that is loved around the world;" the city that knows how"—San Francisco, the city by the Golden Gate. Well, the prize is worth the striving for. For one decade and six years Rolph has steered the municipal ship. He has done well, but he has not at times used wisdom in his treatment of the men who supported him, therefore he has alienated them. There seems to be some division of opinion among the Negro voters as to the merits of the two candidates, but the astute and knowing political seer, John Taylor, has espoused the cause of former Postmaster James Powers. And John is a Race Man.

Eugene Booze and Wife Arrested Charged with Murdering Isiah T. Montgomery

(By: A. N. P.)

Cleveland, Miss., Aug. 12.—This town received a shock which was felt throught the state of Mississippi, Thursday afternoon, when Eugene P. Booze and his wife, Mrs. Mary Booze were arrested on a charge of murdering, by poisoning, Isiah T. Montgomery, the father of Mrs. Booze and the founder of Mound Bayou, Mississippi.

Mr. Montgomery died three years ago and the charge brought against his daughter and her husband was a distinct shock to the town which he founded, and which celebrated its fortieth anniversary a few weeks ago. Mrs. Booze was exceedingly fond of her father and Mr. Booze was considered one of the closest friends of the noted Mississippian.

BOTH PROMINENT

Mrs. Booze is active in civic affairs throughout the state and holds the honor of being National Republican Committee-woman of the State. She has, at all times, taken a great interest in the development of Mound Bayou, which was a project of her father and friends and can see no reason why she would commit or be a party to the deed which has been attributed to her.

Her husband, Eugene P. Booze, named as a party in the crime, is one of the most enterprising and ambitious men in the state of Mississippi. He was an ardent worker in the campaign which led to his wife's election as National Republican Committee-woman and many claim that it is in the power behind the throne in the of her efforts. During the flood, Mr. Booze was especially active and had charge of the committee in the County of Bolivar and through his influence several nurses were employed to work in the camp located at Cleveland, Mississippi and one Negro physician.

BOOZE WAS FACTOR IN BAYOU DEVELOPMENT

According to those who are near, Mr. Montgomery met Mr. Booze in Denver, Colorado, where the latter had gone from his home in Natchez, Mississippi, for his health. Attracted by the business acumen of Booze, Mr. Montgomery sought to influence him to come to Mound Bayou, which he did. After marrying Miss Mary Montgomery, the daughter of Mr. Montgomery, Mr. Booze took a prominent part in the development of Mound Bayou, and many declare that he was largely responsible for the present economic status of the town. At one time he developed a co-operative cotton growing and marketing movement, which warranted the support of the late Senator McKinley of Illinois, and which was of much benefit to the farmers of this section.

The informed further, expressed the opinion that Mr. and Mrs. Booze are the victims of a frame-up designed to reflect discredit upon Mrs. Booze as National Republican Committee-woman and are pointing to the persistent efforts made by inimical forces to embarrass Perry W. Howard, National Republican Committeeman. For this reason, the political angle has been injected into the affair.

DIED AT AGE OF 77

Mr. Montgomery died at the age of 77. He was born on Hurricane Plantation, in 1847 and served as a sort of private secretary to Jefferson Davis, President of the Confederacy. He stopped into the limelight when he purchased the strip of land, which is now Mound Bayou and developed it into one of the most progressive towns in the state.

Mound Bayou, which stands as a monument to the memory of its founder, boasts of being an ALL-NEGRO TOWN, having all Negro officials, Negro citizens and everything Negro. One unique feature of the town is that there is no jail. The town has many flourishing business enterprises and bids fair to continue its growth for years to come.

At the time of his death there was no suspicion as to his passing being due to any but natural causes. He had lived a vigorous and active life and had passed the proverbial three-score and ten years. He was wealthy and according to reports, so is his son-in-law, who is now charged with being his murderer. The trial is expected to be fraught with sensation but the friends of the family feel certain that Mr. and Mrs. Booze will be vindicated.

WHITE WOMAN AND NEGRO LOVER GET TWO YEARS

(By: A. N. P.)

Dunn, N. C., Aug. 12.—Mrs. Britain West and her Negro lover, Ira Cox, were sentenced to serve two years in confinement on a charge of immoral relations here Thursday, Mrs. West will spend her two years in the county jail, while Cox will pass the time away making better roads for the state.

Cox and Mrs. West were arrested Sunday night when officers raided the home of the woman and found the couple in a bed room, disrobed. When the woman appeared on the stand she charged her former lover with having broken into her room and attacked her . She explained that she had made no outcry because Cox threatened to kill her if she did and if she did not submit to his wishes.

The bed room scene which confronted the officers and the reports which led to the raid, caused them to discredit the story and for once the old gag did not go over. The West woman's husband is an invalid and was asleep in the adjoining room, during the "attack." He would make no statement whatever in court, but indicated that he would seek divorce immediately. Cox is an athletically built attractive mulatto and his white sweetheart is a comely woman about thirty years old.

Main St. A. C. Scene Of Thrilling Battle

Every week staging a "go home early" drama with very few scenes the Main Street A. C. put one over last Saturday night that would please the very hardest. With not a bad bout on the card the semi wind-up between Gentleman Ham Jenkins and Young Terry, was a lightning toe to toe battle that ended in a draw.

General Tony Fuente knocked out Leroy Kinney after two rounds of furious milling during which Kinney got up again from each knock-down until the final. This week's card headed by Battling Siki and Al Walker bids fair to be another sizzler.

Y. M. C. A.

Battling neck and neck for highest honors in Class A of the Annual Y. M. C. A. Swimming Contest held last week Lester Valley and John Shackleford finished first and second respectively with only a half point difference, 14 for Valley and 13½ for Shackleford. Bernie Anderson pulled a surprise by garnering 18 points in Class C division. Walton Jones led the field in Class B with a total of 11 points.

A word of praise should be given for little Albert Chism, only 12 years old, who placed third in Class A by piling up nine points. Over 35 boys participated in the contest and at least 20 of the were place winners.

[Editor's Note: These is perhaps no better posted nor better known man in the boxing game than Jerry McCarthy at present at Dempsey's Manhattan Gymnasium. He is an ex-fighter of national fame and remembers many happenings of the old bare-knuckle and skin-tight glove days that are mostly humorous.]

Says Jerry, "When a fighter's jaw is stopping a lot of punches it often makes him an punch-drunk that he sees more gloves than Spalding made and thinks he is fighting two men instead of one. Long ago I was in Mickey Sullivan's corner while he was fighting Ray Barney. Along about the 20th round Barney had Mickey on the floor a half dozen times and the bell finally saved him. I dragged him to his corner and brought him to with smelling salts, ice water, etc., and as he came to and opened his eyes, I asked, 'How do you feel, can you go on?' 'Yes,' he answered, 'but watch that big louse of a referee, every once in a while he sneaks in a punch on me too!'"

THE BLACK SPORT WORLD THROUGH THE EYES OF ART HAMILTON

Eureka, although I have not found it, someone else has. The object for all of the excitement is Jack McVey promising Negro welterweight. I ran across a very good article on him in one of my exchanges and thought I would quote a little of the information given.

The writer was very strong for McVey, rating him third in the welter ranks. Here are some of the details of the article. It describes him as hard hitting Young boxer. He is a combination of a slugger and a boxer. He does not rush headstrong into an opponent taking two blows to give one, but counters beautifuly and has a punch that will set the best of them on the canvas.

His last important battle was a ten-round knockout over Walcott Langford. At the pace he is setting he should soon be getting some of the boys such as Ace Hudkins, Sammy Baker and Tommy Freeman as his opponents.

Dempsey took with him as a sparring partner, the best bet of the heavyweights in Southern California, Neal Clisby.

Clisby is fast and a puncher and he should gain a world of experience by working out with the ex-champ.

Ah! Our boy George Godfrey slipped one over on a certain young man named Jim Maloney and knocked him out in one round. Godfrey did more than duplicate Sharkey's feat, he did him 4 rounds better. It took Sharkey five rounds to defeat the Boston Strong boy. While Godfrey was able to do it in the first minute of round one. By his defeat of Maloney Godfrey surely will gain the recognition due him and land some lucrative bouts.

It seems as if Buck Donald, the Tex Rickard of the West is going to have another dose of his famous hard luck Monday Callahan has a skin infection that may postpone his bout with Sammy Baker indefinitely.

On To Urban League Annual Camp

Special Parlor Busses Will Depart From The Urban League Office At Nine o'Clock Friday Morning, August The 19th, For Camp Midway

Those persons who have received reservations to attend the sixth annual camp for needy mothers and children conducted by the Los Angeles Branch of the National Urban League, Mrs. Katherine J. Barr, Executive Secretary, are requested to be present at the Urban League, 1335 Central Avenue, Friday Morning, August 19th, promptly at 9 o'clock. More than sixty applications for attendance at the camp had to be refused, thereby proving very forcefully the need of a civic camp which will benefit many hundreds of Negro families during all seasons of the year. To further exemplify the need of a public camp for those who are unable to pay, we may mention that the Salvation Army and other agencies of our city do not include in their program the needy Colored.

THE URBAN LEAGUE CAMP WILL HAVE PROMINENT SOCIAL LEADERS OF THE CITY ACTING HOSTESSES FOR SUNDAY PROGRAMS

Each Sunday in camp, Mrs. Katherine J. Barr, Executive Secretary of the Urban League, has very fortunately secured the services of talented, well-known social leaders to act as hostesses, namely: Mrs. A. E. Hill, assisted by Mrs. Frederick and Dr. Ed. Harris, also Dr. Alice Garrott, assisted by Dr. Vada Somerville and Mrs. Frank Gaspard. One of the many big treats in store for the campers is a six-tube radio with a loud speaker installed, donated by a local colored radio technician. There will be much competition among the kiddies for first honors in the spelling bee, the attention to esthetics, camp cleanliness, and camp craft. Anyone wishing to donate small prizes for these and other contest of merit will be accorded the privilege GIVEN by the Urban League.

Two Sterling Young Spokane Artists

BY: LOUIS MICHEL

Miss Robin Stokes, 21 year old lyric Soprano of the Northern Washington city, is a winning singer of the future. Her accompanist, Miss Helen Dundee, only 12 years old, a child marvel. The recital at A. M. E. Zion Church, at Pico and Paloma streets, on Monday, July 25th, 8:30 P. M., was good, but poorly attended.

It was with a feeling of most securely confident anticipation of pleasing artistic attainments that the rather not numerous audience of Miss Robin Stokes, a most promising and cultivated singer from Spokane, and her splendid, only 12 years old accompanicity, received this pair of most creditable performers at the A. M. E. Zion Church, Pico and Paloma streets, on Monday evening, at 8:30.

The singer has an air of real artistic confidence about herself, also a most fetching personality, but that contagious, smiling and bewitching amiability that an artist of her good promise in the future should have and, later on, must have to succeed with the public, is still in the making. Her artistic talent is too great to let it pour out without a sweet smile and without a neat bow.

Miss Robin Stokes is young, very pretty and, indeed, a girl that should climb upon the ladder of fame without any heart-breaking difficulty. Her lyricism is very striking in overflowing sweetness, good enunciation and splendid variety. She has indeed, for so young a Miss of only 21 years, studied a lot, and with 5 years of more good studies, may become a National, if not International, figure. She has, at times, a most powerful, highest soaring voice, and is very impressive when she emerges from the soft, caressing lyrical witchery into her clarion and climax sounds of heavier and deeper tonal power.

Miss Robin Stokes is a most artistically thirsting and discerning singer with a very great repertoire of songs that charmed the audience most happily.

The Negroes of Los Angeles are too chary, like their white brethren, in welcoming a deserving young girl of Miss Stokes' splendid calibre, but now, since she has made her debut here with great credit to herself, she should with good, persistent and systematic advertising be heard by at least 1,000 people or more, when she appears again.

If youth is given its needful consideration, then it can be said that no better singer of so tender years, has ever appeared here to ornament and scintillate the Negro race.

Worthy to her culture and achievement is cute little Miss Helen Dundee only 12 years old, her accompanist. She has a fascinating, uncanny, most marvelous power and dumbfounding mastery of the keyboard of the Piano. A greater little Piano artist cannot easily be heard, neither as a soloist, nor a sure and safe accompanist. Miss Dundee is very remarkable in her art and she will be a great woman some day.

A feature of Miss Stokes' singing was her mastery of German and also her love for German composers, for she had no less than five of them on her program.

CARE OF THE TEETH

BY: DR. J. WINIFORD ROUT

PYORRHEA—ITS PREVENTION AND TREATMENT

Pyorrhea is a disease which can and should be prevented. One of the best ways to do this is to stimulate and increase the circulation in the gums by vigorously using the teeth in mastication, and supplementing this by a thorough and systematic massage of the gums with the tooth brush. The mouth and teeth must also be kept scrupulously clean by the regular use of tooth brush and dental silk.

The loss of teeth should also be guarded against. One of the most disastrous things that can happen from a dental standpoint, is the loss of a tooth, especially the first permanent molar. This tooth erupts at the age of six, and is often allowed to decay beyond repair, in the belief that it is a temporary tooth. This is a serious mistake as it puts an unequal pressure on the other teeth and so makes them more liable to disease. Irregular teeth should also be straightened in childhood as a preventive measure against disease. It is easier to keep straight teeth healthy.

As a final precaution in prevention, the family dentist should be seen at regular intervals—not less than twice a year, in order that the teeth and gums be carefully examined. If these precautions are observed, pyorrhea can very largely be prevented.

Pyorrhea is also a curable disease, though if too long neglected, it may reach an incurable stage. The earlier that treatment is begun, the better. This treatment consists of removing the cause.

As a rule, treatment is not painful, and under no circumstances, need it be serious. If properly carried out the results are, as a rule, most satisfactory. The gums become hard and pink, the swelling and redness disappears, as does the pus, the teeth become firmer and the pockets are obliterated by the gums growing on the roots, though the gums may never come back to their original position.

Mouth washes, drugs, dentifrices, etc., are worthless so far as curing pyorrhea is concerned. They are helpful only so far as some of them assist in keeping the mouth clean. A good tooth brush and glass of water, to which half a teaspoonful of table salt has been added, will, if efficiently used, be more helpful than most medicines. This does no mean of course, that patients shall attempt to cure themselves of the disease by simply washing the teeth, but that the case should be put in the hands of a dentist, and the patient co-operate by keeping the mouth in a scrupulously clean condition.

Federated Clubs Hold Monster Meeting

Eagle Hall, 823 Central Ave., was packed to the doors on last Friday night to attend the big Mass Meeting held under the auspices of the California Federated Clubs, of which J. B. Bass of the California Eagle is the acting president.

Ringing addresses were made by Mrs. C. A. Bass; C. H. Alsten and others. The Manhattan Beach problem was the principal topic of the evening and resulted in the League voting a 100 per cent support to the N. A. A. C. P. in its program for Beach activities as a starter a collection of $20 was raised and turned over to the N. A. A. C. P.

Committees were ordered to report Friday evening, August 19th for other vital activities of the organization and with unbounded enthusiasm adjourning. The club adjourned sine die time mentioned.

22 MOURNERS ARRESTED AT WAKE

New Orleans, La., Aug. 18.—Eleven mourners were sentenced to pay $5.00 fines or spend thirty days in jail and five were granted affidavits in night court after they had been arrested at a wake Wednesday morning at 2 o'clock. The twenty-two "grief-stricken friends" were in various stages of intoxication, honoring the memory of Mrs. Leona Tate.

Neighbors in the vicinity of the wake spent the evening and part of the night telephoning headquarters that the grief of mourners was too noisy for their comfort. Corporal Edler and Patrolman Apple of the First Precinct visited the house and say they found the grief was mostly hilarity. They sent for the patrol wagon and reinforcements with the result that twenty-two of the mourners told the "Judge" all about it.

AUTOMOTIVE SECTION

Well folks, your automobile is again allowed to park on the beach thoroughfare of Manhattan and too you are welcome to dive or swim or what not in the waters that mark its beach as of yore. And now that it's over don't pack any chips when you go.

• • •

Titus Alexander and Dr. Smith journeyed to the high Sierra mountains last week in Doc's Whippet. Oh yes, they got the limit in fish. That's what they went for.

About twenty husky colored policemen parked their cars at the 28th St. "Y" last Tuesday noon. Folks in the neighborhood thought a raid was on but they came only to take a dip in the pool.

• • •

Mr. Bluett of auto fame blew in town after an absence of over a year and has taken up his hammer and pliers and again is operating on automobiles.

Dr. Tows is on a vacation we hear, motoring over the country, so don't get the snatch ache for a while.

Mr. Hey Brown and his Peerless took som air over the week-end. Where he went seems to be a secret.

• • •

J. B. Bas is all smiles for some reason or ther. It can't be because he is doi time on the jury. Must be that riding ride to the courthouse with a chauffeur at the wheel.

• • •

John D rarefield and wife are conspicious fures in and around Elsinore wher they are spending their vacation. We presume they drove up —although the busses and trains run daily.

• • •

Mr. Margault, that wirey young man who rives a Chevy and claims to be count as a bachelor, is not fooling an one, not even the public. Shirley Fowman says he has his number.

What To Do With Old Automobiles

What shall we do with automobiles when they have reached the stage of second hood? That is the question which is bothering many cities, according the National Automobile Club.

A new venture among Kansas City dealers is, for a $50,000 organization to dispose of 12,000 decrepit cars such as theater admission and club dues, should be eliminated, which will cut off $27,000,000.

"Thus the corporation tax, the automobile reduction and the special tax will cut off $237,000,000, and the remainder should go to the middle man's income tax, i. e., the man earning from $15,000 to $60,000 a year."

DON'TS FOR BACKSEAT DRIVERS

—DON'T take your eyes off the road; you might see some pretty scenery.

DON'T keep quiet in a traffic jam; you might make it easier for the driver.

DON'T fail to ask questions; you might overlook an opportunity to display your superior knowledge.

DON'T keep the children in the back seat with you; if they are in the front seat they will keep the driver wide awake.

DON'T hesitate to give your opinions on all subjects; what are opinions for?

DON'T neglect to criticise something! various subjects will present themselves to you.

DON'T overlook the weather; you might say something original about it.

FORD AND HIS NEW CAR

Detroit, Aug. 17.—Three large Detroit manufacturers, whose plants are dependent on Ford business for the bulk of their production, stated today that although experimental supplies have been sent the Ford Motor Company, their plants were still awaiting a "go ahead" on regular production.

An official of the Ford Motor Company, when questioned regarding this information, readily admitted that production could not start without receipt of certain quantities of these supplies.

DIFFERENT PRICE CLASS

"You fellows don't understand Mr. Ford's position on this new car," he replied.

"In the first place, you want to remember that he is going into a different price class. This is a finer car in every respect than many build today.

"Secondly, he believes that the demand for the Ford car must come from the public and not be forced down their throats. At present he has nearly perfected this new four-cylinder car, and is also engaged in development of a light eight-cylinder model. The eight, however, is nearly as far along in design as the four.

WILL WATCH G. M.

"Mr. Ford will build enough of these cars to get them before the public. His present intention is to build about 250 cars per day at first. As the dealer demand becomes more persistent, he plans to gradually increase production until the new car is being built on a 1000 daily schedule.

"Under no circumstances will more than 1000 cars daily be built until Mr. Ford is satisfied with the public acceptance of this model.

"I also might add that the action of the General Motors Corporation following the showing on the part new Ford will have a lot to do with its future plans."

Last Wednesday Edsel Ford issued a statement in which he said of the new four:

"The new Ford automobile is now an accomplished fact. The engineering problems affecting its design and equipment and affecting also its manufacture have all been solved.

"We know now exactly what this new car is. We have built a number of these cars and they have been performing even better than we looked for under a variety of conditions.

FACTORIES RE-TOOLED

"We know also what is needed as to personnel and factory equipment in order to produce these new Ford cars in greater numbers than any manufacturer has ever attempted before. The work of re-tooling our plants throughout the country to prepare for the heaviest production schedule we have ever undertaken, is now nearly complete.

"Some of the things we have discovered already in the tests of this car are as follows:

85-MILE SPEED

"We have accomplished with them a speed of 85 miles per hour—which is slightly higher than we had expected.

"We have found that they can be driven for hours at an average speed of more than 50 miles per hour without discomfort to driver and passengers and without harm to motor and other equipment.

"In a recent test one of these new cars was driven 110 miles in two hours. During the last hour the car traveled 57 miles. The car covered exactly 500 miles the first hour of the trip. This test was made over average road conditions.

QUICK PICK-UP

"We have tested this new car for getaway and pickup with many other types of automobiles and have found that it surpasses all of them with the exception in quick starting and acceleration. The performance [illegible] that it is [illegible] get and more flexible than we have hoped for in the early stages of designing.

"When this car is officially introduced within the next few weeks, we shall be able to say that it is the best and most modernized priced automobile we know how to build."

Douse Lights When Using Self Starter

It saves the battery to switch off the lights when using the self-starter at night. Throw out the clutch to save the starter the trouble of cranking over the transmission gears, and pull the choker out before touching the starter button so as to make every moment of the starter's work count. The juice saved in the ordinary start may be a thousand times more valuable should the engine stall when the car is in a precarious position.

Don't Bother Him!

BY: OSCAR H. FERNBACH

As in the car we bowl along
May ever Fate preserve us
From bursting into shout or song
That makes the driver nervous!
Who's at the wheel, must be intent,
In "safety first" his game lies,
And often, when there's an accident,
With us, not him, the blame lies.

Do not the chauffeur disconcert
By claiming his attention—
Or else your form may grace, inert,
A coroner's convention;
And lest your bright career be curbed
To subterranean sleeping
Let driver's eye stay undisturbed,
On road and traffic keeping!

HEAVY GAIN IN AUTO EXPORTS

Automotive exports show a gain over other exports for the first three months of the year according to the National Automobile Club.

During the first quarter, all commodities exported $1,200,916,000, or an increase of 7 per cent over last year. In this period, automobiles, parts and accessories increased 12 per cent and shipments of busses and trucks increased 53 pe. cent over last year.

Portland Tourists Meet With Accident

Miss Kate Lewis, her mother, Mrs. Julia Fuller and Mr. Abe Corneal, recent visitors in our city where they spent much time met with a serious accident just out of Stockton while returning to their home in Portland. Mrs. Fuller and her brother, Mr. Corneal were so seriously and painfully injured that they were forced to spend some time in a hospital at Stockton. Miss Lewis escaped injury though severely shaken up but was able to resume her homeward trip.

ELCAR MAKING A BIG HIT

The Elcar under the colors of H. G. Pandell, Inc., is making a big hit in Los Angeles. The new models, built in three sizes, with its many superb color schemes, and a motor that is the last word in design are creating much excitement and furore, says Mr. H. G. Pandell of the Sales Department.

"The Elcar needs no introduction to the moto. world." Its designers and builders have never had any apology to offer. The car is built to meet present day demands and that means much in face of present day competition.

"We are desirous that anyone seeking the purchase of an automobile would get in touch with Mr. Bachelor, the only representative from our group at the Pendell agency. The show rooms are always open and have an interesting display of cars at walk upon the floor.

ADMINISTRATION FAVORS CUTTING IN HALF 3 PER CENT TAX ON AUTOS COSTING OVER $1000

Exclusive offices Rapid City, S. D.,

Aug. 17. The Republican administration's attitude toward the abolition of the 3 per cent excise tax on automobiles was revealed here for the first time in an announcement by Senator Reed Smoot of Utah, chairman of the Senate Finance Committee visiting the President, that the Administration favors cutting in half the present 3 per cent tax, thus leaving a tax of 1½ per cent on passenger cars costing more than $1000.

This would mean a saving to the automobile purchasers of $50,000,000 next year, he said. This sum, Senator Smoot avers, is as much as the Administration can afford to turn back to the automotive buying public.

URGES SESSION

"My purpose in stopping by to see the President is to suggest the need of calling Congress into extraordinary session about November 1," said Senator Smoot. "Failure of the deficiency appropriation, totalling $30,000,000, and the Mississippi flood relief and tax revision makes such a move desirable. I think there should be an extra session of Congress starting immediately after November 1."

"A majority of the Finance Committee favor reducing the present tax on passenger automobiles by half, making the sales tax 1½ per cent instead of 3 per cent as at present. That will cut $50,000,000 from our surplus which was $563,000,000 at the end of the last fiscal year.

"Of course, the Democrats will urge a cut out of the entire surplus, including elimination of all automobile taxes, but that's the position I think can safely be made.

[illegible] should be reduced from 13% to [illegible] cent, making [illegible] of $165,000,000 [illegible] our surplus. Special taxes

NEW BEAUTY LAWS HITS LOS ANGELES MAIDS

A law similar to the one to go in effect in the state of Illinois has been passed in the state of California and will effect all Pullman Maids operating out of the Los Angeles District. The Illinois law is quoted as follows: The State of Illinois requires that any person practicing beauty culture is required to obtain certificate of registration. The expense of this registration is $15.00 including examination certificate and fees for the first year, with renewal charge of $1.00 each year thereafter. This includes marcelling, and trimming of hair, as well as facial treatment. This law seems rather unfair to the maids, it means that a girl entering this class of service must be prepared to pay out about $30.00 at the start, $15.00 for examination fee, and $15.00 for a uniform. It is going to cost something to be a Pullman Maid from now on. The law might even effect some of the maids already in the service when it comes to passing the examination, providing it is a rigid one. Mr. Diebert is interviewing the maids as they report in regards to the new law.

PORTERS SEEK FIGHT SPECIALS

With three fight specials already lined up for the Dempsey-Tunney fight in Chicago on the 22nd of September, Porters are bending every effort to be among the lucky ones to go. Jack Doyle, prominent fight promoter of this city will run a fight special over the Southern Pacific, a De Lux train. One will be operated over the Union Pacific and J. P. Mills will have charge of the De Lux train over the Santa Fe. All of these trains should be worth any porter's trouble as they will carry the leading sports of California. The biggest part of them will bet on Jack Dempsey, and it is the writer's advice that should you be selected, make all you can going and hold on to it for dear life, because if the Honorable Mr. Jack Dempsey suffer defeat at the hands of Mr. Tunney, it will be every tub coming back. Of course it is understood that the writer could not miss such a wonderful opportunity of seeing his old town in September and you can lay your bets down that he will be on board of one of the three specials when they leave Los Angeles if he has to pull a one-eyed Conley stunt. Nuf sed. Are you going?

TED COOK

Even Mr. Ted Cook recognizes the California Eagle as a fearless journal. Mr. Cook happens to be the writer of Cook-Coos in the Los Angeles Examiner and above all people is in a position to know what the word fearless means. Anyone who has ever read Mr. Ted Cook's Cook-Coos, does not have to be told that Mr. Cook is fearless himself. Yes! downright brave.

THE INQUIRING REPORTER

The Chicago Tribune has a novel way of finding out the answers to various important questions. Each day they send a reporter out to ask five people picked at random the answer to a selected question, one of which was as follows: What suggestion can you make for the greatest improvement and happiness of the Colored Race? The question was asked of five colored people in Washington Park. I herewith quote the answers of two: Mrs. Lilly Underwood, 5438 Prairie Ave., hotel maid—More money, more work for the colored race, that's what we need; if we had more work and better wages we could have more of the conveniences the white race enjoys; too many are out of work. Another one—Definite hours for work. We have a certain time to go on but no certain time to come off. White Miller A. Holt, 634 E. 56th Pl., Pullman porter, says—The rents are so high that families have to take in roomers, or two families live in a home, where only one family should be living. This is a matter that ought to be remedied. Home surroundings are more important than working surroundings. Next week the writer will ask the same question of two railroad men—one a red cap and the other a Pullman Porter. Their answers will be published in the following issue as well as their names. The two porters will be picked at random and those reading this column would do well to familiarize themselves with the question to be asked: What suggestion can you make for the greatest improvement and happiness of the Colored Race. Next week, don't forget.

ED. GAREY AND J. PONDER HAVE AUTO DISPUTE ON ELSINORE

Two more names can now be safely added to the already long list of Ancient Automobile Owners. When the writer was making out that list last week he unintentionally overlooked Ed. Garey and J. Ponder, because by the time they had first claim entered office. But if you have not got a good one, the trip to Elsinore will soon add to your list. Between Saturday noon the writer has been informed that the Garey-Ponder car has been towed in by a wrecking outfit no less than four times. Each time the car was towed in it was minus a different part. Between Saturday noon and Monday morning the writer was informed that the car was

DAN GILKEY CONFIRMS SALE OF PARKRIDGE COUNTY CLUB TO LARGE NEGRO SYNDICATE

SAYS HE IS GOING ON A LONG VACATION TO FORGET WORRIES; STATE CORPORATION COMMISSIONER IS MAKING INVESTIGATION

In a long-distance telephone conversation yesterday, Dan Gilkey, promoter and owner of something like $290,000 of the $300,000 capital stock of Parkridge Country Club, stated that he had sold his holdings in the resort to a syndicate of Los Angeles colored financiers and that the property will be operated as a country club for colored people. He also stated that he is going on an extended vacation in an effort to escape his many worries.

This statement was confirmed by Welburn Maycock, Los Angeles attorney representing Howard Williams who holds a mortgage of $123,000 against the club.

Over the long distance telephone Mr. Maycock stated that the deal has been closed and the contracts signed by the colored syndicate, and that he has been appointed trustee to receive the claims of creditors of the club, the Gilkey stock, and the other assets which are to go into escrow at once. The whole deal will be consummated within thirty days, he said.

TO STOP SALE

Vern Tyler of Riverside, representing club members here, stated that steps have been taken through the Los Angeles office of the State Corporation Commission to prevent the sale of any of the securities or assets of the club and that Mr. Stone of the commission's Los Angeles office requests that full information be sent to him at once so that a complete review of the matter may be made in the shortest possible time. Chief Deputy Bispham, who is head of the criminal division of the State Corporation Commission, was present at a conference in Los Angeles.

TO DEMAND INJUNCTION

"If necessary to protect their interests," Mr. Tyler said, "the members of the club, through some representative committee, will ask for an injunction to prevent the sale of the club assets or capital stock until the Corporation Commission has had time to determine whether fraud has been committed and whether the State Securities Act has been violated in the sale of memberships."

Gilkey is understood to have sold 244 life memberships at $500 each, stating that the indebtedness of the Parkridge Country Club was only $125,000 and that this amount would clear up the indebtedness.

It has developed since that the Cinewright Studios of Hollywood has a claim of $40,000 for furnishings; that Sid Smith, who put in the water system, has a claim of $43,000; and the Hammond Lumber company has a lien on the property for ....40,000. Smaller claims, it is learned, and a mortgage for $122,262, bring the total indebtedness up to $252,000.

OFFERED SETTLEMENT

At a meeting of the creditors of the club held a short time ago Mr. Gilkey is said to have stated that if the members of the club would relieve him of the obligations and would make a mutually satisfactory deal with the creditors he would turn over 11 of his holdings to the club, reserving nothing for himself.

A meeting of the members was held at the Elks Club Thursday evening, August 11, at which a committee of five was appointed to meet with the creditors and to arrange a satisfactory deal, and at which the sentiment of the members was ascertained.

PROPOSALS TURNED DOWN

As a consequence a proposal was made to Attorney Maycock that the club members be bonded and that the creditors be protected. This proposal was apparently satisfactory but was later turned down and preference given to the colored syndicate.

Everything possible is being done to prevent the transfer of the club property to this syndicate of colored people, and Mr. Tyler yesterday stated that many memberships are being held by members of the committee and all the legal steps necessary to preserve the privileges of the club members intact will be taken.

The committee appointed at last week's meeting and which has been putting in strenuous work during the past week consists of Loyal Kelly, George Janney, Arthur Shackleton and Frank Smith.

MEETING CALLED

There will be a meeting of all of the members of the club at the Parkridge Country Club Friday evening at 7:30. Each member will be notified by letter and urged to be there. The public is invited to attend this meeting, said Tyler, because it is considered to have become a community affair and to be of the greatest importance to all.

There are many in Riverside holding membership certificates. Corona has a large number of membership holders while San Bernardino, Anaheim, Colton, Santa Ana and other cities are represented. It is believed likely that large delegations from each of these communities will be present at the Friday meeting.

Calvary Baptist Church Secures Permanent Location

EAST 34TH STREET NEAR CENTRAL AVENUE IS NEW HOME

To the Members of the Calvary Baptist Church and to the Public in General:

It is with pride and humble and holy reverence to the Almighty Father that the pastor and officers of the Calvary Baptist Church make this glowing announcement. The Calvary Baptist Church, on the second Sunday in September at 11 A. M., will take charge of its newly acquired church home on East 34th Street, one-half block East of Central.

It was only six months ago, that the peerless little knight of the Gospel in the person of Rev. Dr. James H. Holder, returned to our city after an absence of six months, and organized this now wide-awake and much taked of Calvary Baptist Church. He came preaching the Gospel; One Lord, One Faith and One Baptism.

Seven people heard him and were willing to follow his leadership. Among that seven were candidates for baptism, who had accepted Jesus while under the sound of his voice.

Now the Calvary Baptist Church boasts of a membership of over 375, with a beautiful and hopeful outlook. We thank God for this Gospel genius.

Rev. Holder is not only a great gospel preacher, but is a shrewd business man. He is a financial wizard, a wide-awake, modern day preacher. To hear him once, is to convince you. The officers say with pride, "It was our own dear pastor, Dr. Holder, who maneuvered and put over this property deal for us to our pleasant satisfaction. This property was to be sold for $18,500.00, but by shrewd financing our pastor was successful in acquiring it for us at $16,000.00. It includes a church building all furnished and two dwelling houses, one 6 rooms and the other 5 rooms, all modern.

During the 6 months the Calvary Baptist Church has raised in actual cash $4,000.00. At the present time, we owe no one, only to boast that we are ahead in our payments.

Give God the glory for such wonderful achievement and may He permit our pastor to live a long time to never leave us again.

Follow the crowd on the 2nd Sunday to 34th near Central. Everybody gather to march at Adams and Central at 8:30 A. M.

Randolph Re-Instated

In response to the gallant fight made by Dr. H. C. Hudson, president of the N. A. A. C. P., the Federated Voters' Club, the Pacific Defender, and others for a simple act of justice to Officer Frank Randolph, the Board of Police Commissioners at their regular meeting on last Tuesday, re-instated him to his former standing, thereby allowing him to retire and be eligible to a pension. He is entirely incapacitated for service on the force.

Mrs. Chas. L. Upton, 2180 W. 20th Street was hostess to a very brilliant party last Monday evening, sixty guests being present, in honor of Mrs. Francis Peoples of Omaha, Neb.; Mrs. Dejle Young and Mrs. Francis Mc-Gee of Chicago.

PULLMAN PORTERS' FIGHT FOR FREEDOM

THE CASE OF THE PULLMAN PORTER'S UNION AGAINST THE PULLMAN COMPANY

To The Public, Porters and Maids and the Pullman Company:

On July 11, representatives of the Brotherhood were advised by Edwin P. Morrow, member of the United States Mediation Board, to come to Chicago to proceed with mediation of the dispute between the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters and the Pullman Company.

Mediation has gone on from that time until August 9th, whereupon Mr. Morrow advised the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters and the Pullman Company that his efforts at mediation were unsuccessful and then attempted to induce the parties to the dispute to submit said dispute to arbitration. The Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters agreed to submit dispute to arbitration, but the Pullman Company refused to submit dispute to arbitration.

DURING MEDIATION

The Brotherhood contended: That it represented the Pullman Porters and Maids because it had a majority of the Pullman Porters as members.

That Company contended: That the Employes Representation Plan represented the Pullman Porters and Maids, because 85% of them had voted for the plan in the last election, November, 1926.

The Brotherhood replied: That the Porters and Maids voted for the plan under intimidation, interference and coercion, it offered in evidence 169 affidavits, proving its contention.

The Company contended: That it had a contract with its employees thru the Employee Representation Plan or Company Union.

The Brotherhood contended: That said contract was null and void because it was signed under intimidation and coercion by alleged representatives of porter who were selected under intimidation and coercion by alleged representatives of porters who were selected under intimidation and coercion by the Pullman Company.

The Brotherhood characterized the contract with a contract which is signed by a man at the point of a revolver, in which event, there is no meeting of minds to the contract nor are the parties free agents to express their desires relative to the nature, from and content of contract.

The Brotherhood further contended: That the Employee representation Plan has no lawful standing under the New Railway Labor Act, since it is Company organized and Company controlled, whereas the Railway Labor Act provides for the self-organization of employees and the re-election and designation of representatives without coercion, influence and interference.

The Brotherhood also contended: That, granting that there was a contract between the Company and the employees through the Plan, the employees have a right to change that contract when they so desire by giving due notice to the Company. Even the plan provides for a change in the contract, after giving 30 days notice.

The Company's refusal to arbitrate is based upon their claim that: There is no dispute, although the United States Mediation Board says there is.

If there is no dispute the Board of Arbitration would so declare it, if there is a dispute it would declare that a dispute existed, in either event, the Company is bound by the spirit and intent of the law to submit the question to arbitration and abide by the decision.

Alfred P. Thom and Donald R. Richberg, counsels for the Association of Railway Executives and the Standard Railway Unions, respectively, who agreed upon this legislation, maintained that when mediation fails the parties to the dispute are morally bound to submit same to arbitration. The Western Railway managers, in the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen's case, took the position that arbitration should follow mediation.

All other railroad companies have submitted to the law and gone to ar-

Secret Evidence Given Before Grand Jury In The Sheffield Case

[In response to requests from many Eagle readers we will run as a serial the secret testimony before the Grand Jury which indicted Officers Sheffield and Randolph.]

REPORTER'S TRANSCRIPT

Proceedings had before the Grand Jury of Los Angeles County, State of California, Monday, May 9, 1927; 10 o'clock A. M.

E. J. Dennison, Esq., Deputy District Attorney of Los Angeles County, representing the District Attorney's office.

J. L. O'Brien was duly appointed and sworn as shorthand reporter.

WITNESSES

Kohl, John Faulkner, Clara Harris, Mrs. Lizzie Faulkner, Mrs. Rachel Faulkner, Miss Callena Scott, Maude Coates, Mrs. Ruth Coates, Gilbert Dixon, J. A. Bartley, Charles Jarvis, Jack Allen, J. F. Monday, May 9, 1927; 10 A. M.

A. F. Wagner, called as a witness before the Grand Jury, being first duly sworn testified as follows:—

Questions my Mr. Dennison:—

Q. Your name is Dr. A. F. Wagner?
A. Yes.
Q. Doctor, did you perform an autopsy upon the body of Samuel B. Faulkner??
A. I did.
Q. When was that performed?
A. April 25, 1927.
Q. How old a man was he?
A. 35.
Q. Colored?
A. Colored.
Q. What was his height?
A. Five feet eight inches, weight about 165 pounds.
Q. You ascertained and determined the cause of death, did you?
A. I did.
Q. What was the cause of death?
A. I found a bullet wound entered the right side of the face upon the smaller eminence, passed backward, slightly toward the left and very slightly upward, entering the skull, passing through the inner portion of the base of the right middle lobe of the brain, thence to the left side, and I found the bullet in the posterior portion of the left posterior lobe of the brain. The entrance wound showed no powder marks. The bullet was much distorted and appeared to be a .38 calibre soft lead bullet. The cause of death was gunshot wound of the head.
Q. You recovered the bullet?
A. I did.
Q. And you have it?
A. I have.
Q. Do you know whether or not it has been weighed?
A. It has been examined.
Q. And weighed?
A. And weighed.
Q. And ascertained to be a .38?
A. Yes, Sir.
Q. Doctor, such a wound as you found in the body, what would be the effect of such a shot as that? Would death be instantaneous?
A. As a rule it is instantaneous.
Q. That is a man would drop in his tracks?
A. Yes, sir.
Q. Did your find any other bullet holes in the body?
A. I did not.
Q. You examined it, of course?
A. Yes, sir.
Q. And there is no question but what that is a .38?
A. Here is the bullet.
Q. Now, you say that the wound was on that part of the face known as the malar eminence. Will you point to that?
A. This bone right here (indicating), from the eyes to the cheek bone.
Q. The course of the bullet was to the left?
A. It was backward and slightly to the left, and very slightly upward.
Q. So apparently from the course of the bullet in the head, it must have been fired from the left?
A. Fired from the right.
Q. I say, he fired from the right side of the deceased??
A. Yes.

Mr. Dennison:—I think I had better offer this bullet in evidence and let it be marked as Exhibit A. I think that is all.

A. Now, here is a rather difficult thing. I should put my mark on that bullet that comes up before the Court. They always use straw, on the fact as to whether I make an identification mark on it.

Mr. Dennison:—I will tell you what I will do. After it has been marked I will permit it to you, so you may put it in your custody.

(On the record above that the bullet was, by permission of the Grand Jury, returned to the Doctor. You have it in the same condition.

Dr. W. O. Blanchard, called as a witness before the Grand Jury, being first duly sworn, testified as follows:

Questions by Mr. Dennison:—

Q. You are regularly licensed to practice your profession, Doctor?
A. Yes, sir.
Q. For how many years?
A. About 30.
Q. Where is your residence?
A. 6963 Camden Avenue.
Q. Do you know Frank Randolph?
A. I don't know him, but if I may be allowed to refer to this card—
Q. Yes.
A. I received Frank Randolph.
Q. Where did you find him?
A. At the Receiving Hospital.
Q. What day?
A. The 24th of April.
Q. What time?
A. 9:30.
Q. P. M.?
A. P. M., yes, sir.

ON THE SIDEWALK

By C. A. B.

Sunday afternoon we attended the Women's Day service at Macedonia Baptist Church. Macedonia, under the leadership of the Rev. L. M. Curtis, is presenting to the public of South Los Angeles, a unique church organization and we were delighted to see so many young men and women falling in line with the new program of religious culture.

* * *

While in South Los Angeles (Watts) we also looked in on the opening of the Cosmopolitan School of Commerce.

Still wending our way down the sidewalk of time Sunday evening, we were brought face to face with the Women's Day program at Phillip's Temple Church. The lieutenant of the day here was Mrs. A. C. Bilbrew, and to the average Angelino it is needless to say more, but we were inspired and if it be possible we would have you catch a gleam of that inspiration.

Well, to begin with the house was crowded. In the pews men, women and children, all with up-turned, beaming faces gazed upward and towards the center upon their faces—What next was stamped; for it seemed each number rendered suggested something better next. And something better was always coming.

Mrs. A. C. Bilbrew with her incomparable chorus furnished excellent music.

FAITH NEEDED

One of the needs of our time is to have the simple faith of our fathers poured into a twentieth cagntury mould. We need the old fashioned religion—but dressed in a free and flowing robe, and not in the straight-jacket in which the bigots would encase it.

We need more people who can say "Our Father, who are in heaven"—and really believe it.

FALSE PROPHETS

When a white man gets in a hurry to unload something that he considers very good, on Colored people you want to watch him, for if its really very good he is more than apt to want it himself.

Just who these Colored financiers are we do not know, but we have a sneeky feeling that there will be many a moon change before they enjoy the luxuries of the Parkridge Country Club.

This very morning we had the painful experience of turning away from our door a man who said that he was a husband and the father of four babies—that he had neither job nor means with which to buy food nor pay house rent.

Now, its a mighty good thing to have financiers in our group, but would it not be a good idea for those moneyed folk to buy an orange or walnut ranch, open an automobile or shoe factory and put some of our black brothers to work?

Truly all work and no play makes John a dull boy; but then, let's work first.

The white man is always willing to let the black man enjoy himself because he knows that so long as the black man spends his time in pleasure seeking he will not become his economic foe.

N. A. A. C. P STANDS ALONE

You should have your church connections. It is necessary to belong to Lodges and social clubs, but there is only one agency that stands day and nights as a guardian of your civil and political rights. The annual convention meets in Los Angeles in June. We must make this the greatest conference. The N. A. A. C. P. protects you and deserves greatest support. THIS IS YOUR FIGHT.

MERIT---
And Merit Alone!

LITTLE has been said in print about the Woodstock—but much has been said by thousands of enthusiastic operators.

It's mainly this background of good will—earned by good performance—that is responsible for its success.

Users will tell you the Woodstock is a most exceptional typewriter—a composite of all improvements conducive to effortless writing—plus a rare beauty of type and sturdiness of construction that stamps this machine as a thing apart.

CARE OF THE TEETH

BY: DR. J. WINIFORD ROUT

DENTIFRICES

In this day of wide-spread advertising with so many kinds of tooth pastes, tooth powders, mouth washes, etc., on the market each advertised to cure all manner of mouth diseases it is no small wonder that the average layman is rather confused as to the merits and demerits of a good tooth paste or powder.

In the first place the real purpose of any tooth paste or powder is to cleanse the teeth with the aid of the tooth brush, having performed that function its worth ends. Beware of the tooth bleaching compounds, these dentifrices usually contain acid in sufficient amounts to injure the enamel of the tooth and of course you know how precious too enamel is. Once damaged it can never be replaced and decay will rapidly attack the tooth.

The well-balanced tooth cleanser should contain nothing hard enough to scratch the enamel and should not be depended on to remove stains and plaques from the tooth alone. If careful attention is given the teeth the stains and plaques will not form unless for some reason the tooth becomes discolored from some disturbance within the tooth itself. Avoid "Cure-all" dentifrices and seek your dentists's advice on the proper cleanser you should use.

Building Collapses; ONE KILLED

A two story building at 4421 Central avenue collapsed Monday, August 23 which results in the killing of one man who was found dead beneath tons of debris, and the injuring of four other men. All of these men were working next to this building in a 15 foot hole preparing for the foundation of a structure.

It is believed that the collapse was caused by an unusually soft piec of earth giving away or by improper shoring and underpinning.

The lower floor of the building was occupied by a furniture company and the upper floor was a rooming house.

Of the injured, only one was colored, William Hardy, 43, 1447 East 47th street. Mr. Hardy suffered with a fracture of the collar bone. He was taken to the Golden State Hospital.

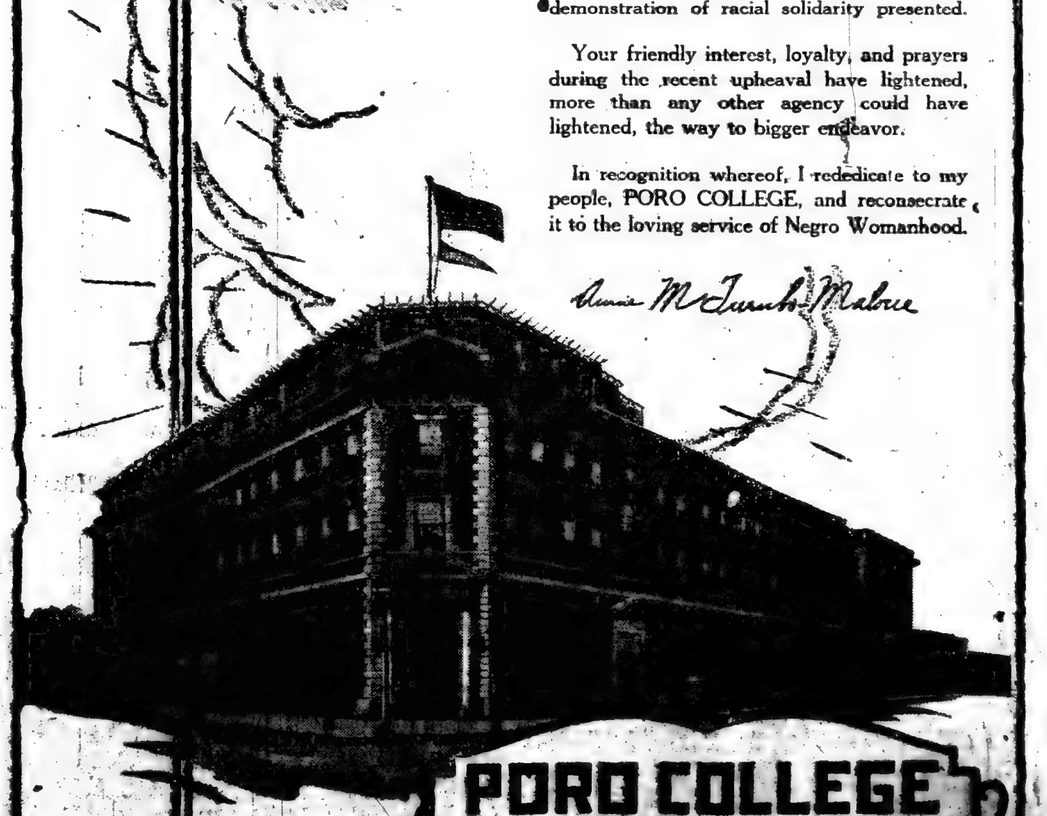
I Am Grateful, Friends

I WISH to thank the Pulpit, the Press, and the Public for your unselfish support given me in the recent crisis through which PORO COLLEGE has passed.



No less do I wish to express my appreciation for the many messages of interest and sympathy which have come to me; for the tender spoken word; and for the prayers of the faithful that an Institution dedicated to my race might stand untouched.

And I am grateful for the unprecedented demonstration of racial solidarity presented.

Your friendly interest, loyalty, and prayers during the recent upheaval have lightened, more than any other agency could have lightened, the way to bigger endeavor.

In recognition whereof, I rededicate to my people, PORO COLLEGE, and reconsecrate it to the loving service of Negro Womanhood.

While we were "strolling down the Avenue" (at least we weren't strolling, we were in a car but that quotation from a very popular song now prevalent amongst the males and females, makes me stretch the truth a bit) we saw a building cave in. First time in history we had ever served as an eye-witness to a catastrophe. Well our companions and yours truly stood out in the blazing sun, baking our feet on the hot asphalt, for the privilege of seeing several very hot and perspiring firemen and a few hard-boiled cops, dig in and do work which a common laborer is paid $4. Well, anyway we were very, very sory for the people who had been hurt and also we felt for those still under a half ton of brick and mortar. Still we were so flippant as to make a bet with our nearest neighbor that sooner or later the boys belonging particularly to the fire house at 14th and Central would remove their coats .Well, "sooner" won. Also we acquired another coat of tan.

WILL THE PORTERS WIN?

At this time, when misleading articles are appearing in the press, and so much confusion concerning the situation of the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters exists, the following statement will be appreciated by those who are interested in the struggle of these men for justice, and wish to know the truth concerning the matter.

The Pullman Porters organized because they were over-worked, underpaid, and treated as menials when they wanted to be treated like men. Although the company had a paper plan of representation which claimed to offer the porters a method of handling their grievances, long, bitter years of defeat and disappointment under this company union had proved to the men that is was indeed a company union, and not a porters' union. In other words that it was organized by the company, for the company, and could never function for the porters.

The mere fact that the porters were compelled to work up to four hundred hours a month for a rate of pay less than one-half that of the conductor, who only worked two hundred and forty hours a month, was sufficient to convince the men that if they organized into their own union as the conductor had done they could better fight for justice.

It is not difficult to understand why the Pullman Company opposed the organization of the Pullman Porters. The Pullman Company is a corporation. The purpose of a corporation is to make profits for its stock-holders. The officials are tested, and their value to the corporation is determined by their ability to handle the affairs of the corporation in a manner that will make the most profits for the stock-holders of said corporation. Cruel, unjust, inhuman exploitation of Pullman Porters is profitable to the Pullman Company. Fair, reasonable, just treatment, and compensation for Pullman Porters is less profitable to the Pullman Company. A corporation has no soul, no feeling, no sense of moral responsibility. It recognizes no human, nor humanitarian motives which conflict with the making of profits. The personal attitude of the officials of the Pullman Company is easy to understand when we realize their position, (their value determined by their ability to make profits) and when we realize again that these officials became accustomed to the idea that black men were satisfied with inferior wages, longer hours and servile conditions, in fact these Pullman officials through long years of custom could only regard the black Pullman Porters as inferior individuals deserving inferior treatment. The tactics which the officials of the Pullman Company used in the attempt to defeat this movement were ruthless and cruel, faithless and immoral. Men were intimidated, penalized, and fired, for daring to belong to the union. Black newspapers were purchased, and are still being purchased and deliberate lies were published in these newspapers, designed to discourage the porters. White journals carried false reports in scare head releases calculated to have the same effect. Stool pigeons were active in framing and spying upon the union men and even now when the union is more than two years old, and has more than 75% of the porters as its members, the membership roll has still to be kept a secret. It is still dangerous for any porter to be known as a member of the Brotherhood for it is almost certain that if he is known he will either be fired or discriminated against in some way.

Those of us who believe in justice and fair play, and who strive to feel that humanity in general is so disposed, are loath to believe these statements which will bear the fullest investigation. We can understand how these conditions can obtain in civilized America only by realizing and appreciating the fact that a corporation puts profits above everything else and the fact that the officials of the Pullman Company has become accustomed to the notion that the black porters are not entitled to the same working conditions and manly treatment that other workers are.

It appears, however, that the leaven of enlightment afforded through the schools of this democratic country, has raised the porter of the Pullman Company from a resigned slave to an aspiring manly worker. Custom and tradition in the minds of the porters have given way to education and determination. They wish for themselves a larger measure of happiness; for their wives and families a greater amount of security; for their children more and better opportunities. This explains why the Pullman Porter, in spite of the cruel, inhuman, opposition and oppression to which they have been subjected, have organized into a labor union, THE BROTHERHOOD OF SLEEPING CAR PORTERS, to which more than 75% of all the Pullman Porters belong.

The title of these remarks is, "WILL THE PORTERS WIN?". Let us consider here a few reasons why they can, will and must win. First the law. The Watson-Parker Bill which regulates all disputes between carriers and their employees, (and which law the Pullman Company must eventually obey), is very plain. It says clearly that the representatives of the employees shall be designated by the employees themselves without interference or coercion by their employer. Fifty-one per cent of the employees of the Pullman Company, or any carrier, can form themselves together and select individuals to represent them, and they should not be interferred with. This is what the Pullman Porters have done. They have formed their union under the law and chosen their representatives according to the law. On the other hand, the Pullman Company had repeatedly broken the law which they practically agreed to support prior to its becoming a law. Contrary to the express provisions of the law, they have interferred with and attempted to influence and coerce their employees, the Pullman Porters, most flagrantly, cruelly and ruthlessly. They have done this because to disrupt the union of the Pullman Porters meant more profits to the stockholders of the Pullman Company.

The Porters have JUSTICE on their side which is not always synonymous with LAW. No group of employees in this civilized, enlightened, democratic country, should be compelled to work inhuman hours for starvation wages, and beg their living from the public. So in addition to the law, the Porters have on their side that powerful force which is the foundation of society and which ever seeks a fuller and freer expression in the social actions of man—JUSTICE.

There is another force, no less definate, no less powerful than LAW and JUSTICE—It is the force of PUBLIC OPINION. Public Opinion is overwhelmingly on the side of the Pullman Porter and against the Pullman Company. In the first place, the public is tired of paying the Pullman Porters' wages. They feel that the company, which charges enough for its services and makes huge profits for its stockholders, should pay the men who furnish that service a living wage. In the second place, the Porter by his consistent and unfailing courtesy and kindness, has endeared himself to the traveling public, and so we find, most curious of paradoxes, that the only people opposing the movement of the Brotherhood of Sleping Car Porters, besides the Pullman officials, are some of the colored people themselves. The white public is unanimously in favor of the movement.

Lastly and most important, the men themselves have the determination to win. A new spirit has been born, a new Pullman Porter has come to be. SERVICE, not SERVITUDE, is the motto of these brave men. In spite of opposition and cruel injustice, they fought to form their union and escape the condition of peonage to which they are subjected. Out of the shell of the old, hat-in-hand, begging, shrinking flunky, has appeared a man square shouldered, clear-eyed, unassuming and unafraid. No favors does he ask, but justice he demands. Truly the spirit of America is represented in this man, and surely the true Americans will support their cause. Surely they will win, must win, if America is to continue a land of free men.

GEORGIA CLUB

At a Georgia Club meeting held at Mrs. Eula Barbara's residence, Monday, August 22, a delightful time was enjoyed by those present in reviewing the reminiscences of their Georgia Days.

A kind letter was received from the Atlanta University thanking us for the receipt of $50 from the club. This small, but energetic membership has not only contributed to this fund, but has done many kind deeds for its members and friends and still has on hand a balance of $47 in the bank to their credit.

Mrs. I. Ramsey of 651 E. Santa Barbara is largely responsible for the spirit so clearly demonstrated. We will not, however, forget Mrs. Eula Barbar, who served in the capacity of secretary and keeps the interest up to the highest.

The case of the People vs. Hardy, Long Beach murder trial, which was scheduled for hearing in Department 21 of the Superior Court, August 22nd at 10 A. M., has been changed to the morning of August 29, and will be held in the Superior Court of Long Beach.

"The Mighty Snapper Defends Himself"

In defending his attitude in the Elliot Commission affair, Snapper Ingram, councilman from the 10th district says:—

E. Snapper Ingram

"I have nothing to regret. I only followed the dictation of my conscience. I went into the affair as thoroughly as was possible and found sufficient grounds to justify my position.

"You may also say that I will ever be found standing and fighting for my constituents along constructive lines.

Political Pot Warming Up In San Francisco

Former Postmaster Powers and Major James Rolph are being discussed pro and con as to which one will be elected to guide the destines of the Northern Metropolis for the coming term of four years from January 1st, 1928.

Major Rolph has held the position for the past 16 years and now seeks to make it one score or twenty years as chief executive of this great city.

Challenging the mayor now comes forth the Hon. Wm. Powers, who resigned as postmaster to make the race for mayor of San Francisco. It is predicted that this will develop into a battle royal as to who is who, and who will eventually win out in the coming election.

Eagle readers not only in San Francisco but all over the State will be interested in the outcome of this contest and we shall endeavor to give each week, first hand information in the premises.

Following close on the heels of this contest comes one of probably equal importance in the contest for sheriff. The old war horse and generalissimo of political effort, Sheriff Thomas Finn, is opposed and we will likewise keep tab on the developments in this contest. The "Soaring Eagle" has long been an admirer of Shariff Finn and have been one of his staunch supporters for the reason that he has ever been a square shooter and has been one political force which has recognized all people for their worth and merit.

Another angle is the contest for District Attorney where the Hon. Michel Brady will seek to succeed himself despite a strenuous opposition. All of which we will chronicle in the columns of the "Soaring Eagle".

SPECIAL ANNOUNCEMENT

Last announcement of Mr. Paul B. Brown's Piano Pupils Recital to be given at the Metropolitan Baptist Church, at 37th and Paloma, next Tuesday evening, August 30th, 1927, promises to be an unique affair. Many of our leading musicians and music lovers have promised to be present to encourage this worthy young piano teacher. Among the most enthusiastic supporters of Mr. Brown and his projects is the Wilkins Piano Academy who so nobly supports all musical and intellectual affairs. The tickets are only 25c and surely you won't fail to hear this program.

Why I Content That My Case Be Exposed And Disposed Of Before The Courts Of The Land

No arm of the law should be allowed to place a question mark upon the good name of any citizen with impunity.

Hon. Carl I. Jacobsen

It is not enough to dismiss, but the points of law justifying dismissal should be brought to the surface and then, and only then should the case be dismissed by the proper authority, thereby removing any and all stigma.

Is this not fair?

Mr. W. V. Anderson says that the plan to frame his client, Mr. Carl I. Jacobson, was hatched in the Ship Cafe at Venice, California, and that he is willing to make affidavit to the effect that a certain underworld lieutenant was one of the prime factors in the scheme.

Hanford News

Rev. H. H. Mitchell, pastor of the Second Baptist Church, left for the Coast, Monday the 15th. He stated that it is his intention to visit various points of interest along the coast and wind up in Oakland, before returning home.

Mr. Kenneth Crawford motored to Fresno, Thursday evening to attend a party.

Miss Ruth Fields celebrated her twelfth birthday Monday, October the 15th, by having a Theatre Party. Many of her young friends were members of the party, and all had an agreeable time.

Mrs. Bertha Fields is still on the sick list.

Mr. and Mrs. S. Young entertained a select number of friends at her home Saturday evening. A whist tournament furnished the entertainment for the occasion, and every one had a jolly good time. Guests were: Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Jeffries, Mr. and Mrs. L. Clarke, Mr. and Mrs. E. Hinds, Mrs. Marie Lewis, Miss F. Kinnard, Mr. J. P. Jones, and George Terry. Mr. Lawrence Clarke won first prize for men, Mrs. Hinds won the ladies' prize, Mr. E. Hinds won the booby prize.

After the tournament a delicious repast was served to the guests.

Judging from the reports going around in Hanford and vicinity, the scandalmongers of Hanford are very busy. This select clique of malicious gossipers are responsible for many false reports going around town, and are doing much harm to others. The colored community of Hanford is suffering the consequences of their malicious tongue wagging, and they have caused the dissolution of many friendships.

Fresno News

One of the largest and most colorful parties given this season was given by the Pleasure Boys Club last Thursday evening in compliment to Miss Eugenia Grant of Los Angeles, who is spending some time with her brother and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Grant. Dancing was the mode of diversion, with cards as a secondary issue. The guest list included all the younger contingent and the younger married set. Enjoying the frolic were Messrs. and Mesdames Carl Moulden, Alex W. Clarke, Wm. A. Bigby, Jr., Fred Grant, Percy A. Bost, Willis Butler, Boyd Sims; Mesdames Gertrude B. Grayson, E. F. Grant of Los Angeles, Davis of Nashville, Tenn.; Misses Helen Wolfe, Manhonia Thursman, Dorothy Berry, Bernice Clarke, Helen Berry, Dorothy Hinds, Thelma Young, Ruth Hannibal, Alma Dixon, Edna Young, Bertha Smith, Leona Watkins, Mattie Pilkinton; Messrs. Doings of Playground and Recreation Dept.

Miniature aircraft construction is the present intense theme among hundreds of boys and not a few girls of the municipal playgrounds in preparation for city-wide contests in the semi-finals, to be held next week. Outstanding aerial achievements of the last several months, beginning with the Col. Lindbergh trans-Atlantic flight and continuing through the Hawaii race, aroused youthful enthusiasm, which has been greatly increased by the "discovery" that tiny aircraft that actually fly for as far as a mile and remain in the air for many minutes can be readily made by any boy and girl with only a few tools and inexpensive materials.

All boys and girls who are successful to the point of entering the semi-finals, the indoor events of which will be held at the National Guard Armory on August 30 and the outdoor events at Hawley municipal playground the following day, will receive buttons bearing a replica of Lindbergh's head. For the finals there will be more substantial prizes. The winners will be chosen before September 12.

City public schools are holding similar contests, though they will participate with playground children in the semi-finals and finals

0—00—0

One of the innovations, among many, introduced into the municipal playground program during the present year, that has met with outstanding response on the part of both children and adults has been the expansion of music activities to a major feature.

Six months ago, when a special division was established by the Los Angeles Playground and Recreation Department, there was one orchestra where now there are twelve, ranging from a few players to as many as seventy-five, from childrens' groups to advanced community symphonies. Including harmonica bands, ukelele clubs, bands, choruses and other groups there are now approximately sixty musical organizations at the various recreation centers. Of especially noteworthy results is the formation of "listening groups" who enjoy the programs of the various organizations though they themselves are unskilled in musical expression. Musical activities are declared to be a pronounced factor in the playground aim of better citizenship.

Since the advent of George Hjelte as superintendent of the department there has been rapid progress in landscaping public grounds until now some of the most picturesque play sites in the country are established here.

0—00—0

Griffith Playground swimming pool is now being kept open until 8 o'clock, two hours later than other municipal plunges, as an experiment to determine public demand through the early evening. Playground department statistics show that nearly 4,000 boys, girls and adults are using the seven city plunges daily. Last week gave a total of 27,692.

NEWS OF THE CHURCH

AN OPEN LETTER

Rev. A. W. Jacobs,
Pastor Birch St. Christian Church,
Los Angeles, Calif.

Our Dear Bro. Jacobs: On this happy occasion which marks a two-fold event in your life, namely the completion of the fourth anniversary of your ministerial work among us as well as the eve of your departure to attend the National Convention to be held in Washington, D. C.

We, the officers and members of the Birch Street Christian Church feel that our only anxiety is to find the most fitting and proper way to tell you all that is in our hearts. We have chosen this message as the medium although we realize that mere words can but inadequately convey to you the high esteem and profound respect with which your ministerial work and your personal conduct are associated in our minds.

Your four years of service among us has been four years of pleasure and steady progress. The way is now prepared for additional progress, and with your continued leadership, our Church will undoubtedly continue its onward, upward march.

We are, by no means attempting in this short message to say all the kind things which truly could be said of you and which you so justly deserve, but suffice it to say that we appreciate your efforts and devotion. We are satisfied with your leadership. We think of you as a Christian Leader. We feel that your character and deportment are worthy of a minister of the Gospel of Jesus Christ and our prayer is that you may long be spared to continue your useful work among us.

As you leave to attend the National Convention our hearts and our prayers go with you and our wish is that from all the many and varied conditions with which you must necessarily come in contact, you may derive only the best.

Into the hands of the Great Disposer of Events we commend you with the prayer that He will take care of you and bring you back to us in safety.

NOTED BAPTIST DIVINE PASSES

Indianapolis, Ind., Aug. 23. (Special Calif. Eagle).—Rev. B. F. Farrell, D. D., pastor Mt. Paran Baptist Church, Indianapolis, Indiana, died at his home at 6 P. M., Monday. Funeral was set for Friday 10 A. M. at Mt. Paran Baptist Church which was built and pastored by the deceased.

Dr. Farrell was a native Tennesseean and formerly resided in Nashville, at which place he was a member of the Home Missionary Board of the National Baptist Convention of America. He was a leading force of the Baptist hosts of Indiana and had rendered great service for the church and people at large.

The people of all walks looked upon Dr. Farrell as a leader who had by sheer and indomitable will power risen to the very heights of usefulness and he leaves behind him a heritage which will stand as long as all time.

Great throngs have viewed the body in state and all Indianapolis and Indiana as well will endeavor to pay their last respects to the memory of this great leader.

Western Baptist Ass'n. Brethren Part Ways

FACTION REFUSES TO BE DOMINEERED AND GOVERNED CONTRARY TO BAPTIST PRINCIPLES

To the Editor of the California Eagle:

Permit me, through the columns of your paper, to give the Baptist people of the state reasons for our withdrawal from the Western Baptist Association and the organization of another.

We, who are withdrawing, feel and know that some of the most sacred rights of our denomination are being ruthlessly trampled by those who have recently come into our work.

Some of our brethren are withdrawing because they feel it impossible to win any standing in the Association. Some have labored here for years, with untiring zeal and have made the Association glorious, but men come in who have as yet done nothing and set those aside who have done the work thus far and defeat them on the ground that they are not Baptist.

But the bulk of our withdrawal is because we object now and always will object to having any man OVERSEE us as a SUPERINTENDENT—which amounts to the office of BISHOP OF NEGRO WORK. We have proof that this superintendent, by his influence, is filling some of our leading churches with pastors—and if he can fill churches, he can empty churches. We have proof, also, that some of our best men have lost their churches through this same superintendent.

But, what pains us most of all, some of the most honorable men among us have been shut out of pulpits by this influence, because this superintendent has personal feelings against these men. This influence has projected itself into all of our deliberations and even directed the elections of our officers in the Association.

But, when this was done, then I declared war on the whole system, that robs Baptists of their freedom. This same influence has gone even into the politics of our city and state and is seeking to direct Baptist votes. Baptists are forced to secure railroad favors through this superintendent.

Now, you would most naturally ask how can one man accomplish such feats in the Baptist Church when our church is democratic and ruled by the people. Now, that's the question.

The PLAN OF CO-OPERATION as now practiced between "WHITE" and "BLACK" Baptists, permits the "WHITE" Baptists to place thousands of dollars into the construction of fine churches for black folks. When that is done, there is no free money, regardless of who gives it, as long as agents are appointed to follow that money with all sorts of restrictions. It would be better to have a tent with security and freedom from obligations, than fine churches and fat positions for a few and the RACE hindered in its freedom.

Now, our separation is our surest protest against such abuses of Baptist prerogative. You will doubtless say, why not stay and fight it out on the floor of the Western Baptist Association?—But after a most careful survey, we find it almost impossible for some of our leading pastors to change their position.

The painful thing in our fight is that it appears that we are fighting individuals. These individuals are among our finest people, but however fine, we feel that our denounciation stands above all individuals. So we are not fighting individuals, we are fighting evil principles. Some of us fought these same battles before some of the persons involved were born.

So we withdraw.

We, who regard this pervasion of Baptist principles as the crime of the age, organize ourselves into a body of free Baptists to serve God in the simple Baptist way.

REV. J. D. GORDON.

NEGRO POETS OF SPECIAL INTEREST

The poser and beauty of present-day Negro poets is strikingly portrayed by the works of Claude McKay, Jean Toomer, Countee Cullen and Langston Hughes. Their poems are filled with sorrow, love, faith and hope. Though their poetry ranges through all possible themes, these Negro poets regard their racial heritage as a more precious endowment than their own personal genius and therefore we find more racially distinctive poems among their works. For McKay, Africa's past is not an abandoned shamble but a treasure trove:

"My soul would sing forgotten jungle songs
I would go back to darkness and to peace
But the great western world holds me in fee
And I may never hope for full release
While to its alien gods I bend my knee."

....In Cullen's "Shroud of Color," the vision is one of loyalty, group pride and confidence; a revelation of destiny as that of a chosen people:

"Lord, I will live persuaded by mine own,
I cannot play the recreant to these:
My spirit has come home, that sailed the doubtful seas."

The outstanding literary productions of these poets are: "Weary Blues," by Langston Huges; "Harlem Shadows," by Claude McKay; and "Color," by Countee Cullen. "Copper Sun" is the latest book of Countee Cullen, whose work, according to Alain Locke, shares the polished lyricism of Sara Teasdale, Edna St. Vincent Millay and Robert Frost as much as it does the exuberant flow of an awakening Negro life. "Copper Sun" maintains the high quality and charm of the author's first volume. It has been ordered by the Jefferson Branch Library, 2211 West Jefferson St. and will soon be available to its patrons.

ECHOES FROM THE GRAND LODGES

Mrs. Argelia Anglin, prominent in Lodge Circles in the Angel City tells by letter of the intensely interesting experiences she has had and is having in the East at Grand Lodge Conventions. She is in New York at this time, but previous to her arrival in that metropolis she attended the S. M. T. National Convention, which was held in St. Louis, Mo. At this Convention Mrs. Anglin was elected National Grand Assistant Secretary of the National Grand Temple of S. M. T.

Mrs. S. P. Shores of our city was also present, and elected National Grand Trustee.

En route to New York Mrs. Anglin visited some cousins in Philadelphia and renewed old acquaintances. In New York she has had the pleasure of hearing Mrs. Mary McLeod Bethune and conversing with Mr. and Mrs. Noah D. Thompson at the Forum.

This week the Elks held their convention and Mrs. Anglin and friends were expecting the arrival of Mr. and Mrs. Monroe Elgin and Mrs. White of Los Angeles who left to attend the Convention.

After favorable comments about the weather and sending regards from and to friends, Mrs. Anglin closed her letter and promised to tell us all about it when she arrives.

OTHERS WITH THE VISION

Speaking farther along the lines of co-operative effort, we call attention to the People's Grocery Company, conducted by the Fisher Brothers. This concern has just moved right into the heart of the black belt, where we think business galore will be their portion. No concern deserves more than this one which has stood the test of time and the young men who compose the same have demonstrated rare grit and courage which is indeed worthy of reward.

Likewise do we call attention to the Dorsey Super-Service Station at 9th and Central Avenue, where real effort has been made along co-operative lines of business endeavor. Here they can furnish tires to the customer at wholesale prices as well as all other automotive accessories. It is a modern up-to-date place, and worth giving a hearty support.

THE COUNTY FAIR

The harvest moon, yellow as a new cheese, rides in the heavens. The sun sinks in shrouded majesty, lighting a canopy of clouds banked in the West. A haunting mist softens the lines of the high board fence, the grand stand and the judge's stand at the race track. The twin lights of hundreds of automobiles are gently blurred like stars beneath a filmy cloud. The evenuing breeze wafts the scent of new-cut corn across the country.

All is in readiness for the county fair. For weeks the children and their parents have been looking forward to the event. The women folk have been canning fruit and making pickles fo rthe exhibit. The men have fed and groomed the colt, the calf and the shorthorn. In the households and in the fields and barns careful preparations have been made for the scheduled competitive events.

Here, also, will be a great open forum for the discussion of the issues which interest the farmer folk. The astute campaigner for county office will be bustling about with the proverbial box of cigars under one arm, the other free to lift little Johnny Jones and his sister to his knee the while he praises them to their parents. Properly done this means two votes and maybe more. The displays in the agricultural hall are properly arranged, as well as the exhibits of new machinery and other mechanical divices.

The county fair is a great institution. Long may it live.

ENTERING HIGH SCHOOL

Thousands of young men and young women (they aren't boys and girls after they get out of the grades) are entering high school this year, and if they are the right kind of young people they will get the right kind of a thrill from this experience.

Entering high school is an epochal event in the life of anyone who is blessed with the opportunity. Most students never get beyond the graduation period in the high schools. After that they either go to work or loaf or do a little of each.

A great many young people who enter high school never graduate, and that is a very sad mistake for them to make, and a still graver mistake o nthe part of the parents, providing the latter deliberately give their consent to a child leaving high school without graduating, when it is not necessary.

The first day in high school marks the beginning of an important event in the life of the young man or young woman who enjoys the privilege of acquiring this important education.

There will come a time in the history of this country (and it is approaching rapidly nowadays), when a young person without a high school diploma is going to find things pretty hard in this life. For education is the stepping stone to success and independence and without it all is slavish labor and interminable discouragement. Those who entered upon high school life today are to be congratulated. They are marching over a royal road and paving their own life's highway so that progress will be smooth and sure.

The fellow who is content with little usually gets less.

Friends are all you have to keep you from being a stranger.

Most of us think we could do much better if we only had the opportunities which we don't realize we have.

BE CAREFUL !

With accidents increasing by the thousands every year, the subject of their prevention is engaging the earnest attention of individuals, employers, corporations, the press, motor clubs, educational associations, city, state and national organizations.

Falls cause more deaths than any other form of accident according to the National Safety Council which is a clearing house of information relating to prevention of accidents, with headquarters in Chicago.

Automobile fatalities in the United States approximate 25,000 annually ,it being estimated that almost 7,000 children alone were killed by automobiles last year in this country.

In their own homes, thousands of people also lose their lives each year through accidents. Last year the number of such deaths reached 18,000, with falls leading.

A majority of all accidents of every description would be prevented if people would exercise proper care and caution.

A DEPENDABLE FARM CROP

The sugar beet is one of the most dependable farm crops in Western states. Due to the policy of the big sugar refining companies, there is always a sure market with a minimum price fixed, and the farmer who puts in a few acres of sugar beets is sure of his tax money and spare change for the winter.

There is no better sugar than that made from beets and the industry should be fully protected by our government from outside interference. Without proper protection, sugar factories would become idle and an industry which supplies bread and butter for thousands of farmers and workmen, would be nipped in the bud, and our nation left entirely dependent on foreign sugar supplies.

HEROES AND PATRIOTS

In a western city there lives a hero, a fireman who carried a child down a ladder from a burning tenement in the midst of flames and smoke. He was badly injured while performing his brave deed and spent many weeks in the hospital. He received little or no attention. No one has ever thought of calling him a hero. He is the quiet, hard-headed business man who builds tenements so that those who live in them are free from the fear of fire. He has saved dozens of lives by preventing fires.

It s too bad that fire prevention cannot be made spectacular. However, we can at least honor the man who minimizes fire loss by spending thought and money in its prevention.

District Grand Master's Address to Annual Grand Session

Officers and members of District Grand Lodge, No. 32, Grand United Order of Odd Fellows, for the Jurisdiction of California and Oregon, beloved brethren and esteemed fellow workmen, accept, from me, this morning, a hearty Odd Fellow's GREETING:

The ever moving cycle of time has again brought us together in a District Grand Session. During the past twelve months, the sheltering arms of the Grand Master of the Universe have, constantly, been above and about us ,and, like trusting children, we have nestled snugly up against His great bosom and to His loving heart, fully conscious of His unlimited power to preserve and protect us in the midst of all life's vicissitudes.

The year, now closing, like other years, has towered and teemed with great problems, calamities and disasters. A spirit of unrest has swept the country. The titanic struggle between capital and labor; the ever increasing animosity between races and individuals ;a world-wide suspicion and even pronounced hatred between classes, and even Nations have made these trying times . Looking backward along and by which we have come this year, are we not prompted to exclaim, with the Poet,

"And are we yet alive, to see each other's face?
Glory and praise to Jesus give, for His redeeming grace.
What troubles have we seen; What conflicts have we passed!
Fighting without and, fears within, since we assembled last .
But out of all, the Lord hath brought us by His love,
And still He doth His help afford, and hides our lives above."

Let me congratulate you Officers, Delegates and Life members who constitute the personnel of this our, Forty-third Annual Session. Your presence ,here today, as members of this body is sufficient evidence of the confidence and esteem in which you are held by your respective lodges. I am sure that your conduct while in this City and the results of your labors, during this session will justify, fully, the great trust they have reposed in you.

Twelve months ago, you placed in my hand the gavel of authority, thus committing to my care the direction and protection of the interest of this Grand Old Order ,within the boundaries of the Jurisdiction. I accepted that position of trust and responsibility with positive reluctance. No one realized, more than I, the colossal proportions of the obligations I was then stride along all lines. I find that the bors, patience and prayers necessary to the full and perfect consumation of your expectations . I come, at this hour, bringing to you the fruitage of my labors conscious of my mistakes and short comings but equally conscious of a sincere desire and of unceasing and untiring efforts to do, at all times the thing that was right, without fear or favor.

THE STATE OF THE ORDER

It is with some degree of pride, and surely great pleasure, that I report to you that I have found the condition of the Order to be excellent, throughout the Jurisdiction, with a remarkably few exceptions. Good men and true are being selected, by the lodges, for official responsibilities and they are accepting these responsibilities in that spirit that assures the order of the ripest experience and best thought of the most capable minds among us. This is a healthful sign, for while it is true that officers, unsupported cannot make a lodge, still the fact remains that wisdom, broadmindedness and experience are the most outstanding factors in the success and development of the lodges over which they preside. It goes without saying that officers must be real leaders and the quality of their leadership is, always ,reflected in the spirit and progress of the lodge. As a result of this superior leadership a, new and encouraging spirit is pervading the Jurisdiction, it is the spirit of progress and achievement. On all sides, I observe a growing dissatisfaction with the old order of things and a sincere desire for a forward and progressive ment along all lines. I find that the brethren are taking more interest in the ritualistic work, learning and interpreting the law and working out in a practical way the spirit, beauties and teachings of Odd Fellowship to the extent that the attention of the uninitiated is being focused upon Odd Fellowship ,as never before and new blood is coming into the order. This is as I would have it, for my chief ambition, as your Grand Master, has ever been to increase our lodges numerically and strengthen them financially.

NEW LODGES

While the increase in lodges has not been what I should like to have had, this year, there has been some increase and the outlook is encouraging. Through the energies and activities of our organizer ,the Rev. Bro. G. W. Reed, we have added one new lodge to our roster. This one was instituted at Blythe, Calif. with a charter, membership of about sixteen. The personnel of the membership of this lodge, leads me to predict for it a bright future .

Again ,the prospects are good for lodge in Santa Ana . With the proper oversight and direction, we may hope to see a good active lodge in that thriving little City, in a very short time .

I do hope to see the day when we shall be so zealous for the success, spread and progress of our own order that there will not be left, a single town, village or hamlet, within our Jurisdiction, where the banner of the Grand Unfited Order of Odd Fellows has not been raised. If Odd Fellowship is good for the individual ,it is, also, good for the masses, but like Christianity, Odd Fellowship must depend upon an active missionary spirit for its propagation.

PETER OGDEN'S DAY

The Light of Odd Fellowship was brought to the American shores, 84 short years ago. How swiftly those years have passed! The great and noble character ,that splendid type of manhood and champion of human rights, who first raised the pure white banner of our order upon the shores of this the new world, to the delight, instruction and benefit of black men, has gone to his eternal rest and reward. But from the handful that he gathered and organized into a lodge, we have grown to the proportions of that host that John saw, which no man could number, all linked together by the golden chain of Friendship, Love and Truth. Peter Ogden was a man of iron will. A less determined one would have been dismayed by the difficulties he had to encounter; a less fearless one would have halted before the array of adversaries which sprang up to oppose the transmission of these principles to black men; a less dutiful one would have bowed to the howling demands of prejudiced America; but Peter Ogden believed it was his task and duty to give to black men that which had cemented the bond of union between other men, he saw the mighty work that he was destined to do and the immeasurable good that would result from his efforts and, therefore, with his soul consecrated to the cause, he nobly strove on. Those whose names will live longest among men, are those who, animated by a high and lofty conviction, have braved dangers, endured persecutions and great privations for the sake of truth. When such list of heroes shall have been compiled, the Name of Peter Ogden, America's greatest Odd Fellow, will undoubtedly, head the list.

THE HOUSEHOLD OF RUTH

It is to be regretted that our entire brotherhood does not see the downright importance of a closer bond of union and a better working understanding between the fraternity and the Household of Ruth. Ruthites are our most faithful and trustworthy allies and the order is truly indebted to them for its prominence and progress. I am glad to note that a thorough understanding and perfect and complete harmony exists between this District Grand Lodge and the District Grand Household. I, moreover, believe that every subordinate lodge is striving to cement the bonds of union between Odd Fellows and Households, in every locality.

THE HOME FOR AGED AND INFIRMED ODD FELLOWS

You well remember that in the city of San Diego in 1922, the idea of a home for indigent Odd Fellows and Ruthites, was conceived .In obedience to the expressed wish of that session, we have been working, steadily to that end . It is my opinion that the time is ripe for some definite steps, along that line, to be taken. After a careful investigation and a personal inspection of different sections of our State, I am favorably impressed with the beauty, fertility and desirability of certain sections of Central California. I am of the opinion that this District Grand Lodge should take steps to secure some acreage near Hanford, Visalia or somewhere in Tulare County. Just now, land in this valley is producing most desirable fruits and vegetables, in great abundance and of a superior quality . We, now, have in hand sufficient funds to make a substantial payment on fifty or seventy-five acres of this fertile land. This land could, easily, be leased at a figure that would keep up the subsequent payments. This action would help the movement, in as much as it would be a concrete evidence of our sincerity and good faith. And what is more, the land would pay for itself and increase in valuation, all the while. Should a subsequent Grand Lodge, reverse our actions and decide to build elsewhere, the land could be disposed of at a handsome profit.

bitration when mediation failed, except the Pullman Company.

IS THE PULLMAN COMPANY ABOVE THE LAW?

This question naturally arises, in view of the Company's amazing defiance of the U. S. Mediation Board's recommendation that it arbitrate the dispute with the Porter's Union. In order that all of the facts relative to this matter may be clearly set forth to the Pullman Porters, the public and the Pullman Company, I am, herewith presenting the letters which were exchanged between the Mediation Board, the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters and the Pullman Company on the question of arbitration ,to wit:

UNITED STATES
BOARD OF MEDIATION

Mr. A. Philip Randolph, General Organizer,
Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters,
Chicago, Illinois.

Dear sir: You are advised that my efforts to bring about an amicable adjustment through mediation of the dispute between the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters and the Pullman Company has been unsuccessful.

It being my duty under the Railway Labor Act to endeavor to induce the parties to this controversy to submit the same to arbitration in accordance with the provisions of the law, you are therefore requested to promptly advise your wishes concerning arbitration.

Yours very truly,
EDWIN P. MORROW,
Member, Board of Mediation.

Honorable Edwin P. Morrow,
U .S. Mediation Board,
Congress Hotel,
Chicago, Illinois.

Dear Sir: In response to your letter of the 9th inst., in which you advise me that your efforts to bring about an amicable adjustment through mediation of the dispute between the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters and the Pullman Company have been unsuccessful, and in answer to your question as to our wishes concerning arbitration, you are herewith advised that it is the desire of this Organization to submit our dispute with the Pullman Company to the determination of a board of arbitration who can and will hear the entire matter and settle the same under the terms and provisions of the Railway Labor Act.

We, therefore, respectfully request that you urge the Pullman Company to join with us in submitting the dispute to arbitration.

Sincerely yours ,
A. PHILIP RANDOLPH,
General Organizer, Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters.

UNITED STATES
BOARD OF MEDIATION
Washington
Chicago, Illinois,
August 10 ,1927.

The Pullman Company,
Chicago ,Illinois.

Gentlemen: In connection with the dispute between the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters and the Pullman Company as to the right of the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters to represent porters and maids in the employ of the Pullman Company, you are advised that my efforts to bring about an amicable adjustment of this dispute through mediation, have been unsuccessful.

It being my duty, under the Railway Labor Act, to endeavor to induce both parties to this controversy to submit the same to arbitration, in accordance with the provisions of said law, you are requested to advise me of your wishes concerning arbitration.

The Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters in a letter of August 9th addressed to me, (Copy of which is hereto attached) expressed their willingness and desire to submit their controversy to arbitration and have requested me to urge you to join in such a submission, I therefore respectfully request that you join in such a submission to the end that this controversy may be settled by arbitration, under the provisions of the Railway Labor Act.

Most sincerely
EDWIN P. MORROW,
Member U. S. Modation Board.

THE PULLMAN COMPANY
Office of Vice-President and General Manager
Chicago, August 12, 1927.

Hon. Edwin P. Morrow,
Member U. S. Mediation,
Chicago, Illinois.

My dear sir: In reply to your letter of the 10th instant, advising me that your efforts to bring about an adjustment, through mediation of an alleged dispute between the Pullman Company and the persons designated in your letter as the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters as to the right of such persons to represent porters and maids in the employ of the Pullman Company, have been unsuccessful, and in which letters you state:

"It being my duty, under the Railway Labor Act, to endeavor to induce both parties to this controversy to submit same to arbitration in accordance with the provisions of said law, you are requested to advise me of your wishes concerning arbitration."

Permit me to quote my letter of June 21, 1927, to the United States Board of Mediation, as follows:

"June 21, 1927.

"To the Honorable
United States Board of Mediation,
Washington, D. C.

Gentlemen:

"In further reply to your letter of October 20, stating that the Board of Mediation has received a communication from certain persons designated as a Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters, alleging

'that a dispute existed with your company regarding their failure to obtain conference with the representatives of the Pullman Company for the purpose of effecting an agreement concerning rates of pay, rules, and working conditions, in behalf of the employees that they represent',

"and in which letter you say:

"'The Board will be glad to receive any comment you care to make regarding this assertion and any other helpful information you may wish to provide,'

"I desire to advise you that when this Railway Labor Act was passed, under the provisions of which your honorable Board came into existence, there was in effect; and now is in operation, an agreement between the Pullman Company and its porters and maids. This agreement fully meets all the requirements of the law and both parties are maintaining and complying with its provisions. It was negotiated on behalf of the employes by their elected representatives of the Company, and both the Company and its employes have done and are now doing everything which the Railway Labor Act contemplates and requires. A board of adjustment composed of an equal number of representatives of employes and the management has also been established and all questions arising are being adjusted harmoniously and effectively.

"No dispute, and therefore no situation requiring mediation exists between the Pullman Company and the classes mentioned .Should any dispute arise, the agreement referred to provides ample machinery for conference and settlement. Under this agreement the rights of the employes are safeguarded, and the high standard of service which the Company is obligated to furnish its patrons, the traveling public, is being promoted and protected.

"In these circumstances and because of the existence of the agreement above referred to, the Company cannot properly confer with the persons mentioned in your letter .

"(Signed) L. S. HUNGERFORD."

The agreement referred to is in effect, is binding upon both parties, and it is being adhered to and maintained by both parties. It seems clear, therefore, that the Company cannot properly depart from its provisions or adopt other methods of dealing with its employes of the classes named which are not in consonance with its terms.

There has been no change in the situation since my letter of June 21st. As no dispute existed at that time which required mediation and the status not having changed, it follows that there is now no dispute and therefore no cause for arbitration .

Yours very truly,
L S.. HUNGERFORD.

UNITED STATES
BOARD OF MEDIATION
Washington
Chicago, Illinois,
August 12, 1927.

The Pullman Company,
Chicago, Illinois.

The Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters,
New York City.

Gentlemen: On August 9th and 10th I advised you that my efforts to bring about an amicable adjustment through mediation of the controversy existing between you had been unsuccessful.

In compliance with the law, I endeavored, through letters of said dates, to induce both of you to submit your controversy to arbitration.

The Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters, on August 10th, signified in letter to me its willingness and desire to submit the controversy to arbitration.

The Pullman Company, in response to my letter of August 10th, requesting that it join the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters in arbitration of the said controversy, advised me on August 12th that its position in the matter was that no dispute existed and, therefore, there was no cause for arbitration.

You are, therefore, advised that my final required action, to wit: to induce the parties hereto to submit their controversy to arbitration in accordance with the provisions of the Railway Labor Act have been unsuccessful.

Copies of the official correspondence, i. e., my letters to the parties requesting arbitration and the response of both parties thereto, are made a part hereof .

Yours,
EDWIN P. MORROW,
Member, U. S. Mediation Board.

The foregoing letters clearly show that the position of the Pullman Company is indefensible, untenable, definitely un-American and undemocratic. The Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters desires a settlement of this dispute through peaceful arbitration. The Pullman Company has ignored the law enacted by Congress and signed by President Coolidge and committed itself to the principle of brute force. The Brotherhood shall now employ the last remedy of the New Railway Labor Act, namely, the Emergency Board.

Instead of weakening, the Brotherhood, the Pullman Company's intolerant and unreasonable attitude has strengthened its position before the bar of public opinion.

It is a notorious fact that the Company is now arbitrating the case of the Pullman Conductors—why does it refuse to arbitrate the case with its Pullman Porters? Is there any reasonable grounds for this flagrant discrimination? Can the Pullman Company, a public utility, flout the law of the land with impunity? Is the will of the Pullman Company above the will of the people as expressed in Federal legislation? The Brotherhood appeals to public opinion for an answer . The Pullman Company's position is similar to the old monarchs of the medieval ages who arrogantly declared that they ruled by the divine "right of Kings." So the Pullman Company takes the position that the Pullman Porters have no rights the Company is bound to respect .

It stands self-indicted and convicted before enlightened civilized society in defying and flaunting all principles of sanity and reason to promote industrial peace and equity. Its attitude is an open admission of the utter weakness of its case, for all of its contentions, if true, would be upheld by a board of arbitration; if not true, they would be set aside, in which event, the Company should not feel aggrieved.

The demands of the Brotherhood are for a minimum wage of $150.00, as against $72.00 a month and the degrading tipping system; 240 hour work-month instead of nearly 400 hours of work monthly on the 11,000 mileage basis, and recognition as a bona fide union to negotiate agreements of wage and working conditions .

Pullman Porters all over the country have shown hot resentment to this master and slave, relationship which the Pullman Company wants to maintain . They want to be self-respecting citizens, industrious, respectable, courteous, honest and efficient employees, but the Pullman Company wants them to remain beggars and serfs .The Pullman Porters are determined that this shall not be and they feel that the American people are with them in their fight.

Respectfully,
A. PHILIP RANDOLPH,
General Organizer.

COMMENTS

BY: W. J. WHEATON

Have you read the reply of Senator W. E. Borah to Miss Jane Adams, Hull House, Chicago; if you have not, read it. But for fear you may overlook it we will quote it in part. Miss Adams requested him, as Chairman, to point out to the Governor of Massachusetts, the serious international complication which would arise through the execution of Sacco-Vanzetti. He said in part: "It would be a national humiliation, a shameless, cowardly compromise of national courage, to pay the slightest attention to foreign protests or mob protests at home. We all know your fine devotion to humanity, but neither humanity or peace can be served by deferring to foreign criticism or mob violence in the execution of our criminal laws. This foreign interference is an impudent and wilful challenge to our sense of decency and dignity and ought to be dealt with accordingly."

In the main we agree with the Senator, but what is sauce for the goose should likewise be sauce for the gander. There are two men who have been tried and convicted of murder. For seven years their case has been tried through appeals and finally the highest tribunal of the nation has affirmed their guilt . Why such interest? They are self declared enemies to constituted authority, still the sympathies of the civilized world are being enlisted in their behalf. What psychology? Can you fathom it? Think it over. Think of the thousands of black people who have been butched by the "MOB" and that same mob has been tolerated, condoned by the government, although that mob has wilfully challenged its sense of "decency and dignity and ought to be dealt with accordingly." We agree that the law should be supreme, but it should know no nationality, race or color.

Ten lives, thousands of dollars, have been lost in the furtherance of science. Though the race of the aviators from the mainland to Honolulu might have been a quest of fame and fortune, it also served the purpose of pointing out certain dangers of aviation over large bodies of water . It has served to show that the air is as full of uncharted dangers, as the sea was to the pioneer navigator. In the progress of civilization aviation must play its part; it is in the scheme things. No accomplishment, which has benefitted humanity, has been made without the sacrifice of life. Men delve into the bowels of the earth or seek to scale the highest mountain peaks, all in the interest of science. They too pay their toll of human life, but where they fall others step in to fill the gap and the work goes on to final accomplishment. Men have conquered the elements of nature, it is his to do. That power to do has been given him by his Creator. He cannot fail.

Loren Miller, former student, University of Kansas, writes of his own experience while a student at that institution. It is published in the Crisis for August. He tells of the rank discriminations and the humiliations to which Negro students are subjected. But that is not all. He accuses the "leading" Negroes of the State of being derelict in their duties in not protesting, but demanding that such conditions shall cease. He accuses them of being kow-towing Uncle Tomas and cowards, also some other things which must make the ears of the leaders of the Sun Flower State tingle and if one half of the things which young Miller assert really exist, and we believe they do, the Negro manhood and womanhood of Kansas stand impeached before the bar of young Negro opinion until such time as active means are taken to rectify those wrongs.

that against a fighter who has for some time been the king-pin in the East. This is no less than Sergeant Sammy Baker. Doubtful fans who do not concede Johnny a chance against the crafty, hard-hitting Baker, must remember that Mr. Jones knows his garden truck and if he did not feel that the tough winner of 14 straight battles has a chance to fatten Baker out under the stars, he would not have asked for him.

Interest is almost as great over this bout as it was over the Mushy Callahan-Baker bout which had to be postponed. With only a few days to get ready Rick Donald and Frank Kerwin, his publicity director are working like Trojans to get all in shape. A large advance seat sale predicts a great crowd.

Lightning (Clyde) Davis, 131, one of the fastest colored boxers who used to step it in the four round days is making his initial return from the movies to the squared Arena. Eagle Thomas a willing little fighter who throws a lot of gloves is also appearing against a good boy.

Johnny Fernando Champion of Pacific Fleet

Johnny Fernando, great little lightweight in the U. S. Navy during the war, has returned from the service and is now training for his ring comeback. Fernando, who was known as the "Fighting Sailor" during his service days, was crowned champion of the Pacific fleet during his stay at Pearl Harbor, Hawaii, by defeating Jimmy Duffy, then champion of Pacific fleet, and Bill Hanley, champion of Cavite, Philippine Islands.

Colored Fans Following Baby Joe Gans Like An Army

On to battle with Jackie Fields!

At last the two boxers that the fans have been waiting to get together are together at last. Baby Joe Gans, the quiet, gentlemanly fighting machine who has been named the Young Master after his predecessor the "Old Master" will step out under the big flood lights to face Jackie Fields. In this idol meets idol . For there was never a colored fighter since the days of his namesake that is as well liked both personally and for his fighting as Baby Joe.

BABY JOE GANS
(The Young Master)
Idol of Los Angeles' Fight Fans

He is clean-cut, fair, and friendly. He is the idol of his thousands of friends, both colored and white.

Jackie Fields who has steadily fought his way to the top is also a well-liked boy and is the idol of thousands of white followers. All wanted to see him win over Mandell at Wrigley Field last fall and hope yet to see him with the coveted lightweight crown. Jackie fights every minute, is very aggressive and fairly clever.

Gans as all know is a wonderful counter puncher, fast, clever, tricky and of late, has taken to carrying the fight into the enemy's territory. Both these great fighters being of such caliber a torrid battle is looked forward to that should end with Baby Gans with his tired mitt in the air.

RUDY STEINER VS. AGUILAR IN RETURN MATCH

They have Greater Movie Week, Clean-Up Week, Booze-less Week, and all kinds of weeks, so the only genuine boy promoter in existence—Master Carlo Curtis—is putting on a Greater "Main St. Week." To do this he is rematching two light heavyweights who put up one of the most desperately thrilling battles ever seen in a local arena. They are Rudy Steiner that great comer who stars the Bradshear stable and his sworn enemy Vincente Aguilar. Rudy stopped Aguilar in their last battle but he was one weary boy after the fireworks were over. Aguilar vowed vengeance and has told all his friends to watch him pay back the grudge he has on Rudy.

The "Wild-Cat" Scandal Story Wouldn't Stay Put

ACE HUDKINS THOUGHT IN LIMELIGHT

BY HARRY LEVETTE

Honk! Honk! Honk! went a horn, just as "Yours Truly" was about to grab the hand bars of a moving "U" cars at 23rd and Central avenue. Looking quickly around, there I beheld with surprise, Ace Hudkins, who is touted as the clean-cut "Wonder-Boy," the "Nebraska Wild-Cat" sitting at the ornate wheel of a beautiful Lincoln roadster, with a friend beside him. Across the front of the machine sprawled the skin of an honest-to-goodness wild-cat with his ears wiggling to the big pulsating motor.

"Come on!" they yelled, "get in. Where do you want to go?"

"To the Arcade station to get off some air mail," Yours Truly gratefully answered.

As the swift car zoomed down the Avenue, swift thoughts zoomed thru the cobweb of my brain . "Oh boy!" I yelled to myself sotta nice, "here is a chance for a real scoop story that any sheet in the country will pay real bucks for. Surely the Ace must be just getting in from a big night, although he is not known to do such things." With thoughts of wine, women and, what-have-you, on my mind, I timidly asked, "Why—er—er—a—somebody sick?"

"No," answered Ace. "Seein' someone off on the train?" he inquired.

"No" came the answer—that settled it. I just knew my conjecture was right, and my fingers ached to get at the old typewriter keys. So I blurted out, "Why—er—er—oh—surely you gentlemen are not just getting home from a large evening out by the blink of the dizzy white lights?"

"No, Buddy," heredity answered the "Cat", "just going out to play some golf."

And as I stamped off the running board, I spied for the first time the club-filled golf bags in the back of the machine.

There are no new faces this week in pictures, due to the filming of the parts of the community, that omits Negro characters.

Vivacious CAROLYNE SNOWDEN, with the versatile LINCOLN PERRY of "Step N' Fetch It" at the Metro Goldwyn Mayer Studio. Their parts in "Old Kentucky" are getting over with a bang . Some time this week director Stahl hopes to out the rest of the gang back in the picture, then maybe, we can.

JESSE B. LASKEY, who owns the Paramount Pictures, has made a huge success out of one of our boys in the person of MR. OSCAR SMITH. Mr. Smith, who has worked for years at the Lasky Studio operating a shoe shining stand. Being in close proximity to the people who work and make pictures, he studied them and their ways carefully . Recently he has had the opportunity to work in small scenes almost immediately, the directors saw in him qualities that would fit him for more important roles. His greatest chance was in a big picture entitled "Man Power," starring Richard Dix. When the picture was released, he and the star, Richard Dix, made a personal appearance at the showing. Motion picture magazines have been loud in their acclaim of him. Better watch this fellow Smith, gang, he's a real rising star.

Mr. Silas Masters Did L. A. Great Turn by Introducing Fight Pictures

"Somebody said that it couldn't be done."—you've often read or recited that little poem when you were a kid, which ends with the words "but he did it." Well, that is just what Mr. Si Masters, manager of the Olympic Auditorium did. Ever since their home boy Jack Dempsey fought the historical battle with Tunney all the fans have ached to see the actual motion pictures of that battle. Yet, with the law against picture transportation in effect there seemed no way to see them but to journey to the State in which they were made. But Los Angeles woke up one morning to find that Mr. Silas Masters had put them on exhibition at the Olympic Auditorium. Almost as large crowds as attend a real fight have thronged in every night and have been going so for the month or more that they have been running.

Behind this came the Dempsey-Sharkey battle and this alone has settled all argument as to the supposed fouling of Sharkey. This is the typical Masters way of doing things and one of the reasons why Vernon succeeded and the Olympic is increasing in success.

THE FRIENDLY lashing our friend the "Shadow" got in this same column was copied in all the Eastern papers, and had a lot to do with making him realize that he has a certain part of the Negro boxer's future in his hands.

ALSO that boxing for the people's money is a "business and—so forth." So three cheers for Godfrey, for really fighting and three cheers for ourselves for helping make him fight.

FIDEL LA BARBA after all is a home product and it is good to have him retire with the championship. He fought a careful but wonderful fight to beat Vacca. Too bad the Thompson affair could not be settled out of court. Law suits are bad in any business. Joe Diaz proved himself a wonderful boxer at Pasadena. Sluggers who never seem to learn should watch him box.

At the play-off between the two teams which followed, the score stood 19-0 in favor of the "gas house gang," thus awarding them the season championship. The season's results follow:

L. A. G. & E. Corp.	10	2
So. Calif. Edison Co.	10	2
E. H. Walker & Co.	9	3
Newberry Electric	7	5
Electric Products Corp.	4	8
Gritzner-Pacific Stores	1	11

A trophy will be awarded the winning team at a meeting of the Electric Club in September, following the closing meet.

"MANHATTAN GYM" has been the scene of many spirited bouts between Fidel La Barba and his sparring partners. Harvey Dempsey says the kid game looks good for the coming winter season.

THE BLACK SPORT WORLD THROUGH THE EYES OF ART HAMILTON

The New Black Panther—he has arrived in the person of George Godfrey . Godfrey is now on the plane that Harry Wills occupied for years. Trailing back over a span of years we can see the recent Black Threats to the heavyweight crown in the persons of Jack Johnson, Sam Langford and Harry Wills. George Godfrey now takes Will's place by the one-round K. O. of Jim Maloney.

From the group of fighters named above, Jack Johnson was the only one to attain the heavyweight title. Johnson was the only Negro to ever hold the most prized title in fistic circles although many worthy Black Boxers were never given a chance at it. Johnson ran out on old Sam Langford continuously. Many believed the Boston Tar Baby could have taken the man with the Golden Smile.

By his victory over Maloney ,Godfrey is the most talked of heavyweight outside of Dempsey in the fight racket. None of the big boys want to crawl through the ropes with Godfrey.

Therefore I surmise he will be run out of a championship as was Sam Langford.

In a battle filled with action from bell to bell ,Joey Sangor, beat Santiago Zorilla in ten rounds at the Olympic last Tuesday . Although beaten by a good margin the little Brown Boy from Panama gave Sangor a battle from start to finish.

Zorilla shouldn't be discouraged by his defeat ,as he is a mere novice in the ring compared to the experience Sangor has. With a couple of more years of careful bringing along, Zorilla will be topling the featherweight champ from his throne .

Johnny Adams, the San Bernardino Mountain Lion gets the big chance of his career next Monday night when he crawls through the ropes to mix with Sammy Baker . Adams is substituting for Callahan and it should be a whale of a battle .Adams holds decisions over Hudkins and Callahan gained when the boys were lightweights. Tom Jones, the manager of Adams says this is the match he has been waiting for and Adams is a cinch to beat Baker.

More power to you Johnny .

AWARD OF $1000 FOR NEGRO MUSICAL COMPOSITIONS

Philadelphia, Pa., August 22. (Special.) The award of the $1,000 in cash prizes, offered by Mr. Rodman Wanamaker, of this city, for the best compositions by Negro composers, will be made officially, and the names of the prize winners announced at the annual convention of the National Association of Negro Musicians, Inc., to be held at St. Louis, August 20-26 inclusive. The announcement of the successful contestants will be made at the Artists' Concert on Thursday evening, August 25.

The prizes were offered by Mr. Wanamaker at the convention of the National Association of Negro Musicians, Inc., held in Philadelphia one year ago. He divided his offer into five classifications, which included almost every field of music, both vocal and instrumental, as the composers were allowed considerable latitude in many of these classifications.

The contest aroused great interest among the Negro composers of the country, as more than two hundred and sixty compositions were submitted, and virtually every State in the Union was represented. The judges held their meeting in the Wanamaker Store, Philadelphia, in June, when the successful compositions were selected, although the names of the winning composers are not yet known even to the judges. The judges were Henry T. Burleigh, the famous Negro composer and singer; Charles M. Courboin, official organist of the Wanamaker Store in Philadelphia; Carl Diton, President of the National Association of Negro Musicians, Inc., Samuel L. Laciar, Music Editor of the Philadelphia Public Ledger, and Clarence Cameron White, head of the Department of Music of the Institute of West Virginia.

The judges consider that Mr. Wanamaker's offer has done more to arouse the interest of colored musicians in creative work than anything that has yet been done along these lines . They feel the results of the contest most encouraging, and, although the large number of classifications and prizes, as well as the simple terms by which the competition brought in a great many works that had small chance of winning a prize, still there were many compositions which gave

...ed a very considerable degree of talent for composition, while others showed much learning, not only in the science of composition, but also in that of instrumentation for band, orchestra and for smaller combinations of instruments. One of the most interesting features of the contest was that it apparently stimulated the idea of composition in many quarters where such an idea was entirely new.

Despite the very strong feeling of the Negro musicians for vocal music, the compositions employing voices, whether singly or in several parts, were not generally of such a high standard as those using instruments. This, in the minds of the judges, was probably due to the fact that a song is the simplest of all forms to a composer not thoroughly accustomed to the expression of his musical thoughts and therefore there were more of these sent in than of the other and larger forms. But the standard of many compositions submitted was very high, and the results of the contest, view as a whole, were exceedingly encouraging, indicating a most promising future for the Negro composer. The large number of classifications and the number of prizes offered served as a mighty stimulus for the musicians of the colored race and has doubtless paved the way for a considerable advance in the near future.

That Mr. Wanamaker himself was pleased with the result of the competition is revealed in the fact that he will make a similar offer for next year. The conditions of the new contest will probably differ somewhat from those of the competition just closed, but they will be announced in ample time for any Negro musician to participate.

Mr. Wanamaker offered the prizes through the Robert Curtis Ogden Association of the John Wanamaker Store in Philadelphia, the organization having been named after the late Mr. Ogden, who devoted a large part of his life to the assistance of the colored race.

The Robert Curtis Ogden Association is composed of the colored employees of the Philadelphia Store and is organized and maintained for educational, social and recreational purposes.

The National Association of Negro Musicians, Inc., also co-operated very heartily in the prize offer, using the machinery of their organization to disseminate the news of the contest and to stimulate both members and non-members to participate. The Negro press of the country also gave invaluable assistance.

At the St. Louis convention the Robert Curtis Ogden Association will be represented by its President, John Love, and the Wanamaker Philadelphia Store will be represented by Mr Charles Lansidel, one of the trustees of the Robert Curtis Ogden Association. Mr. Love, as President of the Association, will be introduced to the delegates on the evening of the announcement of the prize winners by Carl Diton, President of the National Association of Negro Musicians, Inc., and Mr. Love in turn will present Mr. Lansidel, who will announce the names of the successful contestants, the class in which they won the prizes and the names of the compositions.

See If It Works

A man with an uncanny mania for juggling with figures placed a pad of paper and a pencil in his friend's hands and said: "Put down the number of your living brothers. Multiply it by two. Add three. Multiply the result by five. Add the number of living sisters. Multiply the result by ten. Add the number of dead brothers and sisters. Subtract one hundred and fifty from the result."

The friend did as directed. "Now," said the other with a cunning smile, "The right hand figure will be the number of deaths, the middle figure the number of living sisters, and the left-hand figure the number of living brothers." So it was!

Guard Your Auto Against Fires

Whether you live in Paris or Watts you'll find that the month of August will be a hot one; and because it is so, you had better read the following tip, if you care for the future of your automobile.

There are times when it is necessary to get under the hood to correct some trouble and when you are through with the job, you are apt to wipe your hand on a piece of waste or an old rag. If you do, remember to get rid of the wiper and do not place it in the side pockets of your car. It may burn.

When the sun beats down on the side of your car the temperature in the side pockets becomes very high and is likely to cause the rag to catch fire. This is not a mere theory but a very likely probability. An oily rag, when laid on a tire after the latter has been run a few miles on a hot day, will often catch fire, which proves that an intense heat is not required for spontaneous combustion.

And while we are on the subject of automobile fires, it may be well to remind you to look at the cables between the battery and the starting motor. The battery is usually held in a metal box and the cables often rub against the side of this or against the drive shaft brake rod, etc., causing the insulation to be eaten away and exposing the bare cable to the metal. A spark at one of these points on a hot day may be just the thing needed to ignite gasoline vapors and cause a very serious fire.

Miss Beavers of the Golden State says the dumbest girl she knows is the one who told her that a coupe is an inferior type of car, because every tme she went out into the country the roads were lined with those that had stalled.

AVIATION

NEGROES HOLD INITIAL MEETING

Several prominent persons of the race met on last Monday night at the "Y" to talk over the possibilities of forming an aviation organization to promote and foster the teaching of flying amongst those fired with an ambition to fly while lacking funds to acquire the proper equipment.

Just at present the names of the organizers are witheld until they have really gotten under way.

The meeting was an important one and points the way to placing our boys in a position to become competent aviators instead of making monkeys of themselves by having the ability to fly but nothing to fly with as has been done on more than one occasion.

The time is not far distant when aviation will be one of the leading modes of transportation and competent aviators must be had. No better place could be selected than Los Angeles with its ideal climate and its large population to select from. Let us hope they make a real go out of the attempt.

Some of the motorists think they have made a great concession to the pedestrian when they let them use the sidewalk, says Miss Vesta Edwards as a Ford jumped the curb and pulled up on the lawn in front of her.

Lives of speeders all remind us,
We can make our lives a curse,
And departing leave behind us,
Orphans, anguish, graves and hearse.
—Emma Lue.

RUBBER DISPLAY TELLS OWN STORY

A series of window displays showing important steps in the history of rubber from the planting of the tree up to the manufacture of the finished article is now attracting unusual attention at the Los Angeles branch of the United States Rubber Company, Eighth and San Pedro streets.

In addition to the displays outlining the history and usefulness of the product, there is a display of the various manufactured products of the company. They were originally planned for the general offices in New York, but, because of their constructive character, were brought to Los Angeles in their entirety. There are seven windows in the series, five showing steps in rubber manufacture, one showing the tire factory in Detroit, and the other the headquarters in New York City.

Foliage of the rubber tree is used liberally in decorating, and the educational value of each window is enhanced through explanatory easels.

THE PLANTATION

Clearing of the jungle, planting of trees and the method of tapping is shown in the first window, which has three panels. This window is entitled "On the Plantations." The company's rubber plantations in Sumatra and Malaya lead not only in size, but in scientific achievement, it is said. Various products also are displayed in the first window.

The second window contains important displays of the collection and transportation methods. The company has been growing crude rubber for fifteen years, and its plantation holdings total 133,919 acres, of which 75,433 acres have been planted. At every point in its handling of crude rubber, the United States Rubber Company exercises a close scientific supervision that has much to do with the quality of the products, it is said.

The third window has as a background a small spray plant and also a display of latex—the milk of the rubber tree. The usual method, heretofore, has been to curdle the latex by adding ascetic acid and then skimming off the coagulated rubber. The company, however, has developed and patented the spray process, in which the latex, trickling down to a whirling disc in a superheated chamber, is thrown off as a fine spray.

FIRST STEPS

The fourth window portrays the millroom scene in a factory and is entitled "First Steps in Manufacture." The window shows the various stages of the rubber in first entering the factory and then beginning of its fashioning into products.

The making of a Royal Cord tire is shown in the fifth window and is a scene from one of the great tire factories of the company. The pin head process, the method of using these products are portrayed and explained. In each of the windows a number of products also are shown.

United States Rubber products displayed in the sixth and seventh windows include bathing caps, shoes, rubber soles and heels, household articles, Royal golf balls, handballs and the various types of tire repair material.

July Death Rate Cut

An unusual reduction of the number of automobile fatalities for July is noted in the monthly report of the public safety department of the Automobile Club of Southern California. Fatalities from this cause in Los Angeles County were approximately one-half the total of July last year, and the city deaths dropped nearly one-third.

In the provincial report for the month only eight fatalities are reported for July in the city, while in 1926 the total for the same month was twenty-two.

For July this year in the entire county there were nineteen deaths attributable to motor vehicles, while in July last year there was a total of thirty-seven.

The total for the year, however, to date shows 291 deaths from motor vehicles compared with 245 for last year up to July 31.

UPTON'S RAILROAD CLATTER
By
Chas. L. Upton

TWO MEN WITH BUT ONE THOUGHT IN MIND

Two prominent railroad men I am told have but one thought on their minds. That life and death of a porter or waiter. Fred Thornton, waiter now operating on the Southern Pacific is connected with the Golden State Life Insurance Co., and if he has you insured, the longer you live the more money he is able to extract from your pocketbooks. Naturally he is very desirous of you living to a ripe old age. Different with Mr. J. L. Hill, porter operating on the Southern Pacific when he is working; this gentleman being connected with the Angelus Funeral Parlors, and the sooner you die the better it is for Mr. Hill providing he can get your funeral. So life and death takes a big part in the lives of these two very prominent railroad men.

DINING CARS OPERATE AT LOSS

Railroads made lots of DOUGH last year, according to Mr. Allan Pollock, manager of Southern Pacific's Commissary department, who says that all DOUGH is not money in the till when made in dining car galleys.

Preparing delicious hot cakes, tea rolls, and corn and bran muffins while the dining car speeds along has been greatly simplified by scientific cooking. All the chef has to do is to add milk to four blends mixed fresh daily in the company's commissary kitchens by a series of ingenious machines that remove all guess work from bread making.

These machines work in the shortening and blend other ingredients with the flour in a dry mix that goes to the dining cars all ready to be made into DOUGH. They were developed by experts to save time and establish inevitable standards of excellency. Last year 550,000 pounds of blended flours turned out by these machines were mixed into dough and baked to be eaten by travelers.

In spite of such efficiencies and economies, the Southern Pacific dining car service last year, aside from cost of maintaining cars, represented a loss of $600,000 due to the costliness of maintaining a cuisine on a par with that of the best hotels under the peculiar handicap of operating a moving restaurant, AND THE RAILROAD CLATTER, reads between the lines that this statement of a loss on the part of the dining car department is the forerunner of a basis to evade paying the Southern Pacific waiters a living wage, COMING EVENTS CAST THEIR SHADOWS BEFORE THEM.

PILLOW SLIPS

Wm. Bachelor has quite an ad. pertaining to gas wagons in the Eagle, our boy is branching out!

Mr. Al Coffin, formerly a Pullman Porter is now dabbling in electricity. Isn't that shocking?

T. D. Yancey, W. McDaniels and J. Carter No. 1 have bid in and got the second car on the Phoenix line.

E. Robinson has bumped Thropay from line 609. W. W. Barefield jumps line 302.

Otto Johnson has bid in line 302. Wonder what was the matter with the Owl?

Our friend, Mr. Crouch, formerly operating on line 198 has bid in the Gold Coast. Just must run to Chicago, wonder what the attraction is?

Mr. Jones has served his time out on the tourist car and is now laughing at his co-worker Charlie Palmer.

We are wondering who the DeLuxe maid is that J. R. speaks of as PATCHES?

J. B Minter has just recently returned from a trip to Hot Springs where he went to better his health.

When Geo. Godfrey Knocked Malone Out

This writer wonders whether Roto Wilson, sports writer of The Pittsburgh Courier and Harry Levette, sports writer for The Eagle have the same opinion of George now as they expressed before the fight.

This adv. will soon appear in all newspapers: WANTED—A man to fight Geo. Godfrey.

These colored pugilist menaces just won't stay put. Wills departs and Godfrey arrives.

It has been a long time since we have heard the nation's war cry of WHITE HOPE, but it looks as though they will soon have to dig up one now.

Tex Rickard asked Tunney what about Godfrey. Tunney gave him a college answer. I do not choose to fight Geo. Godfrey in 1927, 28, 29, 30, 31, 32, 33, 34, 35, 36, 37.

This song is sung to the time of "Oh tell me how long must I wait, as follows:
Tunney Asked Godfrey
What he did to Malone
Godfrey Told Tunney
That he sent him on beam
He felt so sore long must I wait
Will you fight, say now, or will you hesitate.

What Was Tunney's Answer?

The Barge of Loop-Wits: Get your snips packed Gene, we will have to go back to the coast, hell! Will the topic about of years above some.

We have just been told that Wilson says he was kicked out of Malone's. When he comes to Chicago I'll guide Rickard that if he has the heavy mauleys which Gene does to contend with his offer.

Uncle Sam broadcasting. I ain't got but one ... to fix up and he is Geo. Godfrey and love have it over with.

When Geo. Godfrey connected the police ... it was another Bacco bomb.

Maybe Malone thought it was the same thing.

Even the Seismograph in New York City registered a slight tremor.

All earthquake scares were cancelled when the truth was found out.

It has been rumored that directly after the Dempsey Tunney fight, Tex Rickard will take a trip into the wilds of Africa in seach of a gorilla to fight our Geo.

Now who says Geo. Godfrey can't fight?

The Railroad Clatter congratulates the following porters on the anniversary of their birth this month. Your birth stone is the Sardonyx, symbol of conjugal felicity. NORMAND S. STEWARD. (Red cap Santa Fe Depot.)

J. W. RICHARDSON PUTS ONE OVER

Mr. J. W. Richardson from the City of Watts seems to have put one over on your humble railroad reporter. And from what I can gather it was done to the queen's taste. Apparently the Hon. Mr. Richardson became tired of coming off of the road and preparing his own meals, making up his own beds and doing his own washing. And by putting 2 and 2 together he came to the conclusion that he could evade the hardships of the single life. So the bold young man got MARRIED and from now on will live on flowery beds of ease as far as household duties are concerned. Although my good friend, Mr. Noel, has promised to keep your reporter advised of anything unusual that should occur in Watts this choice bit of news no doubt got by Mr. Noel as well as myself. However The Railroad Clatter extends congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Richardson of Watts.

PAY CHECKS HELD UP

Last pay day many porters who went to Mr. Taylor's office after their checks were told that they had not arrived. Whether this was the fault of the heavy rains in Kansas which have been holding the trains up daring the past week over the Santa Fe or whether it was through some error on the pay roll has yet to be found out. Something was decidedly wrong as porters putting their time in on the half were at least 10 to 12 days getting it. Let's hope it will not happen again.

J. W. BOTTS BLAMED BY PORTERS FOR P. P. B. A. of A. ERRORS

Recently porters who were far below the high rate age as members of the P. P. B. A. of A. were surprised to find that they had been over charged on their payments. While these mistakes have gradually been rectified through correspondence between Mr. L. A. Coffin and the Chicago office, the porters are unanimously laying the blame for the errors at Mr. J. W. Bott's door. Meetings were held for Local No. 1, of the P. P. B. A. in the Southern Pacific storeroom last week in conjunction with Safety-First and Service meetings.

ENFORCING MORNING HOUR PARKING LAW

As a warning to Sheiks who have been in the habit of parking their cars in front of their girl's house far SEVENTTEN—into the wee hours of the morning while they were billing and cooing, the Lincoln Heights police station has been exceptionally active in tagging and in some cases towing the cars to the police garage, where they rest until their owners pay a fine for parking between the hours of 2 A. M. and 4 A. M. this has been a law in this state for some time but the police are just now enforcing it. Watch your step.

That diner 394 seems to be getting all the specials (apologies to our Fourtryman, Geo. Riley)

That Stewart Gallagher, car 4017 has a mania for tipping waiters in. These waiters a trip is going some. It's a long time that has no turn.

That the Dempsey-Tunney special is the most talked of train at present. Can you guess many tips on a "Georgie special?"

Mrs. Robert Carr, wife of Bat Carr, of the "Overland Limited" underwent a serious operation in Chicago on the 14th. The Gossip wishes a speedy recovery for Mrs. Carr.

ROBINSON BREAKS RANK

L. M. AUTOMOTIVE CONTD.

1926 Replacements in U. S. 1,850,838 Cars

Two out of every five cars made in the United States were used to replace other automobiles in 1926. This means that almost 40 per cent of the new cars manufactured in the entire world caused the discard of old cars. Replacements in the United States were nearer 50 per cent ,totaling about 1,850,838 cars. Replacement figures for Canada are 31 per cent, for Argentina less than 3 per cent and for Australia 31 per cent.

BIG AUTO PARKS FLANK THEATER

The motoring public is advised in a special bulletin broadcasted this week by Sid Grauman that Grauman's Chinese Theater is the only institution of the kind in the country having auto parks on each side with a capacity of 1000 motor cars. The showman advises in the bulletin that this parking space is within a few steps of the forecourt, while other parking stations, some of them as far as two blocks from the theater, are inviting patrons to "park here for Grauman's Chinese."

TROY, N. Y., AUTO CLUB IN GAS PRICE WAR

The Automobile Club of Troy, N. Y., is supplying its members with gasoline at 15 cents a gallon, while dealers are charging from 19 to 21 cents. The club threatens to supply the city at the low price if the dealers do not come down.

NERVE AND A GAS CAN

George Niederauer, a young college student, arrived in Washington, D. C., recently after getting "lifts" from San Bernardino, Calif., with the aid of an empty gasoline can. Flagging motorists with the can and having them pick him up on the assumption he was a fellow driver in distress, the drivers would enjoy "a good laugh" when they found the gas container was only the wanderer's suit case filled with clothing. Niederauer said the car owners made it a point to carry him as far as possible toward his destination.

Let's Fly Mr. Motorist

Have you been up yet?

That is the question Angelenos have been asking each other following the inauguration more than a week ago by Jack Maddux, Los Angeles Lincoln dealer, of local aviation power in the new Ford all-metal [illegible] cabin plane.

As a consequence of the operation of the "ship" in daily flights over Los Angeles each evening, the Western Airport on Los Angeles Street [illegible] has had the appearance of a "motor drome" for the last week. Not only have prospective passengers flocked in their motor cars to take scenic flights, but sightseers have packed the roads alongside the airport till a real traffic problem sometimes obtained, according to Mr. Maddux.

That the congestion has been solved by the efforts of the airport management, assisted by the police, and with the help of the Auto Club, and that there will be ample parking space for all that wish to view the big plane, or ride in it, is the announcement made yesterday.

Ten passengers, in addition to pilot and mechanic, may be taken on every flight it is stated.

ADVANCED FORM OF JAYWALKING FOUND

According to figures tabulated by the Traffic Bureau in Washington, D. C., five per cent of the automobile casualties in the capital are caused by persons walking into the sides of moving motor vehicles. Traffic officials have put this practice down as the most advanced form of jaywalking.

Famous Sayings

It may be all right to toot your motor horn, but it is a whole lot safer to use the brake.—So quoteth Van Williams.

The jams grandma used to make certainly were wonderful, but the kind Flivvers make today are still better. —So says Dr. Williams.

Every woman who sets out to run down a man doesn't use an automobile says John Wilson. He knows.

J. E. Bruce Now Salesman With Hudson-Essex Agency

The very fact that Hudson and Essex cars are prime favorites with the great mass of car buyers and the further fact that J. E. Bruce, popular and efficient salesman has become a part and parcel of the Hudson and Essex force of salesmen, means that business will pick up for Mr. Charles T. Marsalisi, Hudson-Essex dealer, located at 1209 E. 7th street (near Central Avenue).

J. E. Bruce, the salesman is known for his thorough knowledge of automobiles and for his absolute reliability, it is a by-word that when Bruce passes on a car that car is right. He has earned an enviable reputation as a salesman and scores of buyers will testify to Mr. Bruce's fair and square dealing in the representation which he makes to buyers.

The Hudson products we are sure with a broad-gauged management like Mr. Marsalisi and reinforced by a representative of our group in the person of Mr. Bruce will henceforth become more popular than ever as a car for the average man.

W. JEFFERSON ASS'N AGAINST NEGRO RESIDENTS

Ninety-Nine Year Racial Restriction To Be Renewed

WHITES WIN OUT IN LONG FOUGHT BATTLE

From West Jefferson News, Aug. 26th.

A ninety-nine year restriction to the effect that no persons belonging to other than the white or Caucasian race can buy, sell or rent, lease or occupy property in the West Jefferson district, is to be replaced within a few days, according to an announcement made yesterday by Charles D. Stricker, president of the Citizens and Taxpayers, Protective League, Inc., of the West Jefferson district.

Residents of this district have long been working to replace these restrictions which formerly existed. Various improvement associations as well as the West Jefferson League have thrived for some time to renew the racial restriction regarding property in this section.

Prominent citizens have contributed their time and money towards this cause, which has been the most difficult problem of the West Jefferson district.

Among organized groups whose members have diligently fought for the renewal of racial property restrictions was the Combined Protective Association which functoned nearly two years ago in an attempt to restrict property sales to whites only.

At this time the battle between members of the Caucasian race and the Ethiopians residing in the district waged subtly but nevertheless furiously. Strange marks and crosses appeared on the doors and on sidewalks in front of residences occupied by whites. Both races were guilty of making threats to the other in a desperate effort to make the neighborhood a one race community.

Protest committees were organized and petitions circulated among the white residents for the renewal of racial restrictions. In May of last year, a decision reached by the Supreme Court in a test case filed in Washington notably strengthened the cause of the Caucasians. In this instance the court held that the exclusion of Negroes from restricted residential districts by mutual contracts between property owners is legal under the constitution.

During this period colored citizens stood adamant in their right to live side by side with persons of the white race. Dr. William A. Venerable, eminent colored preacher, however, in an address given before one protective association in November of last year, displayed the attitude of both the intelligent Negro and the educated white when he declared that whites and blacks must live separate.

The announcement of Mr. Sticker that the ninety-nine year property restriction is to be renewed within a few days, comes as a satisfying culmination of this much mooted question. The above mentioned restrictions to go into immediate effect will cover the entire locality of the Jefferson district. West of Arlinton to the Home Builders' Trace. Petitions to cover restrictions east of Arlington are now being circulated.

Seeks Justice at Bar of Public Opinion

TO THE PUBLIC OF LOS ANGELES.

This is not a pleasant task I have been asked to undertake by relatives and friends (who have proven such, yet it is one I perform for the honor of my baby girl who passed away one year and four months ago and my son age four years and ten months; for myself it does not matter, for while the many erroneous and malicious lies being circulated are aimed primarily at me, the mother, the fact remains that to attack and bring dishonor on me is to attack and bring dishonor on the dead as well as the living.

For the benefit of those who are being mislead by persons who are seeking to cover their own misdeeds, I wish to refer you to the records of the County Clerk's office of San Diego County, where you will find that Ella Edwards obtained a marriage license in San Diego, October 21st, 1919 and we were married that same day by Rev. Secret Evidence Given Before Grand Jury In The Sheffield Case

[In response to requests from many Eagle readers we will run as a serial the secret testimony before the Grand Jury which indicted Officers Sheffield and Randolph.]

Q. Did you make an examination of him at that time.
A. Yes sir.
Q. What did you discover?
A. There was a puncture wound in the outer surface of the right arm about midway here, and a fracture of that bone, the humerus. There was no wound of exit. I think that is about all I made out at that time.
Q. Did you probe the wound or do anything to it?
A. No sir.
Q. Did you give any treatment of any kind?
A. We put it up in a splint, as I remember it. His arm was put in a sling and he was sent to the hospital and an X-Ray advised.
Q. Did you subsequently see him?
A. No sir, I didn't see him after that.
Q. At no time?
A. No sir.
Q. You have not seen him since?
A. No sir.
Q. Whereabouts on the arm was it? Where was this puncture?
A. It was at the junction of the middle and upper third. The bone is divided into three parts for convenience, and the junction of the upper and middle third would be about here (indicating).
Q. Would that be about the center of the humerus?
A. Yes, perhaps a little bit above.
Q. About where the deltoid muscles are?
A. About the insertion of the deltoid.
Q. Was it back of the arm?
A. The outer surface.
Q. That would be the outer side of the arm?
A. Yes sir.
Q. Apparently as though the bullet was fired from the side.
A. Yes.
Q. Can you tell whether it was a gunshot wound?
A. Yes, it appeared to be.
Q. No powder marks about it?
A. No.
Q. You could not determine the caliber of the bullet or whether or not there was a bullet in the arm?
A. No sir.
Q. What memorandum have you there?
A. I have "Gunshot wound of the right arm, middle third humerous, fracture of the right humerus middle third. No wound of exit."
Q. No wound of exit?
A. No wound of exit.
MR. DENNISON: I think that is all.

Dr. E. G. Goodrich

Called as a witness before the Grand Jury, being first duly sworn, testified as follows:

Questions by Mr. Dennison

Q. Your name?
A. Dr. E. G. Goodrich.
Q. Your residence?
A. 330 Mount Washington Drive, Los Angeles.
Q. Your telephone number?
A. Garfield 6600.
Q. Do you hold any official position?
A. Yes sir.
Q. What?
A. Chief surgeon at the Receiving Hospital.
Q. Do you know Frank Randolph?
A. Yes sir.
Q. How long have you known him?
A. I met him in the Santa Fe Hospital. I don't remember the date. It was the day after the accident.
Q. You are on duty at the Receiving Hospital, I understand it?
A. I am the chief surgeon there. I am not on duty as a surgeon there, but just do the executive work. I do not handle the cases. This case was Dr. Dora's case, and Dr. Dorn sent him to the Santa Fe Hospital.
Q. What is Dr. Dorn's first name?
A. Norman.
Q. Where does he live?
A. He is at the Receiving Hospital. He is on duty now.
Q. Dr. Dorn treated him at the Receiving Hospital?
A. No, it was Dr. Blanchard who was relieving for Dr. Dorn at that time.
Q. Then the next treatment he received was at the Receiving Hospital?
A. The treatment he received was

THE BRUSSELS CONFERENCE

WILLIAM PICKENS

(For the Associated Negro Press)

A conference of the oppressed is the beginning of the end of oppression. The result of mere individual effort at emancipation of any kind is so infinitesimally small that it can be put down as zero,—for all the social good it may accomplish. The begining of the end of American slavery was not in sight until a group of run-away slaves like Frederick Douglas began to confer and co-operate with white abolitionists like Garrison and Phillips. After nominal emancipation was achieved, repression, disfranchisement and segregation might have gone on unchallenged for generations, had not brave black men like W. E. Burghardt DuBois, begun to confer and cooperate with just and equally brave white men, like Moorfield Storey. The devouring of Africa, the raping of Hayti, and the bullying of Nicaragua will go forward as far as human selfishness will carry them, unless those whose welfare is at stake shall begin to confer and cooperate. The proletariat, the workers, the producers of the goods of human society are beginning to sense a common interest in a common cause, and a need for mutual support,—in Moscow, in Hankow, in Paris, and in Passaic.

The ultimate causes, then, lie deeper than race or color; and any ultimate success must call for co-operation beyond all racial and color lines. In spite of the powerful tradition of the myth of race, we wish to say that a likeness in economic condition is a far sounder basis for cooperation among men than is a similarity of skin-color or nose-shape. If there is a factory or a mill that employs many people of many different races, the destiny of those people is far more in-

A. C. HARRIS-BILBREW PROVED HERSELF MISTRESS OF BATON

Long before the hour for the processional the church was filled to its capacity to witness the entertainment. We will not go into detail but will speak of the concert as a whole.

It was superb. The chorus was marvelous. Each participant was just fitted for his or her part. We have never witnessed anything any more beautifully carried out. Each participant deserves special mention. Much credit is due Miss Robert Edwards who was kept busy from Organ to Piano and who understood every move of her mother's baton.

Mr. James Brown is due special mention for the beautiful lighting effect. There was a booking agent in the audience who came purposely to hear the chorus. So impressed was he with it that he offers to present them at Shrine Auditorium. Mrs. Bilbrew says she will enlarge the chorus to one hundred voices when presented at Shrine's. Mrs. Bilbrew still holds her place as promoter and performer.

FINLEY WILSON AGAIN HEADS ELKS

TWO THOUSAND ATTEND GRAND LODGE SESSIONS

(By: A. N. P.)

New York City, Aug. 30.—J. Finley Wilson was re-elected Grand Exalted Ruler of the Independent Benevolent Order of Elks of the World, for the sixth time, here Thursday evening, and George E. Bates and James T. Carter, were re-elected secretary and treasurer respectively.

The election of this trio of officers

J. FINLEY WILSON

brought to a close one of the most significant features of the New York convention. While many felt that Wilson would be re-elected to the office which he has held for five years, there was much apprehension as to the outcome, when it was rumored that Magistrate Edward W. Henry, Philadelphia, and J. Dalmus Steele, New York, were in the running. Both of these candidates are popular with the order and might have proved troublesome to the Grand Exalted Ruler in his ambition to be re-elected, had it not been for the splendid record which Wilson has made during his encumbency. Pre-election pledges of the New York lodges also paved the way for his easy victory.

The convention opened Monday and from the opening session through the final assembly there was much activity. New York showed the "Hello Bills," a thing or two and the "Hello Bills" in turn demonstrated a few things to New York City. All in all it was by far the most picturesque and brilliant affair ever staged in New York City.

The Grattan Law, which was for a long time considered as a barrier to the holding of the grand lodge in New York City, just wasn't and the white Elks joined hands with those of color in making the visiting Elks feel at home and the convention a huge success.

Perhaps, not since the American Expeditionary Forces paraded the streets of Manhattan at the close of the Great World War, has New York witnessed such a stirring spectacle as that presented by the Elk's parade Tuesday. More than 10,000 Elks, with some 30 bands participated in this mammoth parade which wended its way through the main streets of New York and Harlem. In spite of the downpour of rain, which drenched the marchers and the spectators, the parade continued and the participants marched with undampened zeal in water-soaked uniforms. The streets were lined with thousands of onlookers who applauded the paraders and the officials as they passed. The rain failed also to dampen the ardor of the spectators.

While the parade was a distinct feature and attracted the attention of the populace at large, the real doings were within the convention itself. Here reports of officers and delegates indicated the rapid growth of the order during the past year and programs were suggested whereby the organization would grow more rapidly and at the same time render a greater service to a larger number of people.

Conspicuous among the reports of the various phases of the work of the order was that of the Educational Commission, headed by Judge W. C. Hueston of Gary, Indiana. This report showed that through the Educational Fund of the order, many young Negro men and women were now pursuing college work in some of the best colleges and universities in America. Others were receiving training in professions and vocations, but all being prepared for real citizenship and leadership. Dr. William J. Thompkins of Kansas City, Mo., presented the report of the Health Commission. Facts and figures which he presented as to Negro health conditions, particularly in large cities and the south startled the delegates. He plans to continue his efforts on an even larger scale.

The convention, which was predicted to be turbulent and fiery, was in a large measure harmonious and peaceful and New Yorkers and the Elks of the World were glad that adjustments were made whereby the convention could be held in Manhattan.

As in former years, the band contest held the attention of the delegates and created much rivalry. The first prize was won by the Catto band of Philadelphia, over a group of contestants gathered from throughout the jurisdiction. The Mitti Monarchs Band of New York City, which has won the contest several times, was ineligible this year due to the rules of the contest which eliminates the best city organization.

BUGLE CALLS

LOS ANGELES FORUM AND FEDERATED VOTERS LEAGUE ORDER "FORWARD MARCH!"

Was it a mere incident that two learned and distinguished citizens stressed the self and same points, namely our economic situation?

At the Los Angeles Forum on last Sunday, that matchless attorney Willis O. Tyler in a veiled but stinging rebuke of our economic conditions, attributed the same to a large degree to the needless waste of our assets in the form of labor and the results therefrom.

Among other things of which Mr. Tyler said that we are too given to building churches out of proportion to our means. Instead of a hundred thousand dollar church, there should be a ten thousand dollars church and a hundred thousand dollar business. Instead of a three thousand dollar automobile in a rented garage, it should be a Ford in your own garage.

We are blessed with the privilege of residing in one of the most productive states of these United States, also with plenty of available back country space to care for thousands of our people if they would only avail themselves of the opportunity for, after all is said and done, this is the foundation of our economic program.

Rev. Dr. Shaw, in an address before the Federated Voters League, took for his subject, "Our Salvation." Among other things he said, "Our biggest asset is our labor. We must therefore conserve the same, prove efficient and stick on the job. Next akin to our labor is solidarity. Solidarity in purpose and in mind, in political, civil, social and economic affairs, thereby conserving our energies to battle the common foe."

"The returns from our labor should be invested along those lines which should bring the largest profits to the biggest number. For instance, we should not put a hundred thousand dollars into church edifices unless in turn we are enabled to put ten times the amount into a business, but we find this just reverse. We have hundred thousand dollars church with ten thousand dollars businesses. We should be satisfied with mere tents, so to speak, in which to worship until such a time when our economic condition was more assured. I believe that we should get a glimpse of Heaven here for indeed are we blessed with the privilege of residing in a country upon which God has smiled.

"As I walk down Central avenue and see hundreds of our men engaged in doing the Black Bottom and such other pranks that portray an idle mind and indefinite course, we are made to wonder what will tomorrow bring forth. Here we have the greatest school facilities in the country where all manner of trades may be mastered and I would venture to say that there are not twenty of our young men that are availing themselves of this opportunity. Are there no ways by which we may interest this class? For indeed, in them, lies our status of tomorrow and our economic success.

"OUT OF THE PAST" AUTHOR DEPARTS

Mrs. Lillian J. Craw, author of "Out of the Past", with her son, Floyd Covington, left over the Southern Pacific Friday, August 26th at 7:30 A. M.

During their stay here, the pageant, "Out of the Past" was presented at the Philharmonic and proved quite successful.

PYTHIANS PLAYED POLITICS PLENTY

(By: A. N. P.)

Chicago, Ill., Aug. 30.—The Supreme Lodge of the Knights of Pythians has gone into history. The Session held in Chicago will long be remembered by those who participated in its activities as one of the high spots in the record of the organization. In the main, the sessions were harmonious; but under that velvety flowing harmony there was a lot of diplomatically concealed rocks upon which the apparent peace threatened to become turbulent on several occasions.

The inside story of the convention, when short of the garnishment of fraternal ornamentation, is almost thrilling in the disclosures of capably played politics, such as would have reflected credit upon Tammany or other exponents of organized political control. The outstanding phases of the sessions were the consideration of the matter of completing the big, beautiful building under construction in Chicago, the selection of the next place of meeting; and by virtue of these things, the demonstrated control of the organization by that doughty little Supreme Chancellor from New Orleans who maintained as absolute domination over his organization, as did another character of that state, one Simon Legree, made famous by the immortal Harriett Beecher Stowe.

Chancellor Green is said to have determined that the body should remain in session until the building matter had been disposed of to his satisfaction, and in accord with the policy laid down by his administration. And that was just what happened.

A large and affluent delegation headed by Grand Chancellor W. Willis representing Dallas, Texas, was present with elaborate and well supplied Headquarters in the Trenier Hotel, determined that the next Supreme Council should meet in the Lone Star metropolis. Willis is said to be nourishing an ambition to head the Order of Pythians, a fact which makes Texas a bit less alluring to the present incumbent than it might otherwise be.

Texas worked assiduously and were highly optimistic as to the chance of securing the convention, but Indianapolis, the only other contestant, won, and will entertain the 1929 convention.

The customary fraternal voting practice is by secret ballot, but to the dismay of the Texas delegation, every voter was obliged to stand and vote upon this matter, with the result that many votes pledged to Dallas were lost. It's one thing to slip a vote over for a friend, and quite another to be caught "bucking" the Administration in Pythianism, as well as in the larger field of politics, and the hundred and some odd active members of the Supreme Pythian organization are a canny lot, each mindful of his own interests and those of his constituents.

Many Grand Lodges represented came into the session very much opposed to National building project and this opposition had found expression in the declination of many of those constituent bodies to purchase the construction bonds. There was merit to some of these fellows attitude, since they claimed that the Insurance departments of their respective states refused to accept such holdings as admitted assets of the insurance departments of the Order.

Against this was Supreme Chancellor Green's determination that the Order should not be embarrassed, as has other fraternal bodies, with an incomplete structure. His power and ability were manifested by the dedication of the building with appropriate ceremonies while the convention was in session, and the laying down of plans for the raising of five hundred thousand dollars with which to complete the financing of the building which has already cost the Pythians $843,810.43, according to well-informed Knights. The exact sum estimated to complete this work is $508,000.

The Supreme council allotted bonds in proportion to the membership in each state, a program which was adopted after considerable discussion in the extra sessions which lasted long into the night.

The Pythians had a great time in Chicago. The parade was a picturesque and gorgeous affair. The social affairs incident to the convention were extremely creditable and meeting friends was well conducted; but the big punch in the whole affair was the way Grand Chancellor Green could crack the whip, and make them jump through.

ON THE SIDEWALK

By C. A. B.

PRESENT DAY efforts to effect an interracial adjustments are hopeless, says Dr. Algernon B. Jackson, director of the department of public health of Howard University. In part Dr. Jackson said:

"If the Negro expects to rise above mediocrity he must develop and maintain that physical stamina which will give birth to enthusiasm and fine ideals. The white man and colored man may stand apart and pull apart on every other issue, but they must learn how to get together and pull together in the matter of developing within this nation better physical, mental and spiritual health, if they want to save themselves and America. No nation or people can build for permanent and useful service to mankind, if in spite of all warning, they still insist upon building with untempered mortar."

A WHITE woman at Norton, Va., haunted by her own thoughts, tells authorities how she blackened her face with burnt cork and killed the other woman, for which crime Marnice Mays, a Negro, was electrocuted. The Virginia law enforcers let the woman go free.

AMONG THE more than 200 delegates that attended the Ninth Annual session of the National Association of Negro Musicians held at St. Louis, Mo., August 26th, were our own Prof. John A. Gray, who won second prize ($50.00) in class 5, "Melodies and Synchronous Effects"—awarded by the Robert Curtis Ogden Association, of the John Wanamaker Store of Philadelphia, Pa.

IN COMMENTING on the Ninety-nine year racial restriction to be renewed—so say the whites of the West Jefferson district,—we suggest that the Colored property owners sit steady—"Let not your hearts be troubled, if you believe in God believe also in me, in my father's house there are many mansins—

The whole world is the Father's. 1st Chapter of Genesis 1st verse reads: "In the beginning God created the heaven and the earth." And Genesis 26th chapter reads thus: "And God said, let us make man in our own image, after our likeness, and let them have dominion over the fish of the sea, and over the fowl of the air, and over the cattle, and over all the earth, and over every creeping thing that creepeth upon the earth."

In this plan of creation we have searched; but find nothing about any special arrangement for a WHITE or a BLACK man. The Almighty said, Let us make man! We know that the black man gets his color from the torrid zone, from which he comes and the white man from the cold or frigid zone from which he hails. But what has this to do with where he lives?

Every man is a privileged character to move around from place to place as he sees fit so long as he respects the laws of the land and the rights and privileges of fellow citizens. Then according to the Divine and most of the civil laws, no man either White or Black has any right to tell any other man how and where he should live, and if we gues right it will take the poor whites of the West Jefferson district about ninety-nine years to uproot the black property owners in that section. Amen!

PASTOR R. N. HOLT GOES TO U. N. I. A. HALL

This was the outcome of a recommendation received by the church some 30 days ago, seeking the nomination of Rev. R. N. Holt as Pastor of the St. Paul Baptist Church, which has caused some differences of opinion in the membership for which is expected. But finally reaching an climax on Wednesday evening, with one-third of the membership present who rose in defiance of their Pastor and left the old Church.

In defense of the [illegible] we regret to announce such conditions but to give further disturbances a division was the next in order and we rejoice to see that after all such action met the approval of all concerned, for we believe that if we must go and can't stay, may we "hope, wait and leave 'em". We therefore, desire you to come to St. Paul Baptist Church, 51st Street and Hooper Ave.

Music Growing In Popularity

The educational and cultural value of music in training the mind and developing the artistic sense is becoming universally recognized. There has been a decided change in attitude from that which prevailed a few years ago when music was considered merely a pleasing accomplishment. Music is being accepted in an increasing number of high schools of universities as a credit or optional subject in courses leading to graduation. Music adapts itself to all conditions of society and will be the voice of democratic societies of the future, as it was the voice of the aristocratic societies of the past.

According to reports from the Jefferson Branch Library music is increasing in popularity with the public. Library patrons borrow books on all phases of music. If one is interested in modern music and its makers, then "Contemporary Composers", by D. G. Mason will furnish some excellent material. Pratt's "New Encyclopedia of Music and Musicians" can solve many questions for you, and you might also be interested in reading Robert Schauffler's "Musical Amateur." Paul Bekker has just published "The Story of Music," which is a thorough history of the subject and contains portraits of Bach, Mozart, Beethoven, Schubert, Verdi and other famous musicians and composers. For those studying music appreciation there is "Musical appreciation and the studio club," by Eva Claire and Dickinson's "Education of a music lover." There are books of songs and pieces for the piano, violin and other instruments. These include sacred songs, works of famous composers and characteristic songs and dances of all nations. Those interested in songs of other races will find "The Book of American Negro Spirituals" rare and charming. Last but not least, there are books of music for children such as Whitcomb's "Young People's Story of Music" and "Story Lives of Master Musicians," by Brower.

No matter what phase of music you are most interested in you may find books about it. If you would like to know the latest material on music, the staff of the Jefferson Library will gladly help you. Hours: 9 A. M. to 9 P. M.

LITTLE has been said in print about the Woodstock—but much has been said by thousands of enthusiastic operators.

It's mainly this background of good will—earned by good performance—that is responsible for its success.

Users will tell you the Woodstock is a most exceptional typewriter—a composite of all improvements conducive to effortless writing—plus a rare beauty of type and sturdiness of construction that stamps this machine as a thing apart.

I Am Grateful, Friends

I WISH to thank the Pulpit, the Press, and the Public for your unselfish support given me in the recent crisis through which PORO COLLEGE has passed.

No less do I wish to express my appreciation for the many messages of interest and sympathy which have come to me; for the tender spoken word; and for the prayers of the faithful that an Institution dedicated to my race might stand untouched.

And I am grateful for the unprecedented demonstration of racial solidarity presented.

Your friendly interest, loyalty, and prayers during the recent upheaval have lightened, more than any other agency could have lightened, the way to bigger endeavor.

In recognition whereof, I rededicate to my people, PORO COLLEGE, and reconsecrate it to the loving service of Negro Womanhood.

District Grand Master's Address to Annual Grand Session

OUR ANNUAL THANKSGIVING SERVICES

Information coming into my office, is to the effect that our Annual Thanksgiving Services were held very generally, throughout the Jurisdiction. I am, also, reliably informed that these services were conducted in a very creditable manner. I was present at the joint services held in Los Angeles, and was pleased to note the impressive and effective manner in which they were conducted. That is a time when we are before a critical public and our best efforts should be made, best talent put forward and a most careful and painstaking preparation made.

THE ENDOWMENT DEPARTMENT

It has been demonstrated beyond the shadow of a doubt that the Endowment Department, today, looms larger than any other branch of our work. The business and finance of this department have been handled, by our efficient Secretary-Treasurer, Bro. A. B. Caviel, in such a manner as to give strength and permanence to this our latest venture. You will remember, that the new amendments are now in force. This will, naturally, throw things out of adjustment for a time, or at least until they are fully understood. As we come to understand them, fully, things will, automatically adjust themselves. In this regard, therefore, I would caution patience. It is essential, in this as in everything else, that we both know and understand the law. The reports from this department will be illuminating and prove the wisdom and foresight of those who labored, so hard, to incorporate this department into our Grand Lodge.

OFFICIAL VISITATIONS

In the matter of official visitations, I have confined myself, largely, to the Southern portion of the Jurisdiction. I have found, on my itinerary, that peace, harmony and properity abound everywhere. I have found that the smaller lodges, as a rule, are very much in need of help in the form of instructions and encouragement. Because of these conditions, I have given the major portion of my time and attention to the smaller lodges.

I had considerable difficulty in getting into touch with some of the smaller lodges, due in many cases to slowness on the part of the P. S. In such cases, I adopted a new and somewhat radical policy, that of writing, directly, to the individual members. Having obtained a roster of the membership, from the P. S., I sent to each brother an individual letter asking him to be present on a fixed date and to co-operate with me in my effort to help the lodge by rendering such official services to it, as I deemed necessary and were within my power. I found this plan to work surprisingly well giving gratifying results.

I regret, very much, my inability to personally visit and inspect the work and conditions in the lodges in the Northern portion of the Jurisdiction. However, the work up there has not suffered from the lack of supervision, because I have commissioned my worthy and efficient Deputy Grand Master and in some cases our Grand Secretary, in that capacity. My actions in this matter were not due to negligence on my part, but financial conditions, I thought, warranted it. It seemed imperative that our financial interest be taken into consideration and as much money saved as possible. Then again, I realized that among the Northern lodges there were no matters of vital concern that neded personal attention. The Grand Officers whom I commissioned to represent me, performed creditably the duties assigned them, and gave comprehensive reports of their official actions, especially the D. G. Secretary.

NEWS OF THE CHURCH

CORNER STONE BAPTIST CHURCH HONORS PASTOR

Rev. M. J. Gipson, B. Th., In First Anniversary

From August 21st to August 28th, several peerless sermons were delivered by pastors and ministers. Inspirational addresses were delivered by dentists, physicians, attorneys and probation officers and strong gospel solos rendered which will long be retained in our memories. Madam Gahagans representing beauty culture took us back to the days of King Tut of Egypt in the cult of beautifying.

The opening sermon was preached by Rev. P. A. Bedford of Denver, Colo., followed by Rev. A. P. Ramsey, pastor of Friendship Baptist Church; Dr. J. D. Gordon, Tabernacle Baptist Church; Atty. C. C. Taylor is the "man of the hour" when it comes to representing his vocation as a lawyer. The address delivered by Mr. L. Pulliam, Assistant Probation Officer of Los Angeles County was both inspirational and educational, Los Angeles should hear him. The gospel in song was brought to us by Madam Bertha Kirvin, Bertha Miller-Spruill, E. A. Williams and others. The zenith of the occasion was reached Sunday afternoon, when the pastor received the gifts from the Church; the Starlight Band presented a serviceable pair of Oxford shoes; Deacon J. J. James, a box of groceries; Deacon Wright a roll of greenbacks; the Missionary Society a large basket of beautiful flowers with these words—"Take your flowers while you live."

The pastor's wife was presented with a handsome amber and pearl necklace by the Missionary Society. Trustee W. Tate presented the pastor with one spool of cotton thread, in response to which the pastor exclaimed: "I don't take in sewing." The entire congregation laughed heartily for they noticed that the end of the thread extended down the length of the Church out the door, across the front yard to a National sport model touring car. A few well-chosen words amid a profusion of vari-colored flowers which gave the church interior the semblance of the garden of Eden offered thanks of appreciation for their loyalty during the past year and for the many useful gifts from the greatest little church in Los Angeles.

Mrs. J. E. Stafford was hostess Saturday, August 27th at luncheon, honoring Mrs. A. M. Wilson, of Kansas City, Mo., and Mrs. W. A. Jackson, of El Centro, California. Each guest registered with a number taken from a table of numbers arranged by the hostess. The house was appropriately decorated, and festoons of colored balloons suspending from the ceiling formed the greater part of the lovely decorations. They were cut down and the guests witnessed a balloon shower. The hostess made brief remarks on "What we Know About Women" and passed a book by F. G. Mangum, M. D. It provoked much laughter to find the book contained blank pages. The guests were Dr. Eva W. Young, Dr. G. K. Offutt, Mrs. F. E. Bramlette, Mrs. M. Andrews, Mrs. S. B. Martin, Mrs. C. F. Frierson, Mrs. M. MacReynolds, Mrs. C. B. Jackson, Mrs. McWilliams, Mrs. M. J. Gaines, Mrs. I. J. Ramsey, Mrs. Monroe Beavers, Mrs. Simell Johnson and house guest, Mrs. T. O'Neal of Little Rock, Ark. Mrs. F. E. Bramlette and Dr. Eva W. Young won prizes for the lucky numbers. Those assisting the hostess were Mesdames Andrews, Frierson and Gaines.

ALMOST MARRIED—NO. 1

Almost since time began the sexual union of men and women out of wedlock has been practiced. It has brought its sorrows and carried its penalties. The responsibility of "acting married," when they are not may rest upon either the man or woman or jointly upon them both. But whoever is responsible in practically all cases it is the woman who suffers; it is she who pays the supreme price.

The Woman's Part

In instances especially where she is older than the man, the woman may set a deliberate trap and try by strategy, to catch a husband therein. As I write one case comes to my mind. A woman about 39 became infatuated with a boy of 22. She was a "darling" to him. He fell bodily into her trap. After a few weeks of intimacy, she told him that she was pregnant, and that to save her from disgracing her good name he must marry her. In his awful worry and perplexity the boy insisted that the woman go to a doctor and be examined. Much against her will she went. The doctor found that she not only was not pregnant, but that she was so constructed physically that she could never become pregnant—and the woman knew this. Her complete farce was all too simple. Her's was one of those rare cases where the woman plans the whole intrigue and spares no pains to carry it out.

Their Part

At other times there is a joint responsibility. As two splendid youngsters—a high school boy and girl who came into my office—aptly put it "we both did it." They both had fallen below their ideals, and both sinned against their conscience, and thus they both were equally responsible, and neither could blame the other.

Most often however, the woman is not wholly responsible, neither is the responsibility equal between the two.

The Man's Part

For two reasons the larger part of the blame is usually justly, placed upon the head of the man—God has made man physically the aggressor and society has schooled him to lowered morals. Because he thinks it alright extra-martial experiences alright for him, and because he cannot enter into that experience without a woman as a partner, he is constantly scheming schemes to harpoon a woman to be that partner. The average man prefers not to resort to the prostitute. He feels safer with a clean girl or woman. And he feels more respectable if he talks to this "decent" girl or woman of some future between them.

Just here is the kernel of the whole trouble. ANY man can TALK to a girl of a future; any man can PLAN with her about the time when they will be man and wife. He may have ten wives in ten states in the Union, all bearing different names, and yet he can TALK sublimely of matrimony to the most chaste little girl in Los Angeles.

A small minority of the men who propose marriage and ask for intercourse before are sincere, they not only plan to but, do marry "the girl." Some "plan" to but change their minds. Many are deliberate frauds, simply fooling, with no intention on earth of "tying themselves down" by matrimonial bands. Among the victims of the latter class are the great host of innocents who are yearly crying their eyes out in doctors offices, and upon their own lone beds in the wee hours of the night.

Yes, the army of "almost married" mothers in Los Angeles alone, is very large. As a woman doctor for women I have had my share. They come of all ages, from 11 years old (my youngest, a sweet, beautiful little school girl—the child of foreigners) to 37 or 40 years (represented by an unfortunate unmarried, "almost married" expectant mother, whom I am now attending. And in practically ALL, the 11 year old and the 40 year old, alike the case is practically the same—infatuation with the man, faith in his sand-rope promises, of marriage, selling out to him completely, the resultant conception—and subsequent Desertion. Most of these "absolute-fraud-men" leave town. Some of the "on-the-fence-frauds" marry.

Who Pays the Price?

It is usually the innocent girl, the clean girl who is "caught" by an unwilling pregnancy, the woman of experience is many times too wise.

It is a sad thing for a man to have to marry a girl if he does not want to. I pity any man forced into matrimony. Even though it be the result of his own folly. For it is unfortunate for him, whether he be 16 or 60 to have to live with and provide for someone whom he honestly does not want. But it is a ten thousand times sadder thing for an innocent girl to wake up the next morning after she has shyly whispered "their secret" to her "promised to be" husband, that they are soon to have a little baby, and she thinks that they had better not postpone their marriage any longer; it, I say, is a tragedy for her to wake up and find him GONE—bag, baggage and all, so completely gone that not one trace is left to make her know that he was ever there—except the knowledge of the unborn child—which she knows now is not "their" secret but HER'S alone. And she stands alone—wounded, afraid, disgraced. She is left with their child and he is GONE. The situation went further than he had calculated, got too heavy for his strong shoulders and so he slid out from under it and went—just as free as the birds that cleave the air—to new territory to seek new experiences. And she, innocent, helpless, weak, has left upon her frail shoulders the burden of their child. She cannot desert, the burden is a part of her! She can not destroy the life stirring within her without destroying a part of herself. While he breezes away free from any part of their burden, she is left with all of the burden, all of the disgrace, all of the terrible heartache, and misery felt by outraged womanhood—left to suffer, to mourn, to cope as best she can with a situation far too big for her years and her ignorant innocence. While her stronger, wiser and more guilty partner has gone on, as free as a bird of the air—unmarked, untrameled—to find another clean girl and teach her to love him, to trust him and to sell out her womanhood to him because they are "almost married."

N. A. A. C. P. Prepares For Action

Having disposed of the minor cases pending, the legal committee of the Los Angeles branch is preparing for a vigorous fight against residential segregation. The Long case and all of its different angles is of so much importance that all groups and factions that believe in the constitution of the United States and desire to guard their liberties should join in this case at the regular meeting of the branch to be held Sunday, the 11th of September at A. M. E. Zion Church. Attorney R. M. Cordell of the legal committee will discuss this case. The branch expects you to be present for this is your fight.

Labor Sunday Services At Wesley M. E. Church

Do not miss the Labor Sunday Services at Wesley M. E. Church this Sunday night. The principal address will be delivered by Mr. Freerick W. Wells on the topic "Marketing of Human Labor." Pastor Shaw will also deliver a short talk appropriate to the occasion.

EDITORIAL

RELEGATING IMPEDIMENTS

There are just a few old fossils in the way of progress and the people themselves are fast waking up and relegating them to the rear, and when this thing has been accomplished the old Ship of State will truly be on its way.

YESTERDAY TABOOED

Some people continue to harp about yesterday. Unmindful that each day is a new day and very truly the old time saying rings true. It's not what you used to be, "it's what you are today."

MEASURE UP

Dr. A. P. Shaw of the M. E. connection delivered an address at Eagle Hall before the Federated Clubs last Monday evening which to our way of thinking was one of the most profound and forceful addresses which it has ever been our lot to hear and if it was possible for every man and woman to have heard this epic, we are satisfied that our particular group would become much stronger and accomplish greater things than ever before.

When you listen to Dr. Shaw it is not a case of "sounding brass and tinkling cymbals" for this individual measures up to every ideal and every virtue which he preaches he has wrought well and goes forth in this community.

CO-OPERATION

The question of co-operation as put forth in these columns has attracted a deal of attention and for that reason we shall continue to write of firms as well as of individuals who are playing a part in this virgin field of effort.

We call attention to the Walter L. Gordon Realty Company which is making commendable progress in this community. We shall always appreciate the head of this firm who as he trudged along with Uncle Sam's mail sack and kept thinking and as a result of the thought got together what is known as the Walter L. Gordon Realty Company and in this situation has builded one of the most reliable and dependable concerns of its kind in the entire country. This indeed is visualization reinforced by co-operation.

* * * * *

Then again we note the remarkable achievement of the J. O. Dudley Company, the True Fit Tailor, by co-operating with the forces along his line of effort this firm now operates in its own building and the products from this firm have gained the approval of the people to the highest degree, all brought about by co-operation.

* * * * *

Fail not to notice the steady advancement of the American Woodmen under the matchless leadership of Benjamin F. Graham who by the co-operation of his forces has established on these Western shores a fraternal insurance worthy indeed for this great organization.

KITCHEN VICTORY

That fragrant steaming that drifts in from the kitchen is beginning now to permeate the entire house, and the wise and immediate relatives of the busy, flushed and tired housewife have not a word to say.

It is one of those expectant times, when a hush seems to settle everywhere, and nobody feels like starting the phonograph, and nobody quite dares to ask when supper will be ready.

But it is ready, after while, and the star number on the program is a peach cobbler. There are some peach preserves, still warm, and the members of the family silently reflect that there were sliced peaches for breakfast, a peach pie for the noon meal, and every time the baby asked for a piece between meals he was given a peach and told to run outdoors and play.

One of the great gustatory victories of the year has just been won. The peaches have been canned.

Out on the kitchen table they stand—those two dozen quarts of peaches, in a double row, handsome little soldiers, ready to be marched off to pantry or to fruit cellar. Think of winter days, when the lights will have to be lit before the evening meal!

FOOTBALL!

Football will soon be with us again. Sporting pages will soon carry the first tentative lineups, the first signal practice, even the first minor injuries from the big varsity camps.

At that it's less than three months to Thanksgiving Day, which will find all of our colleges and schools resting on gridiron laurels won or looking forward to the next fall as the best way of forgetting their recent past. It is now time to deplore the hazards of the game, to grieve at its expensiveness, to point rebukingly at its abuses of amateur standards, and otherwise to make ready to get out and whoop it up on the sidelines or in the stands some clear, crisp Saturday afternoon in the near future.

ATTORNEY HUGH E. MACBETH

We will fail not to give unstinted credit to the doughty attorney who so successfully conducted the Manhattan Beach case and forced the trustees to abandon the un-American policy of discrimination in public places. When others faltered Mr. Macbeth went forward with unswerving devotion for a cause which was right and is justly deserving of full credit for the same.

Your writer was present and heard his masterly plea for justice and it was not unlike the plea which he made in the victory won for the people when the editors of this journal were on trial as a result of efforts of the Ku Klux Klan to thwart the freedom of the Negro Press.

BAUMANN'S No. 2 DRUG STORE INSTALLS LAST WORD IN EQUIPMENT

The progress of Baumann's No. 2 Drug Store, located at Pico and Central avenue is well worthy of comment and the information of the public at large. From an humble start, some three and a half years ago, it has steadily but surely kept pace with progress and today occupies a commanding position which places it in the very front rank of business enterprises.

Installs "Mechanical Fountain

The latest and last word in soda fountains has just been installed and this equipment to the already thoroughly equipped store in all other departments makes their store stand out as the equal of any other in the city and the superior to many.

Young Men At The Helm

Dr. Albert Baumann the proprietor of the Baumann Stores No. 1, located at 9th and Central Ave., and the one which is the subject of this sketch, at Pico and Paloma, placed in charge his two nephews who are both graduate pharmacists, namely, Samuel C. Baumann, who came to this city some four years and a half ago from Boston, where he was engaged as a prescription clerk in one of the largest stores in that city; he is a graduate of the Massachusetts School of Pharmacy. Also Mr. Otis René, who came here three and one-half years ago from Chicago, where he graduated from the Illinois School of Pharmacy. Dr. A. Baumann on the purchase of No. 2 placed these two young men in charge. So well have they wrought and cared for the business that he has not only provided for the improvements mentioned but as a reward for faithful service and their business acumen, given to each one a one-fourth interest in the business.

The Soaring Eagle takes pleasure in chronicling the forward march of these young men and we congratulate all concerned as well as the patrons of this concern who by their patronage have indeed played well their part in the establishment and maintenance of this highly creditable business enterprise.

Q. You gave him no treatment.
A. I gave him no treatment.
Q. You adjusted no part of the humerus?
A. No sir, it was in very good position.
Q. You found no fracture of the humerous?
A. Yes sir, there was a fracture of the humerus.
Q. Did you adjust it?
A. It was in good apposition, so we didn't disturb it.
Q. By apposition you mean it had been reduced?
A. Yes, it was in perfect alignment, yes sir.
Q. You gave no treatment?
A. No.
Q. You examined some X-Rays.
A. Yes.

A. Yes sir, it does. Both show it and show the fragment of the bullet.
Q. Both show the fragment of the bullet?
A. Yes sir.
Q. Is there any way to determine the caliber of that ball?
A. No, from the fact that it is in so many fragments.
Q. There can't be any question but that is the photograph?
A. No question at all, because I was right there after they were taken, and that is the same picture that I saw.
Q. Is it necessary to remove the fragments of the bullet from the arm?
A. No, it is not necessary.
Q. They will heal over?
A. Yes sir.
Q. Does the photograph show whether or not the bullet penetrated into the bone itself?
A. Some of the fragments appear to be in the bone itself, especially the large fragment seems to be right in the place where the bullet apparently struck, and it was left there and the fragments have exploded outward.
Q. Anything further?
A. Nothing further.
MR. DENNISON: That is all. May those two photographs be marked Exhibit B?
(Photographs last above mentioned were thereupon received in evidence and marked Grand Jury Exhibit B.)

BRUSSELLS CONFERENCE

volved in their work and wages than in their language and birth-places. But the superstition of race and of nationality is so strong in the minds of men that many movements for the good of mankind still find themselves at first narrowly limited by racial and national lines. This shows that men's social development has not kept pace with his scientific advancement: for human science has in the last one hundred years reduced the relative size of the earth and made of it such a small community that everybody is economically elbowing everybody else. Coal miners in India are helping to fix the wages of coal miners in Wales; for English ships may coal in India and make a trip to distant Europe and perhaps back to India, without recoaling. The speed of transportation and the instantaneousness of communication have made mere racial and national policies unstatesmanlike and silly. Human science is fast making the world one market of goods and one community of social interests, so that enslaved workers in South Africa will surely lower the standard of living for supposedly free workers in the Mississippi Valley. Self-seeking wealth and capital will find its advantages as water finds its level, with the unerring constancy of natural law. Tariff walls and customs officials are a most pitiful defense against the enevitable. It is like shutting out the tide with a picket fence.

But a movement for improvement must begin sometime somewhere. The psychology of the masses must be recognized for what it is: The Pan-African Congress, a biennial conference of all the descendants of Africa throughout the world, was conceived by the far-seeing genius of Dr. DuBois and was first organized in Paris in 1919. It recognizes the fact that in a world largely dominated by group-conscious white men there is a "color problem" for the colored people of the world, and especially for the descendants of Africa. Perhaps nobody dreams that the problem of the Negro or of the Chinaman can ever be solved simply by the cooperation of Negroes with Negroes or Chinese with Chinese. The National Association for the Advancement of Colored People began with the conference and cooperation of a group of colored men styling themselves "The Niagara Movement", and also headed by W. E. Burghardt DuBois. This movement became a real national power when by protest and publicity it brought some of the more socially-minded white people to see that they had a common interest in the claims and aims of the movement of the colored men. Racial organization is simply local fermentation,—a first stage in the evolution of world organization and cooperation along economic lines. Economic lines are societally more fundamental than racial lines. The effective agent is not the theorist and his theory nor the doctrinaire and his doctrine, but human science is the miner and sapper which is laying siege to the whole works of nationalism and racialism. In the end human science, rather than religion, will bring to pass, not by persuasion but thru necessity, a condition of universal brotherhood.

It is interesting that the first world's conference of the oppressed has met in Brussels, Belgium, in February, 1927, eight years after the founding of the Pan-African Congress in Paris. This conference represents the first grouping together of the submerged masses through the barb-wire barriers of racial and national consciousness. This congress of the oppressed was so new that nearly every group which came to it, had a different name for it. It was variously called "The Anti-Imperialist Conference," "The League for the Suppression of Colonial Violence," the congress of "Oppressed Peoples and the Working Class," etc. When the representative of Indonesia, or the Dutch Indies, presented their resolution to the meeting, they addressed the assembled delegates as "the Congress against Colonial Oppression and Imperialism." When the Persian delegation got the floor, it addressed the assembly as "the International Congress of Oppressed Peoples." The South Africans addressed it as "the first International Conference of Workers and Oppressed Peoples in all Imperialist Countries and Colonies." The Chinese said "The Congress Against Colonial Oppression and Imperialism." And the resolution on the Negro Question of the world spoke up in a sort of mixture of French and English and called the gathering "The International Congress contre the Colonial Oppression and l'Imperialism."

It is clear that imperialism, oppression, suppression, financial and commercial robbery, colonial and semi-colonial tyranny, are for the first time put into the same rank together, where they belong. The congress also put race prejudice in the same rank when it called for "Immediate abolition of all racial restrictions, social, political and economic." This first league of the economically, politically and socially oppressed called for complete racial equality throughout the world. Some day posterity will marvel, not only that such a call was even necessary, but that it should have fallen on deaf and even hostile ears.

It was noticeable that French Imperialism in Indo-China and in North Africa was just as severely accused as the imperialism of English-speaking nations. Colored people are accustomed to regard the French as especially just to other races. The French may lack a color psychosis and may be more cosmopolitan in their attitude on the abstract subject of "race," but a French imperialist or economic robber is just like any other. Economic exploitation knows neither race nor color. It will attack that group which is most helpless, most open to exploitation. The Negroes of Africa were not enslaved because they were Negroes, but because they offered the greatest return for the smallest amount of outlay and effort to the slave hunter. The poorly organized and defenseless congeries of tribes appealed to the slave-trader as a Klondike, an El Dorado. They were enslaved not for being black, but for offering a resistance of spear heads to powder-driven lead balls. The French may be careless of race and color in both Paris and North Africa, but they will practice economic exploitation in the place where economic exploitation is most profitable, and that is in North Africa. Capitalistic exploiters are a natural class, not to be distinguished by race, color, language or ancient history. Even an American Negro capitalist, late descendant of raped Africa, is just exactly like other capitalists. He must be like the others. A Negro who owns a thousand acres in Alabama or Texas, pays his tenants and "hands" just as little and charges them just as much as any white farm-owner in the neighborhood.

The American Negro and the Pan-African Congress must see common interest and make common cause with the other oppressed and exploited people of the world.

The world is my country. To do good is my religion. The human race is my race.

COMMENTS

BY: W. J. WHEATON

The Pythians laid the corner stone of a $500,000 building in the city of Chicago. Numerous speeches were made, laudatory and congratulatory. But it remained for one Sir Fredericks to express a worthwhile idea. He said, "Aside from exceedingly costly church buildings, the colored man is not over-inclined to pool his resources—to put his money co-operatively into those things which have a definite and tangible relation to material profits. * * * Why is it so easy for a comparitive few of us at any time to get a church edifice ranging in price from $5,000 to $500,000, the best and easiest kind of terms being given us? Have you ever heard of any group of us being discouraged, even when the price was out of all proportion to the economic standing of the group? Let that same group organize for business purposes, then apply for financial aid, you will see how fast it will come. I sometimes think that our white "friends" adroitly encourage us to put all the money we can rake and scrape from which we can only hope for idealistic dividends, knowing that as long as we as a race are weak in material things we are the more easily exploited."

Far be it to discredit the spiritual influence which the churches exert. But we do claim that mere brick and mortar do not make the church. We do claim that the economic status of our racial group does not warrant the expenditure of one-half million of dollars for any single edifice for purpose of worship. Such projects are a burden—a milliston—about the neck of the race. We prate of making progress in the world of economics; we then, in the same breath, deplore our lack of business vision. There's a veil of obscurity between. It is the veil of over-zealous spirituality. It is encouraged by the majority of race preachers. They will use very ingenious language when it comes to buying a church, but try to enlist their atcivity for a material venture.

A gentleman who has but returned from the East, and who is an astute observer of political trends, says that "on several occasions where men met who form and mould public political opinions, the availability of Senator Hiram Johnson as a presidential possibility was discussed." As much as we would love to see the doughty Senator elevated to the highest pinnacle of political preference we doubt whether California could well afford to lose him from the Senate. Especially is this true while we are seeking to bring to a successful conclusion one of the greatest projects that confronts the progress of the State and is of vital importance to the nation. The Senator has stated that "The Presidential bee has ceased to buzz," but should the call come from the nation he could not refuse. In the meantime the old Pachyderm is grooming to carry the hopes of Longworth, Hughes, Hoover, Borah, Lowden, and as many more as can find room on his back in the mad scramble when Cal vacated his seat. So far it looks as if Hoover will be the Nahout.

There has been no end of Race conventions the month of August. Physicians; Detroit, Mich., Pythians, and several others in Chicago. St. Louis has entertained the musicians. New York! Well, the knickerbocker metropolis has been taxed to capacity. The Pan American Conference has been the cause of national comment. Dr. DuBois, who presided over the conference, clarified the atmosphere and gave a lucid explanation of its aims in a statement which was sent broadcast by the Associated Press. Then there was the meeting of the Independent B. P. O. E. which added 100,000 or more to the New York millions. Now the question arises in the minds of many: is the beneficial outcome of these conferences sufficient warrant for the financial expenditure which runs well into the millions?

SEEKS JUSTICE BEFORE BAR OF PUBLIC OPINION

San Diego, and said marriage was recorded by the above in the office of County Clerk of San Diego County, November 4, 1919.

Now, the whole truth of the matter is that Ellis Edwards' first wife, a resident then, as well as now, of Los Angeles, had applied for her divorce, but the final decree had not been granted therefore, Ellis Edwards committed bigamy by contracting this marriage with me, and had I or any other interested person seen fit to do so he could have been prosecuted on those grounds at any time. However, I had no desire to do such a thing. Many persons ask why I did not fight the annullment case and are told various lies. My reasons are simply these, I did not have the financial funds to obtain lawyers, that peddling bootleg and dope bring, for I earn my living by honest labor and I concluded that since Ellis Edwards had no charge to bring than present to the court his own misdeed to obtain the annullment, that for me it was the easiest way out of a bad matter and last but not least perjury is a more serious matter to me than it seems to be to some, therefore I let the case go by default.

Hoping to have made myself clear and deeply regretting the necessity of this letter and thanking those who have offered their sympathy, friendship and finances, I am,

NELLY L. EDWARDS,

Law Student Receives Appointment At Berkeley

Leon Whitaker, prominent law student at Berkeley, has been recently appointed to the Board of Governors of the Boalt Hall Law Association. The law association is the incorporated self-governing body of the students of the School of Jurisprudence of the University of California.

This appointment is significant because it shows the attitude of the fellow-students as well as that of the faculty.

Very few men have held scholastic offices and political offices too in Boalt Hall and, incidentally, this is the first occasion of one of our group being appointed to the governing body of any institution of learning in the West.

So the men have patterned after the women again—this time in a bathing Beauty contest at Long Beach. After all it is a worth while pursuit for the man to take the necessary exercise for the preservation of a good, straight figure, for the man look much worse than the women when out of training and into avoirdupois.

Uppermost in the minds of everyone this week in the Annual Pacific Coast Tennis Tournament to be held in Oakland, Sunday and Monday, September 4th and 5th. This tournament promises to be one of the best yet and many of the fairer sex are entering with the expectation of drawing the most lemonading admirers, Julius says. One of the tournament contenders for the Pacific Coast Championship for women's singles, the one held at Alameda, is Geneva Baeske of Pasadena. Everyone is ready to say best this young lady will stand out whether reminders of Miss Josephine Sievers who passed up her chance to keep in trim. One prominent future star in tennis who is soon quite often in action is Thelma Coates in Gladys Henderson, sensationally fast as seen Vance Blair who also gave a good game. Both of these young ladies are also apt at swimming.

LEO LOMSKI VS. ERNIE OWENS OLYMPIC AUD., SEPTEMBER 6th

Not since Tiger Flowers fought Leo Lomski at Wrigley Field has there been as much interest in the doings of Lomski as there is in the heralded battle between he and Ernie Owens at the Olympic Auditorium, Tuesday, September 6th. Lomski has swept a winning streak ever since he made that memorable win over Flowers in the winter, and through the East and North his victories have been adding to his fame.

Dutch Meyers's great boy Ernie Owens has jumped from a semi-windup boxer into the ranks of the king pins in just a few months by virtue of a string of wins that were very decisive or were genuine knockouts, with the exception of the win over Elbrain. Owens is getting a real test in the heavy hitting Lomski, for Leo carries lots of big guns and Ernie will need all his youth and strength to offset it.

Lomski will weigh the heaviest he has ever been here. He is around 170 pounds which means he may never try to make middleweight limit again. Lomski is trying to be a heavyweight and get some of the big money.

Last week Lomski knocked out Fred Lenhart, a light heavy who holds a decision over Owens, in two rounds. Lomski is hitting now since he is not trying to make weight.

Gonolo Rubia is called the "Ruby of Mexico." He is managed by Senator Bill Flynn. The boy is the flyweight champion of Mexico—weighs 102 pounds—and recently went over big in San Francisco where Pat Frayne named him as the successor to Fidel La Barba.

The whole card is as follows: Leo Lomski vs. Ernie Owens, 175 pounds, 10 rounds; Chief Ramirez vs. Joe Woods, heavyweights, 10 rounds; Mickey Shaw vs. Gonolo Rubia, 116 pounds, 6 rounds; Bobby Hayman vs. Sailor Ray, 126 pounds, 6 rounds; Jack Miller vs. Joe Brito, 135 pounds, 4 rounds.

SANGOR TAYLOR INSULT FIGHT NEXT

Fight fandom this on September 13th scents a battle between Taylor and Sangor that has more than usual interest. Taylor feels insulted by the Sangor clan and nothing but a real beating will wipe the slate clean.

Red Hand is busy getting Sangor ready for the Taylor affair. Sangor defeated Taylor in all previous shots and are said smoking him down price. The Sangors immediately sent out a big poster showing Taylor battered and on the floor which read Something like this: "Look what Joey did to the ham-and-egg champion of the world." Taylor is madder than a hornet over the affair.

Joe Sangor vs. Red Taylor, 135 pounds, 10 rounds; Dario Barron vs. Joe Wright, 135 pounds, 6 rounds; Mike Maddox vs. Jimmy Fox, 126 pounds, 6 rounds.

Clisby vs. O'Brien at Pasadena Next Thursday

Tom Jones the champion maker, former pilot of Willard, Wolgast and others, and present director of Johnny Adams, Neil Clisby and others, has been trying to help Morrie Cohan, Pasadena promoter to find a heavyweight good enough for Clisby to at least get a good workout. At last they found O'Brien, the colored heavy with the Irish name who has been beating all the local heavyweights—Young Ford, Vic Alexander and others being among them.

ASKED FOR REMATCH WITH GODFREY

Still believing that he can beat Godfrey, as soon as he heard George was in town, he hunted up his manager and said: Mr. Jones, get me a match with Godfrey and with clean breaks I will beat him or I don't want a dime. But the O'Brien match had already been made so that was out of the question.

With a side bet looming the match will probably be made in the near future. Jack Dempsey is still after Clisby to come to his training camp as he has a woeful lack of good sparring partners, so before Neil fight Godfrey again he will probably let the finishing touches on Dempsey's workouts for the Tunney battle.

Brother-Managers of Ace Hudkins Display History Picture Poster

Truly enough Ace Hudkins is the most sensational fighter in the whole wide, world but a sensational fighter is like good goods in a store or market. You have to keep the news before the public in order for it to be properly valued and appreciated. As publicity men, the two brother-managers of the "Wild Cat" Art Hukins and Clyde Hudkins, cannot be surpassed. They overlook no point towards letting the cock-eyed world know what the family star can do. Their latest stunt is a large, beautiful poster planned by Art and executed by the California Eagle job press plant. Exact newsreel photos of the Goldstein knock-out, the Baker battle, Ace swinging a scythe in the wheatfields while a kid in Nebraska and at leisure in their beautiful home in Hollywood. Comic cartoons by Frank Espinoza, one of our staff artists show several other episodes of the "Cat's" life, and reproductions of headlines of the various fights as written by world famous sports writers are scattered over its wide space.

The size of this super poster printed on snow enamel paper is 29x22 inches and owing to detail art work and genius of the printing craft cost a pretty penny.

The Hudkins boys composing the trinity of three aces indeed practice real democracy and the only questions asked is, can they deliver the goods. They aver that the Eagle demonstrated its ability to do this thing beyond peradventure.

WHAT the trouble

WAS WITH Baby Joe Gans.

• • •

TUESDAY NIGHT at the Olympic Auditorium.

• • •

AND I DID not get it from Baby Joe himself, Cherokee Tom, or Larney Lichenstein. If either of them had told me that I would have yelled out "Alibi, Alibi, Applesauce!" etc. I have a very unpleasant habit of speaking right out in church, let the bricks bounce where they may.

• • •

BUT this time I am making the alibi. After tearing all around, burning up gas and shoe leather Wednesday morning, asking countless questions and checking up the answers of all who watched the Young Master train for this fight, this is the conclusion—Gans was over-trained and stale.

• • •

CHORUS of b-o-o-s from the fans, but wait. 1st, if you know anything about athletics you could tell that by the way he perspired before the fight got going good, that he was not right physically. 2nd, those who watched him train say that knowing he had a defensive fight and a splendid boxer in Fields to meet, he trained too hard and too long. 3rd, Gans is not of the type to throw a fight. Truly enough a lot of talk has been going around but if he wasn't stale what was the trouble? If you can bring any other proof as to the reason why the most popular colored lightweight in the country should lose his place as leading championship contender, then I shall gladly tell the cock-eyed world in box-car letter written in the sky.

GEO. GODFREY TO MEET GIANT CHESTER CHEATHAM IN CULVER RING

Geo. Godfrey the "Black Shadow of Lafayetville, now that he has won his way back into the good graces of his admirers by knocking out Maloney will meet another giant at Culver City next Tuesday, Sept. 6th. This is Chester Cheatham who hail from around East Orange, Tex. Cheatham is equal to Godfrey in size and weight and has gained a lot of experience knocking the big jads over, through the Southern States and through the East. As far back as 1918 he was hailed as the Southern heavyweight champion and is just invading the Coast with a determination to get the big shots proposed George. So this he is due for a disappointment for it is rumored that Godfrey has made a solemn resolution to do nothing but fight and should beat Cheatham within the 10-round limit.

THE BLACK SPORT WORLD THROUGH THE EYES OF ART HAMILTON

I was reading through one of my exchanges, and ran across an article on George Godfrey written by one of the prominent sports writers of the East. He heads his article with "George Godfrey's Victory Over Maloney Not Impressive." For myself I couldn't see how much more impression he could want Godfrey to impress on Mr. Maloney's chin. Godfrey K. O'ed him in one round. It goes on to tell that Maloney was a marked-down article when Godfrey fought him. This referring to Maloney's fight with Sharkey. Through the article there is a hint of Godfrey being yellow.

Godfrey has never shown the canary, he being a fighter with a wonderful physique, but does not possess the killer instinct. That brings back to our mind when glancing through the records the taint on Jack Johnson's career.

The critics of Johnson's time called him yellow up until the time he fought Jeffries. Jonhson was a superb boxer, as is Godfrey, being willing to toy with his opponent for nine or ten rounds and then finish him with a punch. Johnson knew that he wasn't yellow and merely smiled and went his way up the fistic ladder.

Johnson was matched with Marvin Hart and the critics predicted that the sheep in Johnson would show surely this time. But Johnson proceeded to polish off Hart with ease. Jack was then matched with Tommy Burns in Australia and beat him, still this didn't quiet the loud cries of the critic of "yellow." Jeffries was then brought out of retirement to bring the title back to the white race. They said that Johnson would jump out of the ring at the first swing Jeffries took at him, but Johnson beat him to a pulp and knocked him out in the fifteenth.

Did you ever notice that a black boxer is always yellow in the eyes of the fans until he proves his gameness? When a black boy goes into the ring his one ambition should be to finish his opponent as soon as possible so as to leave no room whatever as to his gameness.

Johny Adams, the San Bernardino mountain lion snarled, growled and clawed at Sargeant Sammy Baker but the Sargeant's guns were too heavy for the mountain cat. Adams put up the best fight of his career against Baker. Baker's big gun, his right counter was forever in Adam's face or on his body. Adams took quite a beating, but was game throughout the fight, always boring in, never backing out.

Eighty dusty, tired, weary boys returned to Los Angeles, Monday afternoon, August 23nd, after hiking seventeen miles through the broiling hot sun and over the mountains. These boys had spent ten days at Camp Caldwell, Mt. Wilson, a "Y" camp. It is said that the 28th Street Branch Y. M. C. A. had the largest camp of any other Y. M. C. A. in the city. 'MAG' LIGHTS BARRED AUGUST 31

Sacramento, Aug. 27.—A final warning to motorists that automobiles lighted by means of current derived from a magneto which has not been approved by the testing laboratory of the Division of Motors will not be permitted to operate at night on the highways of California after Wednesday, August 31, was issued today by the Division of Motor Vehicles.

Beginning September 1, it was stated, officers will have instructions to stop all cars so lighted and to prohibit them from proceeding.

Wipe Them Out!

BY: OSCAR H. FERNBACH

We're glad the Legislature has equipped the law with prongs
To jab the drunken driver into jail, here he belongs!
Who seeks to steer an auto when his system's full of "juice"
Is fit for just one domicile—and that's the calaboose.

Too oft have judge and jury with an over-tender heart
Allowed this malefactor hold in freedom to depart—
But now the statute's altered and in no uncertain way
It indicates the penalty that drunks will have to pay.

And now, let all the motor clubs put shoulder to the wheel,
And help, that drunken autoists the weight of law shall feel;
And since a punishment's been fixed at last to fit the crime,
This menace let's eliminate, in extra-double time!

N. Y. May Banish Daytime Trucking

Large motor trucks may be banished from the business districts of New York and a system of night deliveries be substituted.

It is thought that if such a move were made, it would furnish a partial solution of the congestion problem in the districts where trucking is heavy and is a serious deterrent to well-regulated traffic.

MANY AUTOISTS 'GAS-CARELESS'

Twelve out of every thousand motorists run out of gasoline once a month, according to a check made on 500,000 calls for service from the highways of the country.

It is not believed that this proportion will hold up in Southern California, as there are more gas stations in this section than in others.

The emergency road service of the Automobile Club of Southern California points out, however, that carelessness is responsible for this sort of annoyance.

Here's Method of Conserving Oil

It would pay every car owner to know under what conditions his engine consumes the greatest amount of oil. Knowing this, he will do well to avoid these conditions as much as possible. When oil burns off rapidly, the engine is working hardest. This is obviously more expensive than the mere replacement of oil. Some cars burn oil when driven fast; others, on hills. Still others consume lubricant when being driven slowly. It is not difficult to determine by test just which condition prevails in the case of your car, according to the Service Department of the National Automobile Club.

U. S. Has 2,700,000 Two-Car Families

That ten per cent of all families in the United States own more than one car is shown by the late automobile statistics. There are more than 2,700,000 "two-car" families.

Lower Cylinders May Cure Piston Slaps

Using heavier oil and tightening connecting rod bearings are two ways of curing a piston slap, but there is a better method, provided the trouble is not caused by cylinder wear.

The start is to lower the cylinder block. Sometimes this can be done by tightening the bolts that hold the block to the base. This tends to lower the cylinders with the possibility that the pistons will be steadied. Slaps are less common in engines with deeper cylinder walls. If you try this method, remember it necessitates a re-adjustment of the valves.

Rounded-Off Corners Big Aid to Visibility

Los Angeles' streets will be considerably safer for motorists when they are widened under the major traffic street plan, according to Harry A. Lord, president of the Traffic Commission.

Meeting modern street requirements the new streets will have the corners rounded off, permitting motorists to make right-hand turns from the lane nearest the curb without swinging into the path of other machines.

The cutting back of the curbs at corners also greatly increases the line of vision, giving the operator that fraction of a second extra time that often means the avoidance of a bad accident.

"Statistics show," Mr. Lord said, "that 74.2 per cent of all motor accidents occur at intersections. This is because vehicles are driven across the same space from divergent directions and the approach of one car usually cannot be seen by the driver of the other.

The cutting of the curb and the rounding of the corners will have the effect of virtually requiring property owners to so design their buildings as to provide entrances at the corner.

Many retail merchants consider this advisable, as the doorway is then placed where most streams of pedestrian traffic must pass. One large chain store organization always constructs its buildings with the main entrance at the corner, so as to attract customers from each direction," Mr. Lord pointed out.

There are a number of corners now cut back in Los Angeles and these are proving their value. At Pershing Square, where the corners are all rounded, the effect on limiting congestion is quite marked.

THE NEW MOTOR VEHICLE LAWS

One of the most important changes in the motor vehicles laws as amended by the last session of the California legislature is that which raises the speed-limit on open highways from 35 to 40 miles a hour. "It will be permissable to operate a motor vehicle on an open highway at a speed not to exceed 40 miles an hour." That is easily understood. The main considerations of this new law lie elsewhere and are explained by the Legal Department of the National Automobile Club in the following discussion.

First thing to be remembered is that authorities have anticipated a certain amount of reckless driving, and that officers have therefore been instructed to be on the lookout for autoists who abuse the new speed law.

Reckless driving will not be tolerated. No matter what the speed, if the arresting officer prefers a charge of reckless driving, a severe penalty will be imposed upon the offender.

When a driver passes another car on the open highway, he is privileged to go at a speed of forty miles an hour. But, it must be remembered that he must in no way endanger other motorists in doing so. If he does, he is guilty of reckless driving.

Heretofore, there has been a five-mile-an-hour leeway on many highways. That is, with the speed limit at 35 miles, a speed of 40 has been allowed. Frank G. Snook, superintendent of the State Motor Vehicle Department, makes it clear that such a leeway positively does not exist under the new law. The "extra" five miles will no longer be countenanced.

Officers are instructed to arrest all motorists exceeding 40 miles an hour. It has long been thought that 40 miles an hour is not an excessive speed on the highways and for this reason the limit has been raised, but it is by no means thought that 45 miles is permissable. There is no more "Oh, they'll give you five miles." They won't.

Wm. H. BACON, SOUTHERN PACIFIC RED CAP ANSWERS QUESTION

What Suggestion Can You Make For The Improvement and Happiness of the Colored Race?

The following answer to the above question was submitted to the writer of this column by Mr. Wm. H. Bacon, Southern Pacific Red Cap, 1014 W. 36th Pl., Los Angeles, Calif. The same question will be answered next week by a Pullman Porter—

Loyalty and co-operation are two most vital suggestions to our improvement and happiness. We should learn to trust each other, also prove ourselves worthy of the confidence which has been placed in us, as it is impossible to get very far when confidence and honesty are lacking. Let's not be too prone to knocking, as there is so much good in the most of us, I feel that few of us can improve on the first question. And Happiness? There are many things we could do to afford happiness. One is to live within our means and try and save a certain per cent of our income, regardless of its size. Suppose we, who haven't homes would consider an investment in that direction, instead of enriching the automobile industry, or investing in an expensive car to have it repossessed on account of not meeting your financial obligations, which there have been several cases to my personal knowledge. I fail to see where a single case of that description brought happiness. We have to our credit two financial institutions here that are owned and controlled by our own group of honest gentlemen. Instead of making frivolous investments for imaginary happiness, why not put our money to work where it immediately would become an asset, and I think either of our financial houses will be glad to show you how and assist you. Where we all know money is not everything in life, but we will have to admit it takes money now a days to get a home, and it is the most essential feature in acquiring one—And that is a place that will afford the most happiness around one's own fireside. So let us stop and change the horse to the right position in the cart. Get on a good road and at the end of our economic journey we will more than likely find HAPPINESS.

G. W. HENDERSON TAKES HAROLD LOYD PARTY TO N. Y.

G. W. Henderson who has been operating the Nogales line was selected to take charge of a special party to New York. The car was chartered by Mr. Harold Loyd, moving picture star and left on the DeLux U. P. train which had that most distinguished passenger on board—Jack Dempsey—as far as Salt Lake City. The Pullman Company could not have selected a better porter for the party than Mr. Henderson who has spent quite a little time of his railroad life on private cars. The Clatter wishes him the best of luck on his trip.

OGDEN REQUEST MAIDS TO REMAIN IN UNIFORMS

An order in the Bulletin book requesting the maids to remain in uniforms reads as follows: It is desired that maids remain in uniforms until after discharging passenger at Ogden. And it will then be satisfactory while train is switching for them to change their uniforms. This will afford ample time for maids to leave the train before departure.

GOLD COAST MAIDS MUST REPORT TO CHICAGO MAID INSTRUCTRESS

Mr. O. P. Powell, Ass't. General Manager instructs that beginning with Tuesday, August 30th, Maids operating into Chicago will report to maids instructress, Emma Washington, Room 225 B. & O. Station with complete uniform and manicuring equipment for inspection. No excuse will be accepted for failure on the part of any maid to report to Miss Washington. The above orders are now in the order book and have been reprinted in the Railroad Clatter for the benefit of the maids and service. While it is a rule for all maids to read the order book, many forget and their attention might be called to it should they chance to read this column. The writer hopes that these orders will be taken in good faith. However, should any railroad employee think it bad policy the writer will be only too glad to discontinue same upon written request. Address, Chas. T. Dunn, 1105 W. 36th street.

ASK GOVERNOR NOT TO EXTRADITE ED. GLASS

DEFENDS HIMSELF WITH GUN

SEEKS SUNNY CALIFORNIA AS HAVEN OF REFUGE

Reports come to us from Sapula, Oklahoma, that Edward Glass, some five years ago, defended himself against a mob by firing his gun which resulted in the death of one of the blood thirsty Oklahomans who resort to the lynching of Negroes as a past-time.

After the mob incident, knowing that his life would be worth little to his home state, Glass came to California for safety, but after being here about five years residing in Oakland, he was met by a former acquaintance from Oklahoma who turned him over to the authorities—and it is said that if Glass is returned to Oklahoma where the mob, as it were is standing without the gates feverishly waiting with anxiety to pounce upon their prey and announce to the world that Oklahoma has succeeded in staging another lynchine bee.

Yesterday a committee consisting of Thos. M. Jackson, representing the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, Rev. E. J. McGrouder of the A. M. E. Zion Church, and Editor J. B. Bass of the California Eagle appeared before Gov. Young at Sacramento opposing the extradictioun of Glass to the officers of Oklahoma. In the meantime Glass is held in the Oakland jail awaiting the decision of Gov. Young.

The National Association is going the limit to prevent the extradition and California Colored population realizing that this is the first opportunity the Governor of the great State of California has had a real opportunity to demonstrate his attitude towards the Black men of California who so ably upheld the banner of their State and Nation in the great World War.

Upon hearing of the Glass case at Oakland Dr. H. Claude Hudson, the Stonewall Jackson of the California branch of the National Association, immediately telegraphed Gov. Young opposing extradiction of Glass.

A PEEP IN ON ELLIS ISLAND

By: ALICE DUNBAR-NELSON
(For the Associated Negro Press)

It was at Ellis Island. The uniformed official was examining the frightened immigrants, who had passed the outer preliminaries and had come to his desk last before being united to the anxious relatives. A bare room overlooking the harbor, with rows of benches on which sat frightened immigrants, clutching bags, bundles, boxes. Traditional peasants, kerchiefed heads, picturesque costumes, some of them; tawdry fripperies and cheap store clothes, many of them. The witnesses in a little room adjoining filed in one by one, and answered the questions asked. The answers, alas, must correspond with the papers before the official. The would-be Americans sat and trembled, or stood facing their witness relatives over the railing, their souls ready to leap out of their eyes. Then, perhaps the questions answered properly, the last bit of red tape satisfied, embraces, tears, ejaculations of joy. Mothers and sons clutching at wives eagerly. To the uninitiated it was harrowing. "But not nearly so harrowing," we were told, "as to see the rejected ones, and the tragedy of their waiting relatives."

The olive-skinned man, with iron grey hair, pleasant smile and easy manner at the desk chatted casually with the immigrants. German—you rather expected that. Spanish, yes. Russian, Yiddish, here an unfamiliar accent. What was that? Sloviane. Italian—in all its dialects. Another unfamiliar dialect—Maltese. Polish, of course, Ukranian. Swedish. How the faces would light up when the familiar tongue of their fatherland rolled easily and lightly from the uniformed man, who represented grim and forbidding authority.

It was Sol Johnson, of New York, formerly of Washington, D. C., twenty-four years immigration official at Ellis Island. And here is a whole Italian family. The "Bambina" are terror-stricken. It is all so huge and grim, and this swarthy man may find some way to send them back on the great ship. Eight pairs of great dark eyes look pathetically into his. The mother twists her work-gnarled fingers. The father, and older brother, resplendent in American clothes, for they have lived in this land for some years, gulp on the witness stand, and stammer. The tiniest child is palsied with fright. He cannot remember how old he is. But Mr. Johnson smiles gently, and talks about dancing, about spaghetti, and the child chuckles, and answers merrily. He leans over the rail, and his tiny brown fingers reach up confidingly. He loves spaghetti and how he can dance! Mr. Johnson flings a jest, and the bambino jests in return. The whole family smile; the mother wipes her tears; father and brother get the hard questions straight; another instant and they have passed the examination, and are locked in each other's embrace. They clump out of the room, chattering volubly in Italian, but the littlest one looks back over his father's shoulder, where he has been elevated in triumph, and kisses his hand to his friend. He will always love this new land, because he met sympathy and kindness and understanding as his first childish experience.

Is it because he has children of his own that he is the most successful official at Ellis Island? Or because he is a wonderful linguist? Stern and tremendously efficient Mr. Johnson of the official faily of the Island; "Sol" to his intimates, but to tiny frightened bambina, an understanding friend in an olive drab uniform.

TETE-ANSA AND THE COCOA TRADE

BY: Wm. PICKENS

Tete-Ansa, an African black from the Gold Coast, is quoted as having said in a white American paper, in connection with his efforts to get a loan from American capitalists for the West African cocoa business:

"I'm taking a white staff back with me, a white bank manager and accountants.—No, I won't use any New York Negroes. You see, while I haven't been in New York very long, I've got the impression Negroes over here haven't much business training and experience. There are a few insurance brokers or real estate brokers, but no one who seems to have any grasp of sound business principles."

Either the daily paper lied on Tete-Ansa, or else the African gentleman is a victim of the inferiority feeling which the British have driven into his soul. What a flippant and silly conclusion from a Negro from Africa who "hasn't been in New York long," and who therefore not only knows nothing of New York, but absolutely nothing of the whole of the rest of the United States.

We heard Tete speaking at the Pan-African Congress, and his speech sounded just like that of a Negro from Mississippi who would have to go back to Mississippi within a few days. Tete must go back to British domination in Africa. And why did he not tell the truth Why did he not say that he is afraid even to attempt to import American Negro businessmen into the Gold Coast,—and that his white master would not allow it? Tete must know that the British would not allow him to bring American blacks into British Africa. Everybody else knows it. They are not even welcomed as preachers and missionaries, to say nothing of bankers and cocoa-traders. But Tete, like so many "underdogs" in all the world, instead of telling the truth plainly about his condition, endeavors to cover it up by traducing and slandering somebody else; and since his own color is weakest and can be slandered with least risk, he slanders them.

Has Tete-Ansa ever so much as heard of the Mme. C. J. Walker Company, which is a bigger business than anything he is likely to build up in Africa in a generation? Well, the Walker Company is not only under the complete management of a black man today, but was founded and built up by a black woman and has been successfully managed by the same black business man and attorney during all of its marvelously prosperous years. Has Ansa met any of the heads of Negro insurance companies and banks in America? No; by his own casual statement, he does not even know the Negroes of New York City. We will cheerily put the business experience of Jack Nal, Watt Terry, Anthony Overton, all of whom have great businesses in New York, above the experience and competency of any "white bank managers and accountants" whom Ansa can induce to go from America to Africa with him.

We heard Tete-Ansa in a speech before the Pan-African Congress and we "sized" him then and there. He advocated that the Negro race should not be interested in guns and weapons of defense,—that the Negroes should be the only unarmed race in the world,—as if black people had charmed lives. Surely the history of the British in Africa must have taught Ansa better than that. But Tete knows that he will have to go back to Africa,—and that fact dictated his speeches.

It seems hard to teach some colored people in America, and now in Africa, that whenever they find themselves handicapped against telling the truth, the alternative is not necessarily to lie,—the sensible alternative is to keep the mouth shut. Nobody expects a Negro school principal from Mississippi to advocate mixed schools when he visits New York,—but he can keep his mouth shut on that subject. Nobody expected Tete-Ansa to come to New York and advocate independence and military self-defense if necessary, on the part of blacks in Africa,—especially when the British are waiting for Tete to come back to Africa,—who knows the situation, expected him to import Negroes into the Gold Coast without British permission,—but American Negroes do have a right to expect him to refrain from traducing them in order to shield his own stupidity. Tete-Ansa must learn something. We are going to help to teach him.

Domino Parlor Raided

The soft drink emporium and Domino Parlor conducted at 1221 Central Avenue, was raided Monday by Officer Scott of the Newton Street Station, and several decks of cards and a one dollar bill were confiscated as evidence, according to latest reports from the Avenue. Twelve men were arrested and carried away in the patrol wagon on charges of playing draw poker, and arraigned yesterday in Department 5 of the Municipal Court. Most of the men, it is said were railway and dining car employees, who frequent this place and receive their telephone calls to and from work, the establishment being known as "Headquarters for cooks and waiters. All of them, it is rumored will plead "not guilty" to the charge, the report being that the dollar which is said to have been confiscated as evidence having been paid by one of the men to the other in satisfaction of a debt previously incurred. It is also said that the men were only indulging in a few games of whist and pinochle merely to pass the time away while awaiting their calls to report to work, and when one of the men who was about to leave handed another a dollar which he had previously borrowed, the officer who was standing near-by immediately placed all present under arrest and called for the wagon. Bail was furnished by Murray and Stewart, and the defendants were represented by Attorney Curtis C. Taylor with offices at 1400 Central Ave.

The Past Grand Lodge and Grand Temple Sessions U. B. F. & S. M. T. is said by those who attended to be the greatest Session ever held in Los Angeles.

Prof. J. Edw. McCorkle, G. M. and Mrs. Mamie Hicks, G. The Chairman of the Committee, Rev. R. W. Fisher, is due much credit for his untiring efforz in conducting the work of the committee. Our next Session will be in Pasadena, Calif.

DO IT NOW!

Do you hear the bugle call? Reveille is sounding! Time to arise! The beginning of a New Day! The commencement of an era of Liberty and Justice! How are you going to answer it?? Are you going to be a slacker or will you follow in the footsteps of these men?

When the occasion demanded these men were ready and willing to lay down their lives in order that YOU and YOUR CHILDREN might enjoy the Liberty and Freedom that is yours by virtue of being AMERICANS.

The time has come when it is the duty of every colored American to answer the Call To The Colors! The time has come for organizing and carrying on the work started by our Fathers and Grandfathers! If you will heed the Call you will join the NATIONAL ASSOCIATION FOR THE ADVANCEMENT OF COLORED PEOPLE without delay.

What does membership in this Association mean for you? It means Education and Preparation for useful citibenship. It means companionship, freedom, justice, better living conditions—in other words EVERYTHING. Let us look at ourselves as a Race and find out what obstacles are preventing us from taking our place in the foremost ranks of this mixture of Races that go t omake up America.

We have many things to live down but first among them all is our Color. The Color Line should and MUST be abolished by a nation as far advanced in modern civilization as we are. When once this great obstacle is removed we will have struck a death blow at DISCRIMINATION and this is the starting point of our advancement. Unless we are successful in abolishing this great evil, everything that we fought for during the Civil War and since will have been in vain.

No other Race has done as much for the United States as we have. For 262 years our forefathers worked in slavery, producing commodities that placed America in theleading ranks of the great commercial countries of the world. They received no remuneration or thanks and were subjected to the worst forms of servitude. Nevertheless when they were called on to come to the defense of the country that was holding the mi nbondage, they came willingly and laid down their lives in order that their children and grandchildren might enjoy the blessings of LIBERTY and EQUALITY.

In Los Angeles today, there is an opportunity for us to participate in a movement that will go far in placing the Colored Race on a par with any other Race on the face of the earth. We are fortunate in having amongst us a man who has voluntarily neglected a profitable profession and sacrificed many of the good things of life in order that he could assist the less fortunate members of his Race. Dr. H. C. Hudson is voluntarily devoting the greater part of his time in attempting to better the social condition of his brothers, to a movement that should get immediate sympathy and response from every member of the Colored Race in this city.

His aims are lofty and, at first sight, may seem to be unattainable, but those of us who know Dr. Hudson, are at once captivated by his energy, farsightedness, and most of all his ambitiousness. He has aided many who have been in trouble and has proved himself to be an untiring worker. He has pointed out on many occasions what our Race needs in Los Angeles—an Association that will bind us together and give unified action when it is needed. An Association that will furnish TRADE SCHOOLS for our children and permit them to learn trades that will enable them to take their place among the electricians, engineers, carpenters and mechanicians of other Races. An Association that will afford protection against INJUSTICE and infringement of our rights and that will come to the assistance of members of our Race when they are in trouble of any kind.

For these reasons YOU are urged to join the NATIONAL ASSOCIATION FOR THE ADVANCEMENT OF COLORED PEOPLE. Your monthly subscription of 50c or $1.00 will help towards building up a fund that will make Dr. Hudson's dream come true and you can rest assured that, should you get into legal difficulties or troubles or trouvles of any kind, the AS-SOCIATION will be behind you and will see that you get a square deal.

Police Department Makes Changes

There is good news for the citizens in the change made Sept. 1st when the Vice Division moved from Central Station on First street to fine quarters in the new Georgia Street Station located on Georgia street just south of Pico. Just what bureau was to be awarded the use of the still available space in the new building has been a subject for disussion ever since its opening. Vice Division, commanded by Captains Lyons and McClary wins.

No longer will citizens wishing to co-operate with the Police Department by quietly reporting places known to be operating in violation of the law have to struggle with the Hill, First Street, and Broadway traffic. Nor will women desiring to make such reports be obliged to brave an atmosphere like that of the many times condemned old Central Building, with its traditional and inevitable hangers-on and its clustering bail-bond broker neighbors. By this move Chief Davis has greatly aided Captains Lyons and McClary and their men.

Far removed from the old First street atmosphere that has thickened through the years, on a quiet street, in the geographical center of the city, freed from the time-consuming importunities unavoidable in the old location, the Vice Division may now quietly and earnestly cement its alliance with co-operating law-abiding citizens and carry on in deadly earnest its war against commercialized vice and those who profit thereby, as directed by the Chief.

Minister Swings at Deacon; Hits Sister

(By The Associated Negro Press)

Cambridge, Mass., Sept. 7.—Rev. H. C. Daniels, pastor of the Western Avenue Baptist Church, made a vicious swing at one of his deasons, missed him by a hair and the blow landed on Sister Julie Demby, knocking her sprawling last Sunday evening in a church row.

Daniels had attempted to lock out the members because they disagreed with his manner of conducting services. The matter was taken to court where the minister was severely reprimanded by Judge Edward Counihan of the Third District Court, East Cambridge, Thursday.

After hearing both sides, Thursday, Judge Counihan dismissed the case by saying: "I am shocked beyond words to find that a pastor of a church should attempt to prevent its members from holding a meeting in their own church edifice; in fact, this proceeding is a reflection on a religious body. The case is dismissed."

Bank Employee Faces Embezzlement Charge

(By A. N. P.)

New York, N. Y., Sept. 7.—Warren H. Baber, a trusted employee of the State Bank, was placed under arrest Friday, charged with grand larceny to the amount of $378.

Baber, who had been employed by the State Bank for the past fifteen years, was one of the most trusted employees of the bank. On one of his collections, amounting to $3,696.72, Baber extracted the $378.

Going into the office of the vice-president, Baber confessed his thefts, stating that a winning four years ago of $750 at the races, led to his downfall. Jubilant over winning this sum, Baber plunged heavily, losing on several occasions. He then went deeper into the Bank funds, trying to recuperate his losses, but instead of winning, his losses grew heavier until they amounted to over $18,000 the four years.

Baber is married and the father of two children who live with their mother in Brooklyn. When arraigned in court, Baber was ordered held for trial.

8th and Towne Choir At Redlands Bowl

On last Tuesday evening, Sept. 6th the Choir of First A. M. E. Church, winners of Hollywood Bowl Choir Contest, appeared in Concert De Luxe at the Redlands Bowl, before an audience of over 3000 persons. The program consisted of classics, plantation and jubilee songs.

The audience was thrilled by the wonderful singing. Among the special features that appeared on program was the work done by Mrs. Emma Smith, Miss Gladys Wells, Mr. Chas. Boston and Mr. Emanuel Hall. Mr. Nathaniel Smith made a wonderful impression by his readings of Dunbar; Miss Sarah Nelson, pupil of Elmer C. Bartlett, played Chopin's Scherzo in B Flat Minor with great credit to herself and teacher. Mr. Marion Forsythe, violin pupil of Mme. Sinclair-Murdock was at his best in the difficult Romance et Boler, with Madame Murdock at the piano. The choir has been very busy all year and their program is full up to the New Year.

The Choir did excellent work and a great deal of good will be the result. The officers of the Choir are as follows:

Lulu Boswell, Treas.; Isadore Stewart, Secy.; Elizabeth Bruce, Organist; Elmer C. Bartlett, Director; Rev. W. D. Miller, Pastor.

THE ERRING WOMAN

By WILLIAM PICKENS
(For the Associated Negro Press)

J. W. Bache's wife ran off with another man, a policeman, and stayed five months. She deserted home, husband, and young son in Plainfield, New Jersey. Now she begs to come back!

Should he take her back? That is a question which one cannot answer for another. It is hard enough to answer such a question for oneself. Bache finds it hard.

But some reflections are in order: Because women have been physically weaker, with the handicap of their end of the perpetuation of the human race, man has always taken the advantage and woman has never had an "equal break". A thousand thousand times have women taken back their men when the man had done all that Mrs. Bache did, and more. Man has taken advantage of the physical weakness of woman just as a stronger race takes advantage of a weaker. It is to be noted that whenever a stronger has domination over a weaker, greater self-control and more punctilious observance of custom and law are required of the weaker than of the stronger. Many things tend to become right or indifferent for the strong to do, which are regarded as capital crimes for the weak. In America Negroes are told that their whole race must stop committing any crimes before it can expect not to be lynched. An impossible hope. Nobody ever supposes that the white race must stop committing crimes in order not to be lynched. In the South Negro men are lynched or murdered without redress for associating with a white woman with that woman's full consent; but white men openly keep colored women, sometimes with the reluctant submission of the woman.

And there is another parallel between this case of women and the case of the oppressed weak of all orders: the oppressed themselves are hypercritical of each other. It is often noted that other women are severest in condemnation of an erring woman. They are almost merciless about violations of sex and marriage customs and codes. They make excuses for a man. So do Negroes often express greater condemnation of the Negro who violates the interracial "taboos" than of the white man who is a much greater and more frequent violator. Perhaps they have come to expect as much from the white man.

Bache says, that Mrs. Bache is a "coward" for running away from a 15 year old son. God! if that be true, the male of the special is certainly the greatest coward in the race. How much oftener do the women stick by the young, in desertion and in torments. Of course, the man seldom runs away: he does not have to run away. He does as he pleases and stays. If we should submit Mrs. Bache's case to a jury of twelve men, or of twelve hundred men for that matter, and make it a law that all of jury who had never done in essence what Mrs. Bache did, can vote against her; but that those who are morally as guilty as she it, must vote for her, every jury that could be impanelled would be a "hung jury".

Both God and man knows that to be the truth,—and woman knows it, too.

New Dance Introduced In "Africana"

The newly devised Totem Dance, adapted from the Canadian Eskimo tribes, is being introduced in the production "Africana" which is current at the National Theatre in New York. George W. Sheffer of Canada and Alaska, who is the most prominent instructor on the faculty of the National Canadian School of Dancing, is personally supervising the rehearsals of chorus and principals of Ethel Waters' ebony revue in this new gyration which Mr. Sheffer demonstrated recently at the Convention of Dancing Masters at the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel.

According to Mr. Sheffer, the dance is particularly suited to the revue inasmuch as it bears a rythmic resemblance to the characteristic dance of the Negro. Mr. Sheffer has also expressed the opinion that the Totem Dance is the logical successor to the Black Bottom as it is not only unusual but has the virtue of being "easily" learned.

I Am Grateful, Friends

I WISH to thank the Pulpit, the Press, and the Public for your unselfish support given me in the recent crisis through which PORO COLLEGE has passed.

No less do I wish to express my appreciation for the many messages of interest and sympathy which have come to me; for the tender spoken word; and for the prayers of the faithful that an Institution dedicated to my race might stand untouched.

And I am grateful for the unprecedented demonstration of racial solidarity presented.

Your friendly interest, loyalty, and prayers during the recent upheaval have lightened, more than any other agency could have lightened, the way to bigger endeavor.

In recognition whereof, I rededicate to my people, PORO COLLEGE, and reconsecrate it to the loving service of Negro Womanhood.
